SIX FAMILIES NOW ON RELIEF LIVING IN TENTS

Winter Approaching; Houses Very Scarce

With winter approaching swiftly, no solution of Peterborough's housing shortage problem is yet apparent for the half-dozen local relief families still existing in the meagre shelter of tents on various sites around the city.

"Every night before we get the baby into bed his little hands and lips are purple with the cold," Mrs. Robert Eagleton, one of the tent dwellers, said today. She held her seven-months-old son in her arms, seated on a make-shift bed in the tent home in which she and her husband have been living with seven children all summer.

"It's not so bad in the daytime when we have the fire going but we haven't a stove to heat the tent we sleep in," she explained. "The children have had bad colds and the baby had to go to the hospital for a week he was so sick with his. When it rains it's just too bad. The tent isn't waterproof and even the mattress gets soaked."

Two At Inverlea Park

But even enduring those condi-tions, the Eagleton's appeared to be more comfortable in their camp home beside the Sewage Disposal plant than are two tent families living at Inverlea Park for at least they have floor boards and quarter-walls of wood for their home.

At Inverlea, Mr. and Mrs. Charles White and two boys, 10 and 12 years of age, are living in two tents whose floors are the bare ground. One tent, full of holes, has a stove but the occupants dare not light a big fire as there is no asbestos pro-tection to prevent the stove pipe setting fire to the tent roof. Both children were said to have severe colds and both were barefooted yes-terday.

"They have been out of school for the past week because they haven't shoes or enough clothes," Mrs. White said. "I don't know how we're going to stand this any longer."

In another tent at Inverlea dwell Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rupert and their 4-year-old son. They have no stove inside the tent so do their cooking and eating in the open air. Charles Ruppert is crippled. They claim it is so cold in their tent that they are often forced to spend many nights with friends.

At the Sewage Disposal plant live another family, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Lawford and their three children, the oldest 13 years and the young-est 4 years. Their tent boasts the luxury of wooden quarter-walls but the remaining spreads of canvas walls are separate from the roof. The dwelling provides little shelter from either the rain or the wind.

Evicted From Homes

All the tent dwellers are on re-lief. Most of them were evicted from regular homes during the Spring this year when prosperity caught Peterborough with a housing short-age. The relief department supplied several of the tents. The tent dwell-ers have even lost their right to vote in this week's election as they are not living at permanent addresses.

One family did succeed in escap-ing from the tent life during the summer—Mr. and Mrs. Walter Me-haffy and their children. Their tent burned to the ground one morning and they are now living in the old Oriental hotel rooms. The Oriental hotel building, long vacant, has been suggested at Relief Committee meet-ings as the solution to the housing shortage but no definite action has been taken in the matter yet.

Last week at a Relief Committee meeting, Chairman James Dutton claimed his department is endeavor-ing to obtain living quarters for the tent dwellers.

DROP OVER 15-FOOT BANK

LINDSAY, Ont., Oct. 4.—(CP).—Two Toronto men, A. G. Piper, 61, and his son, S. W. Piper, 21, had a miraculous escape from death last night when they emerged unscath-ed from a demolished car after it had turned over several times after plunging over a 15 foot embank-ment. The two men were proceed-ing to Cameron, north of Lindsay and were less than a mile from there when the accident happened. They were picked up by a passing motorist.

Board To Resume Its Sittings Here At An Early Date

Decision Will Be Rendered in Textile Probe Speedier Than Many People Think, Chairman Says

Concluding a two-day hearing of the Industry and Labor Board into wages and working conditions in the local textile industry, Chairman E. J. Young intimated on Saturday the Board would return here at an early date, to be announced.

'As you know the Board has been called on to investigate the entire industry in the province," he remarked. Thanking all who had taken part in the proceedings, Mr. Young declared, 'The Board is of the unanimous opinion that the hearing has been helpful."

While he was not able to state definitely when the Board would be in the position to render a decision, the chairman offered the assurance to the workers that the Board would arrive at a decision more speedily on minimum wages than many people thought.

At the outset of Saturday's proceedings the Board handed down its judgment relative to charges made by J. L. Cohen, attorney for the National Textile Council and decided that while two employees of the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Limited had encouraged some of the employees to join an organization known as the Auburn Employees' Association, that Mr. Cohen had failed to "substantiate sweeping charges of intimidation," against the company.

Protesting new charges made by Mr. Cohen who alleged women in the mending department had told him they were in wrong enough and would not come before the Board to testify on that account, R. L. Kellock, K.C., counsel for the company, emphasized that Mr. Cohen had been able to broadcast his charges of intimidation throughout Canada.

Time for Protection

"My clients don't like being held up throughout Ontario and Canada as parties to that sort of thing," said Mr. Kellock. "Hasn't the time come when the company should have some protection against such ir-responsible statements?"

Mr. Cohen protested in turn against the use of the word "ir-responsible," demanding withdrawal.

The chairman ruled he could make any charges provided he brought witnesses to substantiate them, but Mr. Cohen declined to accept the offer of the chair.

In the card room at Auburn plant the highest wage paid was $16.50, Mr. Cohen said. Out of eleven men only two received this amount. Five others earned only $13.50 for a 50-hour week. Three more earned $12.50 he held.

In the spinning room men with over thirty years' experience made only $18, the highest salary there, Mr. Cohen contended.

"Two men in the finishing room worked 65 hours a week for $19.50 the highest wage there. One wet finisher, a married man, with 15 years' experience with the company, is receiving $18 a week for 60 hours.

"Six night weavers are getting $12 a week for 50 hours of night work. Another man worked 50 hours at night for $10 a week. Another man

SUGGESTS FAMILY COURTS BE SET UP ACROSS DOMINION

OTTAWA, Oct. 4 (C.P.) — Establishment throughout Canada of family courts with probation supervision such as is maintained in Ottawa would strike deeply at the roots of crime, Judge J. F. McKinley of Juvenile Court told the Royal Commission on Penetentiaries here to-day.

Failures of those on parole were only 1½ per cent. in the Ottawa Family Court area, Judge McKinley said, while the figure for Canada was 10 per cent.

Policy of the Ottawa Court was to furnish friendly advice, lend a ready ear to troubles threatening domestic happiness, and to settle family differences before necessity arose for court action. Paroled prisoners called frequently for advice and encouragement.

He would be glad, Judge McKinley said, to take over all ticket-of-leave men in the district at no cost to the Federal Government if the Justice Department would agree.

Side lines of the Ottawa Family Court, Judge McKinley said, included an 80-acre farm for the summer care of underprivileged boys, maintained by one of his personal friends. It had entertained more than 3,000 boys and had assisted them in finding pleasant and healthful use of their summer holidays.

Another venture of the Family Court was to take over the budgets of families threatened by financial trouble. It had handled as high as 70,000 a year and individual salaries up to $5,000 a year. It was his belief, that fully 80 per cent. of family discord arose from money trouble.

"A chain of Family Courts from Halifax to Vancouver would do more than anything else to reduce crime, said Judge McKinley, "and the root of all crime is in the home. At least 75 per cent. of crime comes from broken homes."

British Labor Demands Action Against Japan

Party Charges Government Unprepared For Coming Slump Unless War Arrives First

BOURNEMOUTH, Hampshire, Oct. 4.—(CP Cable.)—Labor's first act to-day was to demand swift action against Japan. Without dissentient voice and without debate, the Labor conference at its morning session adopted an emergency resolution calling on the British government forthwith to prohibit British citizens from selling war material or lending money to Japan and to cooperate with other members of the League of Nations and with the United States "in imposing measures of economic and financial pressure designed to bring Japan's aggression to an end."

"Distance and the distortions of publicity may sometimes lend enchantment to the view that those of us who see members of this government at close quarters in the House of Commons have no illusions.

Members Second Raters.

"We know that none of them are supermen; that most of them are second raters."

Dalton pictured 1,500,000 unemployed at the height of the trade boom. Millions underfed and ill-housed are living in poverty, he said. Millions are overworked and underpaid with never even a holiday with pay.

The cost of living was rising, he continued. The government was making no preparations against the coming slump "when the whole country will become one great distressed area, unless indeer war comes before the slump."

"From the look of things," he said, "it would seem that young Weiss was merely an incidental victim of the hatred, born of jealousy, that someone held against this girl."

Deputy Chief Inspector John J. Ryan discounted an earlier theory that the slaying was the work of the uncaught maniac known as "3-X" who within a week in June, 1930, slew the escorts of two girls as they sat in parked cars.

VALENCIA — Unconfirmed reports current here tonight said an unidentified submarine had attacked two British destroyers off Cape San Antonio near Denia. Seven British destroyers and two seaplanes started on an intensive hunt off Cape San Antonio for the submarine, reports from Denia said.

DOUBLE MURDER LAID TO JEALOUSY

NEW YORK, Oct. 4 (AP). — Police termed "a kid's job" today the Woodland murder of the trysting couple shot to death in a parked car and marked on the forehead with red circles drawn with the slain girl's lipstick.

Convinced Frances Hajek, 18, and her sweetheart, Lewis Weiss, 20, were trailed and killed by a jealous suitor, detectives questioned her parents to learn what other boys she knew.

The bodies of the youth and the girl, each shot twice through the head, were found by a passer-by yesterday who noticed the car, parked in a secluded nook. Miss Hajek also was stabbed seven times in the chest with an ice-pick or a stiletto.

Medical Examiner Howard Neall was shocked by the savage attack on the girl. He said, however, she had not been raped.

BURGLAR BAGGED AS WOMAN SWINGS BOTTLE ON HEAD

HAMILTON, Ont., Oct. 4 (C.P.).—Foiling an alleged attempt to smash a 1,400-pound safe in the Majestic Beverage Company's office early today, Morris Raphael, manager, assisted by his son David and his wife, captured Frank Bartello of Toronto as he tried to join two other men who fled through an upstairs window when the Raphaels surprised them.

Bartello, prevented from reaching the window by a barrage of bottles thrown down by Morris Raphael, was finally subdued after a struggle with two men when Mrs. David Raphael hit him over the head with a bottle.

He later pleaded guilty in Magistrate H. A. Burbidge's Court to shopbreaking with intent and was remanded eight days for sentence when police said they wished to make further investigations.

Proposes To Survey All Conditions Of Work, Housing

Announcement By Official of Privy Purse Seen Indication Approval Given By The King

PARIS, Oct. 4. —(AP)— Announcement the Duke of Windsor would make a survey of housing and working conditions in Germany and the United States "soon" loosed a flood of speculation on his future today.

Thomas H. Carter, a royal household official acting as his secretary, disclosed the plans in a formal statement yesterday. Some British quarters attached significance to the fact the announcement was made by an official of the privy purse office—which, they said, seemed to indicate King George probably had been consulted in advance and had approved the Dukes tour.

Observers predicted the tour would lift the Duke from the imitted social circle in which he has mingled since he abdicated the throne last December.

As Prince of Wales and during his brief reign the Duke was notably concerned with social welfare and housing problems.

"The great mass of slum dwellings in this country," the then Prince of Wales said in 1933, "are more than a century old, they are relics of a bygone idea of what was tolerable for the workingman."

With another week's stay in Paris his only known engagement, the Duke is expected to start shortly on the tour with his wife of four months.

Although the Duke did not say what would be the ultimate purpose of his studies, the announcement referred to "experience."

'The Duke of Windsor has always interested himself in the well-being of the workingman," it said. "He looks forward to opportunities that future travels to other countries may afford of gaining further experience on this subject."

No Date As To Start.

The Duke's announcement did not disclose when he and the Duchess would start their journey. As Germany was mentioned before the United States some persons believed they might go to Germany first.

The Duke's emphasis of his interest in welfare of the working man recalled his visits as Prince of Wales and as King Edward VIII. to distressed Welsh mining areas.

The announcement was made exactly four months after the June 3 wedding of the Duke and Duchess in Monts, France. He said in an earlier statement that he hoped to live a "useful life."

The Duke's visit to the United States will be his fourth to that country. He visited there in 1919, 1920 and 1924.

During the 1919 visit he also went to Canada and purchased his ranch in the foothills of the Canadian Rockies, a retreat that drew him across the Atlantic again in 1928. He also visited Canada in 1924 and 1927.

Since the abdication there have been many rumors the Duke might some day buy an estate in the United States and settle there. Virginia and the Duchess' native Maryland, were mentioned in these reports.

Coming Before Christmas.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 4.— (AP). — General Henry M. Warfield, uncle of the Duchess of Windsor, said today she and her husband had assured him they would visit Maryland.

"They wrote me some time ago that they would come here for a visit," he said. "The length was indefinite: I think they will arrive before Christmas."

KAI-SHEK EXPECTS USE OF SANCTIONS AGAINST JAPANESE

NANKING, Oct. 4—(CP-Havas).—China looks to the peaceful powers for "rapid application of economic sanctions against Japan," General Chiang Kai-Shek, "strong man" of the republic, told the Havas correspondent in an interview here to-day.

His wife amplified her husband's remark with an expression of hope for "application not only of the terms but of the spirit of the(League of Nations covenant" adding "Sanctions which permitted subterfuges would not be sanctions."

Due to the fact daily bombings of the capital have forced him to change his residence continually and keep it always secret, the general received the Havas correspondent in the private home of a member of his entourage.

The first question asked him: "Had the development of hostilities revealed any unexpected elements?" Chiang replied:

"The events correspond as a whole to our expectations, and make the reasons why China did not wish war clear enough. However, a factor exceeding our suppositions was the ferocity of the methods employed by the enemy, in contempt of all the laws of war and every regard for the elements of humanity.

One Real Surprise

"Another factor—unforseen, perhaps by the Japanese—is the stubbornness of Chinese resistance, on which henceforth the issue of the conflict will hang."

Asked what China expected from foreign powers, the general replied: "We are waiting for a defence by the peaceful powers of the principals enunciated in the Covenant of the League: Therefore we hope for the rapid application of economic sanctions again Japan."

Chiang was next asked whether "the concentration of Japanese troops in Manchuria (Manchoukuo) indicates the possibility of Japanese aggression against the Soviet Union?"

"Aggression is an infectious disease," replied Chiang. "It has already been demonstrated here. It would not be surprising if it were demonstrated elsewhere."

Only 11,000 Babies Born Each Year, Mostly Males—Austria Worried

VIENNA, Oct. 4 (A.P.). — More than 65,000 Viennese women are looking for husbands. They won't find them.

It is no joke. It's another way of putting Austria's most serious problem: What to do about too few births and too many women.

There are in Vienna 846,422 males, of whom 446,312 are of marriageable age, and 1,027,708 females, of whom 512,000 are of marriageable age. Only 11,000 living babies are produced each year — probably the world's lowest birth-rate.

The problem is many-sided, especially since the balance between the sexes swings in favor of boys up to the age of 14—there are 138,744 boys and 137,781 girls in Vienna, because of the preponderance of male births. But the low birth-rate and the abnormal proportion of adults to youths, with the larger death-rate of males, result in the great male deficit in the later years.

The Austrian average is 108 females to 100 males, but in cities the figures are more pronounced. The reasons are more men than women emigrate and city life causes a higher mortality among men than women.

Dr. A. Baumgarten, a Viennese doctor who is well known for his studies of population, finds an important cause in the declining birth rate. In 1910, he finds, there were

Loud Speakers And Lantern Slides To Announce The Election Results

PLANS have been completed by the Examiner for an election service on Wednesday night. Results from every riding in the province will be received from Canadian Press over the Examiner's leased wires and these results will be announced over loud speakers by Dick Lush to the crowds which always gather in front of The Examiner building. In addition this year a lantern slide service is being arranged in which the party standings, and all other important election news will be thrown on a screen which in all probability will be situated on the north side of Hunter street opposite the Examiner building. The candidates will also be asked to come and speak over the loud speakers.

The usual telephone service will be provided with seven operators answering 1600 calls.

The polls close a 7 o'clock but few results will be known until 8. All deputy returning officers are asked to telephone in the results of their poll to "1600 ONLY" as soon as possible.

Cameraman Sees Jap Victory In China Before Christmas

Son Of Noted Missionary Says Only Outside Aid Will Save Her

TORONTO, Oct. 4 (CP). — Fred Goforth, who spent his first 15 years in "China, slung a camera on his back when he left Wallaceburg, Ont., last March—and walked into a war. He just got back to Toronto from the Chinese war zone.

The 31-year-old son of the late Dr. Jonathan Goforth, one of Canada's outstanding missionaries to China, is convinced Japan will have China "on its knees before Christmas," unless outside aid is given her.

In Japan, where he stayed a month, Mr. Goforth learned the country has "enough munitions to carry on the war for three years if necessary." He went to China with his camera this year "to show Canadians" how Chinese lived.

Not before he got some good shots of Chinese life, Mr. Goforth was caught in a surging mob of refugees rushing from attacked Tientsin to Peiping. He clung to an outside platform of a baggage car for a 10-hour journey which ordinarily takes two hours.

A lecture tour will take the young cameraman across Canada, his first address scheduled for Wallacetsurg, where funds were contributed for his recent trip.

HIGHER WAGE RATES

Convict On Strike Up Water Tower

Columbus, O., Oct 4 (AP) CONVICT James Mason, 40, paced a narrow cat-walk atop a 150-foot water tower at Ohio State Penitentiary in the rain last night after having delivered this ultimatum to officials:

"I won't come down until you let me out."

But officials just grinned and said in effect:

"That's okay with us. As long as you're up there, you can't get away, so it looks like the next move will be up to you."

PHEASANT DIES IN BED

MILVERTON, Ont., Oct. 4.—(CP).—John Knox was more than surprised the other morning when a young pheasant awakened him by crashing through John's bedroom window and falling into bed with him. The pheasant struck the glass so hard it was dead when it landed among the bed clothes.

Italy's tourist hotels are crowded.

Fireman While Asleep Borrows Clothing Of His Fellow Fire Fighter

RUMOR is that a firefighter on the night platoon of the City Fire Department recently had an attack of somnambulism.

Apparently walking in his sleep, it is whispered, the fireladdie hopped out of his cot in the fire hall dormitory and after donning another fireman's trousers and rubber thigh boots which lay near at hand in case of an alarm, crawled back under the sheets and continued to slumber till the rising bell summonsed him at daylight.

He was not a little surprised on jumping out of bed to discover he was almost fully clothed, and all ready to rush off to a fire if the occasion should arise.

The somnambulist might have found it an advantage being thus prepared, if a fire alarm had broken the stillness of the night, while on the other hand the hapless fellow whose clothing had been borrowed would have been put to considerable disadvantage in searching for his missing pants and boots.

JAPANESE HINT BLOCKADING ALL FOREIGN SHIPS

Uneasy On Supplies Pouring Into China

SHANGHAI, Oct. 4 (CP-Havas) —Japanese bombardment of Chinese positions north of this capital was resumed today as the Nanking forces refused to budge from their strong positions along the Chapei-Liuho road.

Despite the Japanese wedge driven into the defense lines in the Liuhong-Lotien sectors, the Chinese still maintained key positions at Kianwang, north of the international settlement and along the eight-mile stretch between Lotien and Liuho.

Japanese marines supported by tanks attacked the Chinese positions along Paoching road and Kwantung street near the Shanghai-Woosung Railway but were repulsed with heavy losses.

In the Kiwangwan zone another Japanese thrust was halted. The key village of Liuhang, 10 miles north of the international zone remained the principal fighting zone.

Ban All Foreign Ships?

Reforming their lines after the Japanese offensive had advanced about a mile, the Chinese still blocked Japanese communications between Liyhang and Lotien, five miles to the north.

Japanese naval authorities here expressed grave concern over the heavy increase in foreign shipping destined to south China ports and hinted that the Japanese naval blockade might be extended to include ships flying foreign flags.

The naval spokesmen said the present "peacetime blockade" did not molest foreign vessels even though they might be carrying cargoes of munitions for the Chinese. Because of the quantities of foreign arms pouring into south China, it may be necessary for Japan to extend its blockade, he indicated.

The Japanese advance in the Liuhang-Lotien sector after 72 hours of fighting was the first crack in the hitherto impregnable Chinese "steel belt."

Duchess Switches From Wallis Blue

PARIS, Oct. 4—(AP).—"Wallis Blue" went by the board to-day.

New clothes chosen by the Duchess of Windsor were black, brown and red. Only one costume struck the familiar blue note. It was a traveling ensemble in navy blue woollen.

There was a strong note of plaid in apparel the Duchess selected for day wear at Mainbocher's, where a private room was set aside for her fittings.

Her new dinner frocks for winter parties were of lame and georgette. The fabrics chosen for formal evening gowns included broadcloth, tulles, flashing metal fabrics and somber velvets.

HYDRO IS ENOUGH CONDEMN HEPBURN IS ROWE'S CHARGE

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Oct. 4—(CP).—On the Hydro issues—"and that issue alone"—the government of Premier Hepburn "stands condemned," according to Conservative Leader Earl Rowe.

Speaking Saturday night in this heart of Ontario's publicly-owned Hydro - Electric development Mr. Rowe attacked the government for its power contract cancellation, asserted Premier Hepburn was negotiating new contracts and charged a Hydro shortage because of the government's policy.

"We are facing the greatest Hydro shortage in this province we ever faced," Mr. Rowe said. "Premier Hepburn knows it. His engineers know it. That's why Mr. Hepburn refuses my challenge for a statement. That's why he's rushing to the country."

With the Niagara Falls speech Mr. Rowe wound up a brief South-western Ontario tour that started in Hamilton Friday night. He spoke in Brantford and Simcoe en route to Niagara Falls. Today, for the first time in weeks, he has no afternoon meeting and no long motor trip before a night meeting in Toronto. He will wind up his campaign at meetings tomorrow in his home riding of Simcoe Centre, where he will vote Wednesday.

Sorry Campaign Over.

"I am sorry this campaign is over even if my voice is wearing out but the voice of Ontario will be stronger next week," he said. "If this campaign lasted 10 days longer I could nail the hides of Premier Hepburn and the power barons and the McCullaghs and the Slaghts to the fence and they would stay nailed."

While A. W. Roebuck, former attorney-general, spoke in the legislature denouncing the Quebec power contracts, Premier Hepburn's millionaire friends in New York were making money on the market," Mr. Rowe said.

"Where are his millionaire friends today while he is holding back from you information that he is facing the greatest Hydro shortage in the history of the province while he had under his hand negotiations for renewals?" the Conservative leader asked.

"They are passing the word around that millionaire circle to buy bonds of this and that. One day they're selling short and next day they're buying long. Millions and millions of dollars have been made

TIME TO JUSTIFY STAND UPON C.I.O. HEPBURN CLAIMS

TORONTO, Oct. 4—(CP).—Five speaking engagements in two days confronts Premier Mitchell Hepburn as he sets out to-day to bring to a close his campaign for the return of the Ontario Liberal Government.

To-day the Premier travelled north to speak at Collingwood, Midland and Barrie. To-morrow afternoon he speaks at Oshawa, scene of the General Motors strike of last April, which has bulked large in the debates of the campaign. His last speech, Tuesday night, will be made in Kitchener, another industrial centre. He will go to his Elgin county home Wednesday, election day.

Financial record of his government and its stand on the invasion of the C.I.O. and the Oshawa motor strike were the chief subjects dealt with by Mr. Hepburn in his speech at Massey Hall here Saturday night.

Time would justify his stand on the C.I.O., said the Premier, as he claimed the action taken during the Oshawa strike, including the recruiting of additional police had carried Ontario over a "critical period."

The Government had reason to fear trouble in connection with the operation of the parts factory at Oshawa during the strike. But it also had information from the police that 15,000 Communists in Hamilton and Toronto were prepared to stage riots in a number of centres at the same time.

Ready to Compare Records.

Mr. Hepburn said he would put his record of legislation for the benefit of labor against that of any other political leader. The Industrial Standards Act and the Labor and Industry Board were positive steps in the direction of securing for labor an increasing share in the profits of industry.

Through the measures and thorough co-operation with the Province of Quebec, sweat shops were being eliminated and minimum wage rates were being fixed for men. Owing to the invasion of the Provincial Legislative field by the Bennett government Ontario was a bit behind schedule with its labor program, but an Unemployment Insurance Act would be passed at the next session of the Legislature.

Refinancing Ontario's bonded debt at lower interest rates could be expected if the government were returned to office, said the Premier.

AUTOS KILL SEVEN IN WEEKEND TOLL OF 10 IN ONTARIO

TORONTO, Oct. 4 (CP) — Ten persons met accidental death in Ontario during the week-end, seven deaths being caused by automobiles. A fall down the steps to the cellar of her home killed one woman, a man was struck by a train and another died when crushed by a rock as it toppled into a hole he was digging.

Mrs. Mary Pilts, died in hospital at London Sunday from injuries received when she mistook the door to the cellar for another door and fell. She failed to regain consciousness.

At Owen Sound 39-year-old Norman Barfoot was crushed by a six-ton rock. Barfoot was digging a hole to bury the rock when it fell on top of him. Neighbors worked for an hour to extricate his body.

Struck by a freight train near Welland Junction, Harry Lewis, a section hand, was thrown 100 yards and was manged by the impact. Police said he was believed to come from Kingston.

LOUIS BROWNELL HAS NOSE BROKEN

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Oct. 4.—Louis Brownell of Hastings received a broken nose and abrasions about the face and Cecil Scriver, also of Hastings, received face abrasions, when a car, driver by Scriver, was in a collision with a Cobourg car two miles south of Campbellford, on the Brighton highway, Saturday night.

The Cobourg car, containing several passengers, had turned out to pass a car when it met the Hastings auto, according to a statement given by Brownell. Both cars were badly damaged, but no one in the other car was hurt.

Scriver was driving a car he had acquired that day through a trade-in. Provincial Constable Campbell of Campbellford investigated the crash.

Key To War, Peace With Britain

MONTREAL, Oct. 4—(CP).—Key to the European situation lies again —as in 1914—in the hands of Great Britain and the Dominions, H. Wickham Steed, British foreign correspondent and former editor of The Times, London, said in an interview on his arrival here Saturday in the liner Duchess of Richmond.

"The logic of the European situation indicates there will be a war," he said. "My feeling is that there won't be one. If the nations of the British Commonwealth would declare that they would stand to the defence of the principles of liberty and free institutions, then there quite definitely would be no danger of war."

Oldest Shantyman In Bytown Sandy MacDonald Dies

Famous Character On Ottawa's Streets Victim Of Stroke At 95

OTTAWA, Oct. 4 (CP) — Big, bearded Sandy MacDonald who called himself the "oldest shantyman in Bytown" died in hospital Saturday at the age of 96 and authorities faced the task of finding relatives about whom the old man would never talk seriously.

Alexander MacDonald was the old Scotsman's real name. Renowned as an old-time lumberjack, boarding-house after dinner speaker and lunch-room lounger, Sandy claimed he was married seven times and had 24 children, but no one knew if he was telling the truth or kidding.

For years he was a familiar figure in the capital, strolling the streets in summer or stamping them in winter, swinging a walking stick two inches thick, tipped with rubber in summer and with a four-inch brass spike in winter.

In cold days he walked from his boarding house to a Sparks Street lunch room, sat there for hours with his great white beard spread across his chest, his eyes watery and his face red, bellowing stories of the old days when life in the bush was tough and Ottawa was Bytown.

Illiterate, he sometimes pretended to read newspapers, did not know whether they were right or wrong side up and roared with laughter when acquaintances caught him looking at them upside down.

Mentioned Their Children

Sandy was known to have mentioned only three living children. He told two friends they were Dan MacDonald, living somewhere in Alaska, Archie, whose whereabouts he did not know and Mrs. G. McLeod, residing somewhere in Manitoba. A friend who wrote letters for him for 16 years said none went to relatives.

Sandy was born at Inverness, Scotland, June 5, 1842, was brought to Canada at the age of eight and taken by his parent to Glengarry County. In his youth he worked as a bushwacker up and down the Ottawa and Gatineau River valleys. Records show that from 1909 to 1913 he lived at Blind River, Ont., went from there to London, Ont., for seven years and lived in Toronto for an undetermined number of years.

Ten years ago he returned to Ottawa from somewhere.

On June 16, 1936, Sandy disappeared. Friends learned later he had suffered a stroke and been taken to hospital. He didn't come out again. The stroke left him paralyzed and blind for the last year of his life.

A Dangerous Precedent

An unusual case was tried in court at Hamilton. Wray Patterson, who keeps a store at Blackheath, had fitted up a trap spring gun in his store. The place had previously been robbed. The gun was so placed that it pointed directly at the opening from the cellar. Fred Thake, a farm-hand of the district, was found dead in the cellar of the store. He had entered through a window and when he opened the door from the cellar the trap gun exploded and he was directly in the line of fire, and was so seriously wounded that he died to death.

The charge against him was one of manslaughter, but Patterson was acquitted by the finding of the jury. Mr. Justice McFarland accepted the verdict and discharged the jury, making no comment on the finding. It is significent that the learned jurist in making his charge to the jury suggested that if the owner of the store had desired to protect his property he could have fitted the gun with a blank cartridge or aimed it in some direction not deliberately calculated to strike a person who might pass through that door.

The contention was that the owner of the store had a right to defend his premises, and there can be no general objection to that, but it does seem that using a full-loaded trap gun for the purpose is protecting property at the certain risk of taking human life. As a rule a person who is arrested and convicted on a charge of breaking and entering receives a prison sentence, but he is not executed. Before that is done he has the right to be tried, but in the case tried at Hamilton all these ordinary proceedings were ignored. The owner of the store considered that a person entering his premises was worthy of death and had so planned it that such sentence was carried out.

It is common practice and good practice in a number of business places to have burglar alarms installed and they are perfectly legal and proper. But we do not believe the law would sanction the fitting up of a system which would result in the death of an intruder should he enter the premises and set it in action. The acquitting of the storekeeper of Blackheath by a jury at Hamilton has set up what we regard as a dangerous precedent.

A Plain Question

Toronto reports an odd case of a man who went to a hospital there and said he was a captain of a Great Lakes vessel. His story was he had been injured when rough weather caused him to be thrown against the bridge of his ship. It is claimed on the strength of that story he secured the services of an expert for an operation, recuperated in a private room and was well cared for generally.

In all the bill amounts to about $300, the only trouble being that the man who received the treatment is not and never was a captain on a lake vessel. He is a man of 43 who has no home and no money and apparently no friends. His one asset seems to be the ability to present his case in an interesting manner. And convincing as well.

On the face of it the thing looks like a case of fraud, deception or anything in that category, but it actually opens a wider question. If a man were in need of medical treatment, and if such treatment would relieve him of some physical trouble, should such treatment be denied to him because he had not the money to pay for it?

Not For Sale

There is no end to high figures. Judith Allen, actress, has asked court in Los Angeles for $2,000,000 because she claims Mrs. Delphine Dodge Cromwell Baker Godde, has stolen the affections of her husband, Jack Doyle against whom she had previously filed action for divorce.

As it now stands the woman with many names intends to divorce her husband; Doyle intends to divorce Judith Allen and then there will be yet another wedding. All of which is rotten enough.

But bringing suit for $2,000,000 for the loss of a husband's affections makes one dizzy. It is one of those asinine motions through which people seem determined to pass, and it puts the love and devotion of a man at a price which is much too high.

Actually there is no figure which can be placed on such material as love and devotion. If a wife secures it from her husband—and she should—it is hers without price or question. And if she does not secure it then money will not buy it. It either exists or it does not and money has nothing to do with it. Not even two millions dollars.

Perhaps It Is Right

City Assessor Dixon of Stratford has completed counting the number of folk residing in his city, and announces it as 17,384, which is 231 less than a year ago. Explanations are that improved industrial conditions have caused a number of young folk to leave the city and start working elsewhere. Number of men are on farms and were thus not listed. All of which sounds reasonable.

But total assessment for school purposes is $138,000 more than it was in 1937, and for general purposes there is an increase in assessment of $165,000. We know nothing at all of the manner in which the assessment was made, and likely it is correct, and it will also have to pass the court of revision. The assessment is on land and buildings and not on the people.

And yet it always does seem a bit strange that the number of people living in a community can decrease while the amount of money which those remaining have to pay in taxes increases. Perhaps it ought to make sense, but at first glance it doesn't.

Buckwheat News

There has been a good deal of unrest reflected in the papers in recent days. A good deal about the slaughter going on in China; some more telling of the fighting and plotting in Spain.

Cables have carried news about Mussolini and Hitler reviewing thousands of troops in Germany, and there has been much made of the report that Russia is about to launch an attack against Japan.

At home we have been bombarded with political speeches. When we turn on the radio for a little bit of quiet music the political campaigner has been on the programme. In the columns of the paper the politician has been having his full fling. So it has all produced a feeling of uncertainty."

And that is why we were rather pleased to read in the paper from home a little item which said that "James Burgess has taken off his buckwheat two weeks earlier than usual this year. He planted it a week sooner than last year and cut it two weeks earlier, so Mr. Burgess says that shows what a good growing season we have had." And that little item served its purpose; it had a good deal to do with telling us that things were going well, growing well and coming to harvest in record time. Just what Mr. Burgess will do with his buckwheat we don't know. It may go through for stock feed along with the rest of the grain and he may use some of it to fatten and finish off his turkeys. But anyhow Mr. Burgess took his buckwheat off two weeks ahead of last year and we're glad of it. Time was when buckwheat used to be such a late crop that the binder would get stuck in the mud, and at times it stayed out until folk were taking in the turnips.

Yes indeed, it is well to read about something which is going right, because there is so much printed about things which are going all wrong. If we had to choose between news about Hitler and Mussolini watching some thousands of soldiers parade and James Burgess getting in his buckwheat two weeks ahead of last year we'd prefer to put a big heading on Mr. Burgess. If Hitler and Mussolini were taking in their own buckwheat and doing it ahead of last year there might be a better time for the whole world.

Have Much In Common

It is difficult to say if the investigation conducted by the Industry and Labor Board in Peterborough produced the desired results and gave to members of the Board exactly the sort of information they were seeking. Any organization working in such a field must require a certain amount of time to know just what methods of inquiry will give the best and most reliable results, and it is quite possible that as the Board continues its work it will know more clearly just where to question and how.

We are not at all certain that too generous an array of legal talent always facilitates such efforts. What the Board wanted to know had to do with wages and working conditions. The amount of wages being paid is information which could readily and accurately be secured from the books and records of the company, together with the number of hours worked to produce the wages. Frequency or infrequency of occupation could also be determined from the same records.

It was also brought out in evidence that there are two unions or organizations amongst the workers in the Auburn plant, and each is keen enough in watching the operations and progress of the other. In the negotiations which settled the strike the matter of union recognitions was not made a part of the understanding, although a representative of a Canadian Labor organization was a signatory to the agreement. Two organizations in one plant where the management is not prepared to recognize any union as a bargaining factor is not going to work well in any given direction. People who work together in the same plant naturally have a good deal in common, and being divided into two camps will not produce cordial relations.

It will be found that the industries where there is least trouble are those where there is not a great deal of space or desire dividing the shop from the office, where a worker feels that the statement of his opinion or his suggestion or his grievance is certain to receive a fair, a patient and an interested hearing. The Examiner heard an Ontario industrialist say within recent days that he preferred to keep his plant doing business on the scale of 150 employees. When it was that size he had opportunity to know how they were getting along, to keep somewhat in touch with what was going on in their homes, to know when there was sickness or any other trouble. This industrialist has never had any trouble in his plant. That drawing together of the people who work for a company and the company itself is the one sure solution for unrest. It will work in any community where there is a mutual desire to make it operative.

Women Have The Wealth

American women at the present time control 70 percent of that nation's wealth, and if they are not running the industry and politics of United States in the next generation or two it will only be because they are not conscious of their power according to a survey just completed by Issac F. Marcosson.

"It may startle the stavistic males to learn today that women are the beneficiaries of the nations's $104,500,000,000 outstanding life insurance. Today 15,000,000 stockholders own the U. S. corporations and nearly 49 percent are women. On top of this all women control 85 percent of the nation's buying power. A pull-in-the-purse-strings strike by the women of the land would make the most drastic sit-down look like a feeble manoeuver," Mr. Marcosson says.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Wednesday is the one day in the year when the voters can count upon getting free transportation.

One of the mysteries of the campaign is who are the Socialist Labor candidates and how could eleven of them find 100 voters each to nominate them?

The Port Perry-Peterborough highway is now promised. There is nothing like an election for speeding up projects of that nature.

Three men almost demolished a beverage room at Sault Ste Marie and that is more than the temperance organizations have been able to do.

Taxi drivers in Hamilton have been ordered to put meters in their cabs. That sounds like one way to make a date—meter in a taxi.

An old saying is again making the rounds, but it is worthy of much acceptation. Just this: No man has ever pulled himself out of a hole with a corkscrew.

The fact that a British Columbia pulp mill has had to suspend operations because of the Sino-Japanese war shows that the whole world is affected by a conflict between two nations.

When Hon. N. C. Nixon addressed a meeting at Norwood and told of the number of fish his government had placed in the lakes of this district he stood in danger of being accused of drawing a red herring across the trail.

The correspondent who wrote in regard to the election that while we may not be in the Promised Land we are certainly in the land of promises coined one of the neatest phrases of the campaign.

Milk dealer in Montreal was fined $16.70, and then the judge found information had been improperly laid, and deferred the paying of the fine—forever. And there wasn't a word of protest from the milkman.

We are beginning to think we had a monopoly of lurid political phrases in Ontario. Not so. William Hirth, editor of a farm paper in Missouri, addressed a farm convention the other day and said "Missouri was ruled by tin-horn chiselling political crooks and buzzards."

Young man drove his car at 40 miles an hour through the main street of Blyth village. He got off by paying the costs because it was explained he was on the way to be married. Just why should court soak him for costs? He's going to need all the available cash for his new venture.

VANITY

(By A. R. K.)

¶ A man just sold me books today, nor are they giddy like or gay, and they are heavy bound; they make a most impressive sight, nor are the titles very bright, in fact they're most profound.

¶ I never should have bought the stuff, of bills to pay I have enough, but he was very smart; he poured smooth words upon my ear, such things as men delight to hear, until he reached my heart.

¶ He told me when he first came in, just how my face attracted him, his voice had such a ring; I should have stamped him as a thug, when he spoke plainly of my mug, it's such a homely thing.

¶ He told me that I no doubt knew, the knowledge in his books all through, I was a clever gent; the country needed men like me, and I should go 'twas plain to see, and run for parliament.

¶ 'Twould help him on his way a lot, if village folk knew I had bought, and he had debts and cares; if once they heard I read his lore, he'd find around the open door, they'd rush to buy his wares.

¶ He used molasses for that sale, and spun to me a honeyed tale, I hungered for his mush; I should have chased him from the place, or bounced my fist upon his face—nor swallowed all his slush.

WHEN THE ancient Roman general Mummius was about to sack Grecian Corinth he warned his soldiers that if they lost or damaged any statues they must replace them. That gave Greek artists of the time an idea. They mass-produced rows of broken statues and monuments which they sold at a fat profit to Rome and the villas of their noble conquerors became full of these forgeries.

As a result only 842 aliens have entered this year, a decrease of 63 per cent.

So-called experts are not always right in their judgment. It is recalled that the British National Gallery has made several bad bargains. On one occasion the trustees paid £630 for a picture of a medical professor which they thought was by Hans Holbein. Almost immediately afterward they discovered it was not by Holbein at all, and despondently the trustees dived their hands into their own pockets and raised the sum of £100 which they offered the dealer to call off the bargain. He preferred the £630.

The Silly Season Before Voting Day

Speakers Have Had Their Full Fling At It; Lots of Old Straw Has Gone Through the Mill

(Kitchener Record)

THE IMPARTIAL observer must be somewhat nauseated by the nonsense and abuse that has been permitted to creep into the election campaign on both sides. This regrettable condition is far from edifying.

In Huron where the beverage room question looms as a salient issue, the three candidates are singing, "How dry I am." Probably their aridity or wetness could best be measured by the meteorological instrument commonly used in determining humidity.

The reduction of auto licence fees by the Hepburn government was followed by Mr. Rowe's announcement that he would rebate a part of the licence fee for the winter period when the car was not in use. Lately nothing more has been said about this proposed refund, probably because it is being realized that a three-month rebate on a four-cylinder car licence would amount to only 50 cents. This wouldn't make it worth while to go to the bother of parcelling and paying the postage on the plates.

In the nomination speech at St. Thomas Premier Hepburn mentioned that Mayor Hall of Oshawa complained during the famous strike that the C. I. O. organizers were making a fool of him. Mitch's comment was to the effect that Nature had done its share.

Criticism of an early election is quite in place since the government might have remained in office another two years. But this criticism loses its force in view of the fact that Mr. Rowe has for months past repeatedly challenged Mr. Hepburn to appeal to the electors and let the people decide who is to govern Ontario.

Cheer Leader Massey came in for criticism by Arthur Slaught a few days ago because he had instructed some boys and men previous to the commencement of a political rally at Parry Sound how to produce vociferous applause so that the radio listeners would be led to believe there was an audience of 10,000 instead of a paltry 650.

On top if this some silly exaggerations have been uttered which are an insult to the intelligence of the electorate. However, when you put the same old straw through the machine again and again there is bound to be more chaff and less grain.

The man who said: "A little nonsense now and then is relished by the best of men," must have had the Ontario election of 1937 in mind.

Not Too Sure of Where Her Own Army Stands; Were German Leaders Shot in Russian Purge?

(By Paul Mallon)

WASHINGTON—The question of whether Russia will join the Chinese war against the Japs is the point upon which world peace hangs at the moment.

Stalin's notes have been belligerent. He is supposed to have several hundred thousand men and a thousand planes on the Manchukuo border line ready to go.

Yet none of the diplomatic elite here believes he will unleash his hordes. Their reason is convincing. They have learned the Japs made a very careful inside investigation of the Russian military situation before moving into China. In fact, that is why they moved. They were convinced the Reds could not do anything to stop them.

The Red purge by murder of her seven army generals and her continuous execution of her citizens since August 20 tell the story better than a secret Japanese military report. Russia has an absorbing problem at home.

The highest have a yarn that the seven executed Russian generals were Germans with Russian names. The story is that the Russians employed German military officers some years back to whip the Russian army into shape, that these Germans assumed Russian names and when their usefulness was over, they were lined up with their faces to the wall.

There may be something in it, but not much. The seven generals were real revolutionaries as far as several gobd authorities here have been able to find out. It is true the Russians took some German military technicians, and these may have been shot, but none ever attained the rank of General.

Making Sure That More Must Perish

Placing Large Wreath to Honor War Dead; Then Reviewing New Ways to Kill More

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

ON THE MORNING of the day he left Berlin for Rome, Premier Mussolini visited the monument that Germany has erected to her Great War dead and laid a wreath at the foot. It was a mammoth wreath, too, six feet long, indicating the extent of his sympathy for the dead, many of whom must have been killed by Italians. Having done that, the Fascist Premier accompanied Chancellor Hitler to a reviewing stand and there witnessed a spectacular parade of Germany's motorized army.

No doubt an impressive show was put on for the benefit of Il Duce, but there seems a strange incongruity in his last two public actions before going home. He places a wreath on the monument to over 2,000,000 dead or missing, then goes to witness a display of the latest machines which have been devised for the purpose of killing in the next war. The killing, of course, will not all be on one side. If the Germans kill hundreds of thousands or millions, the enemy of enemies will kill about a similar number of Germans. In due course, a monument will be erected to them, and probably Mussolini or his successor may put a wreath at the base, after which he may go and review another cavalcade of killing machinery.

That is the queer ways of things. Thus the vicious cycle goes on. If the dictators who threaten war had any sense of the fitness of things they would at least refrain from doing one of those two things. Either they would not put wreaths on the monuments to the war dead, or they would not review military parades and watch "war games."

STANDING PENANCE.

(Calcutta Statesman)

A DEVOTEE who has vowed to stand for an unlimited period near a small temple in Sipri is attracting attention. He says it all depends on the wish of God, how long he will maintain his penance. His great "guru," Tharesi Baba, stood as a penance for 12 years. He lies buried near the spot where the present penitent, also named Tharesi Baba, is standing.

The man has now been standing for the last month. He can move about, do anything he likes, but must remain all the time on his feet. A swing has been hung from a tree which he can use for sleep. He can rest the upper part of his body on it but the feet must remain in contact with the ground, not simply touching.

Asked if he found any trouble in doing this, the man said that if he experienced any trouble or difficulties they had little significance. At first it was very troublesome but every day the trouble grew less and less. The devotee's feet have become quite swollen.

A STERN MAN.

(J. Lambert Payne in Ottawa Journal)

SIR JOHN THOMPSON (premier of Canada, 1892-94) was a stern man, and never ceased to be the judge he had been for years before entering the Federal political arena.

He knew he was stern. As Minister of Justice in the Macdonald cabinet, he was once on a visit to the penitentiary at Dorchester, a prisoner appeared before him and pleaded for the shortening of his sentence of 14 years, eight of which he had served. "Who was the judge who tried and sentenced you?" asked Sir John. "A very hard man in Nova Scotia, named Thompson," was the reply. "Yes," said the minister, with a sigh, "he was a hard man." And he cut off five years.

To the Editor

FIREMEN

Editor Examiner:

Sir: The statement of Alderman Walter Stocker at the Fire, Water and Light Committee meeting Thursday night that the local firemen "were living in the lap of luxury" is much uncalled for and might be termed an impertinent remark. Since the appointment of the present chief whose appearance and ability as a Fire Chief is a credit to the City of Peterborough, the brigade has developed into a sturdy and active lot of capable young men whose duties call for these qualifications.

The department is worked on a two-shift system, the day shift working 10 hours, the night shift 14 hours. The change-over at the end of the week calls for the day shift to remain on duty for 24 hours while the night shift is that time off.

If Alderman Stocker would visit the fire hall during the time of fire drill he would see these men in turn climbing a fifty-foot ladder with that amount of fire hose something like half a dozen times each drill. If the above is Alderman Stocker's interpretation of luxury, long may I sail clear of such luxuries.

NOT SAFE BUYING.

QUEER THAT some people, careful in buying from local stores, seem to forget all the rules of caution when they buy from out-of-town, door-to-door peddlers. To repeat, the safest buying habit to acquire is to deal with local stores, owned by people with reputations at stake, instead of the outsiders who are here today and gone tomorrow, too far away to care about or to make good defects, discovered after goods have been bought and paid for.

LIBERAL APPEAL MADE TO YOUTH

If there is anyone in this province to whom the youth are indebted, it is to the Hon. Mitchell F. Hepburn our youthful prime minister, declared Dr. Ralph Honey in addressing the Saturday night Liberal rally in the Paragon Hall. With our provincial debt mounting higher and higher and taxes increasing year by year, with no outlook to the future the youth of this province were being handed over nothing but mortgaged land. Since Mr. Hepburn formed his government in 1934, the provincial debt has been paid and thirty-three million dollars paid off the same last year. Our taxes have been reduced and the government was the only government in the Dominion of Canada to have a balanced budget and a surplus. This is going to benefit us immediately but were it not for the steps taken by Mr. Hepburn in his tax reform and in cutting down the cost of government it is hard to say where this province might have been carried to.

He appealed to the youth to support the Liberal candidate and extolled his particular qualifications in glowing language.

J. J. Leahy introduced as the ex-prime minister of Douro township by Dr. Crough, declared that the tax reduction effected by the Hepburn administration meant a saving of $25.00 for him on his tax bill this year.

F. D. Kerr, K.C., said that Mr. Rowe had his sympathy with the old gang directing the ship. The members of the discredited Henry administration are on top of him. Every time he looks around he sees Mr. Henry standing there with the receipt in his hand for $3250.00 being the monies Mr. Hepburn forced him to pay to take care of his private automobile charges paid by the government.

The candidate stated that people wonder how Mr. Hepburn can get along with the great reduction in taxation of land effected by relieving municipalities of the charges for provincial highways, old age pensions and mothers' allowances, the loss of revenue occasioned by reducing motor car licenses, and abolishing amusement tax, and examination fees, and in many other ways. This is easily understood because the cost of government in the last year of the Henry administration was one hundred and thirteen millions of dollars, whereas in the last fiscal year the total Provincial expenditures were only eighty one millions of dollars.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Higher Liverpool quotations produced fair commission house and light seaboard purchases to lift wheat more than a cent earlier. Then trading thinned and during the remainder of the session prices drifted.

Liquidation sales found support light and values eased about a cent near the close. Hedging pressure of new wheat, totalling 508,000 bushel delivered Saturday was small.

TRYING TO AVOID RESPONSIBILITY TROUBLE TODAY

When Pilate washed his hands and said, "I am innocent of the blood of this just person, see ye to it," he did not escape his own responsibility. With that as the basis of his sermon, Rev. C. L. Brown of Springville United Church delivered a thoughtful address at Murray Street Baptist Church on Sunday evening. Rev. J. L. Sutcliffe of Murray Street conducted anniversary services at Fairmount United Church.

"Much of our trouble is that we try and avoid the responsibility which is plainly our own," said Mr. Brown. "The child who goes to school and says he does not like it blames the teacher and perhaps the other scholars, but the fault is with the pupil. People who continually remain away from God's house say they do not like the preacher and do not care for the people, but the responsibility for neglect is their own. We may not see the hungry folk who are in the world and who need help, but we dare not on that account infer they do not exist. The harvest of souls the world over is ripe, but the laborers are few, and we cannot escape the responsibility which is ours by trying to wash our hands of it and saying 'See ye to it.' There are those who need help in the way of life and you cannot pass them by and simply say, 'See ye to it'." Personal responsibility, urged the speaker, is something which cannot be avoided.

Oldest Twins Meet After 52 Years

100,000 BATTLE LONDON POLICE OVER FASCISTS

Score Are Arrested; Many Hurt In Riot

LONDON, Oct. 4.—(CP)—Police linked arms to hold back hundreds at Tower Bridge court to-day while two magistrates dealt out sentences following Sunday's riotous march of Sir Oswald Mosley's Fascists.

Numerous £2 ($9.91) fines were passed out. Wilfred Wigham, who said he "pushed a bit of wood into the road to keep Mosley and his thugs from getting through," was fined £5.

Richard Robins, accused of hitting five marchers, drew one of the heaviest penalties—a month in jail. He said he lost his temper when he saw parading "friends of people who bombed and machine-gunned women and children in Spain."

One woman was fined £2 for leaping upon a policeman's back.

LONDON, Oct. 4 (CP)—Special arrangements were made in Tower Bridge court today to try the legion of Fascists and anti-Fascists convicted in street fighting yesterday as the latter attempted to stop a parade of Sir Oswald Mosley's Blackshirts.

Scotland Yard announced 96 rioters were arrested and 18 injured but obsedrvers of the street fighting insisted both figures were too low.

Demonstrators, said to number close to 100,000 battled police to prevent a parade of 7,000 Fascists behind Sir Oswald from Westminster to Bermondsey in southeast London, four-mile route.

Mounted police and bobbies on foot repeatedly charged the crowd to prevent them from throwing up barricades in the line of march. Bleeding, unconscious men and women, who lay where they fell until ambulances could reach them, were a common sight.

Several pitched battles broke out, particularly in the south end, and many of the injured were struck by hurled eggs and stones aimed at the police and marchers.

Red Flags Waved

Some of the barricades were of barbed wire. One, of planks, was built of material seized by young Leftists on a raid on a lumber yard. Others were piles of paving stones, chained wheel-barrows and sections of fence rails.

Red flags waved from some barricades until police pulled them down. In some sections the demonstrators sang the Communist "Internationale" and raised their right arms in the proletarian clenched fist salute.

The march was to celebrate the fifth anniversary of the Fascist movement in England.

Anti-Fascists in the vicinity of Tower Bridge road carried the slogan "Bermondsey against Fascism" and the words "They shall not pass" were chalked on the roadway.

WARSAW ELECTORS HEAR TORY POLICY

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARSAW, Oct. 4.—The Conservative meeting, which was held in Warsaw Town Hall on Thursday evening, was fairly well attended. Mr. Wallace Anderson was in the chair and in a few well chosen remarks introduced the speakers. Mr. Johnson Blakely of Dummer gave a short address. Mrs. Gridland, vice-president of the Peterborough Women's Conservative Association, urged the formation of such an Association here. She also urged the necessity of using the franchise. It is an absolute duty.

T. P. Lancaster, member for the riding, gave quite a lengthy address, giving some statements which had been made publicly, but in the printed report were different. He also spoke of patronage. In some places men had to get a ticket to get work. In others all the money went to one family. Mr. Lancaster said Mr. Rowe was out to clean up abuses and give a fair field to everybody. In road work there are places where a few miles are done here and there.

Col. C. G. Williams of Toronto enlivened things with some stories of his life as a hired man on a farm for some years after coming to Canada and urged the re-opening of market for Canadian products in Great Britain.

Captive Bear Reverts To Savagery Presents Owner With Problem

Six months ago he captured a docile little bear cub in the northern section of Peterborough county.

Today he has a vicious black bear which he is anxous to get rid of, but is at a loss just what to do about it.

When he suggested releasing bruin in his native haunts, he was definitely warned by the game warden to do no such thing, as the officer believed a real danger to life and property would result.

Joe offered the bear to the filtration plant "zoo", but there it was not welcome because of lack of accommodation, and fear that trouble would be inevitable if the bear was placed in the same cage as that already occupied by a very fine specimen of the species also caught in this county some time ago.

The bear changed from the playful pet of a few weeks ago, to a savage, snarling, wild thing just since its return from the Canadian National Exhibition where he was part of a display sponsored by the Ontario Department of Game and Fisheries.

Joe who has the bear confined in a cage at the rear of his George street restaurant, doesn't know whether it was the bright lights of the big city; the change of diet; or the excitement of facing large crowds at the C.N.E., that resulted in the sudden change in "Teddy's" disposition. He thinks it is probably a combination of all three causes.

So urgent had the need of getting rid of the bear become, that this morning Joe had practically decided — very reluctantly it might be stated, that the bear must be destroyed. He was considering having the animal shot.

SAVING THROUGH HEPBURN POLICY CLAIMED BY CARR

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Oct. 4. — "The Hepburn Government policies of the past two years have meant a saving of over $10.00 for every elector in the United Counties," declared Harold N. Carr, Liberal candidate for re-election for Northumberland at a meeting held on Saturday night in the Town Hall. Vernon Buchanan, Mayor of Ingersoll, supported the candidate, Dr. D. C. Hay, was chairman.

Mayor Buchanan recalled the campaign days thirty years ago when he first met Billy Fraser and how he was impressed by his first meeting with Mr. Carr.

The provincial debt had been piling up for many years during Conservative regime and it was not until the Hepburn Government took over the province that they were able to show a surplus with their "sunshine" budget, stated the speaker. He discussed succession duties, declaring that along with the 48 million dollars they had already collected, they were asking a mandate to go back into office in order to collect 50 to 75 million dollars more. That the former Conservative Government had disgraced themselves by entering into the Quebec power contracts was cited by the speaker, and that if Mr. Rowe had not studied the facts regarding Hydro, he should not be in charge of provincial affairs. "Are there any promises left he can make?" questioned the speaker referring to many promises made by Mr. Rowe. "Hepburn made many promises, and has kept them all."

In summing up, Mayor Buchanan said the province would show continued prosperity were Hepburn returned to office on October 6.

Had Been Neglected

Mr. Carr beginning his speech, declared that Northumberland County had been sadly neglected until the Liberal Party went into power. Announcement of plans being made for a new Ontario Hospital at Cobourg was made by Mr. Carr. An option had been taken on the site, and when completed the building will have a property of 350 acres. When the House of Refuge in Cobourg was burned down, he sought aid from the Provincial Government to have it rebuilt, and as a result two-thirds of the cost of reconstruction was assumed by the Provincial and Dominion Governments.

He stated that work was resumed again on the Brighton to Havelock Highway, and the Provincial Government has assumed the total cost. Under the Henry Government, the county was charged 20 per cent. of th total cost. The road from Norwood to Cobourg through this village was recently taken over for a provincial highway after the speaker had interceded for the county. Plans are now being made for improving and eventual paving of this road, he declared.

Mr. Carr commented on the fact that Mr. Rowe has visited Northumberland six times in an effort to recapture the seat. "Your present Member has accomplished more than any Tory member who ever held the seat," he declared. (Applause.)

Hunting With Dogs

His only promise to the electors in the previous campaign was to try and have an amendment passed permitting the use of dogs by deer hunters. This he accomplished as chairman of the Fish and Game Committee when the amendment was passed.

He told of opening a separate office in his home town of Campbellford to interview the hundreds of people who came to voice themselves. "Their politics were never questioned. I am not a politician, never was, and hope I never will be," declared Mr. Carr.

In his fifty-minute speech which was uninterrupted throughout, Mr. Carr discussed the labor question, the C.I.O., the timber limits in the north, where no able-bodied man is unemployed, the increased revenue from the game and fisheries, the $400,000 United Counties savings including the Campbellford power contract, a saving of $40,000.

A fair gathering was in attendance, including a fair percentage of ladies. One noticeable feature of Mr. Carr's speech was that he never once mentioned the opposing candidate nor made any reference to him.

SAGE OF POTO HILL EDGAR HOWE DIES

ATCHISON, Kas., Oct. 4 (AP) — Edgar W. (Ed) Howe, 84, noted author, editor and philosopher, died in his sleep here yesterday.

Prior to his illness he virtually had completed work on his book "Final Conclusions," concerning which he said in June, 1936:

"Give me two more years and I am going to write the greatest book in the world."

Known as the "sage of Poto Hill" —Potato Hill being his name for his home—Howe was noted for his philosophical writings. His pithy, pungent paragraphs were widely quoted.

Howe founded the Atchison Globe in 1877 but retired 37 years later, turning it over to his son Eugene and a group of Globe employees.

To keep himself occupied, however, he started publication of "Howe's Monthly," which attained wide circulation. In it he published his sage observations and philosophical advice. He called it a "Journal of indignation and education."

NO SIDESTEPPING BE ALLOWED DUCE CIVIL WAR ISSUE

LONDON, Oct. 4—(AP). — Great Britain and France to-day phrased the final draft of their implied demand on Italy for a showdown on intervention in Spain's civil war despite a reported attempt by Premier Mussolini to prevent such an invitation from ever reaching Rome.

Carefully the note-writing experts of the Paris and London foreign offices combed the text of the overture which will not be forwarded until after the French cabinet, probably to-morrow, give final approval. The British cabinet was understood to have approved the draft invitation.

France and Great Britain were determined to block any move by the Italian Premier to sidestep the proposed Tri-Power conference aimed at forcing prompt withdrawal of the thousands of Italian soldiers fighting for insurgent Spain.

Count Dino Grandi, Mussolini's envoy to London, was believed to have attempted to forestall actual presentation of the invitation at Rome.

His call Wednesday night on Foreign Secretary Eden was interpreted generally as Mussolini's first attempt to place difficulties in the way of Italian acceptance—if it was not actually a warning that Italy would refuse to cooperate.

ALBIONS ELECT FRANCIS VOYER

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Oct. 4.—The Havelock Albion Club elected Francis Voyer, popular young Havelock man, as their president for the ensuing year. Harry Ferguson was re-elected to the post of vice-president, and Fred Hill took over the secretary-treasurer's position, succeeding Everard Chiles. Bert Hagerman is the retiring president.

The Albion Club which was organized in September, 1936, as a young men's club for the promotion of sport, has been growing from year to year, until the membership has almost reached the hundred mark. The boys have gained much prestige both in the village and throughout the district through their sports undertakings and charitable activities.

The annual banquet was discussed during the meeting and a committee composed of Bruce Jones, Clarence Spencer, Phillip Greenley, and Everard Chiles was appointed to look after arrangements.

A committee composed of Jerome Voyer, Bert Hagerman, and James Covert were selected to prepare a list of candidates eligible for club membership, to be submitted at the next meeting.

DURBAR UNDECIDED

LONDON, Oct. 4.—(CP Cable.)—It was learned last night that a definite decision in regard to the holding of a Delhi Durbar, to be attended by the King-Emperor, has not yet been made.

It was forecast in some quarters a reference will be made to a visit to India by the King in the Speech from the Throne opening Parliament Oct. 26, and forecasts are heard the Durbar might be held in December, 1938.

However, it was learned it was highly improbable that any dates would be mentioned, even if a reference to the Durbar is made in the Speech from the Throne.

HINT DODGE HEIR TO WED CANADIAN

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Mrs. A. G. Wilson, mother of Daniel D. Dodge, heir to part of the motor fortune, reported engaged to an 18-year-old Canadian telephone operator, said Saturday "my impression is that he is not quite old enough to know definitely what he intends to do about marriage."

A copyright dispatch to the Toronto Star quoted Miss Loreen Macdonald, daughter of a lake captain, as saying she had been engaged to Dodge more than a year.

"Daniel met Miss Macdonald on one of his summer vacation trips to Manitoulin Island where he has a camp," Mrs. Wilson said. "Sometimes I have spent several days there, and I met Miss Macdonald on one of those occasions, the same as I met other girls with whom Daniel went about.

"Whether or not there has been such an engagement, I am not prepared to say. I have not had the opportunity to talk to him recently about his marriage. At present he is doing experimental work on Diesel engines."

HOUSE IS BURNED AT LITTLE BRITAIN

LINDSAY, Ont., Oct. 4.—A bad fire occurred at Little Britain Saturday, when the brick residence owned and occupied by Alice Medland was totally destroyed, together with its contents. The cause of the fire is a mystery and it is thought that it was either caused by a defective chimney or defective wiring. The village brigade, assisted by neighbors, prevented the fire from spreading to other residences and a call was sent to Lindsay for help. The loss is a heavy one as very little insurance was carried.

France is now buying more from the United States than Algeria, a French possession.

PETERBOROUGH'S GROUCHIEST MAN AMAZES FAMILY

They had given him up as a bad job. He was always grouchy and cross, tired and jaded all day long. But—now, there isn't a happier, livelier man in town. He's full of the old "up and go"; snap in his step, sparkle in his eyes. Poor health was the cause of all his trouble. His system was clogged with wastes, poisoned by uric acids that made him achey, tired, rheumaticky. He wasn't naturally lazy or "cranky" but, while the poisons remained in his system, he just couldn't help feeling tired and out of sorts.

Fynnon Salt worked a real change in that man. It cleared away the energy-sapping, pain-causing poisons, regulated elimination, got his liver and kidneys doing a full time job. Fynnon Salt does its work nature's way—with the medicinal salts of the earth found in the water at famous spas. These minerals—Sodium, Potassium, Lithium—have been combined in Fynnon Salt, providing the benefits of a "spa" treatment—at home. If YOU feel tired, listless, if stiffness and aches rob you of pep and energy, start taking Fynnon Salt tomorrow morning. You'll quickly begin to win back that brighter, brisker feeling—to forget you ever were slowed up or sluggish. Your druggist sells Fynnon Salt in large 75¢ packages. Presentation Made Church Organist

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 4. — On Thursday evening a surprise party was given when members of St. John's United Church Choir gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Vesey to present Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hasell with a beautiful chair and magazine rack. Mr. Hasell, who has been organist at St. John's United Church for the past few years has resigned his position and the esteem in which both he and Mrs. Hasell were held can be best judged by the address which was delivered by Miss Velma Reynolds who made the presentation. Tonight friends have gathered here to express in some small way our appreciation of your untiring efforts to make your choir a success. Your unassuming personalities and kindly manners have won their way into the hearts of those present in no uncertain manner. We certainly appreciate the privilege we have all been accorded in enjoying your acquaintance for such a number of years through the choir, and we very much regret your severing it from us.

You, Mrs. Hasell, have been a most faithful choir member, and we are quite conscious of your sterling qualities, and your cheerful disposition made it a pleasure to have you among us. And now we take the opportunity of endeavouring to show in some tangible way our feelings toward you both and ask you to accept this chair and magazine rack as a token of our esteem." Mr. and Mrs. Hasell thanked the choir for their gifts and then the guests gathered around card tables to spend the remainder of the evening playing progressive euchre. Mrs. Walter Henson, Mrs. C. Turner and Mrs. G. Mowatt assisted the hostess in serving a dainty lunch.

JUST 23 YEARS AGO 32,000 CANADIANS SET OFF FOR WAR

GASPE, Que., Oct. 4. — (CP) — Twenty-three years ago today, before dawn broke to reveal their going, 32 battleships and 30 transport vessels weighed anchor and steamed from Gaspe's outer bay bearing Canada's first contingent to the Great War. History was in the making again at this historic spot as the 32,000 men welcomed the start of the "great adventure."

No light and no sound marked the departure and it was days before the rest of the world learned the true proportions of one of the greatest mass movements in military annals. The men headed for a winter of privation and cold in the trenches and when the war ended more than half their number had died or been wounded.

The ships began to assemble the last week in September as nature painted the Gaspe Hills, where Cartier landed in 1534 and where General James Wolfe resided in 1758-59 after the surrender of Louisburg. Five warships accompanied by three soldier laden transports were the first arrivals and groups came day by day until the armada was complete.

The men had embarked for Gaspe at Quebec after a period of training at Valcartier. They soon were to gain for Canada a reputation as a producer of great fighting men and to undergo as many hardships as any body of soldiers in the war.

PREFER TRUCKS TO BOATS

GODERICH, Ont., Oct. 4 (C.P.). —Captain J. Fisher of the three-masted schooner J. T. Wing, last of her kind on the Great Lakes, believes the day of the sailing vessel is just about over. And he blames it on motor trucks.

"We could easily train the boys—if we could get the boys—but they would much sooner drive trucks," he said when explaining the gradual disappearance of sailing vessels. "This is a gasoline age," he said.

GLITTERING HEADDRESSES MATCH NEW EVENING GOWNS

By LISBETH

All the important style highlights of the formal fashion season are incorporated in these two dresses which were modeled at La Maisonette Russe, in New York, recently.

The highlights are glittering ornamentation, fancy headdresses matching the dress trimming, the slim silhouette maintained with considerable fullness in the skirt section, and the little jacket.

The evening tailleur is illustrated at the left of the two figures. It is in changeable mauve silk taffeta. The tight fitting jacket studded with sequins is matched by the sequin headdress and sequin cuffs on the gloves.

The skirt is cut with considerable flared fullness. The other dress is French blue silk damask made in directoire style, brocaded with silver and gold laurel leaves. Worn with it is a cock headdress of silver and gold kid.

Latest Notes From Paris

From Paris comes this latest of style news: Daytime silhouettes generally slim, with occasional skirt fullness introduced in front in the form of flare panel or gathers.

Sleeves vary from elbow to mit length.

Waistlines are bolded and bodices very intricately draped. Exceptions to this rule appear in some Alix models which are reminiscent of a little girl's dress, with all around fullness hanging from the yoke and held in at the waist. And Mainbocher uses silk crepe and silk satin for dresses with straight fronts and fullness thrown to the back.

There is a new formality in afternoon gowns that is being featured by nearly all the large houses. At Piquet's twisted scarf effects outline high bustlines. His skirts are slim with slightly biased fronts.

Two-piece dresses or those with a two-piece effect are by Patou, but the princess line with the high-waisted front, and the lower line back, is the general favorite.

Paquin favors youthful dresses with slim skirts, long sleeves and high necks, trimmed with fine shirring.

MEN LOVE PEPPY GIRLS

If you are happy and peppy and full of fun, men will take you places. If you are lively, they will invite you to dances and parties.

BUT, if you are cross and listless and always tired out, men won't be interested in you. Men don't like "quiet" girls. Men go to parties to enjoy themselves. They want girls along who are full of pep.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Subsistence Wages

"I bring these as examples of abominably low wages," explained Mr. Cohen; "mere subsistence wages, let alone wages to allow anything that people in this country consider an adequate standard of living." Generally speaking, he claimed, the maximum wage at the Bonner Worth Mills was only $13 a week for girls.

"There are males working in No. 1 mill at the Bonner Worth plant," asserted Mr. Cohen, "who work 60 hours a week for $18. A drawer in No. 2 mill is making $15 for 60 hours.

"I think taking it on the whole the wages are less in Peterborough than in Cornwall, and goodness knows some of us there were shocked at the disclosures. It seems to me the onus rests clearly on the company to substantiate wages for the men and women in its employ."

"It follows that there must be some readjustment of these wages by your board because they are low," declared J. F. Strickland, counsel for the Auburn Employees' Association, after agreeing to Mr. Cohen's wage figures and submitting a complete summary of his own.

Not Analogous

Questioned by Roy Whitehead, C.M.A. representative on the board, Mr. Strickland stated he had no comparison of wages of textile workers to workers in other industries. He did no think there could be any analogy between textile and metal plants. He thought the board should consider carefully textile wages all over the province.

In reply to Fred Bancroft of the board Mr. Strickland gave his opinion a minimum wage for a married man should be at least $20.

"It seems to me," he said, "that weaving is an extremely skilful piece of work and it seems to me 36 cents an hour is a very low wage."

"I should say $17.50 a week would be the least for a minimum wage for unmarried men," Mr. Strickland said.

Mr. Kellock said it was quite impossible for him to check the wage analysis as it went on. He emphasized Mr. Cohen had mentioned only 85 illustrations out of 300 employees at the Auburn mill and only 10 in about the same number at the Bonner-Worth mill.

"The piece-work system is not confined only to the textile worker. The former, I believe, is on the piece-work system. Some employees like it. Some don't," commented Mr. Kellock. "From the employee's point of view if the rate is fairly fixed the employee gets reward for his work."

In the weave room, Mr. Kellock stated, one man is making 60 cents an hour, five more get 40 cents to 50 cents an hour. His argument was ability does bring rewards.

Henry Barrett, managing director, told the board men and female weavers working on the day shifts are paid identical piece rates.

A Steady Industry

Mr. Kellock claimed there was a steadiness in the textile industry that did not exist in other industries. This, he insisted, had to be taken into comparisons with other industries in regard to fixing minimum wages.

"One thing I want to mention is the competitive feature in the textile industry," he said. "For every six yards of cloth we make here, there are four that come in from Great Britain, and wages here are 60 per cent. above those in Great Britain. The Canadian manufacturer hasn't this own market; he has only 60 per cent of it. I haven't met any manufacturer with any qualms to paying higher wages if he can.

"Wages cannot be looked on only from basis of the cost of living, but of the marketability also of the product," he continued.

He argued if the minimum wage cannot be recovered in the cost of the product, then industry cannot carry on this competitive basis, with present tariffs, as fixed to 1940, Mr. Kellock informed the board.

"If it is suggested international treaties which are going to carry on till 1940 are to prevent workers receiving $12.50 a week, I don't think there will be much confidence in the work of this board," replied Mr. Cohen.

"Marketability," Mr. Cohen contended, "is the only one factor. The ability of the worker to live is a far greater factor. I don't think that it should be forgotten by this board that it is setting a standard that will have an influence on other industries."

Want Basic Wage

Threats by industries that they could not pay a proper minimum wage and continue business are common before elections and strikes, said Mr. Cohen when asked by the chairman to suggest the board's line of action to meet such an argument.

The board, Mr. Cohen contended, should hear no representations on this point or the basic minimum wage. "Industry," he said, "has means of adapting itself.

First, argued Mr. Cohen, the board should settle on the basic wage necessary for a worker to live. The board should hear no representations from employees on this point, he asserted. The board should confer with industries only on their capacity to pay higher rates than the basic minimum.

Mr. Kellock took exception to Mr. Cohen's statement that the textile industry "stunts and cripples boys and girls going into it."

Challenges Cohen

He challenged Mr. Cohen to substantiate such a statement from any authoritative investigation ever made.

"I'm just wondering when textile mills are going to be advertised as health resorts," declared Mr. Cohen. "Nothing, he said, had been mentioned about noise, strain, dust. "It would appear there was no noise and not even effort," he said.

"I'm only concerned with the replacement cost of the human beings who work in the industry and what should be paid to them as a minimum wage." Mr. Cohen told the board. "My friend may try to minimize the 85 illustrations out of 300 workers. I thought they were a very large number. I brought them up only to show what I called at Cornwall the horrible conditions in wages that prevail."

Mr. Kellock challenged Mr. Cohen to produce proof of his statement that "the textile industry stunts and cripples physical growth of boys and girls going into it."

"I'll give it to you," Mr. Cohen replied.

Mr. Kellock answered Fred Bancroft of the board, that he was not making any threat that the textile industry would have to close down if the board found it necessary to raise wages to reach a decent minimum wage. But, he continued, he still maintained world market price competition and tariffs had to be considered as a factor in fixing minimum wages.

But arms, however powerful, however necessary, brought no solution. They must be linked, he said, with a foreign policy which would breathe new life into the League of Nations.

They must contribute to a properly organized system of collective security "honestly and courageously applied against aggression from whatever quarter."

They must be linked with an "offer sincerely made to all nations to take stock of the world's wealth, to join in establishing equal opportunities for all nations to share in its abundance, conditional upon fresh acceptance of peaceful procedures for settling international disputes, and international agreement for drastic progressive reduction of national armaments."

"In the last six years," Dalton concluded, "the world has rattled back to barbarism at breakneck speed." The greatest need to-day was a return to honest courage in foreign policy; for another Labor government in Great Britain to reverse the present helpless slide towards a supreme catastrophe.

Register Your Vote Against Hepburnism

Despite the tons of Liberal propaganda that have been dumped into this riding in the last few days, the swing against Hepburnism continues unchecked. Victory for the Conservative cause not only in Peterborough but throughout the province is assured. THE ONLY DANGER IS OVER-CONFIDENCE. Electors who want to rid Ontario of the instability and uncertainty of Hepburn rule must see to it that their votes are polled. Don't leave it to the other fellow, but get out on Wednesday and register by your ballot your protest against Hepburnism.

ONTARIO DESERVES A NEW DEAL, and she's going to get it from Hon. Earl Rowe after October 6. Even the Hepburn forces are beginning to realize that the campaign has, from their viewpoint, gone sour. They've even started to pick Mr. Rowe's Cabinet for him. That can be safely left to Mr. Rowe himself. He has among his candidates in this campaign many able young Conservatives, men of ability and standing, who are making their first appearance in public life, but who have the qualities out of which a strong administration can be formed, and Ontario need have no fear that Mr. Rowe will not avail himself of the services of these fine recruits. Ontario will get a new deal from Mr. Rowe, in the matter of a cabinet as well as in general administration.

The Government Poison Gas Department has been busy with its talk about "the old gang." It might be said that at their worst, they were head-and shoulders above the general run of the cabinet which Mr. Hepburn asks the electors to return; but let that go. The issue in this election is not what somebody else did before 1934—that was all fought out and dealt with at the last election—but what Mr. Hepburn has been doing since that time. He cannot squirm out of having his own record inspected by harking back to ancient history.

It is Mitchell Hepburn who is on trial in this election; and all the posters, all the letters, and all the political fly sheets in the world cannot alter that fact. The jury is ready to bring in its verdict, and from all over the province come reports that the finding will sweep Hepburnism out of office.

Peterborough is ready to line up with the parade of winners by electing T. P. LANCASTER, the man who gets things done. Our appeal to you is to make sure your vote is polled. If you know of electors who need transportation to the polls on Wednesday, call the Conservative Committee Rooms, Telephone 3014 or 3015.

This IS MY PLEDGE TO THE PEOPLE of ONTARIO

This is my stand and the stand of my party on the issues which are before the people today. To the faithful carrying out of these undertakings I pledge my word.

Earl Rowe

LIQUOR CONTROL

We will appoint one central non-political board, consisting of three members. To work in close co-operation with this central board we will appoint local non-political boards whose duty it will be to make recommendations as to character and ability of licensees, character of premises, location of premises and hours of sale. Under the Canada Temperance Act the wishes of dry communities will be respected. We will return to the principle of liquor control and decency—as against liquor out-of-control and profits. We will invite the co-operation of hotel keepers in a twelve-months trial of control under this system. If, at the end of twelve months, beverage rooms are not cleaned up, they will be closed.

LABOUR

The law will be administered impartially. We will protect for the working man his right of free association within the law. But we will not tolerate acts of lawlessness by either party to an industrial dispute. We will eliminate abuses and unfair practices which exist in our industrial life. We will appoint to our Department of Labour men from the ranks of labour who understand and are sympathetic to the problems of labour. For these appointments I shall seek the recommendations of labour leaders. Human values transcend all other considerations in the administration of government. It will be my task to bring industry and education together, so that our youth will not be unemployed on account of improper training. I pledge co-operation with the Dominion and other provincial governments leading to the establishment of unemployment insurance, national health insurance, maximum hours of labour and minimum rates of pay and other plans calculated to insure social and economic security.

AGRICULTURE

We will re-establish the agricultural services which Mr. Hepburn abolished. We will re-open Ontario House in London, England, and other selling and advertising agencies, wherever necessary, to procure for our farmers a greater measure of prosperity. Farmers will no longer be required to pay a service charge for Hydro. We will re-establish the livestock grants and bonuses. Grain growers of Ontario will receive assistance. The five cents a hundred imposed on farmers for the support of the cheese board will be removed.

SCHOOLS

We will defend and promote our great public school system. We acknowledge the constitutional rights of separate school supporters guaranteed by the British North America Act, and we will respect such rights.

HYDRO

We will abolish the service charge to all rural users of Hydro. We will free Ontario's great publicly-owned Hydro system from domination of Stone & Webster, engineers of Boston, U.S.A. We will remove Hydro from political control and will restore to the municipalities representation on the commission. Power will be supplied to the people of Ontario at cost and we will aid the extension of Hydro into rural areas. We will insure an adequate supply of power by the development of Ontario power sites.

FOREST PRODUCTS

We will have a public enquiry to reveal why 14,000 square miles of the best timber in Ontario has been awarded on the very eve of an election, without tender and without advertising. We will insist upon the processing and manufacture of forest products within the Province of Ontario for the purpose of stimulating work and wages for Ontario workmen.

TAXATION

We will commence a well-defined plan of debt reduction, tax reduction and balanced budgets. To do this we will initiate undertakings, in many practical directions, looking to the sound and courageous development of our natural resources.

HIGHWAYS

We will build highways, but not for election purposes. We will carry on a constructive road-building program for the benefit of both rural and urban populations. No credentials from any political party will be a necessity in securing employment on public works under a Conservative administration.

CIVIL SERVICE

We will wipe out the present system of political patronage. Under a newly-organized civil service commission, the qualifications for employment in the public service of Ontario will be merit and ability, rather than political allegiance. Where the qualifications of applicants are equal, returned soldiers will be accorded a preference.

REAL ESTATE AND MUNICIPAL TAXATION

Unemployment can best be solved by the revival of the building and construction trades. Our British democratic institutions can best be preserved by encouraging our people to have a definite financial stake in our country through home ownership. Our policy will be to relieve municipal taxpayers from the intolerable burden of taxation now charged against their property for the payment of services which are provincial in their application. I pledge co-operation with the Rowell Commission and the Dominion Government, and if necessary, will establish a non-political Provincial Commission to study and report upon the methods whereby Provincial and Municipal administration may be simplified.

MINING

We oppose any further increase in the mining tax.

We will amend the Securities Act to permit appeal to the courts and to make it possible for the small prospector to finance his property on a basis that is equitable and just.

We will broaden the scope of the Workmen's Compensation Act to include those suffering from silicosis who have been less than five years in the mining industry. An enquiry will be held into the rates charged for Workmen's Compensation in the mining industry.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION

We will broaden the scope of this Act and humanize its administration.

NORTHERN ONTARIO

Northern Ontario has been neglected. We will create a special department of Government for Northern Ontario, where well-defined policies for road construction and general development will be administered. We will pursue in Northern Ontario aggressive policies for the extension of Hydro electric power service, forest fire protection, reforestation, the extension of medical health services, land clearance bonus for settlers, and the encouragement and development of all branches of the great mining industry.

TOURIST INDUSTRY

We will establish a department of tourist development and inaugurate policies for the conservation and propagation of fish, game and other wild life.

FOREST, WATER AND SOIL CONSERVATION

Droughts and floods in the developed areas of Ontario are problems of tremendous economic importance. We will inaugurate plans to conserve scientifically our great natural resources of forest, water and soil, against these hazards. This will be one means of providing employment.

HEALTH

We will restore the vital services wiped out by the Hepburn Government. These include:
Free distribution of insulin, without "red tape" and without charging twenty-five per cent. of the cost to the municipalities.
Re-appointment of eight district medical officers of health.
Grants for school medical and dental inspection.
Grants to hospitals for incurables and sanatoria.
We will proceed with the construction of mental hospitals.

Population And Assessment Increases Are Announced In The Return Of 1938 Rolls

Gain Of 547 People In Peterborough—Population Is Now 23,619

Peterborough's population has increased in one year from 23,072 to 23,619, a gain of 547, as shown in the city's new assessment summary prepared by W. J. Henry, assessor, as the basis for the 1938 taxation.

At the some time the total assessment has advanced to $28,297,346 as compared with the corresponding total of $28,135,490 for a year ago, rather than with the total assessment as revised by the Court of Revision. The increase amounts to $161,856.

The number of taxable persons this year is 8,327 as against 8,170 in 1936, a gain of 167.

The gain of 547 in population reflects one of the most notable improvements in Peterborough's growth in recent years, and it is more than likely that the total of 23,619 is not the exact figure for the time assessment staff compiled its figures. Possibly in some homes the names of persons who are not property owners, but would be liable for poll tax, were either forgotten or deliberately withheld.

The increase of $161,856 in assessment is a moderate upward move for the year, commensurate with the advance in the valuation of land and buildings, and with the general enhancement of values resulting from the broad gains in the volume of industrial and commercial business in Peterborough.

The following is the comparative statement of the summarized assessment facts as copied from the assessment roll for the two years.

CENTRAL ONTARIO SCOUT LEADERS HOLD CONFERENCE

Meeting in the largest convention of its kind yet held in Ontario, Boy Scout patrol leaders and seconds, 90 strong, converged from Central Ontario centers on St. John's Anglican Church parish hall for sessions this week-end.

Pointing out that their forefathers endured great hardships in laying the foundation of early Canada, Mayor George A. Macdonald urged the scouts to carry on and build a worthy superstructure on that foundation as he welcomed the visitors among the gathering to the city. President of the opening banquet was Bob Ferguson of the St. Paul's Troop. Outlining the idea of the conference and dealing with the education of the patrol leaders in Edgar Jones, field secretary for accordance with the patrol system, Eastern Ontario at the Provincial headquarters, delivered the keynote address.

Eight Patrols

Rev. James Greer of Lindsay addressed the convention on the choice they must face between good and bad habits in life before the opening of the first discussion session. The 90 young men then divided themselves into eight patrols and in that organization proceeded through the remainder of the conference.

Not the least interesting feature of the convention was a series of visits by various patrols to different industries of the city Saturday. The scouts returned to St. John's to write essays on their visits.

Principal session was held Saturday afternoon. A demonstration of a model court of honor meeting by the St. John's troop under Scoutmaster Fred Ford opened the session. Scouter McKercher of Lakefield delivered an address on "Hiking with an objective." Other addresses were, "How to create patrol spirit" by Scouter Van Eberdingen of Port Hope; "Patrol meetings and a program" by George Groombridge, skipper of the St. John's Rover Crew; "Patrol Week-end camps and hikes" by Scouter Henry Nokes of the 2nd Peterborough Troop; "Teaching and living the Scout laws" by Scouter McCausland of Cobourg.

Definite Objectives

Scouts were urged to adopt and adhere to definite objectives in life by Judge L. V. O'Connor of Cobourg as he addressed them at their concluding banquet. Clyde Owens of the 1st Lindsay Troop was the chairman.

Sixty of those in attendance were from Peterborough troops and the remainder registered from Lindsay, Port Hope, Norwood and Cobourg.

Arrangements for the conference were in the hands of Assistant District Commissioner Lou Grant of this city, assisted by Skipper Groombridge of the St. John's Rover Crew, and Gordon Clegg, district Cub Master. Others who assisted were Art Ross, William Lyburn, Ernie Wolfe and Ken Brown. District Commissioner John T. Hornsby was present on two occasions. The afternoon Branch of the St. John's Women's Auxiliary provided the suppers.

Motorcyclists of Broadstairs, England, will have the same parking facilities as autoists.

BOY SCOUT FLAG MADE IN HUNGARY IS GIVEN TROOP

A swastika emblem, known the world over among Scouts as the "Thanks Badge" is to be sent overseas as a token of appreciation from the officers and Cubs of 4th Peterborough (Sacred Heart) Wolf Cub Pack. It was presented to Mrs. Michael Dominik to be forwarded to her sister in far away Hungary, and was given by the Cubs as recognition of the part her sister played in securing for the Pack the beautiful embroidered Cub flag which was made in that country. As donors of the flag Mr. and Mrs. Harold Legrow of this city were also presented with "Thanks" badges. Mr. Legrow presented the flag to the Pack at an impressive ceremony held on the grounds of Sacred Heart Church on Sunday afternoon. Cubmaster "Pete" Dominik in accepting the flag on behalf of the Pack, explained his aunt in Hungary had the flag made, when Mr. and Mrs. Legrow kindly offered to donate a flag to the Pack.

Preceding the presentation of the Cub colors the Pack was also presented with a lovely Union Jack, the gift of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Sacred Heart Scout Troop and Cub Pack.

Mrs. Joseph Marsden handed over the Union Jack on behalf of the ladies' auxiliary and the Cubmaster accepted it, afterwards handing it and the Cub colors into the charge of two color parties.

William J. Grady officiated at the proceeding welcoming those present, while the Rev. J. C. Maloney in the absence of the Rev J. J. O'Brien introduced Mrs. John E. Stiles of Ottawa as the chief speaker on the program.

Mrs Stiles who is the wife of Canada's Chief Scout Commissioner, and a leader among the Cubs spoke briefly on the significance of flags pointing out that down through history they had been "rallying points in battle."

She was glad the colors about to be presented to the Pack did not symbolise rallying points for war and hoped they would always be the rallying points for the boys of the community and something which might represent to them the ideals of love, peace, justice and humanity.

Assistant Cubmaster Gerald Grady had a large share in the success of the program, while among Scout officials who occupied the platform were District Commissioners John T. Hornsby, E. J. Wolff and Lew Grant and Scouter George Groombridge among others.

Patriotic songs by Sacred Heart school choir were interspersed on the program between the speeches, and recognition was made by the chairman and other speakers of the presence of a detachment of the St. John Ambulance Brigade, who instruct boys of the local Scout Association in first aid work. The detachment was present in uniform in charge of Divisional Superintendent L. E. Tomkins and Ambulance Officer J. Barns.

Y'S MEN'S CLUBS HOLD RALLY HERE

Affairs of the Y's Men's Clubs of Ontario were discussed at a full conclave of Ontario region Y's Men at the Y.M.C.A. on Saturday and Sunday. The conclave was distinguished by the presence of Lou Warren of Washington, Iowa, international president of Y's Men.

Eighty members from Belleville, Orillia, Toronto, London, Midland, Sudbury and Kitchener, as well as Peterborough, sat down to the supper which opened the conclave on Saturday evening. Mayor George A. Macdonald and Y.M.C.A General Secretary G. H. Roper welcomed visitors to Peterborough, and Rev. George S. Easton of Trinity United Church set before them the ideal of a higher plane for present-day civilization in the address of the evening.

"Jack Thornton, president of the Peterborough club, occupied the chair in the absence of Don Crawford. Present at the evening discussion was Stanley James of Sudbury, regional director. Principal business of the evening was choice of the dates, August 19-22, for the 1938 international convention of Y's Men in Toronto.

Feature of the Sunday program was the assembly of the world outlook committee following a conference breakfast at the Y.M.C.A. Speaker was A. E. Turner, of Valparaiso, Chile, who declared Y's Men's Clubs are gaining ground and are doing great work in the international sphere. Following a session of the resolutions committee, the conference was concluded at a noon banquet. The men heard addresses from Mr. Warren, and A. R. Kennedy, managing editor of The Examiner.

Interesting presentations were made to three of the visitors before the close of the conference. Mr. Warren, Mr. Turner, and Mr. James each received from the Peterborough club mementoes of Peterborough in the form of a pair of miniature skis and a miniature paddle. The presentations were made by President Thornton, James Goldie, and George Nichols.

General View At Presentation Of Colors

Despite the chill weather there was a large group of well-wishers turned out for the ceremony on Sacred Heart Church grounds on Sunday afternoon in connection with presentation of colors to 4th Peterborough Wolf Cubs. Mrs. Joseph Marsden, (standing) presented a silken Union Jack to the Pack on behalf of the ladies' auxiliary, while a beautiful Cub flag made in Hungary was donated by Mr. and Mrs. H. Legrow. It is seen in the hands of Cubmaster "Pete" Dominik whose aunt in far away Hungary had the flag specially embroidered.

ONE SMALL FIRE.

CHEQUE FOR $340.29.

Reeve James Gifford reports the Township of Ennismore last week received its cheque representing a one-mill subsidy from the Ontario Government. The cheque was for the amount $340.29. The subsidy was anticipated in the township tax bills earlier this year.

CAUGHT 2 'LUNGE.

Mrs. C. H. McMillen of Westcott Street landed two fine lunge while trolling in the river above the city last week—one weighing 17 pounds and the other 13 pounds. She was accompanied by her husband on both occasions.

COMES FROM CHILI.

An interesting visitor at the Regional Conference of the Y's Men's Club in Peterborough at the week-end was A. E. Turner, former secretary of the Y.M.C.A. at Valparaiso, Chili. Mr. Turner was formerly a Wisconsin man, who entered the Y.M.C.A. service and was sent to Chili. "I retired from the active work of the Y.M.C.A. not long ago," he told The Examiner, "and was attracted to the possibilities of the Y's Men's Club as something which would be useful and serve a good purpose in promoting international friendship. We can work through the Y.M.C.A. is so many countries of the world and in that way help to break down the strange feeling of suspicion which so many nations seem to entertain toward the others. From what little I have been able to see of your city and district, it appeals to me as splendid and quite unique."

CAMPBELLFORD

Lone Fowl Figures In Car Accident

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 4.—Trying to avoid hitting a chicken which was crossing the road south of Wooler, Misses Eileen Filion and Margaret Bowen, both of Trenton, received minor injuries when the car in which they were riding left the road. Lorne Jackman of Trenton, driver of the car, stated that in attempting to miss the fowl, he had struck some loose gravel which caused them to swerve into the ditch. He received only a minor abrasion to his head, while the two ladies' cuts and scratches were not serious enough to prevent their taking part in the tennis tournament in Campbellford for which they were bound.

UKRANIAN CHOIR IS TO VISIT CITY

St. Paul's Men's Association announce they have completed plans for a visit to this city on October 22 of the Ukranian War Veterans Choir from Toronto.

The choir an organization of forty talented singers, has in addition a ladies' section of dancers and instrumentalists. All will appear in their picturesque native costumes and will perform under auspices of the local organization in the Collegiate auditorium.

The Choir, the male members of which comprises veterans of the Great War and men who participated in conflicts between the Polish Imperialist Army and also the Red Army, will under direction of Paul Sych be heard in a program of Ukranian folk and soldier songs. There will be solo numbers, duets and quartets as well.

20 Tons Of Rock Shale Bought In 1922 Still In The Cellar Of The City Hall

"Do you know that there are twenty tons of rock shale in the cellar of the city hall that were bought by the city council in 1922 after the miners' strike in the United States that was engineered by John L. Lewis as president of the United Mine Workers' Union, and Mr. Lewis has never denied the accusation that the strike was called in collusion with the mine owners to enable them to get rid of the worthless stuff that was sold as bituminous coal," a former alderman told the Examiner today.

"Go down in the cellar and you will see the pile of this black rock, for that is about all it is. Now and then the caretaker throws a shovelful on the fire at the city hall as a slow means of finally getting rid of it, but after fifteen years of that procedure there is still a big pile of it. And it was bought at a peak price when the coal market had been stripped of the available supply of good coal.

"I have a newspaper clipping in my files which published the accusation that John L. Lewis received a cheque for $100,000, for which he gave no collateral, from a United States bank that was directly interested in the sale of the black shale that had been accumulated by the mine owners." It is an interesting story at this time, and the point of it is that the mines would never have been able to dispose of this worthless coal if an artificial scarcity of the ordinary bituminous coal used in steam heating had not been created by the strike.

I don't know how much of it was bought in Peterborough by factories and others who had to use it, and also how much was sold up and down the country, but it must have been a tremendous quantity.

The citizens of Peterborough were stuck for twenty tons of it for the furnace at the city hall, and if it is any satisfaction to them they may be interested in knowing that they haven't yet got rid of it. In fact they still have a big supply of it on hand."

STOLEN CAR IS FOUND IN DITCH

Within thirty minutes after Basil McGee, Simcoe street miller reported his car missing Saturday afternoon, it was recovered by city police on Highway 28 between Springville and Kendry where it had been reportedly ditched.

As a sequel to the matter, Harry Burnett, 20, transient faced a car theft charge before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., this morning. The accused who elected summary trial and entered a plea of not guilty, was remanded at his own request until Toursday.

"I would like to have a remand. You see I want to write to someone and get money for a lawyer. I suppose that is my privilege," Burnett remarked to the Bench.

Rollie Miles, New Chamberlain street pleaded not guilty to a charge of breaking and entering by night, the butcher shop of Ross Payne, 53 George street north. He was remanded until Tuesday, October 12. It is alleged that when Constable W. R. Piercy and A. Menzies were on patrol early Saturday morning they observed that Payne's butcher shop premises were insecure. While they were investigating someone left by the back door and running to a waiting car sped away. The police gave chase and subsequently arrested Miles, it was learned.

John Hughes, stated to be from Apsley district pleaded guilty to unlawful possession of liquor. He was fined $100 and $4.50 costs or 3-months imprisonment.

WINTER BE COLD LOTS OF SNOW INDIAN CLAIMS

Peterborough citizens can buy their heavy overcoats, overshoes and ear muffs right now without fear of making a mistake, for the district is due for a cold winter with lots of snow. So says Dan Whetung, chief of the Mississaugua Indians of the Curve Lake reserve, who made his annual long-range weather forecast today after due consideration of the many factors concerned.

"We may get our first snow within the next ten days, but the real winter will not begin until December 1," the veteran chief announced. "These fellows who like skiing can go ahead and plan a big meet this year, for they will be sure of lots of snow."

And members of the Peterborough Ski Club may be inclined to give that prediction some credence this year, for they learned a healthy respect for Chief Whetung's predictions last year. Despite the fact there was plenty of snow at the time last year, the Chief told members of the club they might as well abandon plans for their big carnival in January as they wouldn't find any snow when the date for the carnival rolled around. Many laughed at that prediction but, sure enough, hardly a flake of snow was to be found on the countryside and the carnival had to be cancelled.

Chief Whetung says he bases his weather predictions on various observations of nature. He says the birds migrated from the district early this year, and that the maples and cedars have borne unusually heavy seed. Wild animals are equipped with thicker coats of fur than usual this Fall, he states.

But there is some more urgent factor in Chief Whetung's ability to foretell weather — something he doesn't understand himself, he says. He relates that he knows the weather far in advance subconsciously. When he was a little lad his mother always knew when to expect an extra cold day, for he would bring in an extra armful of stove wood the night before, he claims.

Toronto G-W Gains On Title With 3-2 Triumph At Oshawa

Bunched Hits, Plus Catcher's Error In Second Accounts For Winners' Runs

OSHAWA, Oct. 4.—Scoring three runs in the second inning on four consecutive hits and an error, Toronto G. & W. moved within one game of the O.B.A.A. senior title, when they defeated Oshawa General Motors, reigning champions, 3-to-2, before a crowd of 3,000 at Alexandra Park Saturday afternoon. After the damage had been done Ken Biddle, Oshawa's portside ace, settled down to scatter three hits during the remaining seven innings.

Smokey Smith, the Distillers' ace, was nicked for eleven safeties, but hurled superlative ball in the pinches, while his team mates played grand ball behind him. Oshawa took the lead in the initial frame, when Tommy Foley, tripled and scored on Matthews' single after two were out. In the second inning, G. & W. unleased a batting attack that surprised the partisan Oshawa fans. Crippen, the first batter up, singled to left field with Stuart, Stanley, and Glen following suit, which accounted for three runs, aided by Bennett's error.

Score In Fifth

Oshawa's only other score came in the fifth, when Doc Rowden banged one of Smith's fast ones to the race track in deep left field, for a home run.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

LOOKING OVER our records for some years past we find that we have very little bowling after October 1. True, some of the boys slip away on the odd afternoon to enjoy a game when the sun is shining, but we are referring to the evening when the great majority are able to play. So we will have to admit that our bowling days for the 1937 season are pretty well over.... We also noticed that last year we intended to have a Snowbird tournament on Thanksgiving Day, but during the night the thermometer dropped down to around 30 degrees, and it snowed a little, with the result the tourney was called off and the greens were officially declared closed.

REGARDING THE program for this week, nothing is definite yet, but we do know that there will be no bowling to-night (Monday), because we are holding our annual meeting of the men's section at 8 p.m. This is meant to serve as a notice to all interested men bowlers.

Norwood Club Wins Royal Bank Shield

NORWOOD, Oct. 4.—Another enjoyable bowling season has been brought to a close, with the playing of the concluding games in the Trent Valley League on Friday evening. Hastings played at Brighton and Warkworth played at Norwood, Havelock drawing a bye. Out of 36 games played during the season Norwood club won 26, winning both halves of the schedule and thereby carrying off first honors in the form of the Royal Bank shield, Warkworth club, winners in 1936, carried off second honors this year and to that club goes the C.P.R. Cup.

FRED PERRY

Until recent years tennis hadn't been looked upon as a good business investment for a young and up-climbing athlete. Baseball and hockey offered lucrative inducements for the young athlete as there was a good chance of making a comfortable living from these sports. But tennis had hitherto been regarded as more or less of an amateur sport and was just played for the pleasure it gave.

But it is different today as Fred Perry has shown in his professional career. He turned professional not quite a year ago, and to date at the conclusion of his American tour had made in the neighborhood of $100,000.

COBOURG BLANKS LINDSAY 17 TO 0

LINDSAY, Oct. 4.— Judging by the display they gave against Lindsay on Saturday, Cobourg Galloping Ghosts seem headed for the O.R.F.U. group championship. The visitors are apparently well named, for they galloped through the local Blue Bombers to score a 17 to 0 victory, the worst defeat the Lindsay squad has suffered in several years.

The feature of the was was the wonderful display of kicking by Meikle, who scored twelve of his team's points with his well placed punts. He had a marvellous control and apparently disheartened the locals right from the opening whistle.

The tall Cobourg kicked opened the scoring early in the first quarter with a kick for a single point and added two more singles before the quarter was over. In contrast to the visitors' hoofing, Kirley's knicks were short, and Meikle and Edwards had little trouble in running them out. Neither squad scored in the second session, but early in the third quarter Meikle scored another single and followed it up with a well directed placement to bring the total to seven.

The only major score of the game came near the end of the fourth quarter, when a series of plunges and end runs brought the Cobourg squad to the Lindsay five-yard line. A beautiful forward pass from Lucas to Cooper allowed the latter to cross the goal line untackled and Meikle converted the touchdown. The Cobourg kicker completed the scoring with a placement and a single to bring the total to 17.

Teddy Groselle was about the only player on the Lindsay squad who showed any flashes of last season's form and his tackling was a treat to watch. In most instances, however, the visitors were able to make considerable gains before being brought down.

Lindsay— Flying wing, Waton; halves, Campbell, Wakelin, Kirley, quarter, McKee; snap, Graham; insides, Begley, Wilson; middles, Mordeo, Maunder; outsides, Blakely, Groselle; subs, Barker, Wright, Bailey, Dunk, Dickerson, Hodgson.

Referee, Chilcott, Toronto; umpire, Armstrong, Toronto.

Varsity Triumphs In DeGruchy Trophy Game

Coming onto the field with high hopes of overcoming the five-year "jinx" held over them by Varsity, the Balmy Beach football club were unsuccessful again in capturing the Reg. DeGruchy Memorial trophy which is contested for each year. The Beach team were fighting hard all the way but the Varsity kids, under Coach Warren Stevens, were much too good for them with their passing and kicking attacks. In the ABOVE picture the Balmy Beach squad are seen about 12 yards out from the Varsity goal line. Two Beach players, Irwin, No. 21 and Reynolds, No. 15 are both in on the play. Reynolds can be seen running over to assist one of his team-mates who has just tackled a Varsity player. The final score was 13-1 in favor of Varsity.

FIGURES SHOW YANKS SHOULD WIN THE SERIES

By PHIL WARWICK
Central Press Canadian Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—New York Yankees are going to win the World Series. That may be a bold statement but we intend to prove, by facts and figures, that it is logical.

The Yankees, who won the World Series last year when they defeated the New York Giants, are meeting the same team this fall with as strong, or maybe a stronger ball club. It is a well recognized fact that the Yankees have a "murderers' row" in that batting line-up; but the records also prove that their pitching is superior this year to that of the Giants.

Let's analyze the pitching records of the three ace hurlers on each club to date.

Giants	W.	L.	I.	H.	Pct.
Cliff Melton	18	9	234	206	.88
C. Hubbell	21	8	245	253	1.03
H. Schumacher	12	12	207	211	1.02
Yankees
V. Gomez	20	10	262	220	.84
C. Ruffing	18	7	238	230	.96
M. Pearson	8	2	129	128	.99

As can be seen from the record of the three leading hurlers on both teams, the Yankees have an edge.

Now let us deal with the pitchers who are likely to oppose each other in the series. Melton shall get the call to start in the first game against Gomez of the Yankees, and "Lefty" should hurl his team to victory in the first encounter. Melton, star though he is, is a rookie and lacks experience in World Series competition, while Gomez has seen action in three play-off games. Last year he started twice against the Giants and won both encounters.

The second game of the series will probably see Hubbell, Giants' screwball artist, opposing Ruffing. It is admitted that Carl is great, but the southpaw ace has slipped a little, while Ruffing, who reported a month after the season started, has pitched himself to 18 victories while losing only seven. Hubbell, you say, has won 21 games while losing only eight, but several of those wins were acquired in the role of a relief hurler. On the other hand, Ruffing has allowed less than one hit per inning during the season while Hubbell has been nicked for a fraction over one per inning. Thus we give Charlie of the Yankees, the call over "King Carlos" in the second game.

If Pearson can settle down and pitch consistent ball in the third game (providing he is called to the mound) he may cause Hal Schumacher to add another loss to his record, but should Monte be erratic, the Giants would make the standing read, Yankees 2, Giants 1 after the third encounter. The Giants seem to have a slight edge as far as relief hurling goes.

So much for the mound abilities of both clubs. Let us now look over the hitting power. The Yankees have Lou Gehrig, Joe DiMaggio, George Selkirk and Bill Dickey, all batting over the .300 mark. The Giants also have four sluggers who have been hitting over .300 this season but still not as high as the Yankee sluggers. They are Dick Bartell, Joe Moore, Sam Leslie and Jimmy Ripple. Below is a record of the batting averages of the four leading sluggers on both teams, up to the latter part of September.

Giants	G.	Ave.
Dick Bartell	61	.306
Joe Moore	55	.316
Sam Leslie	29	.303
Jimmy Ripple	58	.316
Yankees
Bill Dickey	130	.323
Lou Gehrig	147	.353
Joe DiMaggio	146	.345
George Selkirk	54	.327

From the records the Giants look to be batting at almost as good an average as their intra-city rivals but don't forget to note that the Giant players have not played in as many games as their rivals, and still the Yankees' batting average is higher.

Well folks, that's what the figures say and that is what we based our selection on. The Yankees to win in not more than six games with just a chance that the Giants will take only one.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

THE FASTEST game of 'em all is getting quite a rush these days and evenings at the "Y", up in the handball court. Quite a gang of guys go in for this great conditioner, many of 'em pucksters beginning to get in shape for the O.H.A. season. Handball has no peer in conditioning exercises, and the pro ballsters and hockeyists favor it muchly. Smacking that little rubber ball around the four walls and trying to return it on the first bounce will melt the avordupois just like the trees shed their leaves in October. Muscles on the arms, legs, shoulders and backs are toughened up fast, the wind is improved, and the eyes sharpened. You learn to look, think and act in a heck of a hurry—and you get a big kick out of the game itself. We used to like this game before a bad attack of ennui got us down.

AND ALREADY the gal basketballers are practising at the Y.W. gym. Though their season doesn't open till after the Christmas gifts are exchanged. Westclox, senior champs for lo, these many seasons, are at it now. Understand Whitty Thirnbeck is again coach. And the runners-up, C.G.E. seniors, start shortly, with Coach Jack Dundas at the helm. The Electrics won the junior title this year, and the damsels claim they'll take senior honors this winter. They came mighty close to it in the last playoff series.

SCRIBE WALSHE of Kingston says Joe Catlin is leaving for California to play hockey this winter, and Artso Partis will play in Toronto, where Hank Goldup is. The latter led Norvocs to the junior "B" crown last winter and is on the Toronto Leafs' list. May go pro in another year. These three guys will be recalled here as the local Colts tangled with 'em in junior O.H.A. playdowns for two seasons—one in which Goldup participated. They were mighty fine players. Catlin went fair for Queen's seniors in '37 but wasn't up to form most of the way. He appeared here last month with the Kingston Dukes when Westclox knocked 'em off in O.A.S.A. playdowns.

* * * * * * *

"IT IS hoped," says Walshe, "that Catlin, a splendid sportsman overcomes the mental hazard that seemed to spoil his good play last year. The new environment may be all that is needed to bring out his best and place him on a par with any senior star and candidate for top rank pro company. He has the natural ability. Good luck, Joey, but keep way from those movie sirens! Artso Partis son of Tom Partis who keeps Richardson Stadium and Jack Harty Arena in good repair, should make Toronto forget all about the famous midget mid-ice stars of former years. Partis is another edition of Shrimp McPherson and Shrimp McDougall, two outstanding pint-sized players who led junior teams to Candian championships."

AT A recent executive meeting of the City Carpetball League, it was decided to extend the closing date for entries to allow any other teams to hop aboard before the schedule opens in a couple of weeks time. There are nine entries in to date, two from the Sons of England, one Moose, two Orange Lodge, two St. Luke's and two St. John's. A number of others are expected to bring the list up to 16 teams. The proxy and secretary will check up on these possibilities. Those wanting in should look lively—they may get further information by phoning Secretary G. Groombridge at 3067. A lot of fun every winter in this carpetball circuit.

THINGS LOOK no brighter now than a foot up a stove pipe for the Oshawa GM-men, following their 3-2 loss at home at the hands of Toronto Grads on Saturday. A crowd of 3,000 saw the Grads shove over three runs in the second and then hold down the homesters in a dandy tussle. Biddle hurled nifty ball after the second, but 'twas too late as Toronto players gave Smokey Smith fine backing. The GM-men didn't hit in the clutches, though Foley had a triple, double and two singles in a grand effort with the wagon tongue. Rowden hit a homer and two singles. One more win for the Grads will give 'em the title, but we think Oshawa should get to Rasson on Wednesday in the Queen City. Though it is just a tossup.

COBOURG'S GALLOPING Ghosts muffled the Blue Bombers with a 17-0 haunting job in Lindsay on Saturday in an O.R.F.U. intermediate game. The result leaves Orfuns on top of the group, being the only undefeated team to date. Meikle, the Toronto import, kicked 12 of the Cobourg points in a beautiful booting display that broke the hearts of the Scugog squad. The big Lakeshore lads gained ground at will, as Lindsay failed to show their best form. The Speedy Spirits—or is it Past Phantoms?—spooked around the gridiron so impressively that followers of the Blew Bombers promptly called the Ghosts to win the group with or without their white shrouds. So the Orfuns might as well fold up for the season, what? At that, the Cobourgites have more class than a stream-lined siren on the make.

IN AN exhibition senior school rugby game, Cobourg Collegians copped a 12-0 chuckle over Bowmanville High on the former's grounds. Lucas and Blastorah—who played junior ball 'gainst our Rotarians this year—had a touchdown each. Just last week we quoted a piece from the Bowmanville paper stating that Cobourg and Port Hope were afraid of Bowmanville and insisted that the latter be grouped with Oshawa and our P.C.I. teams. But the Oshawa scribe remarked since then that this statement was all wet on the part of the Rubbertown writer and that the Bowmanville grid delegate to the annual meeting had elected to place his team in the "A" grouping. This delegate was chosen secretary for the group.

HITHER AND yawn: Dominion Brewers, Oshawa and British Consols have all dropped out of the T. and Y. mercantile puck loop . . . . Two Oshawa rugby teams open against P.C.I. squads here next Sat'day . . . . Orfuns go to Lindsay and Eastsides to Cobourg a week from today . . . . The St. John's Men's Club start their fall meetings tonight at eight; annual session will be Oct. 22nd . . . . Rowden booted two and Hurst and Bennett one each as the GM-men fell before the Grads on Saturday . . . . Groselle looked best for the Bombers as Lindsay took a whitewashing at the hands of Cobourg . . . . Ken Graham, Jim Ellis, Eddie Starr and Doug Mowry, left last night to see the world's series in N'Yawk . . . . Trenton Pilers and Kingston Garrisons clash in rugby at the airport on Wednesday . . . . A fellow was telling us the other day that there is some sort of an election Wednesday among the Liberals, Conservatives and C.C.F.—ought to be something in the papers about it, we suppose.

NEWARK BEARS EXTEND SERIES WITH 8-1 WIN

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 4.—(AP).—Newark Bears, champions of the International League, combined 11 hits with five Columbus errors Saturday night to defeat the Redbirds, 8 to 1, in the fourth game of the little world series. It was Newark's first win in four starts.

Joe Beggs, who won twenty-one and lost four for Newark during the regular season, kept the Birds under control all the way, allowing but eight hits and one unearned run.

Blanker Bill McGee started on the hill for the Birds and lasted until the sixth when a four-hit, four-run barrage drove him to cover. Potter came in for 1 2-3 innings before giving way to a pinch-runner, and Ed Heusser finished.

Leads Newark Attack.

Gleeson, left fielder, and Keller, right fielder, led the Newark attack with three hits in four attempts, each getting a double and two singles. Dick Siebert, first sacker, was the only Redbird to get more than one hit.

Two double plays snuffed out Columbus rallies to help Beggs out of two of the few holes he got into.

Columbus lost more than the ball game and a chance to sweep the series for Field Captain Jimmy Jordan, second baseman, suffered a fractured right leg in the eighth, as Catcher Hershberger collided with him on a force play at second.

Blastorah's touch in the third period completed Cobourg's score.

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.— (AP). — Seems the Giants and Yanks just can't wait.... Right now they're embroiled in an all-star warfare as they'll stage starting Wednesday.... All over hotel rooms, too.... For two years several members of the Yanks, including Frank Crosetti and Joe Di Maggio have made their New York homes at a hotel, hard by Central Park (where Jimmy Braddock headquarters).... With the opening of schools last month, 14 Giants (Mel Ott among them) holed in at the same inn.... Somebody has got to move, for if there is anything Judge Landis' rules it is for players on opposing World's Series teams to stop at the same hotel.... Both sides refuse to evacuate.... So what, Judge?

Brothers, it was quite a football day.... Minnesota getting its bumps was the big news of course.... (And what a way for good old Biff Jones to break in at Nebraska?).... If Minneapolis and St. Paul papers hadn't had their own war correspondents at Lincoln they never would have believed what happened....

Looks like Howard Jones will have to postpone Southern California's comeback for another year.... Army gave Columbia, Notre Dame, et al. something to think about with its clean cut win over Clemson which is plenty tough.

Chicago Cubs Lost Chance When Rip Collins Taken Out Of Lineup

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—(CP)— The 1937 major league season is a matter of history, with only world series chapter still to be written, but up and down the big time a lot of the things that happened in the last 6½ months won't be forgotten in a hurry.

Aside from little old New York's second-straight championship monopoly, the developments that seem standouts as you look back over the campaign were its success from a financial viewpoint, the big epidemic of injuries that hit every club in both loops, the big surprise that was pulled out of the hat by the Boston Bees and the high-class wallooping of Ducky Medwick and Joe DiMaggio.

Blow to Chicago Cubs.

Their neighbors across the Harlem, the Giants, found the going tougher, but once they climbed into the saddle, there was no stopping them. This became particularly apparent when the last of a long series of injuries deprived the Chicago Cubs of the first baseman, Rip Collins, in early August, definitely confining the Cubs to second place. The Giants wound up with a 4-1 win over their best-hated pals, the Brooklyn Dodgers, yesterday.

An injury also took whatever fight there was in the Detroit Tigers. When an accidental baseball fractured Mickey Cochrane's skull and removed him permanently from the playing scene, a large part of the Tiger strength was gone.

Otherwise, the fine showing of Jimmy Dykes' Chicago White Sox in upsetting the dope by winding up third in the American League, finishing with a 2-0, 7-2 doubleheader win over the last-place Browns yesterday, stood out in the American League.

Bees Turn Tables

But the major job of fooling the experts was turned in by the Boston Bees and Manager Bill McKechnie. Rated a seventh or eighth place outfit, they finished just a game out of fourth place on the strength of two 20-game pitching rookies, Lou Fette, who hit the 20-mark yesterday with a 6-0 shutout over the Phillies, and Jim Turner.

The National League cellar was "won" by the year's biggest bust, Cincinnati Reds, who absorbed a 4-3, 4-0 twin defeat at the hands of the Pirates yesterday, winding up the nightmare their pre-season dream had become. The double win marked the 21st victory the Bucs scored over the Reds during the year, equalling a major league record.

The Cardinals, minus Dizzy Dean who was of no use after having a hand in the National League's loss to the American Laguers in the all-star game, just made third place, dropping their finale to the Cubs 6-4.

"Gold Flops" of Year.

Boston's Red Sox again were the "gold flops" for Tom Yawkey and finished fifth. Their finale was a 6-1 beating at the hands of the Yanks yesterday, featuring Joe DiMaggio's homer with the bases loaded.

Cleveland's Indians again were a disappointment and rode in with fourth place, John Allen, who had won 15 straight since recovering from illness, dropped the season's windup, 1-0, yesterday to the one-hit pitching of Jake Wade for the Tigers.

Washington's Senators and the Athletics, neither of which was ever in the race, split their last doubleheader, the A's taking the first game, 5-4 and losing the second 4-3.

University Of Toronto Humbles Beaches 13-1 In Football Surprise

Ottawa Earns 28-6 Win Over Tricolor—Imperials Defeat Mustangs

TORONTO, Oct. 4 (CP). — Step briskly down the cellar steps, with your trusty football form chart ready for marking, and move to a twilight spot over behind the furnace. You won't be able to see clearly there. Figures taken from gridiron scoreboards of the east will be muddled. Now you're ready to pick the winners.

It might be just as well to throw the form chart right in the furnace to start with, because what took place in the pre-schedule programs Saturday and the Saturday before that is mystifying and indicative only of one or two things. There will be a scramble for titles, to be sure.

Surprise of The Day.

Topping all the reburns of Saturday was University of Toronto's 13-1 conquest of Toronto's O.R.F.U. team, Balmy Beach. The Varsity team, being rebuilt by Warren Stevens, was not considered ready to hit the high spots this year. And the Beaches had beaten Montreal Indians.

Over at London the real Intercollegiate Union favorites, University of Western Ontario Mustangs, unloosed only spasmodic gasps of protests in succumbing to Sarnia's mighty Imperials. The score was 28-1. The Sarnia machine rolled over the Mustangs for four touchdowns, a field goal and assorted singles.

The Toronto triumph and Western's one-sided defeat might have made the Blues favorites had not McGill Redmen rushed into the picture with a 12-3 victory over Royal Military College Intermediates at Montreal. For the first time in years the Redmen demonstrated ability to carry the ball on the ground for decisive gains.

The other college contender, Queen's, bowed to Ottawa Roughriders, defending Big Four champions, 28-6, at Ottawa. If the tricolor and Coach Ted Reeve didn't feel this afront too deeply it was because Queen's played without Johnny Munro, around whom the backfield is built.

Panthers Beaten.

Hamilton Panthers, warming up for their coming O.R.F.U. appointments with Sarnia and Balmy Beach, suffered a terrific shock at Dundas where the Bombers put over two fourth-quarter touchdowns and won 15-4. An intermediate team, Dundas had the fire that the Panthers lacked.

Out of the series of events emerged two facts—any one of four teams has a chance to win the Intercollegiate title, and the Big Four crown is just as likely to stay in Ottawa another year as it is to be taken by Hamilton Tigers, Toronto Argonauts or Montreal Indians.

When Union schedules open Saturday, Balmy Beach will carry the biggest question mark. The Beaches lost to Ottawa, won from Montreal and then lost to University of Toronto. On this basis they may surprise the football world by beating Sarnia—or they may provide no real competition at all.

Leads Toronto Students.

Cam Gray, brilliant all-around halfback from Sarnia, led the Toronto students to their upset triumph. Gray kicked two field goals from placement, converted a touchdown and kicked a single for eight of the 13 points. Varsity blocked a Beach kick for the only touchdown.

Sarnia's win over the Western Mustangs was in order but the Imperials ran into surprisingly mild opposition. They scored a touchdown in each period, crushing the Mustangs all the way as they moved behind Hugh Stirling's superlative punting.

McGill whipped R. M. C. on the ground with Andy Anton and Cam MacArthur contributing the best plunging. The Redmen marched 65 yards, scoring first downs on the way, for their second touchdown. Jack Rowland's kicking was the chief R.M.C. obstacle to be overcome.

Orville Burke, one of the better Canadian-bred forward passers, contributed one scoring pass toward Ottawa's win over Queen's, and threw another to Stan O'Neil which put the ball two yards out. It resulted in a touchdown.

Terriers Will Meet Pats In First Game

WINNIPEG, Oct. 4 (CP).—Orillia Terriers tonight face the first of two obstacles they must hurdle to join New Westminster Salmonbellies in the Canadian box lacrosse final.

Terriers, national champions for three years, tackle Elmwood Pats of Winnipeg in a sudden-death game for the right to journey on to High River, Alta., where Calgary Rangers are the next opposition. The Canadian finals for the Mann Cup will be played at Vancouver and New Westminster.

NEBRASKA THROWS U.S. RUGBY UPSET

NEW YORK, Oct. 4, (A.P.). — Standing out in bold relief to-day after a "Black Saturday" of frenzied play that left experts of United States football groggy and reeling were the all but incredible performances of Nebraska's cornhuskers and Cornell's big red stalwarts.

It seems premature to say so, but it is doubtful if the current season will witness any upset to compare with Nebraska's astonishing 14-9 conquest of Minnesota.

Hailed in some quarters as unbeatable the Gophers overcame an early Cornhusker field goal lead in the fourth quarter, but the aroused Nebraskans smashed right back to score the winning touchdown, on Harris Andrews' bullet pass to Bill Callahan.

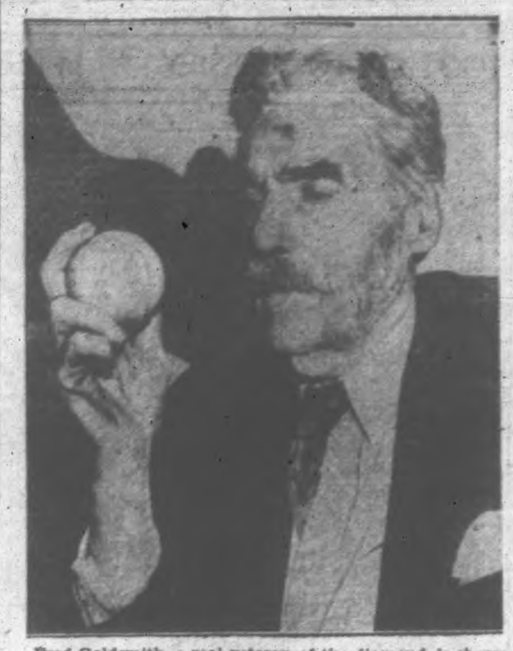
As for Cornell, veteran football reporters had to hark back to the Kaw-Pfann days for comparisons after watching the Ithacans shell Colgate into submission, 40-7. This was supposed to be one Andy Kerr's best college teams, but it was simply overwhelmed by the hard-charging Cornell line and bewildered by the ball-carrying and passing operations of Brud Holland, big negro end, who scored three touchdowns. George Peck, best of the big red's running backs, and White Baker, crack sophomore passing find.

Remember When—

(By The Canadian Press)

"The Big Train" of baseball, Walter Johnson, was "fired" at the expiration of his four-year managerial contract with Washington Senators five years ago today. Former pitcher with the Senators, he had led the American League twirlers three times before signing as manager.

Introduced The Curve Ball



Fred Goldsmith, a real veteran of the diamond, is shown as he demonstrated how he threw the first curve ball originated by him, which surprised the initial "victim" by coming in wide and breaking right across the plate. Goldsmith, as a member of the Chicago White Stockings, pitched the first world series game held between his team and the Cincinnati Red Stockings in 1882. Incidentally, he also claims he played for London, Ont., Tecumsehs back in 1876 and the next year he hurled them to the International association pennant, beating the Guelph Maple Leafs.

Electrics Gain 3-0 Verdict In Tight Soccer Tussle

Captain Ben McMaster accepted possession of the Father Phelan Charity Cup on Saturday afternoon on behalf of the Canadian General Soccer Club, after they had defeated the Canada Packers in the replay game by the score of three goals to none. Jack Chamberlain was the outstanding performer through his spectacular work in the nets against the losers' deadly shots on goal. Both full backs were excellent, but the honor in that department goes to Newt Downer, who deserves credit for his sportsmanship throughout the game. On the day's play the winners had the edge, and the brothers Mitchell—three of them—played a prominent part.

Packers Control Opening.

The opening exchanges were in favor of the Packers as they settled down to a constructive policy of half-back and forward understanding that the C.G.E. full backs couldn't interpretate but finally MacKenzie and J. Mitchell solved the solution by replying with first-time clearances that proved beneficial to the Electrics' forwards; although twice George Downer accepted timely passes up the centre from Buchan and made a bee-line for Chamberlain's charge to be bumped in the act of scoring. From the goal kick McPhate carried the ball down the wing to shoot the ball right in front of the Packers' citadel where Keith skimmed the cross-bar with a lightning drive. Exchanges continued even for a while until Alexander Mitchell initiated a movement that McMaster manipulated to miss the far upright. Quick as a flash, Jones transferred the play to the other end where Chamberlain made a spectacular save from the foot of Harris and G. Downer from close range. Again the latter came into the limelight with an individual effort right through the centre and an open goal in front of him, but Jimmy Mitchell overcame him to touch the ball right off his toe. On midfield play Earl got the better of any tackle to keep feeding his forwards that brought out the superb tactics of Newt Downer and F. Todd on the Packers' defence that had the Electrics' attack shooting wide of the mark. But on a break away by McPhate, on the left wing, Sandy Ross gathered up a perfect cross to swing the ball into the vacant net away from the custodian. Offside and free-kicks predominated the play up to the interval. Half-time: Canadian General 1, Canada Packers 0.

C.G.E. Outplay Packers.

The second half, with greater aggressiveness than ever, opened up at a terrific pace with Harris skimming the cross-bar with a left-foot drive. This was followed up by Buchan connecting with a forceful shot that missed the upright. MacKenzie repeatedly broke up the attack to send his men away to the other end to find the Packers' full backs unbeatable. The game ran from end to end until Earl broke up the combination attack of the packers to finish his play with a smashing drive from twenty yards out that the custodian pulled down from under the bar. On the next visit, from a Keith pass from the wing Earl again missed by inches, but he was not the only one because Stan. Clark rattled the cross-bar with a smashing drive. A free kick was awarded the Packers, Newt Downer sending a long drive into goal which Chamberlain gathered up in the nick of time as Buchan attempted to connect on a nice play. Within the last fifteen minutes of play Clark went into centre to connect with a left footer that hit the inside of the upright for number two. The Packers replied with a steady pressure to conclude their performance when G. Downer tested Chamberlain goalie with a terrific shot he saved amidst applause — a great save and a great shot. With only ten minutes to go the losers put on one of their never-say-die attacks that brought naught. Jimmy Mitchell broke up an attack to send his brother Kenneth away on the wing and he in turn passed the ball to brother Alexander, who sent an oblique shot into goal. Stan. Clark got bumped hard as the ball dropped from the air, but he got his foot on the ball to register the third tally. The losers put up a brilliant battle up to the finish. Canadian General

Pass Receiver Must Learn To Evade Opponents After Catching The Ball

By LEW HAYMAN

Coach Toronto Argonauts Football Club

RECEIVING A PASS

In the accompanying picture observe the body is just slightly turned, the arms outstretched with the outside hand a bit higher than the inside. The eyes at all times are concentrated on the ball. Fingers and wrists are loose.

Upon receiving a pass, one should always be slightly relaxed — never allow yourself, particularly your hand and fingers, to stiffen.

Once you sight the ball, concentrate and follow it with your eyes until the catch is completed.

You receive the ball in your hands, with the touch mostly in your fingers, drawing it towards your body as contact is made. Don't fight the ball, allow your arms to give easily, and when the catch is safely made, tuck the ball under the arm that is away from the possible tackler, leaving the open hand for a straight arm.

High passes are usually caught over the shoulder and in full stride, no time being lost in catching the ball. Do not turn the body too much, as it shortens your stride and tends to throw you off balance.

Short passes when caught after a sudden break may be taken from the side, particularly if the pass is low. In either case the hands meet the ball first and not the body.

Ways for a Receiver to Get Free and In the Open.

One may know how to catch a pass, but unless he can shake the opponent who is covering him, his ability to receive will not do him any good. Here are a few methods employed by clever receivers:

1—Change of Pace.

(a) Run straight at opponent at ordinary speed, and just as he is about to cover you, add an extra burst of speed, simply out-running him before he has a chance to pick you up. This is used mostly by speedy men on long passes.

2—The Quick Stop.

(a) Dash straight at the defensive secondary or tertiary, stop quickly, retrace a few steps in a hurry and then prepare to catch a fast low pass. This is used mostly to gain a few yards or is sometimes followed by a lateral.

3—The Quick Break.

RECEIVING A HIGH PASS.

4—Delay Pass—Decoy.

(a) Send decoys at a given defensive man or men, drawing them out of position. The intended receiver blocks momentarily and then goes into the territory out of which the defensive man has been decoyed.

(b) All decoys are possible receivers, therefore they should be ready to receive the pass.

(c) Decoys must act the same as if they were the intended receiver, otherwise the plan of getting a man in the open is wasted.

(d) Run fast but always have an extra burst of speed left in case of the passer overpassing you. Also at times you may need it to outrun the man covering you.

1—A Great Threat.

(a) Keeps the defence back, helping your running attack to function.

2—A Good Ground Gainer.

3—A Touchdown Maker.

(a) Most teams when behind and with a poor running attack can gamble on passes (long and short) which, if successful, mean long gains, whereas, if unsuccessful, merely mean the loss of a down.

The better the passer and receiver the longer the gain, the smaller the gamble.

Monday—Running.

IN MEMORIAM

STEPHENS.—In loving memory of our dear Mother, Beatrice Stephens, who departed this life four years ago, October 4, 1933.

One beautiful eve at the close of day
A voice was calling that seemed to say:
"Ye that are weary, come home and rest;
Lay down your head upon my breast;
Come follow Me, and I will guide
Thy footsteps on the Jordan side."
Our dear Mother heard the sweet command
And gently took the Saviour's hand.

MATHEWS.—In loving memory of Joseph Mathews, who died October 5, 1936.

We do not forget him, nor do we intend;
We think of him daily, and will to the end.
We mourn him in silence, in sorrow unseen,
And dwell on the memories of days that have been.
Fond were the ties that are broken,

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. S. W. Willis and Family wish to express sincere thanks for the many floral tributes and kind expressions of sympathy received during their recent bereavement.

Dear was the Dad that has gone,
In memory we ever shall keep him
As long as the years roll on.
—Ever remembered by Wife and Family.

STEPHENS.—In loving memory of our dear Mother, Mrs. Beatrice Stephens, who departed this life October 4, 1933.

Days of sadness still come o'er us.
Tears in silence often flow,
For memory keeps you ever near us
Though you died four years ago.
We cannot forget you, our Mother so dear,
Your memory grows sweeter year after year.
You cannot return, so tears are in vain,
But in Heaven we hope to meet you again.
—Sadly missed by the Girls.

Entry Date Extended Carpetball League

At an executive meeting of the City Carpetball League, the officers decided to extend the closing date for entries. The schedule will open in the week of Oct. 18th, and to date there are nine clubs in, as follows: Sons of England, two; Moose, one; Orangé Lodge, two; St. Luke's, two; St. John's, two. It was reported also that there would be two or three from the Fire Hall, two from the Canadian Legion, one from the W.O.W., and possibly others, but nothing definite has been heard yet from these.

It is expected that 16 entries will face the barrier, and the president and secretary have been appointed to check up on these teams. Any club or organization wishing to enter and desiring information in league activities may secure the same by phoning Secretary G. Groombridge at 3067. All entries should be sent in right away.

Campbellford Club Tied With Trenton

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 4. — Winning the ladies' doubles event from the Orchard Club in Trenton on Saturday, the Campbellford Club is now tied with Trenton in the play-off series which it is expected will be ended with the playing of five sudden death events on neutral courts, probably in Belleville, on October 6. The local entered Saturday's game one event down, having lost two out of three events at Point Anne last Wednesday, where they took the first men's doubles event and lost the second men's doubles and the first mixed doubles. Mrs. C. Weston and Miss V. Weston defeated Miss Eileen Fillon and Miss Margaret Bowen in two sets on Saturday afternoon by a score of 7-5, 6-1, which tied up the series.

CITY LEAGUE BOWLING.

A general meeting of the City 5-Pin Bowling League will be held tomorrow (Tuesday) night at 7.30 in Duffus', and those interested are invited. All entries must be in at this time as the league schedule will be drawn up shortly for the winter. There were 16 teams in last year, but President G. Gimblett states this will be cut down for the current year.

BUFFING THE DECLARER

IF YOU KNOW the declarer had only four trumps with three opposite them, and you have made him use up one in ruffing, you have him in a bad spot, especially if you can read your partner as having a holding of four. You do not under any circumstances then wish to make your partner ruff and shorten his holding. It is better to make the declarer ruff again and thus maybe kill his entire hopes.

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

Here South had bid 1-Diamond, North 1-No Trump, South 2-Spades, North 2-No Trumps and South 3-Hearts, thus showing a 5-4-4 distribution. Even though North now knew the diamond suit was the best supported, he shifted to 4-Spades, preferring the more risky trump because the game contract was one level lower in the major.

The club lead was ruffed by South and a diamond offered. West let this go to the queen, but took the jack with his ace and led a third one, so his partner could ruff. That enabled the declarer to make his contract. South ruffed the next club, took in his two high trumps, led the heart jack to the queen and ace, dropped the last hostile trump with the queen and ran the remaining diamonds.

Had West waited for a third diamond lead, then led a second club for declarer to ruff, East's long trump followed by clubs would have beaten the contract.

DEAD RECKONING

BY BRUCE HAMILTON

READ THIS FIRST:

Tim Kennedy has been writing a suicide note to himself in his wife's handwriting.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 2

Tim looked out of the French windows on to the lawn, and saw that Esther was safely established in a deck chair with the Sunday paper. He rose, thrust the papers into a drawer, and locked it, slipping the key into his pocket. . . .

He was back again in two minutes, with Esther's pen, two or three sheets of her own paper with an envelope matching it, and a pair of thin rubber gloves which he had got from his own room. Then he unlocked the drawer again, took out the contents, and put on his rubber gloves. They felt a little awkward at first, but after a few minutes' practice, he was satisfied that they did not impair his dexterity.

For the next half-hour he worked steadily, folding the model over as he proceeded, and pausing at the end of every line to rest his hand. For all that his wrist was aching by the time he finished. But it was worth it. He looked at the letter and saw that it was good. It would be impossible for anyone to imagine that it had not been written by Esther's own hand.

He looked out of the window dreamily for a few minutes. He was not going to permit himself any premature exultation; it was necessary to key his mood to something quite different. But it was impossible to restrain altogether the excitement rising within him. By this time tomorrow it would be over. A month or two of assumed grief and decent gravity: then he would be free to pursue his heart's desire. And he had no doubt of the success of his quest.

He took up the envelope, and wrote upon it, with the same meticulous care, one word—TIM. Then he put the letter in the envelope, and had just sealed it up when there came a knock on the door.

Without undue haste, he slipped off the gloves and thrust them, together with the papers he had been working on, into one of the pockets of his Norfolk coat, fastening the leather button over it. Then he called out "Come in!" and when Adams entered he had started a letter to a London hotel, booking a double room for the following Friday night.

"Well, what is it, Adams?" he asked, without looking up.

"There's a man to see you, sir—a policeman."

His heart stood still. In an aphasia lasting a full minute, he could only look down on the sheet of note paper before him, contemplating blankly the meaningless characters he had written thereon.

"Shall I tell him you're busy, sir?" said Adams at last.

"Did you say a policeman, Adams?"

"Yes, sir."

"I wonder what he wants."

"Sports, eh?" He began to come back to life. This was ridiculous—he would have to face something more formidable than a village policeman presently. But the thing had been timed so curiously.

"Of course. . . ." His voice rose to a note of gaiety. "Well, they'll have to do without us this time, eh, Adams? Mrs. Kennedy and I will be on the high seas on Saturday, won't we?"

"Yes, sir," replied Adams, at attention.

"Yes, sir. Thank you sir."

"Tell him I'll be along in a minute. . . ." The aftermath of shock remained. But in the surge of relief he knew not what his spirits ran high, and he talked to the policeman pleasantly for five minutes. By the time he had finished it was close on the lunch hour. He replaced Esther's pen and note paper, and as it seemed to be getting hotter all the time, he went to his room and changed his heavy Norfolk jacket for a light one of gray alpaca.

He had been at the table five minutes, talking with an easy gaiety of the coming holiday, before he remembered, with a sensation of sickly panic, that he had left everything in the pocket of the Norfolk jacket. Prudence told him to sit tight till lunch was over; but he could not wait. He made an excuse and almost ran upstairs. His heart was thudding as he undid the button and pulled out the papers. It was all right: they had clearly not been disturbed. But he was very quiet during the rest of the meal.

Directly it was over he strolled out into the orchard, made a bonfire of garden refuse, and put the papers on it—Esther's notes, his own experiments in forgery, and the final model. He did not stir from the bonfire until they had all been consumed, and then he ground the ashes with his shoe. Only the essential letter was spared, and he was now afraid of keeping it about his person. So he went to the library and locked it safely away in the drawer.

Tim had graduated into homicide from the school of armchair murderers.

The fact is exceptional enough to be worthy of record, for this class of people, nearly always recruited from the middle station of life, is habitually taken with so little seriousness as a potential menace to society that it is considered safe to indulge and even pamper it. It is given fairy tales in the form of the detective story. History is provided through the medium of lengthy reports of trails and inquests, and for those of a scientific bent, instruction in technique is made available by books on "criminology" and manuals of medical jurisprudence. . . . And the indulgence, save for about one case in 10 million, is abundantly justified. The middle class, taken as a whole, lacks the toughness required for murder. It is frequently strong in imagination, but fearful of any action that has not the sanction of class tradition. Besides, it is squeamish about electrocution. . . . There are many who brood wistfully on the benefits that would accrue from the removal here of a redundant wealthy uncle, there of a superfluous husband or wife, who has enslaved their soul. But give them an overwhelming motive, a golden opportunity, and a virtual guarantee against detection, and they will hold back. If fundamental humanity does not restrain them, fear will. In the last issue, they know their musings for what they are—the poetry of the respectable.

Nevertheless, society sometimes throws up a "sport"—a rare being able to cast off the shackles of tradition and inhibition, who will regard the most dreadful of crimes as preferable to the loss of conventional good opinion and the economic consequences it entails. Then you get the true middle-class murdered, a figure of awful menace and awful fascination. Most frequently the subject has always had a screw loose somewhere—a streak of congenital depravity. Less common is the type, normally of pacific and unassuming disposition, who sets, however, a definite limit to what he is prepared to endure, and once that limit is passed will hazard everything, disgrace, and even death, to relieve himself of the burden. To this type it seems that Tim Kennedy belongs.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S CIDER

Baby Bunty, the little orphan rabbit, hopped so fast from Uncle Wiggily's orchard into the hollow stump bungalow one day that she bumped her cute, little twinkling pink nose.

"Owchie wowchie!" cried Bunty.

"My dear," said Uncle Wiggily kindly, "you shouldn't hop so fast."

"But Unkie Wig," said the orphan rabbit, "I was in a hurry to tell you."

"Tell me what, Bunty?" asked Mr. Longears. "I hope you aren't going to tell me any Bad Chaps are in my apple orchard."

"No, Unkie Wig," said Bunty, using all the baby talk words she was allowed—just those two—"no, I didn't see any Bad Chaps, but there are a lot of bees and wasps on the smashed apples that are on the ground. What are they doing?"

Cider Hunters.

"I think the bees and wasps must be getting honey and cider out of the ripe apples," said Mr. Longears.

"What's cider asked Baby Bunty. "I know what honey is for I have had some. But what is cider?"

"Cider," said Uncle Wiggily, trying not to speak too much like the Lady Mouse Teacher of the Hollow Tree School, "cider is the sweet juice pressed out of apples."

"Could you make some cider, Unkie Wig?" asked Bunty.

"I think perhaps I could, although I have no cider press," answered the rabbit gentleman.

"What's a cider press?" asked the orphan rabbit.

"Well, it's a sort of clothes wringer and a coffee grinder made into one," said Mr. Longears. "The apples are ground up or chopped fine like mincemeat or hash and then they are put in a press and the juice is squeezed out. That juice is cider."

"Oh, please make some!" begged Baby Bunty.

"I'll try," said Uncle Wiggily. "You call some of the animal boys and girls to gather apples off the ground and I'll set up a little cider mill."

Calls Others In.

Baby Bunty skipped over the fields and through the woods and soon a number of rabbits, puppies, pussies and little pigs were gathering apples in Uncle Wiggily's orchard.

"That's enough!" said Mr. Longears. "Now we must chop or grind up the apples so they will let their juice run out easily when I begin to crush them."

"How are you going to chop them?" asked Peetie Bow Wow.

"In Nurse Jane's chopping bowl," said Mr. Longears.

"And how are you going to crush the chopped apples?" asked Peetie.

"In a cider press I am going to make," said Uncle Wiggily.

He put the chopped apples in a clean burlap bag and put the bag of apple pulp into a large basket. He set the basket up on an old flower stand and then, on top of the bag of pulp, in the basket, Mr. Longears placed several large, heavy stones.

"Look! Look!" cried Baby Bunty, pointing to some brown juice that ran out through holes in the basket and dripped into a pitcher beneath. "Look, Unkie Wig! What's that?"

"Cider," said the rabbit gentleman. "Soon there will be enough so you may drink the sweet apple juice."

"Oh, what fun!" cried Baby Bunty. She didn't know what was going to happen next. But you shall hear about it in the story after this. It will be about Uncle Wiggily's cider trap. But please don't let the chocolate drop fall on its nose and flatten itself into a cocoanut pancake.

OFFICERS' RALLY HEARS MRS. HAYES AT LAKEFIELD

TRENT RIVER, Oct. 4. — The District Officers Rally of East Peterborough Women's Institutes was held in the Lakefield Community Hall at Lakefield on Wednesday September 29.

The morning session opened with the Institute Ode, followed by the Lord's Prayer.

Mrs. Lean of Apsley, district president, occupied the chair.

Mrs. Hayes of Georgetown, the guest speaker, was then introduced by the president and in a most efficient manner conducted marvellous discussions in the forenoon on finance and expenditures, and in the afternoon on parliamentary procedure, illustrating her work by means of the blackboard.

Her knowledge of the subjects discussed was thorough, and she most ably taught and explained to the officers present all difficulties likely to be encountered during the year's program.

Mrs. Hayes said that the branches should think twice before sending money to benefit other organizations, by all means to spend it at home. "Charity begins at home", and she strongly discouraged the selling of tickets as a means of raising funds in the branches.

Good books and magazines bought by the branches and distributed among the members were very helpful.

After adjournment of the morning session a delightful cafeteria lunch was in readiness through the kindly efforts of the Lakefield ladies.

Afternoon Session

In the opening afternoon session Miss Doris Scott of Trent River was appointed press reporter for the meeting. It was also suggested a collection be taken up to be used in assisting the unfortunate family of Lakefield which lost its home through fire during the forenoon. Over five dollars was realized.

Mrs. Hayes again resumed her discussions following along the line of parliamentary procedure under the following headings she drew attention of the audience to proper form of conducting meetings in the branches and district.

1. Only one subject may be dealt with at a time.
2. Every proposal that comes up for consideration is entitled to full and free discussion.
3. The rights of all members are equal.
4. The will of the majority must be obeyed and rights of minority preserved.
5. All deliberations should be directed to the best interest of the group as a whole.

Mrs. Hayes, carefully outlined the necessity of correct form again in nominations and elections, emphasizing the fact that the Women's Institute has reached a high standard among other organizations and must retain its prominence through its perfect procedure, giving a favourite quotation in explanation "Laxity of procedure is antagonistic to the successful prosecution of business."

The roll call was then called with 9 branches represented, including about sixty-five persons in attendance.

Jap Tailors Fight Patchet Pants Idea

Tokio, Oct. 4 (AP).

FIFTY Japanese tailors rushed into the offices of the Finance Ministry today to denounce the Government's recent policy of "honorable shabbiness" as a "patched pants" campaign.

Hammering on the desk of Vice-Minister Sotaro Ishiwatari, they shouted, "We have to live, too." Ishiwatari sighed in sympathy, but gave no assurance.

A group of prominent Japanese officials have announced intention to wear old clothes as an economy measure to aid in prosecuting the conflict with China.

Germany has ordered an increase of pay for all men sailing in German merchant ships.

So He Ran For His Gun, And—

Because a Catholic priest at Orchard Beach, Me., is a "dead shot" with the rifle, Al Mingalone, newsreel cameraman, is alive today. Mingalone, who went aloft with a cluster of hydrogen-filled balloons to "shoot" pictures from a "balloonist's point of view," was being carried away when Father James J. Mullen saw his plight and punctured two of the balloons, allowing Mingalone to descend to earth 13 miles from his starting point. A safety line, anchoring Mingalone to the ground, snapped in a squall, carrying the cameraman away. (P.S.) Mingalone failed to get his pictures—he dropped his camera during the squall. The photograph above shows Mingalone being carried aloft by the balloons while the artist depicts the priest shooting the balloons.

Acts Newspaper By Day, Watchman At Night In Centuries-Old Custom

By Edward J. Neil
(Associated Press Foreign Staff.)

With the insurgent army, Northern Spain, Oct. 4—(AP).—Late at night in the little towns behind the front, you sometimes hear this faint cry drifting in through the windows of wherever you've managed to find yourself a bed....

"Ave Maria Purissimi....Las Doce Media Y Sereno...."

It's the call of the "pregonero," watchman over the town by night, town crier by day. As he walks the cobblestones he's saying "Hail to Mary most pure....It's half past 12 and the weather is calm...."

He's a centuries-old custom in Spain, the "pregonero," and he's the particular friend of the farmer. If the weather clouds at night, the cry rings out "nublado." And if it should start to rain—"Lloviendo"—the farmer can sink into deep rest, knowing he won't have to get up with that dawn.

News From the Mayor.

During the day the pregonero takes the place of newspapers in the towns where people aren't adept at reading, or where the papers never penetrate. He gets his news from the Alcalde, the Mayor. He stalks importantly to the main square, usually wearing a long cloak, a black hat, carrying a stick with a lance at the end of it. By night there's a lantern in place of the lance.

His assistant beats a drum, or rings a bell. The townspeople gather. In stentorian tones he rolls off the happenings of the moment.

And like any newspaper, he has his advertising section upon which he depends for his chief revenue. For a small sum, for which you get so many daily announcements, he sings out that there will be a sale of sheep on this or that farm. He describes furniture for sale, sings of lost cattle, announces births and deaths.

BANCROFT

Mr. and Mrs. Blatherwick of Madawaska are guests of their son, Mr. Reg. Blatherwick.

Miss Gertrude George of the teaching staff of Chapleau Public School is in town with her mother, who is seriously ill in the Red Cross Hospital here.

Mrs. Victoria Bruce has returned to her home in town following an extended visit with relatives in Belleville and Toronto.

Mr. Joseph Freeman of Baptiste left Saturday for a two weeks' vacation at his home near Belleville.

Misses Nellie Coe and Nellie Fitzgerald have returned to their homes near Bird's Creek after spending a few days in Peterborough.

Miss Mary Fitzgerald of Cheddar spent the week-end in town the guest of her cousin, Miss Loretta Fitzgerald.

Where They Get 'Em

TRENT RIVER.—Messrs. Sammie Hayes, Robert Forde, Chas. Mellish left Saturday for Warren, Ohio, after two weeks at Tay-Kit-Eze. During the past week they were successful in landing 12 muskies averaging 8 pounds each, 3 bass and 5 good sized pickerel.

Mr. and Mrs. Hadfield of Homestead, Penn., with Mr. Jas. Cook as guide, caught a 5-pound muskie and a good sized pickerel Thursday.

Stray Bullet Kills Woman In Trolley

New York, Oct. 4 (AP).

A STRAY bullet from an unknown source crashed through the window of a Myrtle Avenue trolley car in Brooklyn to-day and killed a woman identified from cards in her purse as Shirley Kopp, 24, of Glendale, Queens. Police thought the shot might have been fired by some one carelessly engaged in target practice in a woods near by.

by friends of the present government."

Playing The Market.

At Brantford, he declared he knew some of Premier Hepburn's friends "are playing with the bond market in anticipation of what the government will do."

Mr. Rowe also told his audience in Brantford Technical School if the government tried to replace contracts cancelled with Beauharnois Power Company, it would have to deal with Montreal Light, Heat and Power Company, one of Sir Herbert Holt's interests. He said Montreal Light, Heat and Power now owned Beauharnois.

"If the Province is not short of power, why doesn't Mr. Hepburn answer my challenge?" Mr. Rowe asked his Niagara Falls audience. "If he is not negotiating new contracts, why doesn't he deny it?"

He demanded the Premier deny that by December "you will have no more than 60,000 horse-power standing by."

"If one of your big generators here had a drop of water on it, it would cause a fluctuation of 50,000 horse-power," he added. "An east wind on Lake Erie would cause a fluctuation of 90,000. If he listened to these power barons from Boston (the engineering firm of Stone and Webster, which he charged advised the government on Hydro), he would put your lights out here in Niagara Falls right beside the Falls."

A Treaty With U.S.?

Both Mr. Rowe and W. G. Willson, Conservative candidate in Niagara Falls, questioned the government's "back to Niagara" power policy. They asked where the additional water could be obtained without a treaty with United States.

Discussing at Simcoe the repealed legislation giving separate schools a larger share of corporation taxes, Mr. Rowe charged Premier Hepburn and Eric W. Cross, who resigned the chairmanship of the Ontario municipal board to contest Norfolk as a Liberal candidate, with having drafted a bill that was never intended to work."

"Perhaps Eric Cross could tell you if he was advised to draft it so it never would work so they could bring it in to fulfill a promise and then throw it out," Mr. Rowe said. "I think Eric Cross should tell now when he's made such a clumsy draft of this bill if he's going to draft another."

(At Selkirk, Mr. Cross denied he was an author of the so-called school tax bill. He said Mr. Rowe's statement was "an attempted roorback," and that he had nothing to do with "the draftsmanship or preparation either officially, privately or confidentially.")

Pastor Prefers Jail To Paying Fine

Woodstock, Ont., Oct. 4 (CP)

REV. E. N. O. Kulbeck announced today he would go to jail for 20 days rather than pay the $21.75 costs imposed on him yesterday when Magistrate McCrimmon convicted him on a nuisance charge because Grace Tabernacle prayer meetings were too loud and long. The magistrate imposed only suspended sentence.

The 25-year-old pastor announced his decision after discussion of the case with officers of his organization. The question would be threshed out on the floor of the district conference of his church meeting in Kitchener next week, he said, and an appeal taken against the conviction.

42 Cents For Interest.

When we took office 42 cents out of every dollar collected went to meet interest charges. This figure was mounting due to increasing debt. By halting the debt increase and turning the trend to decreases, coupled with other measures, this figure had been reduced to 25 cents. Refinancing would bring it down below 20 cents.

Synthetic Sherry Fools Tasters

LONG ASHTON, Somerset, Oct. 4 (C.P.). — How an English experimental chemist evolved a synthetic sherry and had it labelled the real thing by French wine tasters has been disclosed here.

Experimenting with strawberries, raspberries, loganberries, and other English fruits, Vernon Charley evolved a wine that contained from eight to 12 per cent. alcohol. He sent a sample to France and was notified by the French tasters it was a light brown sherry.

Now a commercial enterprise has produced and sold 4,000 gallons of the wine. Charley at present is experimenting with a plum wine, which if successful will aid the farmers in disposing of surplus crops.

HOW'S YOUR STOMACH?

YOU lose vital nerve force if you allow your stomach to distress you. Acid stomach, indigestion, gas or biliousness and "constiveness" cause the blood to be poisoned and will eventually destroy health and nerve force. This is what W. J. Fisher of 4 Sanford Ave., N., Hamilton, Ont., said: "I suffered with my stomach, could eat but very little, and that would cause distress. I grew weaker daily and suffered from headaches. My weight went from 176 to 134 pounds. I took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and was soon able to eat normally. I gained in weight and strength and could resume my work. FADING STOCKS STIRS THINKING IN WALL STREET

Slump of 10 Billions In Value Since August

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 — (AP). — Staggering shrinkage of some $10,000,000,000 in the total quoted value of securities listed in the New York stock exchange since August has set Wall Street and Washington experts to re-examining the course of recovery.

It was no secret the curve of business volumes, after tending pretty steadily upward for some time, had levelled off since spring. The well-known fact that periods of levelling off, and even temporary setbacks, normally mark the course of recovery, had left business analysts fairly complacent.

Then came the drastic slump in Wall street. Paper profits went glimmering as sticks like U.S. Steel tumbled $3 or $4 day after day. Mystification and consternation spread. War scares, European selling, and bear raids were discussed. The selling appeared stemmed, at least for the time being, by the end of September, and business barometers well above a year ago were read hopefully.

Freight Best in 7 Years.

It was noted that at the end of September the volume of freight rumbling over United States' railways was the largest in seven years. Could business be bad? Obviously it was big.

The Associated Press weekly index of industrial activity, seasonally adjusted, and calculated on six major factors—automobile, steel and electric power production, cotton mill activity, residential building and freight movement—stood at 102 per cent of the average for 1929 and 1930. This was well above the 86.4 per cent. of the end of September last year, although it was off a good bit from the recovery peak of 108.6 per cent touch last May.

But stock prices, measured by averages of representative issues, had tumbled to the lowest since 1935. In the short period between Aug. 14 and Sept. 15, The Associated Press average of 60 shares dropped from $70.60 to $63.70, a shrinkage of 24 per cent.

Many Explanations

What caused it? Explanations are still various and complex.

Washington economists point out there has been a change in the character of government spending, that pump priming is no longer stressed, that the emphasis is now on necessary relief and long-lived projects. Only last week, President Roosevelt spoke of a balanced budget for the 1938-39 fiscal year. Particularly significant, as some see it, is the fact the treasury has been curtailing borrowing from banks for several months.

What has hit the stock market as hard as anything, a number of Wall Street experts say, is the fact that with higher wages and material costs, profit-margins have narrowed.

LABOR FIGHTING TO RULE DETROIT

DETROIT, Oct. 5.—(AP).—Labor sought control of the Detroit city government to-day but was divided against itself in a hotly contested municipal primary election.

The Committee for Industrial Organization backed one slate and the American Federation of Labor another.

Nominees will be chosen for Mayor and nine council seats. Election Board officials prepared for a vote of 300,000 although 226,971 in 1931 was the largest primary vote ever recorded here. The city has a total registration of 611,000.

Two candidates will be nominated for Mayor and 18 for the council. The main battle centres around the Mayoralty. Although the city operates under a non-partisan form of government with a small council and somewhat resembles the city manager-commission type, the Mayor combines both the managerial and honorary duties and is a full time, $15,000 a year executive.

The Mayor of Detroit is so firmly established in the whip seat that his appointing power, covering more

Peace Lovers Unite Is Roosevelt's Call To World

Sees No Hope For U.S. Isolation Or Neutrality With Fast-Spreading Aggression Of To-day

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—(AP)—President Roosevelt bitterly arraigned aggressor nations before the bar of world opinion today and called upon peace loving countries to join in a "concerted effort" to restore international tranquility.

Speaking out aggressively on foreign affairs for the first time in months, but withholding any definite proposal for an international conference or invocation of peace pacts, he asserted bluntly, in dedicating a bridge here:

"There must be positive endeavors to preserve peace." He said the United States, determined to stay out of war, would not remain aloof from these efforts, and, as if in reply to those who have been urging an American neutrality proclamation, declared:

"The peace-loving nations must make a concerted effort in opposition to those violations of treaties and those ignorings of humane instincts which today are creating a state of international anarchy and instability from which there is no escape through mere isolation or neutrality."

Raps Japs, Germans, Italians?

Without mentioning any nations by name, it was clear his indictment of aggressors for "definite" violations of agreements embraced the Sino-Japanese conflict, the Mediterranean submarine attacks, outside interference in the Spanish civil war, and possibly went as far back as the Japanese invasion of Manchuria and Italy's Ethiopian campaign.

He said the "present reign of terror and International lawlessness" began a few years ago with the "unjustified interference in the internal affairs of other nations or the invasion of alien territory in violation of treaties, and has now reached a stage where the very foundations of civilization are seriously threatened."

Speaking of more recent disorders, he continued: "Without a declaration of war and without warning or justification of any kind civilians, including women and children, are being ruthlessly murdered with bombs from the air.

"In times of so called peace, ships are being attacked and sunk by submarines without cause or notice.

"Nations are fomenting and taking sides in civil warfare in nations that have never done them harm.

Innocents Sacrificed.

"Innocent peoples and nations are being cruelly sacrificed to a greed for power and supremacy which is devoid of all sense of justice and humane consideration."

The President, near the end of the longest and most significant speech of his current coast-to-coast trip, asserted the United States was "determined to keep out of war, yet we cannot insure against the disastrous effects of war and the dangers of involvement.

"We are adopting such measure as will minimize our risk of involvement, but we cannot have complete protection in a world of disorder in

TORONTO, Oct. 5 (CP)—Conservative Leader Earl Rowe today prepared to wind up his campaign for premiership of Ontario after a typical "Tory Toronto" welcome that jammed Massey Hall to its capacity of 3,000 last night and attracted an unestimated gathering to the streets outside where his address was heard by loudspeaker.

Winding up a campaign that has taken him from the head of the lakes to the Quebec border and as far north as Kirkland Lake since Labor Day, Mr. Rowe will speak to-night at Bradford and Barrie in his home riding of Simcoe Centre where he opposes education minister L. J. Simpson.

The Conservative leader told his Toronto audience Ontario's public accounts, showing the record of the fiscal year ended last March 31 had been printed "for weeks" and asked why Premier Hepburn did not release them. He charged "graft and corruption" in liquor administration and pledged "free association" for labor as long as order is maintained.

Dipping Into Reserves?

The public accounts "are printed, ready and have been ready for weeks," Mr. Rowe said. "Why," he asked, "is he (the premier) afraid to produce them tonight? Is it because he has taken so many millions from the T. and N.O. (Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway)? Is it because he has taken huge reserves from hydro?"

Stripped of all "hypocrisy, bluff, and burlesque," the labor issue merely concerned the individual's right of free association, he said. His party stood for that right "providing you maintain law and order."

The Committee for Industrial Organization had been in Ontario before the Oshawa motor strike, he said, referring to a strike at Sarnia. The C.I.O. issue was raised, however, "10 days after Premier Hepburn's somersault on the school issue."

(The Government in 1936 passed legislation giving Separate Schools a larger share of corporation taxes and this was repealed at the last session of the Legislature.)

Free Association.

"We will preserve for the working men of this province their right of free association with whatever organization they like," he said, "their right to collective bargaining and their right to be represented by whomever they like."

Early in his speech a questioner

LABOR REJECTS UNITED FRONT WITH THE REDS

Threaten Expulsion Cripps and Cohorts

BOURNEMOUTH, Hampshire, Oct. 5.—(CP Cable).—By overwhelming majorities, the Labor conference again to-day derisively rejected a united front with Communism.

The conference divided twice. In the first vote, the conference confirmed by 1,730,000 to 278,000 action of the Labor National Executive in disaffiliating Sir Stafford Cripps' Socialistic League. In the second, it re-affirmed by 2,116,000 to 331,000 previous conference decisions against a united front.

Herbert Morrison, Labor leader in the London County Council, closed the lively debate by a plain hint from the National Executive that if Sir Stafford Cripps and his associates continued their course they would be expelled.

"This cannot go on indefinitely," Mr. Morrison said. "We cannot have disunity in the party in the name of unity. The conference is going to give the executive authority to do what is right. Just as very humble people are being disciplined by their locals, we cannot go on threatening people in prominence differently.

"I want to tell our friends they have had a good run for their money. I beg them in the name of this great party, built up by the sacrifice of millions of working men, to come in as good comrades. We do not want to carry a discipline further which they are driving us to carry further."

Sir Stafford Cripps himself opened the debate. He pleaded that working-class unity was essential if capitalism were to be defeated.

CRUELTY TO BOY 10 COSTS "EDUCATOR" 30 YEARS PRISON

MONTREAL, Oct. 5 (CP)—Alexis Winslow, from whose apartment police rescued Freddie Brown of Toronto, was sentenced today to 30 years' imprisonment on charges of assaulting the 10-year-old boy with intent to maim, and of gross indecency.

Winslow, native of New Brunswick, pleaded guilty to both charges, on the first of which he was sentenced to 25 years with an additional five years on the indecency count.

Last month police officers raided the Manefield apartment after neighbors complained of the boy's screams and groans. They found the youngster, his body bruised and burned by sealing wax and hot spoons. His throat was swollen, doctors said, and he was unable to swallow food.

Rushed to hospital, the lad told a story of cruelty and indecency which the Crown prosecutor later described as "the most terrible story I've heard." Freddie said he had been brought to Montreal from Toronto under the pretence Winslow was going to educate him. It was with this understanding the boy's mother permitted him to travel with the 30-year-old Winslow.

Winslow pleaded guilty to the first charge on his arraignment. He had "punished" the boy "because he wouldn't do what he was told." But at that time he denied the gross indecency charge to which he later pleaded guilty.

The Judge, in passing sentence, said he had decided to spare Winslow lashes because of his sickly appearance and slight physical frame.

To Follow Returns Of Election Closely

There is one person at least in Peterborough who will doubtless follow election returns from Addington constituency tomorrow night with more than usual interest. She is the supervisor of the operating room at Nicholls Hospital, who is a sister of Colin Campbell, Liberal, who resigned his seat in the Federal House to contest the Provincial election.

China's Whole Air Fleet Wiped Out Say Japs

Claim 300 Planes Shot Down In 3 Months—Balked However On Land

By James A. Mills
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

SHANGHAI, Oct. 5 (A.P.).—Japanese claimed to have wiped China's war planes from the air to-day, an army spokesman asserting some 300 Chinese fighting craft had been destroyed in three months of fighting.

Foreign observers were inclined to credit the Japanese claims of mastery of the air. For some time only one Chinese plane has been observed in the Shanghai area and there have been only occasional reports of aerial combat elsewhere.

Chinese spokesmen have not made any claims of aerial activity now for more than a week. Foreign military experts estimate China's fighting planes numbered only 200 at the beginning and believe the Japanese may have inflicted heavy blows.

Balked on Land.

In the contest for the Chapei and North Station on the northern fringes of the International Settlement, however, the Japanese said they were balked by the Chinese resistance on land.

For eight weeks the Japanese spokesman monotonously has reiterated "there are no changes in the naval landing party's lines," an admission airbombs and artillery have failed to drive the Chinese from the streets of Chapei, studded with hundreds of sandbagged baby forts and miles of barbed wire entanglements.

Using the Tumble Inn as a fortress, the Chinese attacked and mowed down the invading Japanese with machine gun fire and hand grenades. Every small house in the area was converted into a sniper's fortress, trapping the Japanese in a network of cross fire.

On the western flank of the front which runs from Chapei for 35 miles to the north-west, however, the Japanese were slowly advancing along the Lotien-Kating Highway and had pressed forward two of the seven miles to Kating from Lotien.

Daily the Japanese announce the bombings of six to eight airdromes, concentration camps, and railroad stations.

LIGHT-FOOTED YEGGS

The thieves took the safe, which contained several hundred dollars, from a tire service store a block from police headquarters. The city's telephone exchange is above the store, but operators said they heard no suspicious noises.

Prevention Week Brings First Fire

St. Marys, Oct. 5.

FIRE Prevention Week was ushered in in the Stone Town yesterday with a $400 loss in the first fire in nine months. The blaze was centred in a large pile of baled shavings in an outlying shed of the C. Richardson Company plant and is thought to have originated from a match in the hands of playing children. The fire brigade responded so quickly damage was reduced to a minimum.

See Night Patrols For Lonely Roads

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 5.—(CP).—Night patrols by Provincial Police of a vast network of lonely roads between Toronto and Windsor may become a permanent fixture, following unexpected results in the London district.

A two-man detail between dusk and dawn has toured the roads near London, and in four weeks of operation, has discovered some robberies before the victims knew of the thefts.

Three men are in the County Jail, awaiting sentence, who probably never would have been captured if the police had not come upon them with their loot, in a car parked on a deserted road.

Pilots Include Aces Of Balbo Flight In Fastest Craft

Latest Rebel Recruits Start On Valencia Seen As Move For Quick Franco Victory

ROME, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Fascist aviation circles disclosed today Bruno Mussolini, 20-year-old son of Premier Mussolini, accompanied by the flower of Italy's bombardment aviation, was in active service as a pilot for the insurgent armies in Spain.

The Italian premier's son and the squadron of 23 bombers which accompanied him to Spain was believed to have made their first raid on the capital of the Spanish government at Valencia.

The squadron is made up of Savoia Marchetti Ti-type fast bombers—the best that Italy has—and the pilots include veterans of Marshal Italo Balbo's mass flight to Shediac, N.B., Montreal and the Chicago Century of Progress and the winners of the recent Paris to Damascus to Paris air race.

The planes took off from Monicello airport near Rome, halted at the Island of Sardinia and then went on to Spain to serve General Franco who is recognized by Mussolini as head of the government of Spain.

Strategy of Mussolini

Reports from Sicily indicated another detachment of fascist volunteers had left for Spain to aid Franco. This, coupled with the departure of the bombing squadron including Mussolini's son, was taken by diplomatic circles to mean one of two things:

1. Mussolini has determined to make a big effort to settle the Spanish civil war in favor of the insurgents before winter sets in;

2. He has sent in more men in order to be in a better bargaining position with Great Britain and France if he finds it expedient to negotiate withdrawal of volunteers.

Mussolini has under consideration an Anglo-French note supporting a conference to end volunteer aid to both Spanish factions. If he turns

BACKED UP G.M.C. TO MAINTAIN LAW HEPBURN CLAIMS

BARRIE, Ont., Oct. 5 (CP) — Premier Mitchell Hepburn entered the final day of the election campaign with a confident prediction his government would be returned to office at tomorrow's voting.

He made two new statements on the Committee for Industrial Organization and the Oshawa automobile strike in the course of three meetings in Simcoe County yesterday.

One was a denial he had ever said he was "100 per cent behind General Motors" in the Oshawa strike. What he had said was that he was behind the company in an effort to maintain law and order.

The other was a description of his differences with the Federal Liberal Leader, Prime Minister Mackenzie King as a "comparatively small matter." These differences were over his attitude to C.I.O. activities in Ontario and the necessity for assembling of police during the strike.

Answering a question from the audience the premier said he had much in common with Mr. King, agreed with the latter's trade and tariff policies, was convinced he had done a tremendous amount of good for Canada.

ABERHART'S WHIP HELD FOR LIBEL

EDMONTON, Oct. 5.— (CP).— Joseph H. Unwin, government whip in the Alberta Legislature, was arrested to-day on a charge of defamatory libel. Using a warrant issued by Magistrate A. H. Gibson, detectives apprehended the Social Credit M. L. A. for Edson at his home.

Charge of defamatory libel was laid in connection with publication of allegedly libelous statements contained in a leaflet. Edmonton police confiscated 2,400 copies of the leaflet when they visited the Alberta Social Credit League office with a search warrant Saturday.

The leaflets were mentioned in the Legislature last Wednesday when D. M. Duggan, Conservative leader, demanded a House committee investigate them. His request was rejected on a division. Mr. Duggan said he found a copy of the leaflet on his desk in the Legislative Chamber and he charged they contained "criminal" and "defamatory" libel.

The leaflets carried the names of nine prominent Edmonton lawyers and political executives who have opposed the Social Credit Government.

The leaflets did not carry the name of the person or organization responsible for putting them into circulation. They bore a union label but the name of the printing firm was not given.

Queen's Initiation Antics Banned

KINGSTON, Ont., Oct. 5—(CP).— There will be no initiation at Queen's University this fall as the result of a resolution of the Alma Mater Society and an edict by Principal R. C. Wallace.

Dr. Wallace said initiation proceedings are not in the best interests of the University, and he was heartly opposed to them.

Engine-Driver To Three Kings Retires After 50 Years

Wanted 13 Months More To Make 100 Years Record Between Him And Father

LONDON, Oct. 5 (CP)—George Stone, engine-driver to three kings and maker of railway records, has retired after more than 50 years service with the London, Midland and Scottish Railway.

Although 65 years old he was known as "Young Stoney," a nickname bestowed on him more than 40 years ago to distinguish him from his father, also a long-service engineer. One of his chief regrets in leaving the footplate was that his service could not be extended another 13 months. That extra spell would have given him and his father 100 years of service between them.

First man to drive a railway train non-stop from London to Scotland; fireman on the first all-corridor express to leave Euston station in 1893; drove three kings—George V, Edward VIII and George VI.

"In 50 years I've learned to love engines and shall hate to leave them," he said. "You can sell an old motor car and buy a new one without a thought, but it makes me sad to see the old engines go when they're worn out. It's like losing a trusted friend."

In his 37 years behind the throttle Stone did not have an accident.

New York, Oct. 5 (CP)

A HUSBAND'S dilemma in distinguishing his wife from her twin sister — when passing out kisses—led Official Referee John O'Gorman today to decide he had to do some heavy thinking in Supreme Court.

Referee O'Gorman reserved decision on the case, involving the application for an annulment by Mrs. Mary Jane Swank Cook, twin No. 1, from her husband, Harry Brown Cook.

"It was," said the 18-year-old dancer, "all very embarrassing."

Examiner Plans To Give Citizens High Class Election Result Service

PLANS for the broadcasting and announcing of the election results on Wednesday night are on the most ambitious scale in the history of The Examiner. To begin with Dick Lush as usual will be at the "mike" and announce the results as they come in over the Examiner's teletype service. In addition one of the best lanterns in the city has been kindly loaned to The Examiner by the Men's Association of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church and the election bulletins and news specially edited will be thrown on the screen. And then for those who are not able to come down town, a staff of seven telephone operators will give out the results.

It is expected that the complete returns for Peterborough will be known before 9 o'clock and that there will be a good general outline of the result in the province by 10.15. Candidates will be asked to speak over the loud speaker.

D.R.O.'s are again reminded that in telephoning in the results, they ask for 1600 ONLY.

97-Year-Old Hastings Elector Ready To Vote Tomorrow

William Raycroft, One Of Oldest Persons In District, To Use Franchise

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Oct. 5—William Raycraft, believed to be the oldest man in this district, expects to vote on Oct. 6. He is 97 years old and resides in the village with his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dodd. Displaying remarkable physical activity, he makes two and three trips down town practically every day.

Mr. Raycraft was born in Cavan township, 8 miles north of Peterborough and at the age of five his family moved to Morganston. His business for many years was farming. Fifteen years ago his wife died.

Step dancing seems to have been quite a hobby with the aged gentleman. He told the Examiner that he once hired with Barnum's circus to step dance but his father would not let him stay. Young "Bill" begged of his father to let him stay with the circus but to no avail. He step danced on the stage of a large Rochester theatre 12 years ago and even now can dance a step in spite of his age. There are few places in this district where he has not shown his proficiency in his younger days.

Mr. Raycroft came from a line of relatives who lived to be a ripe old age. He claims his mother lived to 96, his father 100, and his grandmother 108. He is of Irish descent and displays a keen sense of humor.

A hike from Hastings to Orland covering a distance of some thirty miles was walked in ten hours last year by the aged man. Hard work will never kill anyone, he declares.

Romance In Seventies Follows Swindle

Seaforth, Oct. 5 (CP)

A ROMANCE which started a year ago in the office of John J. Huggard, Seaforth lawyer now serving a term in penitentiary for theft of clients' bonds, led to the altar in St. James's Church yesterday, when Fred Eckert, 74-year-old McKillop farmer, and Mrs. Bella Decourcey, 71, Seaforth widow, were married.

The couple were among the thirty clients who lost money through the defalcations. They met for the first time as they investigated losses with the aid of police.

Australian Dodges Titles 50 Years, Baronetcy Sneaks Up At 86

Sydney, Australia, Oct. 5, (AP)

GEORGE Cecil Morris, 86, who "ran away from titles" 50 years ago, apparently was caught by a baronetcy today.

Whether he wants it or not, he becomes the head of an old and wealthy Welsh family as the heir to his nephew, Sir Tankerville Morris, who died a week ago in Wales.

Morris turned down the 2,000-acre estate and baronetcy which now falls to him.

"I don't want either," he declared. "I ran away from titles 50 years ago. I want to be left alone with my flowers."

But nominally he will be the head of the family, though he need not use his title.

British Destroyers Give Pirate Sub Lively Reception

Bomb Mediterranean Sea Area For Miles Following New Torpedo Attack on Warship

LONDON, Oct. 5. — (AP) — Depth charges from seven British destroyers churned the newest Mediterranean piracy spot today. Perhaps sealing the fate of the submarine attacker of His Majesty's destroyer Basilisk.

The concussive forces unleased under the Mediterranean off Cape San Antonio, Spain, seemed certain to have demolished the undersea raider and its crew if caught within the area.

With Royal Air Force planes overhead, the destroyers plumbed the depths with bombs weighing 180 to 300 pounds, catapulted or rolled from their decks, capable of explosion at any depth through hydrostatic firing valves. Each charge had a radius of destruction up to half a mile.

At first it was thought the search for the Basilisk's attacker had been ended last night when the cruising warships steamed off south after six hours of depth bombing. But they returned to the job for a while today, then took their regular piracy patrol position in mid-morning.

Planes Join Attack

Both destroyers released depth charges immediately and were joined forthwith by five other destroyers and two seaplanes. Shore observers watched the search and heard the rumble of explosions.

The attack, in waters southeast of Valencia, was not far from the spot where on Aug. 31 a torpedo missed the British destroyer Havock.

Since the attack on the Havock, nine nations joined last week by Italy, instituted a patrol of the Mediterranean's principal shipping lanes to prevent aerial, surface and undersea attacks such as had been made on both cargo ships and warships of nations neutral in the Spanish conflict.

The attempted torpedoing of the Basilisk came in the midst of delicately poised Anglo-French negotiations to persuade Italy to confer on withdrawal of Italian troops serving Insurgent Spain. London and Paris still awaited Premier Mussolini's reply to an invitation to three-power talks, delivered Saturday.

FEW ON PAROLE LET LAW DOWN

OTTAWA, Oct. 5 (CP)—Before going to Toronto and other Ontario centres in pursuance of their investigations, the Royal Commission on Penitentiaries yesterday heard a detailed account of the workings of the Ontario Parole Board from its Chairman, Juvenile Court Judge J. F. McKinley of Ottawa.

Speaking of his combined office as Juvenile Court Judge, Chief Probation Officer for Ottawa with the conduct of a Family Court, operator of a boys' summer camp and other social services, Mr. McKinley declared his belief that establishment in every centre of the Dominion of a Family Court system like that in Ottawa would strike a death blow at the roots of crime.

Local magistrates and County Court Judges almost invariably deferred passing sentence on malefactors until they had consulted the probation officers, Judge McKinley said, and in numerous cases the evil-doers were bound to the probation officer and reformed to lives of usefulness.

Only one and one-half per cent of men on parole had failed to live up to expectations in the Ottawa district, Judge McKinley said, while in Ontario as a whole the figure was ten per cent. Kindness, encouragement and consultation at all times, coupled with strict enforcement of discipline were his prescriptions for dealing with paroled persons.

Minister Of Gospel Now Flying Officer

Although only 30 years of age, Rev. Elmer Gorman, ABOVE, now flying as first officer on a giant transcontinental airliner, has had a career that has run the gamut from star baseball player on a college team, a worker in an aeroplane factory, a minister of the gospel and now a transport flier. A lieutenant in the United States Air Corps, he retired from active service in 1932 to enter the school of religion at the University of Southern California, in which he spent two years, receiving a Master of Theology degree with further high honors. Now that he is flying Rev. Gorman has not said whether he will make use of his religious training or not.

Sailors Keep Judge Guessing Two Hours On Case

Finally Discovers Malay Crew Only Protesting Officer's Bad Language

MONTREAL, Oct. 5—(CP)—Judge Jules Marin, known for his placid nature, sat nearly two hours in court yesterday through a cacophony of French, English, Arabic, Malay, Hindu and other languages to learn eleven Malay sailors denied they were staging a sit-down strike aboard the freighter City of Delhi. From it all, the Judge learned the natives, dressed partly in their native costumes, had refused to work because a boatswain "used bad language."

Through a series of interpreters the natives denied the charge made against them by their English-speaking superiors, that they had refused to "obey lawful commands on board ship." A twelfth Malay seaman pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to four days in jail—when the ship will sail on the return trip to Australia.

But the others maintained the boatswain had used "bad language" and they did not want to work under him. They refused to follow the example of their shipmate—but they went back to jail, anyway; and they'll stay there until the boat sails.

"We can't lose any more time on a case like this," said the Judge. "I will just postpone their case until Wednesday, and they can stay in jail until they are taken back to their ship."

EDMONTON, Oct. 5 (C.P.). — After passing 11 Bills and dealing with almost a score of resolutions and motions, the special session of the Alberta Legislature will prorogue to-day. All the work on the order paper was cleaned up early to-day.

The House defeated the six months' hoist for the Bill amending and consolidating the License of Trades and Industry Act 44 to 10; the Bill to ensure the publication of accurate news and information by the same vote and by a 46 to 9 vote defeated a motion to hoist the Bill to amend and consolidate the credit of Alberta Regulation Act.

An Appeal To Youth

Make Your First Vote Count

No Tory Road Camp Vote This Time Youth Got $1.20 a Day While Henry And The Old Gang Took $2,000 Extra

Imported road camp workers who had to work for $1.20 a day or stay idle swung the 1934 election in Peterborough riding to "Honest George" Henry's Old Gang while the rest of Ontario rose up and voted them out of office.

In one camp alone the vote was 75 to 9 for "Honest George" and his candidate, while the majority that put Peterborough in the Henry column was only 34 votes. The road camps with their Tory foremen bossing unemployed young men from all around the country delivered a majority for "The Old Gang" in the most barefaced political steal this city and county ever witnessed.

Six polling booths were opened along the Apsley Road, and were more than enough to offset the majority by which Peterborough resident electors would have pronounced their resentment of the Henry administration of extravagance and increasing debt.

People might not object so much to that princely day's wage of $1.20 if "Honest George" had not wasted public money on a fleet of automobiles for himself and "The Old Gang", not to mention the pittance of $3,250 for his own personal automobile expenses, to say nothing of his use of public money to save him from heavy loss on the Abitibi power bonds which his government guaranteed.

Unemployed youth could take $1.20 a day building roads, or they could continue to enjoy the idleness that accompanied Tory administration in this province and Dominion.

Since 1934 most of these young men have graduated from road camp servitude to busy factories up and down the province. Some of them are building government roads, and are being paid 35 cents an hour while the Hepburn government has been saving public money to the extent that property taxes have been largely reduced, hydro power rates are lower, automobile licenses are down five dollars, amusement taxes have been cancelled, and the hopes and ambitions of youth have been revived.

Do the young men and women wish to return to those crushing conditions of 1934?

The comparison is an easy one. They know what "Honest George" Henry did for them: $1.20 a day or idleness while Henry and his government had so little idea of economy that they kept a fleet of cars in use for their own luxurious tastes —and at the people's expense.

Probably "Honest George" and The Old Gang and their advocate, the Honorable Ivo Campbell Fallis might protest that there was a depression in 1934.

What?—A depression and Henry and The Old Gang kept paying themselves each the $2,000 increase in ministerial salaries that were promptly ended by Premier Hepburn when he took office.

Every young man and woman who is about to cast their first votes, and their older sisters and brothers and parents, have just to think back to the Henry administration of 1934—and in common justice to themselves they can do nothing else but

VOTE

ELLIOTT X

For the Future Welfare Of Your Province

A real responsibility rests on the young men and women who cast their first vote tomorrow. Fortunately for this generation, youth has grasped responsibility with an eager seriousness that bespeaks thoughtful consideration for making our province an even better place in which to live.

In 1934, Youth, throughout Ontario let it be known in no uncertain terms that they would not countenance the "Old Gang" with its waste, hypocrisy and short sighted vision. Rather, youth preferred to put its trust in a youthful leader.

That trust was not betrayed. The record of youthful Premier Hepburn has so abundantly justified the confidence placed in him that there is not a shadow of a doubt that he is going to continue as Premier of Ontario and as the true representative of youth in this Province.

The young men and women of Peterborough County and Cty have a double opportunity to be represented by Youth. In Alex L. Elliott they have a candidate who is entirely sympathetic with the ambitions of Youth. With him as your Member in the Legislative Assembly, Peterborough no longer will have any connection with the "Old Gang."

Campbellford $10,000 Richer Per Annum By Hydro Contracts

Northumberland County Reaps Many Benefits, H. N. Carr Says

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 5.—"The renewal of Hydro contracts with the town of Campbellford will bring a revenue of $10,000 per year to the residents of the town and bring a minimum of $40,000.00 in the next four years." Harold N. Carr, Liberal Candidate for re-election to the Ontario Legislature, told a large crowd gathered at a Liberal rally held in the Arena on Monday evening. There is already a whispering campaign that no such contract with Hydro exists but "the contract was negotiated by myself and is a gift from me to the people of the town of Campbellford, by which Hydro will enrich you by a minimum of $40,000 in the next four years."

The speaker then referred to the things that had been done for Northumberland County since he had been a member of the present Legislature. "There is no reason to complain that Northumberland has been neglected. The road from Harlowe to Colborne has been made a provincial highway. Almost a quarter of a million dollars has been put into circulation by the work on the Campbellford-Brighton highway. The work of re-construction of the House of Refuge at Cobourg was done by my influence as a relief measure with the province paying two-thirds of the cost. The gas works at Cobourg, which it was announced would be closed on October 31 will not be closed as announced, but only after the people of Cobourg have had ample notice."

Contracts Rewritten

The Hydro contracts which were repudiated by the Premier have all been rewritten with the exception of one which was ready to sign at any time. "Had it not been evident that a crooked and nefarious deal had been put over the people of Ontario they would never have been cancelled." With the old contracts in force" the Quebec interests would eventually have stepped in and taken control of Hydro, which would no longer have been a public utility. The Government has been able to make a reduction in service charges twice in the past twelve months due to the savings effected by repudiation of these contracts.

The reduction of interest rates on Government bonds from five to three per cent. and the collection of nearly 28 million dollars in succession duties from 43 estates which the previous government had given a clear receipts have all contributed to the Premier's famous Sunshine Budget. The one mill subsidy which will amount in Campbellford to $1,500 and to $72,000 in the United Counties, the reduction of 25 per cent. in the cost of motor vehicles licenses and the elimination of examination fees in the schools "are all savings which the Government has been able to pass on to you," asserted Mr. Carr in a clear and convincing manner, concluding his presentation of the issues of the campaign.

"Not a Union."

"The C.I.O. is a revolutionary movement and not a union." W. H. Moore, member for South Ontario in the Federal House, told the meeting in discussing the C.I.O. issue. The American Federation of Labor has rejected it because it is not a trade union. The difference lies in the fact that the A.F. of L. is craft unionism and exists industry by industry, whereas the other was a single industrial organization which by concentrated action would attempt to bring about what they want "and this means revolution and the complete paralysis of all economic life. It was under such conditions that the economic strife in Europe was born. "I am not opposed to trade unionism, but I am opposed to a foreign body coming over to Canada and putting Canadian industry in the hands of a foreign committee." Concluding his address on behalf of the Liberal candidate, Mr. Moore stated "Mr. Carr is not a lawyer. He is engaged in a business that ought to be represented in the Legislature, and he is one of the first that the Premier consults in pertaining to matters of agriculture."

Should Assure Re-election.

W. A. Fraser of Trenton referred again to the power contract negotiated for the town of Campbellford by Mr. Carr, which he claimed "should assure his re-election." Mr. Hepburn was elected by the people of this province, who were determined to once again get their affairs on a proper business basis, and he has now succeeded in "relieving the weight of taxation from the people of this province." "The credit of the Province of Ontario is the highest of any province in the Dominion and has been saved $3,750,000 by Hepburn's repudiation of Hydro contracts," said Mr. Fraser to an orderly audience of nearly two thousand people. Touching on the C.I.O. issue, Northumberland's representative in the Federal House claimed "Hepburn has always been a friend of labor and has passed more effective social legislation than any previous legislature in the Province of Ontario. Hepburn has never questioned the right of labor to organize." Rowe was a supporter of the famous Section 98 of the Criminal Code adopted by the Bennett Government—"the government which in 1934 sent armored tanks to maintain order in Stratford and to quell riots in Regina which resulted in death and bloodshed." Mr. Fraser regarded as "just a little bit silly" the idea proposed by the Tory chieftain to put a series of cold storage warehouses across the Province as an aid to the farmer. "There are any number of them around the country at the present time, and most of them are lying empty because they don't pay.

A. J. Meyers acted as chairman for the meeting, and in his remarks expressed the hope hat the speakers would be given an opportunity to talk without interruption.

Messrs. R. C. Ramsden, Raymond Wragg and Herb. Leonard contributed vocal selections to the program, with Charlie Allan and E. C. Dolman assisting at the piano.

SLOT MACHINE CASE APPEAL RESERVED

TORONTO, Oct. 5 (CP).—Upon an appeal of Vernon Morrison, trading as Canadian Novelty Co., against a judgment of Mr. Justice Chevrier upholding the validity of the principal provisions of a by-law of the city of Kingston for the licencing of various types of slot machines, a court composed of Chief Justice F. R. Latchford and Justices W. E. Middleton and W. T. Henderson, at Osgoode Hall, reserved its judgment.

Morrison, who owns a number of automatic vending machines and games put into operation by means of a coin placed in a slot and leased them to merchants, sought in his action to have the by-law, which raised the license fee for such devices from $100 to $500, quashed by the court.

Mr. Justice Chevrier held the by-law was within the powers of the Kingston City Council with the exception of clauses which prohibited the issuance of slot machine licenses to holders of restaurant, tobacconist, pool room, bowling alley, shooting gallery and dance hall licenses, declared the fee for a slot machine license forfeited upon revocation of the license, restricted transfers of licenses and empowered a magistrate, in the case of a conviction for a breach of the by-law, to direct that slot machines be confiscated and destroyed.

Before the Court of Appeal, H. L. Cartwright for Morrison contended that the City Council had undertaken to prohibit the of machines under the guise of licensing them. T. J. Kiely, K.C., appeared for the city of Kingston.

FIGHT CONTINUES FOR RYAN REWARD

SARNIA, Oct. 5 (CP)—The $1,000 reward posted by the Ontario Government for the capture of Norman (Red) Ryan, killed in an attempted hold-up of the liquor store here May 23, 1936, was again discussed by Police Commission here yesterday.

Some time ago the Commission considered the possibility of suing the Government for the reward, but yesterday it was learned the City Solicitor, John Cowan, had not reported on the proceedings necessary for such action.

Chief Constable W. J. Lannin was instructed to get in touch with the solicitor and obtain his opinion. The Attorney-General's Department refused to pay the money, contending the police officers who shot the paroled convict were not eligible for the reward.

FALL CORN CROP GOOD IN ONTARIO

TORONTO, Oct. 5 (CP) — Fall corn crops in western, central and eastern Ontario were good, the weekly crop report of the Department of Agriculture showed today.

In western Ontario, Perth reported one of the best crops in many years while in Waterloo corn for silage yielded heavy but storms made cutting difficult. Farmers in Ontario County, central Ontario, had an excellent crop but many had to cut by hand because the corn was lodged badly. Leeds in eastern Ontario reported good corn but said storms made it hard to harvest.

Harvesting of potatoes is in full swing in Dufferin, Perth and Wellington in western Ontario. Potato digging is general in Middlesex in southwestern Ontario while at Sudbury, in Northern Ontario, favorable weather led to nearly 90 per cent of the crop being stored. Halton, in central Ontario, reported keener interest in feeder cattle and lambs than in some years while in North Simcoe cattle are generally in better than average condition and in Wellington cattle and sheep are doing extremely well because of good pastures. At Haldimand, in southern Ontario, livestock is reported in good condition with increase noted in the number of feeders from the West. Several boat loads of finished and feeder cattle were shipped from Manitoulin, in Northern Ontario, which reported heavy demand for cattle.

Texan Offers Trim Anyone In 5 Rounds Cadi, Cop Take Him In Three

London, Oct. 5 (C.P.).

CHARLES van Audenarde, 25, of Texas had two pairs of boxing gloves and $5 to say he could trim the ears off anybody in Ontario. Now the law has his $5 and more and Charles is on his way back to Texas, by request.

Charles put out a shingle at a dozen fall fairs in Western Ontario in the last two or three weeks, offering $5 to anybody who could stay five rounds in the ring with him. Corporal Denton and Magistrate C. W. Hawkshaw finished Charles in three.

Corporal Denton won the first round, taking Audenarde's car because the Texan had a United States car in Canada on a tourist permit for commercial purposes. Magistrate Hawkshaw won the second in a breeze, fining Charles $20.10 because he was running a "coin board" as a sideline to his boxing.

Corporal Denton finished Charles when he took him into custody, escorted him to the border and only returned Charles' car on payment of a $50 penalty.

TELEPHONE TALKS IN THE WATSON FAMILY

"This is just like being home!"

Bill Watson occasionally gets fed up on that out-of-town job. Work is oppressive. His pals are dull. Meals are tasteless. The movies, flat. The outlook, generally, is bilious. Good, old-fashioned homesickness, that's what it really is — and Bill has a sovereign remedy, once he has diagnosed the case. A long distance call home puts him right with the world again. And it costs so little, too, that he has about decided to forestall attacks by a regular schedule of weekly calls.

Bill's ideas are right in line with the rest of the family. The Watsons have come to appreciate fully the comforts, conveniences and low cost of Long Distance. Do YOU realize how little it costs to telephone?

Not Being Fairly Paid

P. V. Howry, president of the Dominion Mail Couriers' Association, met the members from a number of counties in Hagersville and explained steps which are being taken to do away with the contract system now in force among rural couriers.

The president told of one rural mail courier who travelled 22 miles per day for 313 days per year and his pay for the year was $360. The speaker claimed that in the province of Quebec conditions were even worse.

The Dominion government has its own Labor Department; it also has a number of rules, regulations and laws. When a Federal building is being erected care is taken to make certain fair wages are being paid, and in a number of cases it has been found the scale for the Federal building is even higher than that provided for in the Ontario Government wage code.

If the government is so bent upon fairness in the matter of wages for those working for it, then why should the rural mail couriers be singled out as a class of people who must tender for the privilege of delivering mail on the basis that the lowest tender secures the contract? We have heard it argued a good many times that no person compels an individual to submit a tender, and that those who secure contracts name the price at which they are willing to do the work. All of which is true, but those submitting tenders know well enough they have to get down low or else they will not have a chance, and it develops into a system of competition for the lowest price which is not applied to other forms of government or industrial employment.

Why Send Him To Jail?

Pastor E. N. O. Kulbeck of Grace Tabernacle, Woodstock, is not sure whether he will pay $21.75 court costs or go to jail for thirty days. He would willingly go to jail were it not for the fact that some relatives are coming on a visit from the West, and if he were in jail the opportunities for visiting would be seriously abbreviated.

The pastor is in trouble because people who lived near his church complained there was too much noise. Especially in the late evening. The folk attending Pastor Kulbeck's church apparently were not sleeping, nor were they looking at their watches to see how long before the meeting concluded. The pastor himself says the noise came from those who were experiencing the joy of salvation, and admits that would be all Greek to those who have not experienced such joy.

But the neighboring folk in Woodstock did not like to be disturbed. It is difficult to know what should be done in such a case. There are many cases where people go to church regularly and they make little noise. Perhaps none at all. When a hymn is sung they may participate, but that is all, and certainly the extent of their vocal enthusiasm would bother no person. And there are churches where people are either asleep or lost in deep thought; they would probably admit the latter and deny the former. There are some who sit in choir lofts who have every appearance of slight slumber while the service progresses. We dare say there are many ministers in pulpits today who would be inwardly glad and openly encouraged if the silence of the place were broken and shattered by some devout soul sending forth a profound "Amen" now and then.

And then there are so many of our churches where people do not attend on a Sunday evening. If the truth were told it should be referred to as tragic. It takes a minister with a stout heart to overcome the stifling effect of long rows of empty seats. So having all that in mind we wonder if some discovery could not be made from the case of Pastor Kulbeck of Woodstock whose people become so vociferous in their religious fervor that the neighbors are moved to object. Causing such a person to remain locked up in jail for 30 days would actually demonstrate nothing at all. He might much better spend such time explaining to church sleepers elsewhere how they can become wide awake, and how a degree of life, joy and strenuous acclaim can be substituted for routine and complacency.

Suggesting Another Word

When the election campaign in Ontario was pulling in toward its close speakers were getting well schooled in the habit of stating things plainly. They had done away with anything which might have been looked upon as a veiled reference, or with the use of words and phrases which might have left the audience wondering just what the speaker meant.

Hayor Alex. C. Hall of Oshawa went to speak in Midland, which is a good way off from his own bailiwick, and in that address he gave information regarding the reason why Premier Hepburn got mixed up in the auto strike in Oshawa. And it was this:

We take it there would be some measure of good technique or tactics in doing such a thing. If there were a stink in one place then it could be best attended to by raising a larger and a better stink elsewhere. We believe that is what Mr. Hall meant.

But the word "smell" lends itself to so much better and more numerous treatment than "stink." For there was once the individual who exclaimed:

"Of all the smells I ever smelled I never smelt a smell that smells like that smell smells."

It is not possible to use the word stink in such a way; it lacks the flexibility of the word "smell." We wish we had opportunity to suggest that to Mr. Hall before he made his Midland speech.

100 Barrels Of Spuds A Day!

We learn people are travelling long distances to take part in a potato picking contest in Maine. Of all the potatoes grown in United States 11 per cent. are produced in Maine. One woman who is going to take part says she has previously picked up 100 barrels in one day. Of course that was in a contest or a race.

We never saw any person picking up potatoes at that rate. Certainly it was never done on the Tenth Concession, but of course there are mechanical potato diggers today and all sorts of contraptions for doing work that was then done by hand. We always dug up potatoes with a fork and grandfather was just a bit fussy how it was done. He generally stood around to see there were not too many good potaoes getting the fork run through them. He said that was a sure sign of poor potato digging. If there happened to be a nice spell of dry weather then digging potatoes was not so bad; they'd come out nice and dry and fairly clean. The potatoes which were going to be used in the house for the winter went into a pit and grandfather knew how to arrange that. He knew how far down to go, how much straw to use; how many tile were needed on top for ventilation and how much earth to put on. He always seemed to hit it about right no matter what kind of a winter set in. The spuds were never frozen, nor did they rot from sweating.

On the Tenth Concession grandfather never looked upon potatoes with much favor apart from those which were needed for the house. If potatoes turned out good and he had a pile of bagged ones to sell he said the price was always low and every other person had a heap of potatoes to get rid of at the same time. If the season was poor and he had none to sell then the price got up to the point where it looked respectable. Potato picking went in the list of things which were hard on the back; weeding the green onions was another and spreading flax stood high on the same list. But as far as picking up 100 barrels of potatoes in one day like they will do at that contest in Maine, well we never did anything like that. There never were 100 barrels in any one year on Lot 4, Concession Ten, and if there had been we could see no reason why a person should be in such a hurry to pick them all up so sudden.

The Gap Is Still There

It has been reported several times that there is actually little trouble or friction between the C.I.O. and the American Federation of Labor. That statement has been made in this city and elsewhere.

The American Federation of Labor is in convention now at Denver, Colorado, and the executive council will request authority to expel what it terms "ten rebel C.I.O. unions."

Another recommendation from the executive council is the continuation of double dues (two cents per month for each member) "to carry on the war against John L. Lewis and his C.I.O."

If there is any doubt regarding the temper of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor it ought to be made clear in the words of its own opinion:

> "In our opinion nothing that has happened in the 56 years of the existence of the A. F. of L. has so injured labor and the cause of labor as the formation and establishment of this dual, rival movement called the C.I.O."

In the above this paper has quoted nothing but open reports from the A. F. of L., and they are so plain worded that there is no doubt regarding their attitude toward the C.I.O. It is hostile.

Elections Then And Now

The older generation of newspaper workers will admit that election times are not what they used to be. Commercial necessity brought papers together in every small city of the province, and when a paper is alone in a field it has to take the political situation fairly. It does not need to be voiceless on issues raised during a campaign, nor is it bound to withhold comment when it feels such should be made.

In the old days it was not so. Nearly every city had a Conservative paper and a Liberal paper, and at election times the party papers were counted on to set the pace and keep the feeling going until the day of voting. Those were the days when there was no scarcity of things about which to write. If the day looked as though it might be dull then all that was necessary was to select an opponent of the wrong political stripe and proceed to take his hide off. If one were moved toward a spell of satire and ridicule then the platform of the other political party supplied the material. If the urge of the day were toward something of grandeur and majestic appeal then the party's own political standards and aims could readily be brought into play and glorified and made to live for the benefit of the masses and the emancipation of the downtrodden. A good many writers made a reputation in those good old days. It became noised about that they yielded trenchant pens and could certainly hit hard. Actually it was pie for the newspapers writers and it was as easy as falling off a log. The material was right at the elbow and it was not necessary to dig for facts or worry about statistics.

Then there was the day before election and the political roorback. Papers and party leaders seemed to be certain that if a good old whizz-bang could be held back and used just before the voting took place then something was bound to happen. Hold the paper later than usual on that day so there would be no chance for the opposing sheet (then called a rag) or its editor (referred to always as a pin head) to come forth with an answer. The Grit paper knew it had to have a swell last minute appeal because it was certain that similar dirt would be shovelled into the final issue of the Tory paper. Strange as it may seem although the community was sharply divided into two camps the editors who lambasted each other generally were on the best of terms.

Most of the editors who lived through those days will admit they had a good time out of it, but we doubt if any one of them would seriously claim he had been trying to place all the facts of both sides fairly before his readers. That was not his business. His job was to enunciate clearly and with fervor the articles of faith to which his party paid tribute. If there were good points in the opposing party's platform, or if there were worth and virtue and good citizenship in its candidates then those who desired to make discovery of such would have to organize their own parties of research. In those days it would be considered nonsense to believe that one independent and fair paper could present through its columns a fair picture of the situation and give an impartial report of addresses by all speakers, and yet that very thing is being done today in virtually every small city daily in the province.

NOTE AND COMMENT

One U. S. writer says what that country needs is a form of neutrality which will stand firm in the face of possible war profits.

The U. S. 15th Infantry band stationed at Tientsin, China, is in need of a piccolo player. That should be easy to fill as an occasional added sour note would never be noticed there just now.

The Guelph street railway system has been abandoned in favor of buses. The only thing strange about that is that the railway has been able to keep going that long.

Letters in a Toronto post office box were on fire the other night. Must have been some of that incendiary stuff the political organizations have been sending out.

The United Farmers of Alberta have protested against Sunday political broadcasts and we have an idea that almost everybody but Premier Aberhart would be glad to second the motion.

Hon. Chas. Dunning has issued a warning against a misuse of loans under the Home Improvement scheme. No matter what the plan is launched the chislers always seem to get their hand in.

Mr. McCullagh's broadcast against some of the politicians would have been more effective if it had not been timed for the last night on which political broadcasting was permitted, thus robbing those attacked of an opportunity to reply.

THE FINGER coloring fad continues to hold its popularity. An ingenious suggestion as to how the fashion started is that American women with a trace of Negro blood, some generations back, found that their finger nails gave away their secret—so they evolved this method of disguising them.

Whatever the explanation, there are no signs of women returning to normal. The new shades in varnish harmonies with the new clothes colors such as burgundy and mahogany and the most popular type of varnish is the opaque variety which gives a dull lustre to the nail. Glasgow's Exhibition.

THE EMPIRE Exhibition at Glasgow next year is expected to give the Wembley Exhibition a struggle in the matter of success scored. The promoters expect that at least 20,000,000 will visit the Exhibition which will require the whole of Bellahouston Park to house it. A feature of the affair will be Tait's Tower which will stretch 600 feet into the air and dominate the whole Exhibition. Work has commenced on this great structure which will be built on a base requiring 3,000 tons of concrete. The tower will be a triumph of its kind. Six hundred people will be allowed on to its top galleries at one time and two 18-passenger high-speed elevators are to be built to transport visitors to the top.

Down both sides of the hill from the base of the tower will run illuminated waterfalls. On the one side there will be a grand double staircase with waterfalls down the centre. The fall will be 400 feet long and in a series of steps will drop 100 feet. Concealed illuminations and flood-lighting will be used for the tower and the water-fall.

✧ ✧ ✧

A vast amusement park, greater than that of the Wembley Exhibition of 1924 is being laid out at one corner of the Exhibition. The central hill on which Tait's Tower will be erected has been used to screen off the various sections. Thus the amusement park is at the opposite side from the concert hall while two bandstands, one to seat 3,000 people and the other 2,500 also shielded from each other.

Veteran Horses.

RECENTLY officials of the British Legion and many ex-servicemen gathered at Swansea to bid farewell to two South Wales war heroes. They are "Bill" and "King" two horses which served with Royal Artillery in France and Egypt during the war. For the past sixteen years they have drawn brewer's dray about Swansea but now arrangements have been made for them to spend the rest of their lives in pasture. Their departure from Swansea was witnessed by the Mayor and many officials and a hearty cheer was given the horses as they were led into a truck fitted out as a horse box. Two magnificent grays, "Bill" and "King" always made an imposing spectacle about the streets of Swansea. They had attended every Armistice memorial parade held there since 1924 and always drew the carriage carrying the wreaths to the cenotaph.

Souvenirs of the War.

SCOTLAND Yard is endeavoring to solve the mystery of how British soldiers, returning twenty years or so ago, from the front managed to smuggle machine guns with them as souvenirs of the conflict. PUBLIC SCHOOL DEFENCE LEAGUE

Editor Examiner:

Sir: May I voice an opinion as a public school supporter regarding the advertising under the name "Peterborough Branch, Ontario Public School Defence League.

I have never known anyone that ever heard of this organization and I am a public school supporter. I wish to join the group of public school supporters who publicly questioned this vicious type of propaganda. I had thought this campaign was going to be a clean one. Politics can be played fairly or on a low plane. Victory at any price or by foul or fair means will not be countenanced by the public today.

I have not met one Protestant who knows of this organization and practically every man you meet believes it conservative advertising. There should be some law to prosecute any person or persons who misrepresent advertising.

If a party wins fairly, then the reward of victory is deserved. If a party must lose, go down fighting cleanly and then defeat is no disgrace.

Thanking you for this space, I am yours respectfully,

GEO. E. MUNRO.

PETERBOROUGH COUNTY TEMPERANCE FEDERATION

Editor Examiner:

Sir, This organization met recently in this city and many from different parts of the county were present, and it was a pleasure to know that they were united in their thought regarding better temperance legislation. Some one recently writing in your paper described this meeting as more of a Liberal caucus than a temperance meeting. Evidently the writer wanted to relieve his mind of some sarcasm, and used the public press as a means of attaining his desire. The question of appointing a committee to present to each candidate seeking election to Ontario's legislature, four questions very vital to temperance principles, and requesting a reply regarding such, and then reply to be made public. This motion was unanimously carried.

The wisdom of this request coming at a time when each candidate has almost completed his canvas might be questioned. Personally I do think these questions should have been presented to them immediately after their decision to seek office, and a reply not asked for, in at least two weeks time. Then they would have had time to consider each question and then would be in a position to answer them intelligently. The question would arise—why the need of constantly reminding the leaders of both political parties regarding the curse of intemperance and all its evils. Past experience and knowledge of such evils should have convinced our leader of Parliament and Statesman years ago, and a law regarding it's regulation should have been placed on the statute books of Ontario, and should have been strictly enforced by whatever party was elected.

But we have it today as a political football revealing the weakness of both leaders. In this campaign we listen to great oratory regarding balancing the budget, and highway construction, and improving agricultural conditions, but when the question of safe-guarding human life is brought before them they stand with trembling knees and look like monuments of human weakness. If a contagious disease breaks out in any city or town every precaution is taken by those in authority to check its progress. Intemperance is a disease and is contagious transmitted from father to son and from mother to daughter. Past records are so convincing that we cannot doubt this fact; the offspring of drinking parents proves this fact that they are victims of mental or physical handicaps caused by the indulgence and sins of their parents; and provision has to be made for their care and maintenance.

Thus the folly of not dealing with the fundemental causes of these conditions. I do hope that all temperance organizations and our educational institutions and our many churches may never cease to fortify the minds of our young men and young women of today regarding this evil so that out of the ranks of the youth of today we may have statesmen and political leaders who will have strength and courage and determination to stamp out this evil so when the weaklings of today pass men and women of strength will take their places. It is cowardly to say this evil cannot be eliminated. "It can be done."

THE LAST SHOT OF AN ELECTION CAMPAIGN

Editor Examiner:

Sir: As an election campaign draws to a close the contending forces bring forward their heaviest artillery, and the meanest of things are said of their opponents by their adversaries. In private life the charges against individuals who would say half as insulting things of each other, would be settled in police or county court, but in politics—!

At Keene recently a politician charged the government with soliciting patrons to prove Old Age Pension Grants in return for their votes and asserted that mail carriers had been threatened with the loss of their jobs if they did not support Mr. Hepburn. Surely a man of the courage of Mr. Hepburn in his dealings with the high financiers of our province in making them pay their proper income or corporation taxes should not be assailed and accused of charges of which his assailants can be proven guilty in principle if not in present act. Surely the misdeeds of the Henry Government are not so soon forgotten, that they think in three years' time the people will all have forgotten that they themselves had sinned and will listen to their claims about Premier Hepburn who has done much for the good of the Province.

Mr. Henry had an election eve road program and had as much criticism of unfair management as anything he can say, much less prove against our present government. The Henry or Rowe party should burn all papers relative to their own dealings before making charges against their opponents for some of the sale bills of Cabinet cars of the late Henry government are still available as well as a copy of Mr. Henry's cheque to Mr. Hepburn squaring his automobile repair account, gasoline, etc.

Right Way To Apply the Title "Hon."

Provincial Premiers Drop It When They Retire; Federal Cabinet Members Keep It For Life

(Brockville Recorder and Times)

DURING THE present campaign there has been a lot of loose and incorrect application of the title "Honorable" by people and publications which ought to know better.

Across the border it is sometimes the practice to fasten this handle to any person who has served as a mayor or a poundkeeper. But in this country it is specifically reserved for individuals who have held office in certain important spheres.

In the first place, any individual who has ever been sworn of His Majesty's Privy Council for Canada is entitled to the prefix for life. Since every holder of a portfolio in a Federal ministry is automatically sworn of the Privy Council for Canada, it follows that every such Cabinet Minister, past or present, becomes an "Honorable" for life.

Thus, the present member for Leeds in the House of Commons will remain the Honorable Mr. Stewart for the rest of his days, because he occupied the portfolio of Public Works in the Bennett administration and, as such, was sworn of the Privy Council for Canada. Similarly, no matter what may happen to him in the provincial political field, the Conservative leader in this province will still be the Honorable Mr. Rowe as long as he lives because on August 30, 1935, he became a Minister without Portfolio in the Bennett administration and at the same time was sworn of the Privy Council for Canada. The fact that the electors gave him no chance to show what he could do as a Minister without Portfolio, since the government of which he became a last-minute member was defeated at the general election of October 14, 1935, about a month and a half after his appointment, makes no difference. Mr. Rowe is properly "Honorable" and will remain so for life.

When we come to the provincial field, however, it is different. A Premier or a Cabinet Minister is "the Honorable" only for the time he holds office. Once he leaves the Legislature or the government of which he is a member is defeated, he loses that title and repossesses it only if he is successful in gaining a place in another Cabinet. It is thus incorrect to refer to the "Honorable" George S. Henry or the "Honorable" E. C. Drury or the "Honorable" W. H. Price or the "Honorable" George H. Challies because these gentlemen, however active they may be in public life, are no longer members of a provincial government. G. Howard Ferguson, a former Premier of Ontario, is, however, properly "the Honorable," and will remain so for life, because he was sworn of the Privy Council for Canada shortly after he assumed office as High Commissioner for Canada in London. Mr. Ferguson was "the Honorable" while he was Premier of Ontario; he lost that title when he resigned office on December 18, 1930, and he regained it, to hold it for the rest of his days, on January 14, 1931, when he was sworn of the Privy Council.

It is all, of course, a bit puzzling for the average person and many of them can scarcely be blamed for incorrect application of the title, "Honorable." But it is nevertheless the case that it is improperly applied and, also, that people who know they are not entitled to it, sometimes claim it.

WHY LEAVES TURN.

(Winnipeg Tribune)

IT IS A popular belief that the beautiful coloration of the leaves in the Fall is due to the effect of early frost. But, according to forestry experts, frost has nothing to do with it, so far, at least, as maple leaves are concerned.

The beautiful reds and yellows which glorify maple leaves in the Fall are due, writes Professor Clifton Howe, formerly of Toronto University's forestry department, to warm days and cool nights. The leaf, he explains, manufactures in the warm days more sugar than can be transported. The transportation of the sugar from the leaves to the other parts of the tree requires a comparatively high temperature. When the nights are cool, the excess of sugar accumulates in the cells of the leaf. "This excess of sugar," the writer adds, "in the presence of tannic acid, which is the natural ingredient of all plants cells, forms the anthocyanins. These are of various colors, mostly some shade of red. This material is in solution in the water of the sap."

With respect to the yellow color, it is explained that there is both green and yellow coloring matter in the small protoplasmic bodies of the leaf. When the leaf begins to die in the Fall the supply of green coloring matter gradually stops, leaving the yellow in sole possession. All maple leaves will finally turn yellow before they die, provided they are not killed permanently by frost.

WORLD WET NURSE.

(London Daily Express)

MANY AN American ship sails under the flag of Panama. The reason is some United States shipping companies find it convenient to avoid the regulations which the United States Government imposes on craft sailing under the Stars and Stripes. So the Royal Navy now patrol the Mediterranean on behalf of Panama ships that are really American—while the United States Navy ride easily at anchor far away. Not that the flag question matters so very much. For Mr. Eden kindly says, "We'll be the world's wet nurse. We'll look after all ships, whether American owned, American registered, or anything whatever, provided only that they are not Spanish."

THE GREATER NOISE

(Toronto Star)

The quintuplets' guardians have turned down a $500,000 offer to have the Dionnettes appear at the world's fair in New York in 1939. In this case money not only talks, but shouts. But the interests of northern Ontario and of the youngsters themselves make a much louder noise in the ears of those responsible for their welfare.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Lead Winnipeg wheat ... .

WINNIPEG, Oct. 5—(CP)—Wheat futures broke more than three cents on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day, closing 3 to 3¾ cents lower, October $1.27½, December $1.27⅛, November, $1.23¼, and May $1.23¼ to ¾.

Scramble of Eastern holders to sell wheat futures to cover margins on week-end North American stock exchanges, brought stop-loss orders, forcing prices to their lowest levels in the last hour.

Setback of Liverpool wheat prices caused futures to dip from the start. Other markets followed Liverpool, with easier stock prices aggravating the bearish atmosphere of wheat exchanges.

Regarded As "Miracle" By Rebels

General Francisco Franco's insurgent troops regard the preservation of this group of saints, surmounted by a crucifix, as a "miracle" following the repeated bombings of the city of Mungia, Spain, before the city was captured by the rebel troops. The insurgents, however, claim the church was dynamited by retreating loyalists. Only the section of the wall bearing the sacred statuary survived either the bombings or the blast.

The C.I.O., mainly working through the United Automobile Workers of America, has endorsed Patrick H. O'Brien, former Michigan Attorney-General, for Mayor. Its council slate is limited to five men, enough to provide bare control of the nine-seat body.

Of this ticket, John L. Lewis, C.I.O. chairman, said in New York last night.

"I have an ambition to see the C.I.O. win in Detroit."

Rev. Charles E. Coughlin commented in Detroit that the C.I.O. nominees "openly stand for class struggle" and urged their defeat.

The American Federation of Labor in Detroit has endorsed former Mayor John W. Smith for the mayoralty nomination. It is backing nearly all incumbents for the council seats.

Other candidates for Mayor are Richard Reading, at present city clerk; Clarence McLeod, former Republican Congressman, and Ralph A. Philbrook, an attorney.

which confidence and security have broken down."

At another point he said it was his determination to "pursue a policy of peace and to adopt every practicable measure to avoid involvement in war."

After saying the epidemic of world lawlessness seems to be spreading, he added:

"When an epidemic of physical disease starts to spread, the community approves and joins in a quarantine of the patients in order to protect the health of the community against the spread of the disease.

"No nation which refuses to exercise forbearance and to respect the freedom and rights of others can long remain strong and retain the confidence and respect of other nations."

Day of Isolation Over.

For those who have been advocating complete American isolation, the President had this to say:

"There is a solidarity and interdependence about the modern world, both technically and morally, which makes it impossible for any nation completely to isolate itself from economic and political upheavals in the rest of the world, especially when such upheavals appear to be spreading and not declining.

"There can be no stability or peace either within nations or between nations except under laws and moral standards adhered to by all. International anarchy destroys every foundation for peace. It jeopardizes either the immediate or the future security of every nation, large or small.

"It is, therefore, a matter of vital interest and concern to the people of the United States that the sanctity of international treaties and the maintenance of international morality be restored."

Talks to the People — J. H. Burnham

No scientist and no philosopher has any prejudices, political or otherwise. That would be too absurd. Let us imitate them. Let us look for the facts, whatever they are. The Separate School issue blew up, thanks to Rowe's strong statement in their favour. The liquor issue now centres about the drinkers. Blaming the liquor is too thin. Even a child knows better than to do that, for he is the one who suffers when naughty, not his toys or his playthings. The C.I.O. is the pre-eminent issue. Mr. Hepburn has done well in many ways and Mr. Rowe is both bold and capable, but it is the electors who must handle the C.I.O. and that odious instrument of tyranny and oppression, the closed shop. And the electors' opportunity comes on Wednesday. Is unskilled labour, the farmer, the factory and the householder to be at the mercy of the take-possession strikers? That is too easy. Give the people a chance. Let the unions flourish but death to the closed shop or any other monopoly.

Macaroni, Spaghetti Dishes Made To King's Taste

Noodle Dishes Also Included Amongst This Week's Recipes

By MARY MOORE

From three widely different sources came recipes for macaroni, spaghetti and noodle dishes — all of which I tried on some of my favorite guests—who pronounced them all better-than-average, and the spaghetti best ever.

The spaghetti dish sprang from the recipe I printed a few weeks ago. The changes I made in it made it more practical for Canadian households. And so good that our chief wanted some of the leftover for Sunday morning breakfast instead of his beloved ham and eggs. That shouts "Success" in these parts.

We called it Aunt Lila's Spaghetti Casserole. In its revised treatment we will call it:

Emeu's Oregon Spaghetti

(generous servings for 10)

One lb. of spaghetti, ½ lb. lean fresh pork, about one-third cup butter or cooking oil, 1 small green pepper (sweet), 1 small bunch celery, 1 large onion, 1 small clove garlic, 2 cups old Canadian cheese, grated, 3 quarts tomatoes (either fresh or canned), ½ teaspoon cayenne, 1 tablespoon salt, ½ teaspoon paprika, ½ lb. mushrooms.

Boil 2 quarts water and stand the whole pound of spaghetti in the water leaning against the side of the pot—as the lower portion softens wind the spaghetti around until all is under water without having been broken. Boil vigorously to keep spaghetti from sticking, until spaghetti is tender. If raw tomatoes are used peel them, remove cores and boil until reduced to pulp, but do not let them burn. In the meantime saute the vegetables and meat all cut in ½ inch cubes, in the butter or oil in large frying pan, until onions are transparent, mushrooms wilted, meat golden brown. This must be almost constantly stirred.

When all are ready drain the spaghetti if there is any water left on it and put in large casserole—we used our large roasting pan for twice this amount. You might have a medium sized roasting pan for 10 people. To break up the pulp force the tomatoes through a sieve, but add all the seeds and pulp that will not go through too. Add all the ingredients but ½ cup of the cheese and the paprika and mix together well. Sprinkle remaining cheese over top, sprinkle paprika over this and put in slow oven about 275 deg. Fahr. for about 2 hours or more. The longer it is in a slow oven the riper and mellower it becomes. The spaghetti becomes saturated with all the assorted flavors and is quite delicious.

Serve this in place of a meat course. Generous salad, and fruit pie dessert.

The little Hungarian maid we had five years ago is still a help to me all unbeknownest to her, for it was her recipe for Mustacholli that my friend in Missouri sent back to me—having forgotten after these many years that I gave it to her.

Mustacholli

Eight oz. macaroni, ½ cup finely chopped onion, ¼ cup butter, 2 tins tomato soup. Cook the macaroni in boiling salted water until tender, then drain and place in large casserole. Saute the onion in the butter until transparent and pour it over the spaghetti, then pour the soup over all, mixing down into the spaghetti somewhat with a fork. Buttered crumbs may be mixed with grated cheese to sprinkle over top but this is a North American addition to the original. Bake slowly 1 hour.

Many of you will want to go to an Italian grocery store for the Egg Noodles for the following dish for they are cheaper and genuine.

Noodle and Sausage Casserole

Boil ½ lb. noodles in 2 quarts boiling salted water until tender and drain. To it add (after putting it in large flat buttered casserole) ¼ cup butter and ½ cup finely grated old cheese. Over top sprinkle very finely chopped green pepper, 2 tablespoons and over this spread 1 lb. sausage meat. Place in oven of 350 deg. Fahr. to heat noodles through and cook sausage and peppers for about ½ hour. Serve with apples stewed in syrup. A grand Saturday night supper dish.

Vermichelli and Anchovies

This is a delicious and traditional dish in Naples. Do try to make the tomato sauce just as we describe then you will have the luscious creamy consistency so seldom found in North American cookery.

Put 2 tablespoons olive oil in a saucepan with 2 tablespoons butter, and when hot add 1 small onion chopped fine, stirring for 5 min. Add 1 lb. peeled, chopped tomatoes, 1 sprig of sweet basil (go to the market for this) and 1 teaspoon salt and ½ teaspoon pepper. Bring to boiling point and simmer at very low heat for 1 hour until tomatoes are reduced to a pulp. This must be stirred often. Force throdgh a sieve and add 5 or 6 crushed anchovies and 1 tablespoon parsley. Your sauce is made.

Now cook ½ lb. Italian Vermicelli in 2 quarts water until tender. When done drain in colander and place in buttered casserole. Pour over the above sauce and over top pour 2 tablespoons melted butter and 4 tablespoons grated Parmesan. I know Parmesan is not easy to find but lacking it some grated old Swiss cheese is pretty good. This may either be baked to heat through or placed in top of double boiler covered and heated through. Baked the golden crust is most attractive.

Since we seem to have gone completely Italian I will give you their method of making Tagliatelle, which the Germans call noodles.

Tagliatelle

(Genuine Italian method)

Four cups flour (hard wheat flour is best), 4 whole eggs, and the yolk of 1 egg, ½ teaspoon salt. Mix the eggs and flour, working them into a firm dough with the hands. This takes a long time for it must be perfectly smooth. Roll out as thin as possible, about one-sixty-fourth inch is what is considered proper. And leave to dry out for 1 hour. Then cut into strips not more than ⅛ inch wide and hang these over broom handle to dry out. Cook in large pot of boiling broth for about 5 minutes. Serve bowl two-thirds full of tagliatelle with about ½ cup of the broth in which it was cooked.

A Collection Of Notes To Readers

By Mary Moore

Note One—You kind hearted ones who are ever ready to take your pen in hand—if you have a recipe for Sumach Wine please come to my rescue—a reader is waiting for this and I can find no trace of it. Thanks right now for the help that has never failed to come so far.

Note Two — Recipe for Eccles Cakes for E. G.

Eccles Cakes

Put one pound raisins in saucepan with 1 cup water and 2-3 cup sugar and grated rind, ½ lemon and let simmer gently until raisins are puffed and tender — this must be stirred almost constantly.

Make rich pastry using an egg yolk in place of some of the ice water to moisten your flour when making the paste. Roll out to ⅛ inch thickness and spread on large pan, cover with raisin mixture spreading to a little less than ½ inch thickness, and cover with second sheet of pastry. You will need to make pastry starting with 3½ cups flour, 1 cup shortening (½ butter, ½ lard is best), 1 egg yolk, 1 teaspoon salt and ice water to moisten. This amount of paste will just nicely cover, top and bottom, about 10 by 12 inches. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes, reducing heat to 350 for 20 more minutes. Cut into 2½-inch squares while still hot—remove from pan when lukewarm.

Note Three—To Mrs. E. G. A. Dessert spoon and fork may be placed at top of "cover" (place for plate) when table is first set. This saves confusion when hostess has to serve dessert.

PEACH FOR MORE HEAT

When $750 A Month Isn't Enough

Seven-hundred fifty dollars a month isn't enough to support herself and her son, Irene Castle McLaughlin, former dance star, asserts. While awaiting a definite date for hearing of her divorce suit against Major Frederic McLaughlin at Chicago, Mrs. McLaughlin jotted down the figures indicated by the above chart. She added: "After that I'll have about $30 a month left for clothes, facials, cosmetics, shampoos, amusements and my dog refuge." She had asked for $1,500 a month temporary alimony. The court awarded $750.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

THESE violent delights have violent ends
And in their triumph die, like fire and powder,
Which, as they kiss, consume.
Shakespeare.

Sure as night follows day,
Death treads in Pleasure's footsteps round the world,
When Pleasure treads the paths which Reason shuns.
Young.

Dear Friends:

This is in answer to "Lonely" and it may not please her, but as she has left it to me to make her decision for her, here goes, so brace yourself "Lonely."

My answer is emphatically no. You have no right to some other woman's husband, and are as much a thief, as if you had stolen her purse. All my life even as a girl, another girl's boy-friend was sacred to me. He was her property, the man she loved, so I kept eyes off, and hands off.

And the same with some other woman's husband. I have met many of them in my travels, I was not hard to look at any more than you say you are, but he belonged to her, and no woman can say she had a moment of un-ease because of me.

What are you going to get out of it? You say you love this man. God preserve me from this kind of love. Did it ever occur to you that he may never have noticed you, had you not been married to your own husband? Nor that you might never have met him had you not married the man you did?

How about the vows you took at the altar, what are you going to do about them? And do you ever think that if this man can be unfaithful in thought if not in deed to his wife, (whom you say is a very nice woman) he will be unfaithful to you?

If married life with the man you swore to love and cherish has become so wearisome and boring, how do you know it would not repeat itself if you did get a divorce and marry this man.

You may think you are specially attractive for this to happen to you. Wake up. Practically every woman gets such chances, sometimes many of them, but she is wise enough to know that the man is only testing out to see if he still has his own attraction for women, and you happened to be the one he tried it on. You have it all planned out haven't you? You remind me of some of these women we read of who have found their real love in the fifth or sixth husband they marry. And don't forget that this man will never forgive you if you do let him divorce his wife to marry you.

Just to suit your happiness, (or thrill) you are prepared to hurt and humiliate your own husband, the other man's wife, your children and his children. Your selfishness is colossal. An old fashioned spanking would be the remedy I would prescribe.

Shake yourself together. Stop fooling yourself and realize you have the real thing in the love of your husband and children, and only the counterfeit in your illicit dealings with this other man. And for pity's sake forget this talk of his wife not understanding him. It's only a "line" and she doubtless understands him too well.

If you leave him alone he will turn back to her and be mighty glad to do so. What can you offer him for all the years association they have had? Just a passing foolishness. Sorry I had to write like this but you are apparently going around with blinders on, and someone had to take them off for you. Thanks for comments. Your Friend, ROBERTA.

Enquiry Column

Conducted by Mrs. MARY MOORE

Question: I am expecting company for dinner next Sunday evening, and one of the party has Sciatica and is not allowed red meat. His wife tells me she is tired to death of eating chicken and lamb so I would be pleased and grateful if you could suggest what I may prepare so that all can enjoy a good hearty dinner.

Would it be possible for you to let me have recipes for the following: Soft gingerbread, sponge cake, sweet relish (cucumbers), eccles cakes. I appreciate your page very much and have always had excellent results with your recipes.—E.G.

Answer: That you for your letter.

You could have boiled and baked ham with raisins or a whole boiled Gaspe Salmon with Hollandaise, or casserole of Sweetbreads, Mushrooms and Oysters.

To make it:

CASSEROLE OF SWEETBREADS, MUSHROOMS AND OYSTERS

Parboil 1 pound sweetbreads in water to cover with 2 tablespoons vinegar for 5 minutes. Chill them in cold water immediately. Cut into 1-inch cubes. Clean and trim, but do not peel, ½ lb. mushrooms and partially saute them in 2 tablespoons butter, until they have become a little shrunken but not entirely cooked, stirring constantly. Drain the liquor from 1 pint of very fresh oysters, reserving for the sauce you are now about to make:

Melt 2 tablespoons butter and to it add 2 tablespoons flour and blend together. Put the oyster liquor in a cup and fill the cup (measuring cup) with cream and pour this and a cup of boiling water into the butter and flour mixture and stir until it thickens slightly. Then add 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon paprika. Arrange the sweetbreads, oysters and mushrooms in alternate layers in baking dish, spooning over 4 tablespoons of the sauce on each layer—finishing with sauce. Cover top with 2-3 cup well buttered crumbs, and sprinkle top with paprika. This should be baked in a large baking dish that you can take to the table either in silver ring or wrapped with large napkin. Bake about ½ hour at 350 deg. Fahr. —to thoroughly heat and brown the crumbs. Delicious.

Serve with this Duchess Potatoes (baked potatoes scooped from shell mottened with cream and butter and flavored with salt and pepper and returned to cases and oven to heat through and brown). Sauteed raw corn; one-crust peach pie and cheese or heavy cream or Devonshire cream. Salad could be celery hearts and ripe olives or small tomatoes filled with cole slaw on inner head lettuce leaves.

We sincerely hope these suggestions will help.

Put butter and molasses in saucepan and cook until boiling point is reached. Remove from heat, add soda, and beat. Then add milk, egg well beaten, and remaining ingredients mixed and sifted. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. in shallow pan.

SPONGE CAKE

Yolks 6 eggs, 1 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, grated rind ½ lemon, whites 6 eggs, 1 cup flour, ¼ teaspoon salt. Beat yolks until thick, add sugar gradually, and continue beating. Add lemon juice, rind and whites of eggs beaten stiff and dry. When whites are partially mixed with yolks, remove beater, and carefully cut and fold in flour mixed and sifted with salt, using a slotted spoon. Bake in buttered angel cake pan or narrow, deep pan for about one hour at 300 deg. Fahr.

SWEET CUCUMBER RELISH

Four quarts cucumbers, 2 quarts sliced or chopped green tomatoes, 1 quart chopped onions, 3 tablespoons dry mustard, 3 pints vinegar, 3 cups light brown sugar, 3 tablespoons salt. Sprinkle the salt over the prepared vegetables. Boil mustard, sugar and vinegar together, then add the vegetables and if liked add 1 teaspoon celery seed. Cook 15 minutes, and seal while boiling hot.

Watch next week for recipe for Eccles Cakes.

Question: I am a constant reader and admirer of your cooking page. Will you please help me again by answering this coming Saturday. As you see the crabapples will not be long for sale this time of year. It is the making of crabapple preserves so that they stay nice and whole with their queue to eat with? Also your green tomato sliced, cooked with vinegar and spices as a catsup. I thought you would print some of these in four Fall recipes but you had other goodies so I am forced to bother you again. Thanking you, Mrs. N. P.

ANSWER: Thank you for your kind letter.

Preserved Crabapples

Wash crabapples well. Make a syrup of 1 part sugar to 1 part water, or for every cup of sugar that you use add a cup of water. Bring to boiling point and boil 5 minutes. Pack the crabapples in sterilized jars with the stems pointing up as much as possible, fill jars to overflowing with boiling hot syrup and seal. Process in hot water bath having the water come to within 2 inches of tops of jars for 15 minutes after water in boiler has reached boiling point. Tighten seal and remove as soon as possible. Cinnamon bark and whole cloves and lemon rind may be added to the syrup if desired.

Green Tomato Pickle

One peck green tomatoes, 3 large onions, 3 sweet red peppers. Chop fine and spread in layers, sprinkling each with salt until ¼ cup salt is used. Let stand overnight and drain. Add 2 tablespoons mustard seed, and 1 tablespoon celery seed, and 1 quart hot vinegar. Boil 5 minutes, add ½ lb. sugar and cook till vegetables are tender—about 20 or 25 minutes then seal.

We hope you like these and that this copy reaches the paper in time for the vegetables and fruits.

Tomato Sauce

(Contributed by Mrs. M. McK.)

A most delicious sauce and easy to keep.

Ten tomatoes, 1 lemon, 1 onion, ½ tablespoon salt, 1 tablespoon allspice, 1 teaspoon pepper, 1½ cups brown sugar, ¼ cup vinegar. Cook all together until thick, then strain through sieve and bottle hot.

Last year I made nine kinds of pickles and this was the best. Mrs. M. McK.

Answer: Thank you for such a thoughtful letter and for all the time you spent copying out these nice recipes. Indeed I would like the recipe for Mincemeat that you recommend—and hope we continue to be of service to you and good friends.

MOTHERS ARE RESPONSIBLE

The family looks to you to aid your doctor in keeping them well. You can help prevent much illness and poor health by guarding them from common constipation.

Most constipation comes from faulty diet—meals low in "bulk." This condition can be corrected so easily and pleasantly.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides the safe way to prevent constipation by putting "bulk" back in the diet. Within the body, ALL-BRAN absorbs twice its weight in water, forming a soft mass which gently sponges out the system.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B and iron. It is so much better for your family than constant dosing with artificial pills and drugs.

Two tablespoonfuls daily as a cereal, with milk or cream, or in recipes, are enough for the average person. Three times daily in severe cases.

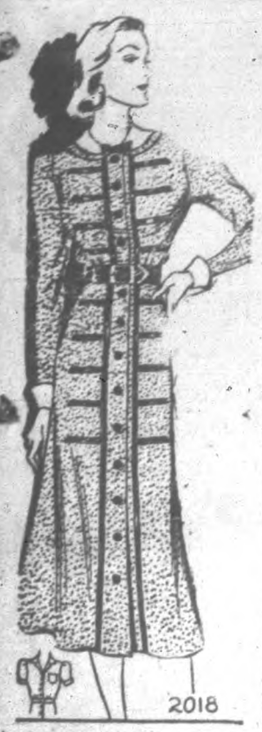
Fashion Service



A straight simple wool crepe dress for daughter to try her skill as a dressmaker. It buttons down the front, has a flattering little bodice, and slim-hipped skirt that flares slightly at the hem. It echoes a military note in the attractive braid trim arrangement. Another clever idea is a bright gold zipper right up from the hem to the shirt collar and another across the top of the pocket. Again plaid wool is splendid for this quick-to-sew model. A step-by step instruction chart included.

Style No. 2018 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 30, 32, 34, 36 and 38-inches bust. Size 16 requires 3¾ yards of 39-inch material with ½ yard of 39-inch contrasting and 5 yards of braid.

METAL CLOTHS THAT ATTAIN THAT NEW LOOK

Metallics Popular for Dresses and Blouses Also for Accessories and Trimmings—Adding Interest to Frocks

By Lisbeth

They say that there is nothing new under the sun. But there are many things in fashion circles this year, that, while they may not be new, have a decidedly new angle.

There are materials, such as duvetyne and broadcloth, whose popularity has been revived, and one sees them used for handsome suits and dresses, both in black and deep, rich colors.

Then there is lambskin being used by the very smartest Paris dressmakers for swanky evening wraps.

And in the matter of shoes, they are taking on the colors of the costume with which they are worn, for daytime as well as for evening.

Combinations of materials are also used in original ways, London dressmakers combining velvet with tweed, rich blouses of satin or velvet being part of a rough tweed sports suit.

Nothing bizarre is presented in these two dresses, but they are very lovely and outstanding, nevertheless. The model is Mary Livingston, wife of Jack Benny, whose voice you hear frequently over the radio and who is now making pictures.

Black, Gold Combined

Black and gold are combined effectively in the dress she shows at the left of our illustration. It is a brocade with molded waistline which is accented by a narrow cord covered with the brocade and tied in a loose knot. The fullness of the short sleeves is accentuated by a lining of crisp taffeta, and about the hem of the skirt a wide, corded treatment is used.

Again and again we see how popular is the use of metallic materials, both for whole dresses and for trimmings and accessories. Included in Miss Livingston's personal wardrobe is the dinner gown of gray and silver cloth, right. It has the new slender silhouette which eliminates a waistline but stresses the importance of softness supplied by a vertical flounce of the fabric at the bodice. Shoulders are covered by soft, wide, short sleeves, and twin clips of rubies and diamonds add a note of color which is reflected in a single bracelet.

Following the service, a social hour was spent in the Parish Hall, refreshments being served by members of the W.A.

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion held their regular monthly meeting in the Legion Hall with a splendid attendance of members.

Mrs. E. Millard, who has retired as secretary owing to press of other duties, was presented with a leather club bag in appreciation of her services. The presentation was made by the president, Mrs. Walter Hughes, on behalf of the Auxiliary. The new secretary is Mrs. E. Minkinstery.

The main item of business at Monday night's meeting was the discussion of plans for the anniversary tea to be held in the Legion Hall on the 20th of October. The auxiliary is also making arrangements for a bazaar to be held the last week of November. As relief convenor, Mrs. Joseph Mills brought a wonderful report to the meeting.

Queen Alexandra H. and S. Association.

A large amount of business was discussed at the regular meeting of the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association held in the kindergarten room on Monday evening and presided over by the president, Mrs. L. M. Richardson. All the convenors reported, indicating that work is well under organization for the year.

J. Nichols, as special speaker for the evening, gave a practical talk on Mental Health, in which he pointed out that while physical health has been emphasized and rightly so, mental health is much more important. Modern education trains children not so much to be 'bundles of facts,' as to be efficient and useful people. The speaker showed the difference between those mentally ill, and those mentally defective. Mental illness is varied, and due to many causes. Children are divided into two classes, good and bad, the symptoms being noted by Mr. Nichols, and helpful suggestions given for their treatment. The speaker left several pertinent questions with his audience.

Miss Hamilton brought to the attention of the meeting the activities of the different branches of the Y.W.C.A., and the contemplated improvements.

A short musical program consisted of two delightful piano solos, played by Thelma Zavitz, and Douglas Morrow.

Plans were made by the Association to hold an autumn tea on October 20.

ABERHART SHOVES 10 BILLS THROUGH BESIDES NEWS GAG

before the Repeal Bill was introduced.

Seven Others Through

The seven other bills given third reading were the bill to increase taxation on banks, amending the Debt Adjustment Act, amending the Coal Mines Regulation Act, amending the Male Minimum Wage Act, amending the Pipe Line Act, respecting Sessional Indemnities and amending the Income Tax Act. The Pipe Line Act will become law on proclamation but all other acts become law on assent by the Lieutenant-Governor.

Affecting newspapers, the bill "to ensure the publication of accurate news and information" provided newspapers must, when called upon by the chairman of the Social Credit Board, publish statements correcting or amplifying any statements relating to any policy or activity of the government. Disclosure of news sources and identity of writers of news or articles is provided.

The bill originally gave the board chairman authority to order publication of signed statements furnished by him relating to objects of government policies, means being taken and difficulties encountered in attaining such objects. An amendment changed the section to give the chairman authority to order publication of any signed statement "which has for its object the correction or amplification of any statements relating to any policy or activity of the government of the province published by that newspaper within the next preceding 31 days."

Another Amendment.

The section that previously required up to one page of a daily newspaper and one-tenth of the total issue of other newspapers was amended to specify the same length, type and prominence must be given the correction as had been given the "mis-statement."

Another amendment approved in committee said the corrective or clarifying statement must be submitted in the same language as used in the publication and another clarified the section protecting the newspaper from action under the Libel and Slander Act. Where the Bill previously set fines of $500 and $1,000 it was made to read not exceeding $500 to $1,000.

Replacing one of the Bills disallowed in August by the Federal Government, the Bill amending and consolidating the credit of Alberta Regulation Act substituted the term "credit institution" for "bank" and "business of dealing in credit" for "banking."

The Bill provides for establishment of one or more local directorates to supervise, direct, and control the business of dealing in credit and licensing of credit institutions.

Application of licensing of trades and business, are outlined in the Bill amending and consolidating the Licensing Act. Exceptions are made where businesses or professions are covered by other Acts and if exempted by order of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council.

The Act increasing bank taxation increased from one-tenth to one-half per cent. the tax on paid-up capital and imposed a new tax of one per cent. on reserve funds and undivided profits on banks. The two taxes are expected to yield about $2,000,000.

asked where he stood on the C.I.O. and Mr. Rowe reiterated his stand for free association. The man shot other questions and the crowd cried, "Throw him out."

"No, don't throw him out, because I'm glad there is one left in the city of Toronto," Mr. Rowe said. "Leave him in, as I don't want the McCullaghs and the Slaghts and the O'Connors to be dejected too much."

(C. George McCullagh is publisher of the Toronto Globe and Mail, A. G. Slaght a member of Parliament, and Senator Frank P. O'Connor a Liberal.)

After other interruptions, the crowd took a hand and the interrupter was ejected.

Nine Contracts Let In U. S.

Mr. Rowe said the administration in the last 18 months had granted nine contracts to United States interests for 23,000 square miles of Northern Ontario timber and seven of these had been given without calling for tender.

In no other part of the government had there been such "graft" as in administration of the liquor law, he said. "If you were a Hepburn supporter, any place you pitched a tent you could get a license," Mr. Rowe said. "Then if you were a Conservative you'd have difficulty in getting one unless you paid."

Because of the crowd around the hall, Goldwin Elgie, Conservative candidate in Toronto Woodbine, could not gain admittance in time to be introduced with the other Toronto candidates by Joseph Harris, M.P., chairman.

Mussolini was believed to have sent 20-year-old Bruno to the Spanish civil war with his blessing. Bruno generally is pointed out as one of the foremost exponents of his father's motto, "Live dangerously."

OREGON TRAIL JOB WILL BE CANCELLED LANCASTER SAYS

"Send me back as one of at least the sixty members Hon. Earl Rowe will lead in the next Legislature after October 6. Give me a few more years to finish the roads we started up here. I'll do the job and I'll do it right."

These were the concluding prediction and promise of T. P. Lancaster, M.L.A., at the Conservative meeting at Apsley Monday night, winding up his campaign in the rural area of the riding.

Rev. C. A. G. Spence was chairman of the meeting in the Anglican parish hall, and the speakers were Gordon K. Fraser of Burleigh Falls, Fred Marshall of Peterborough, Gordon Ford and George Burson of Toronto, Frank Leonard, M.L.A., Wentworth, supporting the candidate. The hall was crowded with men and women from Apsley and the surrounding townships of Chandos, Burleigh and Anstruther.

Mr. Lancaster said that he would confine his address to local issues in which residents of the north-eastern section of the county were especially interested. Various issues of the election were discussed by the speakers who preceded him.

"We started the road from Burleigh to Apsley and the six miles from here to Paudash Lake. Those six miles are actually not completed. The new government completed the road and then abandoned it. The road running north from here to Paudash was changed at the request of a Liberal heeler, and since then they have just mucked around on it for the last three years. Most of the Bobcaygeon road to Kinmount is all right, but they have left two miles uncompleted, and there are two miles they haven't finished on the Nogie's Creek road.

When we were building the Burleigh Road we were fair to everybody, and I am proud of our record. It was unemployment relief work, and every reeve in the county got notice to send men. Rork Ferguson, M.P., then reeve of Asphodel, sent as many as the next one. Reeve Anderson of Otonabee sent some and so on. They picked the men. We had nothing to do with it. We didn't enquire what a man's religion or politics was. Have you noticed anything like that up here in the last two years.

There was a piece of paving down in Havelock, and before a man could get a job on it he had to have a ticket from Bruce Curtis, a prominent Liberal. Most of the men who applied were on relief, but you couldn't get a ticket unless you were a Grit. All I hope is that I live long enough to finish the job I started.

After October 6 there will be a clean up in this section, and how! I am not blaming the Liberal government for the situation that has existed here. I blame the local Liberals, and not all of them."

Mr. Lancaster's reply was—"You have heard of Grimm's fairy tales; there's a case of it."

After October 6 we will proceed to finish the Burleigh Road to Paudash Lake. Mr. McQuesten promised that it would be done this year. The contract was let to the Billy Construction Company, an Italian of Smith's Falls, but he abandoned it. The Johnston Construction Company was asked about three weeks ago to send some men in there and make a show until the elections. And that's all they have been doing.

I promise you that we will hook up the Burleigh Road with Bancroft by this time next year.

I'll make another promise. I haven't heard one Liberal approve of the work that is being done on the Oregon trail. It is a criminal waste of money. But they have started to it while they have left all this other important work around here stand. I'll cancel that after October 6, and the road work around here will be finished first. After that if there is any demand for the Oregon trail we'll do something, but not before."

Mr. Lancaster said that on June 16, J. J. Duffus, M.P., made the statement that two main roads in Chandos had been taken over as secondary roads. Weeks later he had personally asked R. M. Smith, Deputy Minister of Highways about the assumption of certain Peterborough roads, and Mr. Smith replied that they had all been taken over except the two in Chandos. Mr. Lancaster said he was referring to the roads running north and east of Loon Lake. He said he would also try to obtain an improved road north from Havelock to Lasswade, and another to the Coe Hill road.

Mr. Lancaster said he wished to contradict the statements made by Warden Brown that the assumption by the Hepburn government of the entire cost of provincial highways, old age pensions and mothers' allowance had resulted in a saving to the tax payers of six mills on the dollar. The county tax rate in 1934 was 12.874 mills and in 1937 it was 9.815 mills, a decrease of less than three mills. Added to that was the mill refund the government had made. But, these two items together was considerably less than six mills, he stated, and the advantage was more than offset by the increased cost of school books which were now produced by a printing firm in who were friends of the Hepburn government.

MAINTAINING a private street through three blocks of midtown Manhattan costs Rockefeller Centre approximately $60,000 a year in property taxes alone.

Reduce fee on passenger cars $5.00 and cut licenses on trucks 25 per cent.

Abolish school examination fees.

Abolish amusement tax.

Lighten burden of taxation on masses of PEOPLE in many other ways.

THE ANSWER IS

Total Provincial expenditures in '34 were $113,000,000, and for year ending March, 1937, $81,000,000.

This reduction was accomplished by reducing cost of government.

A multitude of parasites living on public money in the regime of "Old Henry Gang" were fired and not replaced, including a host of needless liquor inspectors.

Economies started at the top by cutting Cabinet Ministers' salaries $2,000 each and selling 93 government cars maintained at the PEOPLE'S expense for Cabinet Ministers and others.

Appointment Of Inspector Deferred By City Council

Members Of Council Do Not Want To Disturb The Present Relief Administration

Somewhat in the nature of a surprise move, city council last night deferred appointment of a sanitary inspector.

With a recommendation before it from the property committee that Arthur G. Metheral, relief officer, receive the appointment, it had been expected the appointment would be confirmed.

Members of the council, however, appeared to be in general agreement with Alderman R. M. Glover who was not anxious to see Mr. Metheral get the appointment because he felt "it might mean the breaking up of a wonderful organization."

Alderman Glover believed that as city relief officer, Mr. Metheral had rendered outstanding service. He said he would like to see Mr. Metheral continue in that position and declared that among the other applicants for the position there was a young Bathelor of Arts graduate whom he thought the council might wish to consider further for the position.

Anticipating Mr. Metheral's appointment the relief committee report recommended, "that the matter of the work at the relief office be left to the chairman of this committee to arrange for it to be carried on after October 11, 1937, and that in the meantime Guy R. Quartermaine be paid at the rate of $25 a week from that date." The report however was not adopted but was laid over for presentation at the next meeting of council on motion of Alderman G. N. Gordon.

The Property Committee report was adopted only after amendment striking out clause 4, which had related to the recommended appointment of Mr. Metheral as sanitary inspector.

Resignation of Charles S. Stapleton as sanitary inspector was confirmed in adoption of the Property Committee report, and the city clerk was instructed to forward a letter of appreciation of his 20 years' service and to continue his salary until March 31, 1938.

Arising out of a motion introduced by Alderman Gordon, council appointed a special committee to study the matter of routing all through commercial traffic on roads that would avoid the residential and business sections.

In addition to Alderman Gordon, the committee consists of Mayor George A. Macdonald, Alderman James Juby, chairman Board of Works, Alderman Malcolm McIntyre, chairman Property Committee, and City Engineer Roy H. Parsons. The committee will report back to council.

Alderman Gordon contended that all through commercial traffic approaching the city on Highway 28 should enter or leave the city limits on Highway 7 cut-off, and that similar traffic entering or leaving from the north end should go by way of Armour road and Monaghan road.

He complained heavy commercial traffic was ruining city streets, and was turning residential streets into commercial thoroughfares. The condition was particularly bad on Reid street he said where heavy wood trucks lumbered past the Separate School and Roman Catholic Cathedral throughout the day, with milk traffic going through at nights.

389 MEMBERS ARE ENROLLED

Enrolment of a total of 389 members was reported by Y.M.C.A. campaign workers at a report supper in the association Monday night. Of that total 102 were new members.

All team captains were present and leaders hailed the campaign a great success to date. "Major" W. L. Ferguson's division led in points with a total of 3,225. One of the outstanding features of his division's report was the accomplishment of some of the new workers this year, notably that of Rolland Rennie with 23 members, and a group of three workers from the Brinton Carpet Company, Fred Watson, Sid Townsend and Tom Westwood who turned in a report including 9 new members. Jim Young was high man of the whole organization with 23 members.

Chairman C. S. Cummer complimented the workers on the fine showing made. George Nicholls and Arnold Lillow led the group in community singing. The campaign will be closed with a final meeting at 6.15 o'clock Wednesday evening.

Y.W.C.A. CAMPAIGN IS EXPLAINED TO LOCAL ROTARIANS

The splendid community work that is being done here by the Young Women's Christian Association and the necessity for the $60,000 objective which will be sought in the campaign to be held later in the month were effectively stressed before the Peterborough Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon Monday by a delegation of Y.W.C.A. officials, introduced by Rotarian Geo. A. Gillespie, who is chairman of the general campaign committee.

The speakers were Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner, president of the Association, Miss L. Brownscombe, general secretary, Miss Caroline Littlefield, head of the physical department and Mrs. Emma Morrison, resident superintendent.

Mrs. Kenner, the first speaker, began by saying that the directors realized that a big task was being tackled but they were not going into the thing with their eyes shut. She pointed out that Rotarians Gillespie, Dobbin, Abbott, Glover and others were connected with the campaign so that the Y.W.C.A. felt that they were very closely associated with the service club in the drive that was being undertaken.

The harvest, if the effort proved successful, would be two-fold. It would benefit the girls and young women of the community and in the second place it would prove a stimulus to the business and industrial life of Peterborough.

Miss Brownscombe in giving a general summary of the activities of the Y.W.C.A. said that the institution was meeting a need. She pointed out that the organization had been launched in Peterborough in 1891 and its work grew until the present building was built in 1904. The building was now in great need of repair and extensions were badly required if the work of the Y.W.C.A. was to be satisfactorily expanded. Miss Brownscombe stressed the fact that the institution gave 24 hours service and came into contact in some way or another with thousands of girls each year. She briefly outlined the various clubs and services connected with the Association, and described the work done at Camp Inglestane.

Miss Littlefield outlined a typical day in the gymnasium and swimming pool, pointing out that the work accomplished was effectively demonstrated each year in the swimming exhibitions and the annual Y.W.C.A. pageant. She informed the Rotarians that 400 children had attended the opening rally last Saturday, that 240 learned to swim every year, with 75 becoming so expert as to join life-saving classes and that 650 girls and women participated in the gymnasium classes.

Mrs. Morrison, resident superintendent, reported that the income from her department was $2,000 a year. In the last year the building housed from 90 to 125 persons, 300 transients had been accommodated and 71,000 meals served, although the kitchen department was far from adequate. The girls who boarded at the Y.W.C.A. she said included many teachers and students as well as large number of girls employed in business and industrial establishments.

In moving a vote of thanks, Rotarian Gillespie expressed confidence that Rotarians would get behind the campaign and that hope was echoed by President A. D. Runions.

WESTERN RELIEF IS BEING PLANNED

Peterborough citizens are to be called upon to repeat their contribution toward relief of destitute western Canada residents in a general community effort this year, the Ministerial Association announced today. A general community meeting to organize the effort has been scheduled for the City Council chamber this Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr and Rev. J. D. Paterson who will again supervise collection of relief goods say they are confident a relief contribution even larger than last year by reason of more prosperous times will be forthcoming from the city. Two carloads of fruit and vegetables were shipped last Fall.

Of the 266 candidates nominated, 89 are Conservative and 86 Liberal, leaving the old parties to duel for the right to form the next government. The Co-operative Commonwealth Federation has 37 candidates and supports two others running under the C.C.F.-Labor banner.

HOUSING PROBLEM WORRIES COUNCIL AS WINTER NEARS

With the onset of winter, the Relief Committee is to consider the matter of accommodating six families now on relief who are living in tents.

Calling attention to an item in The Examiner at a meeting of the Council last night, Alderman G. N. Gordon, K.C., suggested that because of the acute shortage of houses in the city and the unwillingness of landlords with vacant property to accommodate reliefees, "these people should be put out in the township," and the city should get houses for them.

"Suppose you can't get them out." Alderman Stocker suggested having reference to unsuccessful attempts that were recently made by the city to have a relief recipient deported.

"There are five cases of sickness among these tent dwellers now, and anything we can do for them might be more economical in the long run, than paying hospital costs," Alderman Gordon replied.

He contended that one man with a family "is down to eighty pounds in weight, and believed that generally speaking most of the people on relief were only about fifty per cent. efficient physically.

For the month recently ended unemployment relief cost the city $4,597.51. The major item was $2,509.27 for provisions, other supplies being as follows: Milk, $395.56; fuel, $304.50; clothing, $194.68; medicine, $1.82; rent, $817.14; doctors, $284.55.

The total number of individuals on relief last month was 813. There were 194 heads of families; 562 dependent on heads of families; 36 single women, and 21 single men.

Two hundred and twenty-three orders for milk were issued; 138 orders for fuel; 133 orders for rent; and 89 orders for clothing, while the relief officer made 147 inspections and investigations.

A letter from Ed. Horton, of the Unemployment Relief Board, Toronto, was referred by Council to the Relief Committee and Mothers' Allowance Board.

It read in part:

"In view of the approach of colder weather and the difficulty which some families on Mothers' Allowance might experience in providing fuel during the winter, municipalities may provide fuel to the said families and include this item in the relief submitted to the Department."

TO SEEK ADVICE ON LAYING OUT MEMORIAL PARK

After adopting the report of the Parks Committee confirming acceptance by the city of Ashburnham Memorial Park, city council last night enacted a by-law conveying the park lands from Ashburnham Women's Patriotic League to the Corporation of the City of Peterborough.

A suitable tablet is to be placed in the park with the name "Ashburnham Memorial Park" and showing that is was deeded to the city by the League.

In connection with plans for future development of the pfoperty the Mayor is to interview J. J. Duffus, M.P., with a view of having a qualified man from the Dominion government come here to give advice for development of the Memorial Park and Crescent Street Boulevard.

When he asked "what about the cost?" of a government man coming here, Alderman G. N. Gordon, K.C., was told by Alderman Walter Stocker, chairman of the Parks committee, "Nothing. We will not even have to pay for his lunches."

Owing to the lack of funds the question of building a new sidewalk on the west side of Water street, between Brock and Hunter street, was shelved until next year.

In speaking to the question Alderman Hamilton declared that while the matter would have to be deferred, he would like to see a new sidewalk laid near the post office, as the present sidewalk was in a bad state of repair.

He suggested that when this work is done the sidewalk might be made narrower so as to widen out the roadway at that point.

Regarding the matter of an automatic wig-wag at George and Romaine street crossing of the C.N.R., as recommended by the Railway Board, it was referred to a committee of the Whole Council on motion of Alderman Gordon. In making his motion Alderman Gordon said he would like an opportunity of inspecting the location with other members of the council.

500 CANVASSERS WILL TAKE PART IN Y.W. CAMPAIGN

Splendid progress is being made in the obtaining of the required number of workers for the campaign, and out of a total of four hundred canvassers necessary for women's division, over two hundred and fifty had enrolelo to date. G. A. Gillespie, chairman of the forthcoming Y.W.C.A. campaign, said to-day.

In the men's division, the men's special names committee, under the charmanship of Thos. A. Mackay, manager of the Bank of Montreal, and comprised of leading business and professional men had practically completed their plans for the solicitation of their prospects.

The men's industrial group, under the chairmanship of C. S. Cummer, manager of the George street branch of the Bank of Montreal, with Robert Abbott as vice-chairman, had selected the following captains: Wm. W. Jeffries of Warne Bros., Charles Lacheur, Postmaster, J. A. McKone, Principal of the Peterborough Business College, J. L. Gillespie, of the Gillespie Garage, and Ken Kingston, of the Dominion Life Assurance Co. These captains plan to have their workers enrolled before the end of the week.

F. E. Johnston, assisted by Chas. Saunders of the Special Features committee have made arrangements through the kindness of the Regent and Capitol Theatres for the showing of moving picture features, depicting the work of the Y.W.C.A. in its various phases, and it was hoped many of Peterborough's prominent stores would lend their aid for window displays and other publicity features. It is the aim of the General Campaign Committee to have approximately five hundred workers in the organization.

Mistaken Idea.

Mr. Gillespie further stated there seemed to be a mistaken idea going abroad that the money contributed to help the Y.W.C.A. to make renovations and extend its activities would be spent outside of Peterborough. He wished to assure the public that very dollar contributed for this purpose would be spent in Peterborough, for the benefit of Peterborough's industries, merchants and workmen.

It has been the policy of the Board of Directors in purchasing supplies and other necesary articles, such as furniture, fittings, pool, etc., to deal with local merchants only, and that out of an average budget of $23,000 per year, practically every dollar is spent in Peterborough.

Mr. Gillespie further pointed out the campaign was similar to any mutual undertaking; in subscribing toward the $50,000 objective, the citizens were indirectly helping themselves, because the money so contributed would be funded back, in accordance with this policy, to industries, merchants, mechanics, artisans and workers, and aside from this fact, the value of the Y.W.C.A.'s services in behalf of the young girls of Peterborough, both physically and mentally, could not be estimated in dollars and cents, because thousands of these girls benefit by the education and physical activities of the Y.W.C.A. annually.

Another point Mr. Gillespie touched upon was the present buildings, so sorely in need of the necessary repairs and renovations, have been in use for thirty years, that aside from a small annual appeal made by the Y.W.C.A., the citizens of Peterborough during this period had never before been asked to make another contribution in this connection.

While it had been planned years ago to make these necessary improvements, past economic conditions prevented them doing so, until now the Board are arrived at the point where something had to be done, if the services of the Y.W.C.A. in behalf of Peterborough's citizens generally was not to be retarded and possibly brought to a standstill for the want of proper facilities and equipment.

Campaign headquarters reported that there would be a general Report Luncheon for the Campaign Committee in the Y.W.C.A. building, Simcoe street, Wednesday noon.

BURNING ISSUES OF 1937!

TYPHOON LASHES HONG KONG AREA

HONG KONG, Oct. 5.—(UP).—A dozen ships, including the big American liners President Wilson and President Jefferson, were battling a typhoon in the South China seas to-day.

The Wilson and the Jefferson, both Dollar S.S. Co. liners, radioed that the storm was "very severe."

The Wilson, en route to San Francisco, and the Jefferson, en rotue to this British Crown colony from Kobe, Japan, were supplying details of the storm to the local weather bureau, which was crippled to some extent a fortnight ago when Japanese warships seized the radio station at Pratas Shoals.

The Pratas Shoals station has been silent ever since the Japanese seized it for use as a base of operations in South China waters.

The Colonial Government here was represented to be "deeply concerner" at Japanese refusal to furnish weather information from the Pratas Shoals radio. It was said that shipping in the entire Hong Kong area was endangered.

MARMORA, Oct. 5.—About fifteen men started work on Friday morning on Forsythe street south of No. 7 Highway under the Ontario Department of Highways. A drain is being placed on each side of the roadway about six feet below the surface with pipe sufficient to carry off any water under ordinary conditions.

From a point about 1200 feet south of No. 7 Highway, this drain will empty into the drain on the north side of No. 7 Highway which was constructed about three years ago. South of that the water will be carried to the river. As soon as the drainage is completed the road will be paved with a surface similar to that in Stirling and other nearby places.

POLIO EPIDEMIC IS ABOUT OVER

TORONTO, Oct. 5 (CP)—If the adage "no news is good news" holds, the epidemic of infantile paralysis which has held many parts of Canada in its grip for nearly four months is about over. Only isolated reports of new cases marred the encouraging aspect of today's survey of the situation throughout the Dominion.

In Toronto, hardest hit centre with 604 cases of the disease recorded since June 10, only two patients were admitted to hospital yesterday. Dr. Gordon P. Jackson, medical officer of health for that city, gave out the cheerful announcement: "There have been only six new cases since Saturday noon."

Elsewhere throughout the Dominion—with the exception of St. Thomas, Ont., and northwestern Manitoba—similar improvement in the situation was noted.

In St. Thomas, parental fear of the contagious malady affected school attendance. Five new cases developed in the past three days, authorities reported last night, and teachers said many children were absent as a result. In one school, nearly 90 pupils did not attend yesterday.

Six new cases were recorded in Manitoba, three in Swan River and two in Sherridon, towns in the northern part of the province. The other was in Portage La Prairie, 65 miles west of Winnipeg.

REBATES COMING NEXT HYDRO BILL FOWLDS STATES

HASTINGS, Oct. 5—H. M. Fowlds, chairman of the Hastings Hydro commission, gave assurance to all members of the board at the regular monthly meeting Monday that the rebates promised on subscribers monthly accounts in August would be given on their next bills. The rebate of 10 per cent will amount to a total of $680.00. Considerable discussion on this matter followed. Reeve Fairman charged that the people have an impression of a two man commission, referring to the chairman and secretary, Mr. Coughlan, the secretary, stated that the account had been sent out before the refund was passed in August but the reeve said they were not.

E. M. Hess, linesman, reported two more broken street lights for the past month and that some wires had come down across the railroad tracks.

Reeve Fairman pointed out to the board that the peak load in August was the highest it has ever been, 100 H.P. was used for the month.

Correspondence was read from the Ontario H.E.P.C. regarding the annual report. An invitation was extended to the local board to attend the district convention in Kingston and also to address any inquiries to them at that time. No plans were made to attend. It was moved by Dr. Wilson, seconded by Reeve Fairman that the light on the corner of Water and Park streets have its location changed to the opposite side of the street and that cost of moving light be charged to the town.

The commission decided to look over a line where a new subscriber will want to be connected shortly but owing to close proximity to telephone wires some change will have to be made.

The board discussed four delinquent accounts, having received part payment on some.

The following accounts were passed: I. Bonds, $5.76; E. Hess, $8.80; C. Oliver, $17.75; Express 55c; A. Smith, $1.60; Ontario H.E.P.C., $47.00; E. Hess, $37.50; T. Coughlan, $14.58; Ontario H.E.P.C., $264.00; Bell Telephone Co., -2.96.

Adjournment was moved by Reeve Fairman and seconded by Dr. Wilson

DESERT THE WEST

SMITHVILLE, Ont., Oct. 5 (CP)—The Geddes brothers, Robert and Clarence, and their mother, Mrs. M. C. Geddes, have taken up residence on a farm in this district, near Hamilton. The brothers came from Hulme, Saskatchwan, a few days ago after drought which, they said, killed every crop since 1928. Two railway box cars brought their farm equipment, cattle and horses.

ALEX. L. ELLIOTT

I have known Mr. Alex. L. Elliott since he was a boy. He is a former partner of mine.

Day by day for several years, we were associated together in our practice, and I know him better than any person in this City.

He is a young man with much energy, and who possesses a high sense of justice, a practical knowledge of the City's and County's needs and he is honest, conscientious and faithful to his word.

Mr. Elliott with his youth, energy and sense of duty will make a member of parliament of whom we shall be proud.

An important centre like Peterborough is likely to be soon represented in the cabinet of Prime Minister Hepburn and by electing Mr. Elliott, this City will be doing much to promote the interests of residents.

I earnestly request my friends to support a man who is capable of giving the active service and energetic leadership we are expecting and are entitled to receive.

Yours Faithfully,
"G. N. GORDON."

HYDRO IS YOURS....USE IT!

THE SHOW MUST GO ON!

There is an unwritten law in the theatrical profession. Regardless of what happens—"the show must go on!" In thousands of theatres throughout Ontario this same traditional rule still applies, but in a different way. Today, "the show must go on"—with Hydro.

The "Talkies" and Hydro, bring to the cities and the small towns alike, the best the theatre offers in drama, music, comedy, while travelogues and news-reels bring a new form of education.

Hydro also makes it possible to enjoy your theatre night right through the hottest season, with the aid of air conditioning and cooling systems, which the majority of theatres now provide.

This same Hydro service that is essential for the "Talkies" is also necessary for night baseball, tennis, lawn bowling and other forms of night entertainment and sport, which electricity now makes it possible to enjoy to a much greater degree.

Thus in the realm of entertainment and sport—as in so many other phases of activity—Hydro—your Hydro—makes an essential contribution to a better, happier, healthier livelihood for the people of the Province of Ontario with its low-cost power.

The success of Hydro in being able to lower power costs in the past two years in the face of a general increase in the price of practically everything we use, is a noteworthy achievement. Its continuous efforts to lower these power costs still further, and extend the benefits which accrue throughout the Province of Ontario, is a matter in which you should be vitally interested.

The HYDRO ELECTRIC POWER COMMISSION of Ontario

The Premier Speaks to the People

THE campaign for the election of the government of this province closes tonight.

We have placed the record of the government before you fully, fairly and frankly.

To the best of my ability, I have discharged my duty as leader of the Government and Prime Minister of the Province. The record of the government during the past three and a half years justifies your endorsement.

Our opponents are led by the same group you summarily rejected and dismissed at the last election.

We ask for your mandate to carry on our labours in your interest.

I renew the pledge given to the people of Ontario when they elected me to the high office of Premier of the Province, that "I will give the best that is in me to make this province a better place in which to live."

The verdict is in your hands.

I cannot stress too strongly the importance of a decisive vote being cast. The balance of power should not be in the hands of any minority group.

Good government can be maintained in this country under our democratic system only by informed electors discharging their full duty.

I urge you to vote to-morrow. As a citizen this is your first duty and responsibility.

Hubbell And Gomez To Match Strikes In Opening Tussle

Indications Point To Smaller Gate For First Game Than Last Year

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.— (AP). — Giants and Yankees, both fit and both confident they hold a fistful of aces, held their final workouts early this afternoon, and at 1.30 p.m. E.S.T. to-morrow they smack into each other in the second straight "subway" series.

Two more substantial, complacent ball clubs probably never met in a world series since the annual fall frolics were inaugurated in 1903. Neither appears to be unduly excited nor awed, but, just the same, the series promises to be hard-fought and exciting.

The battle lines are definitely drawn, pending a last-minute change by Manager Bill Terry of the Giants or Joe McCarthy of the Yanks. Carl Hubbell, the Oklahoma farmer, will try to win his third straight series opener for the Giants, and Vernon (El Goofy) Gomez, another leftist, will toil for the Yanks.

Smaller Gate.

They are perhaps the leading southpaws in the game, and the prospect of a thrilling duel between them has led optimistic club officials to hope to break the world series attendance record of 86,809 set at the stadium a year ago. Indications to-day, however, were that the opening day attendance would not be much more than 50,000.

The Yanks' line-up is settled for the series with the same array that swamped the American League under a deluge of base hits, except that hard-hitting George Selkirk has recovered from a mid-season hurt just in time to take over the right field post. He, with Joe DiMaggio, Lou Gehrig and Bill Dickey, comprise he backbone of the Yankees' devastating attack.

Shift in Giants' Line.

The Giants, who are the weaker-hitting outfit and therefore compeled to consider every possible angle in their struggle for runs, will do considerable shifting about. Against Gomez to-morrow they will have big Hank Leiber, right-handed power hitter, playing centre field and batting clean-up. When Red Ruffing, a right hander, takes the hill for the Yanks in the second tussle, Lou Chiozza will be in the middle pasture for the Giants, with Jimmy Ripple batting fourth.

Terry, who has so far recovered from his influenza that he took a few outs at the plate in yesterday's practice, has delegated the veteran Gus Mancuso to catch Hubbell.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

In presenting the Perry Giffin trophy for novice competition on the lawn bowling greens and sponsored by the Peterborough Examiner, A. R. Kennedy said—"Just how you men can come up here night after night and throw these bowls from one end of this green to the other, until the wee small hours of the morning, and go home to a happy reception is beyond me. But when I look around and see the nature of the prizes given to the successful winners I know why."

In a short and witty address, Mr. Kennedy acting on behalf of the sponsors presented the prizes to winners of this competition and in giving the trophy to H. Darling he requested the first place winner to hold the trophy with great esteem as the late Mr. Giffen was a man who would give a bowling trophy for the sake of bowling alone.

The annual meeting of the men's section of the club was held last night (Monday) in the clubhouse with President Walter Oke in the chair. Following the usual opening business, the different chairmen were called upon to give an account of the work done by their respective committees—J. D. Fitzpatrick spoke for the social committee and gave in detail what had been accomplished by them. C. Williamson spoke for the greens and B. Chesler for the property boards. Robert Hendry gave an elaborate account of the heavy work done by games committee and pleaded for more co-operation between the committees and the general membership. He suggested that next year's membership committee look very carefully into the records of the skips before re-appointments should be made with the idea in mind it might eliminate a number of defaults.

Following this the meeting was thrown open to general discussion and many useful ideas, in the form of suggestions were passed on the games committee.

LAKEFIELD

DORIS CHITTICK SENIOR WINNER IN SPORTS DAY

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 5.—The third annual Rugby dance held by the Athletic Association and Literary Society of Lakefield High School, at the conclusion of the annual Field Day which was staged on Friday afternoon, October 1, was one of the most successful dances that the school has held. This is the first year that the annual Rugby dance has fallen on the night of sports day and the idea was voted such a success that it is likely to become a regular custom.

Despite bad weather during the day, a lot of interest was shown in the sporting events, the entry lists being larger than ever. A nice crowd of enthusiastic onlookers cheered the contestants on to victory, and gave evidence of the support which parents and friends of the school pupils are anxious to give to the worthwhile part of the school's work.

In the evening, Mose Yokom and his band provided good music for round dancing, but had to take a back seat during the square dancing sets when a number of High School pupils, including the Leahy Bros. and Wellie Garbutt, with Gerrard Delaney as caller gave lovers of this version of the dance a treat.

A general feeling of gaiety and good-will pervading the hall contributed toward making the evening a decided success.

Bulgarian Regains European Mat Championship

A crowd of 30,000 saw the Bulgarian wrestler, Dan Koloff, regain the European wrestling title and gold belt which he lost to Pereira in Paris three months ago. Pereira visited the stadium at Sofia, Bulgaria, for this return match and was defeated after a tough contest. The first fall came after 26 minutes. Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

TOMORROW SEES the start of the world's series—ah, yes, by the way, there's an election tomorrow, too—in N'Yawk. Millions of words will be sent to millions of ball fans in Canada and the States describing every pitch and every putout. It is the deluxe diamond denouement. And Webster's says denouement means "the winding up or catastrophe of a plot, the solution of any mystery, the event or outcome." Which covers the Manhattan subway serial very nicely. We will get it via direct Canadian Press wire each day, the play-by-play coming in to this office within a few minutes of the actual happenings on the field at the Polo Grounds and Yankee Stadium. We will have phone and bulletin service for local fans. And the story in the paper each night.

* * * * * * *

HAVING SEEN neither the Yanks nor the Giants play this year, we should qualify as a baseball expert in this series. But, for a change, we won't do any heavy predicting. On their season's record, the Yanks should slug their way to another title. Though the Giants are hot now and have two great twirlers ready. Seems to us most fans around here would like to see the Terrymen take the title, but we wouldn't bet the price of a nickel cigar on their chances. Looks like the Yanks to us again. One thing you must give the pro ball moguls credit for, they don't play all season and then declare over half the teams in on playoffs as the puck men do. The best team in each loop clashes in the world's baseball series.

CITY 5-PIN Bowling League meets tonight at 7.30 in Duffus' and teams wanting to enter should be represented. There were 16 in last year but we understand they'll cut down on it this winter—get rid of some of the poorer ones. Four or five are set to go now but others have been slow getting organized. Better hustle before the schedule is drawn up. Chief George Gimblett is president this season, with Roy Lewis vice-prexy, Walter Firth secretary, and Bill Martyn the treasurer. And ye bird of time is on the wing.

* * * * * * *

IT IS gravy time for the Toronto Grads and the O.B.A.A.—after Moodie Tigers of Hamilton had their bowl of it. We mean the way the money is split up in this senior Ontario baseball final serial. Unofficially, we hear that in the semi-finals the Oshawa GM-men got around $24 as their share of the gate in Hamilton, but handed out something like $180 to the Tigers at the game in Oshawa. And that the Motor Citizens received the munificent sum of approximately $55 in Toronto but handed over more than $200 when the Grads visited Oshawa. And, of course, the O.B.A.A. takes a healthy slice out of all playoff gate. So it would look like the C.O.B.L. is a most lucrative league for senior squads of other circuits and the parent body. The Oshawa outfit hollered muchly about the final series being three-in-five instead of two-in-three, but they would now have been eliminated had the shorter series been ordered.

* * * * * * *

REVIEWING THE debacle there Saturday, the Oshawa writer points out that only three of the GM-men's hits figured in runs, a triple by Foley, a single by Mathews and Rowden's homer. Eight others were wasted and 12 men were left stranded. Doug May fanned three times, once with the sacks loaded, Hurst failed twice with Foley in scoring position, and both Wallace and Jubenville fell down at the platter. He adds: "Mathews walked twice and reached first once on a hit and once on an an error, while Tommy Foley had four hits out of five, and Doc had three, including his homer. The three 'big guns' held their end up." He is also a bit critical of a couple of costly Motor City miscues and Biddle's lapse in the second frame when all Toronto runs were scored off him. But the gent is still fairly hopeful that his gang will come through for another Provincial title.

* * * * * * *

AND THE Lindsay Post word-juggler has some things to say about the grid game there last weekend. Points out that, while Meikle is a great booter and good ball-carrier, the Lindsay lads often made him look good with poor tackling. He says Chuck Peck's coaching is shown in the improved play of the Galloping Ghosts. "From present appearances," says he, "it looks like Cobourg and Peterborough are the teams that will battle for the group title. Playing as they did on Saturday, Cobourg would beat the Toronto Eastsides by a big score." Ye scrivener adds that Peterborough rugby officials were there Saturday wanting Lindsay to play here next Saturday and on the Scugog gridiron next Monday, but the Lindsay gang couldn't see coming here owing to many minor injuries. At that, we dunno how it could be worked, since Oshawa's junior and senior school squads open the C.O.S.S.A. schedule against our P.C.I. teams here this Saturday.

COMES A query from the Warder of Lindsay, asking how come we call the Blue Bombers the Cerulean Snipers—saying the players there don't know what we mean. 'Tis quite simple and just some more of our mental meandering. Cerulean means sky-colored blue and snipers are gunners or shooters. Hence, Blue Bombers—Cerulean Snipers—blue-clad shooters. Following their lamentable lack of gunning 'gainst the Ghosts, it might be more fitting to term 'em the Cerulean Casualties, or don't you care?

ANNUAL MEETING of the C.O.B.L. will be held in Belleville on October 16th, being moved up about three weeks this year. Taking a squint at it from the secure spot of a sixth-storey window, it looks to us like there will be a bit of activity at this huddle. We dusted off the old crystal-ball and saw some interesting dope. Such as three important offices changing hands, President Max Swanston and Secretary Newt Thompson up and retired, and Vice-Prexy Art Casterton moved into the head chair. Mayhap, the other scribes around and about will call us dizzier than six blonds on a merry-go-round but that's what we see ahead in the C.O.B.L.

* * * * * * *

DESE, DEM and dose: The P.C.I. gridders will have their new garnet-and-gray sweaters for the Oshawa game here Sat-day . . . . Immaculate Conception church bowling loop started at Duffus' last night, 10 teams being in action . . . . Local lacrossers feel a bit better since their conquerors, the Cheltenham-Inglewood Combines, won the O.A.L.A. title . . . . Walt Gerger was in Detroit to see the last American League games . . . . Albert Collich at Belleville is rated a potent pack in C.O.S.S.A. circles this fall . . . . Rosa Endicott of Lindsay, bowling for the first time the other eve, had a score of 345, including six straight strikes . . . . Oshawa intermediate ballsters meet Ingersoll next in O.B.A.A. quarter-finals . . . . Polish White Eagles, who rubbed out Westclox men softballers, tangle with Stratford at Guelph tomorrow in the deciding game for the Ontario championship . . . . Wonder if the "Tall Texan", who went from here to see the world's series, will get his tonsils sunburned looking up at the Empire State Building in New York.

CANADA WILL ENTER DAVIS CUP CONTEST

MONTREAL, Oct. 5.—(CP).—Canada will re-enter Davis Cup tennis competition in 1938, R. N. Watt, President of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association, announced last night.

Canada has not competed in the international competition since 1934. Dearth of players of Davis Cup calibre was the reason generally ascribed for the Dominion's withdrawal from the tournaments.

The tennis association head made no declaration as to why it had been decided Canada should again try for the trophy, but the United States' winning of the cup this year was conceded to have been a big factor in the decision.

While France and Great Britain held the trophy, competition among challengers in the American zone had to be held early in the season. Climatic reasons left Canada at a disadvantage, her players having little but indoor play behind them when tournament time rolled around.

Entry Is Favorable

With the United States holding the cup now, American zone play will come later in the summer, since the challenge round will be in the United States. Further, the U. S. absence from elimination rounds will leave Canada stacked up against teams nearer her own class.

Clancy Promises Open Hockey For His Montreal Maroons

Tommy Cook Of Cleveland To Play With Quebec Club This Year

MONTREAL, Oct. 5. — (CP) — Frank (King) Clancy came down from Ottawa yesterday to take over the coaching reins of Montreal Maroons in the National Hockey League from Club President Tommy Gorman. But the little abdication-coronation ceremony was interrupted by Johnny Ferraro, the football man.

Announced as leader of the Maroon team when Gorman decided his duties as Manager of Montreal Forum would take too much of his time this winter, Clancy landed a coaching job nine months after his retirement as a player. He began his professional career under Gorman at Ottawa.

The change-over was entirely informal, and was made more so by Ferraro, who had to inform Clancy—the country's No. 1 football fan—just what his Montreal Indians would do to Ottawa Rough Riders in their Big Four opener Saturday. Otherwise, the event was marked by the announcement the Maroons would train this fall at Lake Placid, N. Y., and by Ferraro's denial he would retire from the active ranks.

Message for Smythe.

Clancy was looking over equipment in the Maroon dressing-room when Gorman walked in.

"H'lo, Frank," greeted the President. "You ready to take over?"

"Hullo, Tommy," returned Coach Clancy. "Ready any time you say."

"Okay, Frank. Come up to the office when you finish here, eh?"

Thus installed, Clancy turned to give a promised interview. He started right off by letting it be known his former boss with Toronto Maple Leafs, Conny Smythe, need have no fear about Maroons' style of play.

"We're going to have a good, fast, young club that will keep moving," Clancy declared. "Conny needn't worry about us playing open hockey, because that's what we're going to feature.

"If we find we have defensemen who can rush, they'll rush," he went on. 'Anyway, this team is well equipped with forwards and they're going to step this winter."

Maroons have no deals on the fire, Clancy said, but they bought Tommy Cook from Cleveland of the International-American League last week and they expect to draw one or two bright prospects from amateur ranks. Most promising of the amateurs who will try out are Buddy O'Connor, with Montreal Royals last season; Johnny Wing and Maurice Croghan, Quebec, and Frankie Sullivan, Regina.

In burst Ferraro, and it was minutes before the conversation got around to hockey again.

Goody Rosen Of The Brooklyn Dodgers To Help Conacher In Political Fight

TORONTO, Oct. 5 (CP).—Goody Rosen, product of Toronto sandlots who made good in bigtime baseball with a batting average of .306 for Brooklyn Dodgers, was back in his home town today to take a last-minute hand in the Ontario elections.

Rosen, 24 years old, 155 pounds, went to the Dodgers after an apprenticeship as an outfielder with Louisville in the American Association. He played in 21 games in the month he was with Brooklyn, winding up the season Sunday.

Because he thought he "might be able to help" his friend Lionel Conacher, who stepped from major league hockey to contest Toronto Bracondale as a Liberal candidate, Rosen hurried back to Toronto. He said he was also lending a hand to John Glass, Liberal standard-bearer in Toronto St. Andrew. Conacher, big brain of the Montreal Maroons in the National Hockey League, retired recently.

Rosen is confident he can remain in the majors, where he found the pitchers go to work on a batter's weak spots. In the minor leagues, pitchers "just try to get ahead of the batter without thinking how to do it." He thinks Burleigh Grimes, Dodger pilot, a "smart manager" and expects to be back with Brooklyn next season.

34 ASPIRANTS FOR POSITIONS HOCKEY SCHOOL

WINNIPEG, Oct. 5.—(CP).—Six members of last year's New York Rovers are among the 34 ambitious youngsters who reported to-day for first practice sessions of Lester Patrick's fourth annual hockey school.

Gathered from Western Canada, Ontario and the United States, aspirants for a place with Rovers of the Eastern United States' Amateur Hockey League skated travel-kinks out of their legs in a light workout.

Patrick, grey-haired maestro of New York Rangers in the National Hockey League, intimated his school classes would confine training for the next few days to skating.

Two goalkeepers, 12 defencemen, 12 wingers and eight centremen are on the list. Manitoba provided 16, Saskatchewan nine, Alberta two, British Columbia one, Ontario five, and Minnesota one of Patrick's students.

Rovers seeking places on the team for the second year are Lloyd Allsby, Tony Desmarais, both of Regina; Murdo McKay, Fort William; Al Collings, Winnipeg; Walter Rimstad, Edmonton and Sid Fenn, Trail, B.C.

Of the newcomers, Alf Pike, flashy forward of Winnipeg Monarchs, 1937 Canadian junior hockey champions, Wilbert Hiller, Kitchener, Ont., forward, and Harry Braithwaite, Toronto goalie, are slated to earn a Rover berth, so officials of the Rangers' organization may watch their development.

Remember When—

(By The Canadian Press)

Referee Harry Ertle announced 8 hours after the Young Stribling-Mike McTigue light heavyweight boxing championship fight that it was a draw. From the ring at Columbus, Ga., 14 years ago tonight, Ertle declared it a draw and then gave the verdict to Stribling, the challenger, because angry spectators intimidated him.

Sports Spice

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.— (AP)—Looks like Gomez and Hubbell in the opener....St. Louis Cardinals have signed a young pitcher named Jack Card from Ogden, Utah....His first pitching effort was a no run, no hitter and 23 batters whiffed....Sacramento will be glad to see him next spring....Ossie Solem of Syracuse shares honors with Tiny Thornhill of Stanford as the biggest football coach in the biz....Ossie stands six foot four, and tips the old beam at 236....Doesn't smoke, chew or swear (quite a guy) and the only way his boys can tell he's on edge is by a different pitch in his voice.

Mebbe Pitt's opponents can chuckle this one off: When the Panthers made a short jump to Morgantown to play West Virginia, two guys who played 20 minutes each in the Rose Bowl last January weren't considered good enough to go....Also another boy who played in the 1935 Rose Bowl game, can't make the travelling squad now....And Jock Sutherland continues to bawl (with five loaves of bread under each arm)....Oh, oh....That young Bussey, now running hog wild for Louisiana State, received his first national recognition in this column two years ago.

Highest paid athlete in the world series will be Jack Saltgaver, Yankee utility infielder....He has been at bat only 11 times this season, but will get a full share of the series loot.

Six Sports Writers Will Cover Series

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 (C.P.).—Fast and accurate accounts of this year's World Series will be carried to Canadian newspapers by the Canadian Press through the reports of six baseball writers.

Coverage from the ball parks will be under the direction of Alan Gould, Associated Press general sports editor, working in his 16th consecutive World Series. He will dictate the play-by-play and write the general leads.

Paul Mickelson will handle descriptive clubhouse stories and managers' comments. Others, covering grand stand activities and highlights are Bill Boni, Eddie Brietz, Gayle Talbot, and Sid Feder.

Bears Making Fight Of Series, Atley Donald Shuts Out Birds

Newark Back In Contending Position For Minor Ball Honors

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 5 (AP). — Columbus Red Birds, champions of the American Association, had somewhat of an inkling today of how and why Newark Bears, their opponents in the little world series, won the International League flag by a 25½-game margin.

After winning the first three games of the minor league classic at Newark, the Red Birds had an idea that the "best-of-seven" series was in the bag. But the Bears bounced right back Saturday night to beat the Birds 8-1 on the local lot, and last night they won 1-0.

The Birds still are leading, three games to two, but after getting but one run in the last 19 innings, and with the prospect of facing Vito Tamulis, Bear pitcher, who won 18 and lost 6 during the regular season, the home town boys aren't so sure Newark won't tie it up tonight.

Baseball Attendance Shows Fair Increase

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 (AP).—Major league baseball attendance for the season just closed, within striking distance of all time records, showed a 10 per cent. increase over last year's figures.

Semi-official compilation today by the Associated Press disclosed a grand total of 9,457,497 fans passed through the turnstiles of the 16 American and National League clubs.

This compared with an aggregate of 8,585,000 in 1936, producing a total increase of 872,497.

The tall-time "high" was reached in 1930, when the total attendance for the two major circuits reached 10,186,000.

Detroit Tigers, second place club in the American League, set the attendance pace with a total of 1,181,000, a record for home game attendance in the motor city.

The most exasperating thing to me as a teacher is a situation I run across too often.

A player well along in years and suffering from faults of long standing will come to me for help. He will spend hours if I will listen telling me how he has suffered from these faults and how much he would give if he could get rid of them.

Every time I listen to one of these stories I wonder at my own patience, for I know just how the matter will end.

After being a good listener I take the player at his word about wanting very much to overcome his faults and proceed to show him how to make the proper movements. He tries to do them, and after a few failures, replies: "I guess there's no use of me trying to eliminate faults or learn anything new. You can't teach an old dog new tricks."

To me this speech is the last straw and I'm going to put down something here that I've longed to tell such players. It is never too late to learn something new if you have the patience and the willingness to give the new thing the proper attention. In other words, I believe that the main reason most faults of long standing remain with the player is because he does not apply himself properly in trying to eliminate them. I don't mean that learning something new in golf is as easy as rolling off a log, but it can be done.

Veteran Walberg Reaches End of Trail

BOSTON, Oct. 5 (AP)—The end of the major league trail beckoned tonight for Lefty Rube Walberg, 38-year-old Boston Red Sox pitcher, whose unconditional release was announced by Eddie Collins, general manager of the Boston Club.

Walberg came to the Sox in 1933 from the Athletics, for whom he won one game and lost one in three World Series. He also was a potent factor in the Mackmen's pennant drives. He won six and lost seven for Boston this year.

Alphonse Thomas, whom the Sox signed in August, also was released unconditionally.

TERRIERS BEAT WINNIPEG 23-8

WINNIPEG, Oct. 5 (C.P.). — Orillia Terriers' mighty lacrosse machine smothered Elmwood Pats 23-8 in a sudden-death, Dominion playdown game here last night, but for 30 minutes the scrappy Winnipeg team gave the Mann Cup champions plenty to worry about.

Heavy favorites, Orillia went into the game determined to set down Elmwood as decisively as they did in the 1935 playdowns, and they did the trick by exactly the same top-heavy score.

But the lightweight Pats, giving all they had in the "grudge" game to try and atone for the previous defeat, threw the steam-rolling Orillians out of gear for the first two periods, and held them to 10-5 at half-time.

Terriers swung into their championship stride in the third quarter to pile up an eight-goal lead and then swamp Elmwoods in the final period with seven more goals while holding Pats scoreless.

Orillia will play Calgary Rangers, Alberta champions, in High River, Alta., on Wednesday for the right to advance into the Dominion final against New Westminster Salmonbellies, British Columbia titlists. Ernie Curran, Orillia ace forward, led the scoring with seven goals.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA GETS LOOP POINT

King Edward Public School, Soccer League leaders, dropped a valuable league point yesterday (Monday) afternoon to Queen Alexandra in a snappy tussle all the way, with the count one-all—first-half goals.

First Half.

Langton, King Edward, set the ball rolling to get Queen Alexandra defence in a quandary until they got accustomed to their positions, but it was not before the South-enders had gained a succession of corner-kicks that always ended in Woodgate repulsing them at the logical moment. Raid after raid was instituted by the North-enders to find Foster, at centre-half, dominating the play. He robbed the attack of a sure goal and cleared upfield where Jamieson connected with a drive across the goal after he had drawn the defence out of position thereby permitting Leether to send a low grounder into the net after the goalie had come out of goal to stop him. Their success was short-lived because Lewis gathered up a loose play to out-run the fullbacks and went right into the goalie to get the equalizer. Half-time—One goal each.

Second Half.

On resuming, King Edward wing men travelled down the wing time and again to find the Queen Alexandra full-backs unbeatable. Lewis again broke away to be blocked by Foster as he had an open field in front of him. Langton kept swinging the ball to the wings in an endeavor to make an opening that never materialized. Play ran from end to end with Gaskill carrying the ball into the full-backs to gain flag kicks that went past. Ten minutes to go, the forwards worked hard to get the break, but the defence held the forwards out of the shooting zone. King Edward 1, Queen Alexandra 1.

Goal scorers—Leether, King Edward; Lewis, Queen Alexandra.

Queen Alexandra — L. Lehman, goal; H. Staunton and A. Woodgate, full backs; W. Lewis, R. Simmonds, and B. Cocks, halves; J. Gaskill, M. Richardson, P. Wellwood, N. Harvey, and R. Kirn, forwards; subs., E. McEwen and J. Stevenson.

King Edward — W. Curtis, goal; L. Shea and H. Dalliday, full-backs; A. McMaster, T. Foster and K. Anderson, halves; R. Leether, C. Murduff, K. Langton, H. Foster, and D. Jamieson, forwards; sub., J. Weaver. Referee—D. Buchan.

BRADMAN AS GOLFER

Indications Point To 70,000 Crowd In Opening Game Of World Series

NEW YORK, Oct. 4 (A.P.).—Whether you're excited about it or not, the Giants and Yankees are going to be at it again day after to-morrow, seven falls to a decision.

Indications are that a record crowd of near 70,000 will be crammed into the enlarged Yankee Ball Park when Carl Hubbell, the Giants' old reliable, wanders out there on his skinny legs and starts wheeling his screwball across, just like he did a year ago.

All the other trappings are so familiar that some fan is bound to remark that he believes this is where he came in. The only thing that might be altered somewhat is the eventful result. Last time the brutish Yankees slapped the ears off their little playmates from across the Harlem River in six games. The Giants, hot as a baked potato right now, don't think that will happen again, but most of the so-called smart money around Broadway thinks it will.

Bill Terry, manager and master mind of the Giants, has recovered from a siege of influenza in the nick of time and will be in there matching wits, as the boys say, with Marse Joe McCarthy of the Yankees. There is widespread opinion, incidentally, that McCarthy outthought Bill by several percentage points in their 1936 joust, and terry, no doubt, is anxious for another

GOWAN RINK WINS TIP TOP TROPHY

(Examiner Correspondent.)

HASTINGS, Oct. 5. — G. D. Gowan's rink defeated the rink of Frank Daly Monday night 20 to 9 to win the Tip Top Tailor trophy, emblematic of the bowling championship in the Hastings League. Two games were played Monday evening, the first between Mr. Gowan's rink and Bert Lemoire to decide the best rink in the second half of the schedule. The result of this game was 19 to 9 in favor of Gowan's. The second game followed immediately when Gowan emerged again victorious to take the cup and wind up the bowling in Hastings for another season.

Rinks were as follows: Fred Crate, Herb Stephenson, Dr. Campbell and Frank Daly (skip); Stan. Stevenson, Jack Doherty, Leo Rivard and G. Gowan (skip); Albert Brooks, Frank Pantling, J. V. Findlay and Bert Lemoire (skip).

HALIFAX.—Unable to mend a cow's broken leg by placing a splint over the fracture a Halifax County farmer sawed the leg off and gave the animal a wooden limb.

Boston Amateur Hockeyists Seek Berth In Quebec Senior Circuit

BOSTON, Oct. 5.—(CP).—Any proposal which would permit a Boston amateur senior hockey team to enter a Quebec league would be received with great enthusiasm here, Walter Brown, manager of the Boston Olympics, said Monday in commenting on a visit here of Vice-President Ulysse Paquin of the Quebec Provincial Hockey League.

"A scheme whereby Boston would play home and home games with each of the Quebec entries would be perfect," Brown said. He said his team was "as strictly an amateur hockey club as it is possible to be" and was handicapped by being too far away to enter Easter United States Amateur Hockey League.

The Olympics team, made up of Dartmouth, Boston, Yale and Harvard graduates, all working in and around Boston, last season defeated Montreal Canadiens and Montreal Victorias in Boston.

"We're anxious to develop our amateur players here and any agreement whereby we could make week-end trips to Montreal and play, say, Saturday and Sunday, would be ideal," Brown said. "I, of course, don't know exactly what Paquin has to offer, but if there can be any tie-up of this nature, we certainly would welcome it here."

Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S CIDER TRAP.

"Cider! Cider! Sweet Cider!" shouted the animal boys and girls as they danced around the pressing apple mill Uncle Wiggily had made from a basket and some heavy stones.

"Do you like it?" asked the rabbit gentleman as he saw Baby Bunty filling her glass again.

"Oh, it's lovely!" said the orphan rabbit. "No wonder the bees and wasps come to sip the sweet juice of the apples crushed on the ground."

"Well don't take too much of it," Uncle Wiggily warned the animal children. "A little cider, when it is fresh and sweet, is good for you. But too much isn't."

So the animal children played and danced around Uncle Wiggily's cider mill. The heavy stones on top of the burlap bag of apples pulp pressed out the last drops of the sweet cider.

When the animal children had enough they ran away, still singing and dancing. As for Uncle Wiggily, he took a few drinks of cider and then, sitting on a stump near where he had made the cooling apple juice, he fell asleep.

Fops Off

He didn't fall very far nor did he hurt himself. But his eyes closed, his pink nose stopped twinkling and soon he was fast, fast asleep.

It was about this time that the Fox and Bob Cat started out from the Bob Cat's den to go to Uncle Wiggily's bungalow. A little while before this the Fox had passed the end of Uncle Wiggily's garden where the cider mill had been set up. Hearing merry, laughing voices, the Fox looked over the fence.

"Oh, ho!" snickered the Bad Chap. "A cider party, eh! So Uncle Wiggily is giving a cider party? Well, I think this is just the chance I want. But I'd better go get help. There are too many animal children there for me to go after Uncle Wiggily alone."

So the Fox slunk to the den of the Bob Cat, where he found that short-tailed animal gnawing a piece of wood.

"Why are you doing that?" asked the Fox.

"Because I'm hungry!" mewed the Bob Cat.

"Come with me and you shall nibble Uncle Wiggily," promised the Fox.

"Oh, goodie!" mewed the Bob Cat.

The Fox led him to where Uncle Wiggily had been making cider for the animal children. But the children were gone now and only Mr. Longears was asleep beside the basket with the big, heavy pressing stones in it.

Danger.

"This is our chance!" mewed the Bob Cat.

"It surely is!" yapped the Fox.

Soft as were their voices, they awakened Uncle Wiggily. He opened his eyes, saw the two Bad Chaps ready to grab him and right away he thought of a trap to catch them.

"I suppose, gentlemen," he said (calling the Bad Chaps gentlemen which they weren't), "I suppose you have come to nibble me."

"Yes!" snarled the Fox and Bob Cat.

"But first have a drink of cider," invited Mr. Longears. "Hold your paws here," he said, pointing to the stand on which was the basket of heavy cider stones. This the Fox and Bob Cat did. Then, all of a sudden, Uncle Wiggily tipped over the basket. Out slid the heavy stones and they fell on the paws of the Bad Chaps, holding them fast. They couldn't pull away and Mr. Longears hopped to his bungalow.

"Ha! Ha!" he laughed. "How do you like my cider trap?"

So it all happened for the best. And if the coffee pot doesn't boil over and try to put out the gas stove when it should boil the potatoes, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's trumpet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

CALLING FOR AN EXIT

HIGH-LOW signals do not merely constitute a request that your partner make leads of particular suits. In certain cases, you can announce that you hold a fairly high card in a suit and beg your partner to discard a higher one so that he will not be thrown into the lead by an end-play.

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

To South's initial 1-Heart call on this deal, North responded with 1-Spade, South rebid at 2-Hearts, North raised to 3-Hearts, and South went to 4-Hearts. Perhaps sounder bidding against keen opponents, who make good use of all unnecessary information vouchsafed, might have been a straight heart raise by North without ever showing the spades.

West led his diamond queen to the ace, and the king took the next diamond. South now ruffed a third diamond in dummy, led a trump to the ace, and took the trump return with the jack. Next came the club ace and a lead to the king. The declarer intended then to try to throw East in with his club queen, and make him pitch into the spade tenace or else offer a diamond ruff-and-discard. East, however, noticed his partner play the eight and then the deuce on the club leads, indicating a possible winner there, so discarded the queen on the second club. West therefore won the third with his jack and came through the spades, setting the contract.

SAFE IN TIENTSIN

CALGARY, Oct. 5 (C.P.). — Rev. Thomas T. Falchney, Canadian missionary at Tientsin, China, is safe and unharmed, according to a letter received from him by a friend here on Saturday. The letter was written in August.

Mr. Falchney, a former pastor here, said some fighting had taken place a short distance from his home but that he had not been involved in any of it.

"The Japanese have all the city now except the concessions," he wrote.

DEAD RECKONING

BY BRUCE HAMILTON

READ THIS FIRST:

Tim Kennedy has been writing a suicide note to himself in his wife's handwriting. He had graduated into a would-be homicide from the school of armchair murderers.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 3.

At the time of his wife's accident Kennedy was 49, but he looked at least 10 years older. It was not a case of being worn out before his time by troubles and anxiety, for his lot had mostly fallen among pleasant places, and his pink, clear-skinned countenance was smooth and unlined. Those who knew him in his early days in the town hardly recalled him as ever being different: only his soft glossy hair and receded further from his forehead and became definitely gray, his gait and bearing had taken on a more sedate tempo: but his expression remained as ever, placid, serene, and a little timid.

It seemed rather as if Nature working on a caprice of her own, had decided to accelerate the external appearance of aging, without impairing his physical effectiveness. Strangers, supposing him to be over 60, would remark how well preserved and active he was, and add that his alertness and vigor would do credit to a man a dozen years his junior.

At first glance he did not appear particularly virile. There was a womanish look about his round cheeks and the rounded curve of his jaw, and his red mouth was small and delicate as a baby's. His soft voice, too, was pleasing as a really nice woman's voice is pleasing. Nevertheless, women were generally attracted to him. His approach to them was modest, but not bashful. They sensed a kinship and an understanding of their sex.

He was more than a bit of a dandy. He wore his clothes with a casual elegance that seemed inborn: whatever the weather or the occasion they were just right. Vanity peeped out here and there. His ties, socks and silk handkerchiefs were always perfectly matched. His shoes were always polished to a dazzling lustre, and he would go a considerable distance out of his way to avoid a risk of marring their beauty. Every week he drove 11 miles to his barber in Bradstock Wells. Neither of the local men came up to the standard he exacted, and in any case could not provide a manicure.

He was very fond of his hands, which were small and plump but with strong, delicate fingers; they never became moist, even in the hottest weather. His silky gray mustache was another point of pride with him. He wore it in two downward sweeps, noticeably longer than was the common fashion of the time. It was one of the things that made him look older than his years, but he did not realize this.

Though he had never been in Ireland, Tim's ancestry was Irish, and his manner had all the diffident charm and desire to please characteristic of that people. In conversation he rarely obtruded an opinion, but he was quick to apprehend the opinions of others, and to draw them out. There was no insincerity about this: politics, religion, and all the more familiar material of controversy meant so little to him that he found it more natural, and a great deal more pleasant, to follow a lead rather than take a line of his own.

Purchasing popularity on these terms was as easy to him as breathing. It cannot be too strongly emphasized that is cost him nothing. The truth was that he had no convictions about politics or religion because he had no interest in anything except himself. His desires, his comforts, his amusements, his health, his financial and social security, were everything to him. Within him glimmered a white flame of pure egotism hat nothing could extinguish.

Materially his egotism showed partly in his vanity, but more notably in a quiet obstinate skill in getting his way in all things, great and small alike. It was his happy talent never to have to make himself unpleasant in enforcing his own will. His domestic character was as urbane as his social one. He was never importunate, never angry, never upset.

On matters affecting his immediate desires he was indifferent to arguments, impervious to snubs, and impossible to withstand. "Please do this little thing for me," he would say, by voice or expression, and in the end you would come to think that you were in the wrong, that you had been ungentle and unaccommodating. He would accept your surrender with graciousness and tact. You could not help liking him.

At the time under consideration Tim had been established for 20 years (with an interval for war service) as a dentist at the small town of West Shilston, situated in the high country toward the north-eastern part of Sussex.

West Shilston has acquired some importance as being the only settlement of any size on the main road from London to Westbourne, between which it is almost exactly halfway. The development of motor traffic has brought it a rapid growth along lines impossible to justify esthetically. Bastard Tudor villas and asbestos bungalows have proliferated liberally on and off the main road, and in the course of 20 years the population has risen from 5,000 odd to 8,000. Nevertheless, the town retains a modest comeliness and decent dignity at its heart; and its two main streets, which are part of the Westbourne road and from a right angle afford in their broad and quietly casual style a faint reminiscence of coaching days.

The people are mainly of the middle class; pensioners of all grades find it a convenient place for retirement, and there is a strong enough element of gentry to compose some sort of local society. But the increasingly easy accessibility of London is weakening the hold of the latter class: it is becoming ever more urbanized, and, dividing its interests between West Shilston and the metropolis, no longer retains sufficient concentration to impose effectively its will and its standards upon the community.

In 1911, after two years in a London dental clinic, Tim Kennedy came to this place—a slight, pleasant-looking but inconspicuous young man whose arrival made no sort of a stir in the town. He put up his plate in the High street, where he occupied three rooms on the top floor over a florist's shop. The front one, of fair size, he made into his surgery; the two at the back considerably smaller, became respectively a waiting room and his dining, sleeping, and living room. The wife of the florist downstairs gave him a little service, but he performed most of his simple domestic arrangements himself. He had no clerk or maid. Patients were encouraged to climb his separate stairway without ringing the outside bell, and he himself would open the upstairs front door which he had built in.

He was poor in these early years. He had settled at West Shilston for a variety of reasons— a fancy for the place conceived on a cycling tour during a dental college vacation, a sense that the town was likely to grow, a belief that the high air would benefit a slight pulmonary trouble from which he then believed himself to be suffering.

For the first few years patients came along slowly. Mostly they were of the working or small shopkeeping class: he made little or no progress with the upper bourgeoisie and gentry. On this more lucrative sort of patient—or rather on those who did not get their teeth seen to in London—his rivals had a firm grip. Jameson, the Scotsman, had been in the town for nearly 40 years, and for those with a fancy for more up-to-date clinical methods, there were the partners, Taylor and Evans, lusty, bold-faced young men, great cricketers, golfers and tennis players, very much about the younger set.

Nevertheless, Kennedy's practice showed a steady, if not spectacular growth, and it was noted that he kept his patients. For he was a good dentist, slow but sure in diagnosis, firm and decisive in action. His strong, delicate fingers were of great service to him. He was infinitely painstaking, his fillings never came out, and he never extracted a tooth he saw any chance of saving. He had a sensitive perception about pain, would go to unlimited trouble to avoid inflicting it, and was not afraid of using drugs.

He was his own dental mechanic, and showed the same technical dexterity and thoroughness over the manufacture and fitting of dentures as he did with his work on living teeth. Also, he started the custom—hitherto unknown in West Shilston—of periodically scraping his patients' teeth and cleaning their dentures on his own initiative, without making any charge.

BRITISH WARSHIPS BEING JERRY-BUILT EXPERT CHARGES

LONDON, Oct. 5 (C.P.). — "The nation's resources are being squandered on ships which will fail us in the day of battle," charges Captain Bernard Acworth, former commander of the anti-submarine flotilla with twenty years' service in submarines, in the most recent of the many books he has written on the sea and ships.

Formerly naval correspondent of several prominent newspapers, Acworth's opinion is highly regarded. Yet it was to his factual charts and statistics that editorial writers pointed with alarm.

"Floating whitehalls, monstrous aquatic dinosaurs, immense targets for air bombs," is Acworth's description of the five new 35,000-ton battleships laid down at a cost of £8,000,000 ($39,610,000) each. He contends that ship-for-ship and arm-for-arm British armaments are seriously inferior to corresponding units in foreign navies.

Fears for Trade Routes.

For the sake of a few extra knots of speed, he says, new ships are jerry-built; to save every ounce of weight even the coats of paint have been reduced, yet the complexity of new offices, cabinets, refrigerators, hot-cupboards, soda-water fountains, ice-cream machines, and cool drinking water confound him.

Acworth says that should any naval power throw in her lot with Japan, the British Navy would be unable to keep trade routes and communications open.

Valuable fighting characteristics, he says, have been lost by excessively arming and protecting battleships against airplanes, which menace, he contends, is over-rated. Owing to their size British battleships were to be unnecessarily vulnerable to gunfire, bombs and torpedoes. The lighter surface vessels were to be inadequately protected against gunfire, and for their tonnage they would be poorly armed. Guns and armor, says Captain Acworth, seem to have been sacrificed for extreme speeds and endurance.

The Algerie (French), the Zara (Italy), the Atago (Japan), or the Astoria (United States), all of 10,000 tons, could in each case send any of Great Britain's fifteen cruisers of similar tonnage to the bottom if superior guns and armor have greater fighting worth than an extra 1,200 tons or so of oil carried by Britain's cruisers.

Against Oil Burners.

To construct warships with both eyes on the air is, he contends, to construct a battle fleet "which, when faced with action, will find that it has been fortified against a menace which is an insubstantial dream, and which has thus sacrificed characteristics which the realities of battle will prove to have been vital."

By the end of 1937 there will be 168 ships on the stocks; and of these the author declares "78 will be of little or no military value."

Acworth resumes in this book, "Britain in Danger," his older campaign against the policy of oil-burning ships. He would have the Admiralty revert to a dual fuel policy, advocating coal burners as the alternative in view of the Navy's dependence on an uninterrupted supply of oil from foreign lands.

2-MONTH STRIKE ENDS, SOREL MILLS

SOREL, Que., Oct. 5 (CP).—Factory wheels spun and the vanguard of 1,200 men who struck August 4 from five Sorel steel mills returned to their machines today. The others will follow as additional work becomes available.

The dispute, resulting in three walkouts this year, ended during the weekend, but neither the companies nor the National Catholic Syndicate, representing the workers, would reveal the terms. It was learned unofficially the open shop would prevail in all five plants and there would be no collective agreement at present. Nothing was divulged regarding outcome of the wage controversy which started the strikes.

The agreement ending the trouble, it was reported, was signed Saturday by Mgr. P. S. Desranleau, parish priest of St. Pierre Church, acting for the union, and by Joseph Simard, director and manager of the five firms. The companies affected are Manseau Shipyards, Limited; Marine Industries, Limited; Sorel Steel Foundries, Limited; Sorel Mechanical Shops, Limited, and Sorel Cast Iron Foundry.

SAVED FROM FIRE MAN DIES, PROBE ON

WINCHESTER, Ont., Oct. 5 (C.P.). — Provincial Police to-day investigated the death of 71-year-old Ward Pitcher of Chesterville, Ont., who died yesterday after he was found slumped in a baby's crib at his home.

Coroner Peter McLaughlin said he would consult Crown Attorney J. G. Harkness of Cornwall to-day whether an inquest would be held.

The aged man was found by Robert Ouderkirk, who said he had gone to the Pitcher home to investigate a fire he had seen there. He said the door was locked, but he smashed it down.

He found a small fire smouldering in a partition between two rooms on the ground floor. He said he also saw another man slumped in one corner of the room who told him Pitcher was upstairs.

Pitcher was taken to a hotel. His condition grew worse and he was removed to a private home where he died.

Constable Garnet McLean of Chesterville said he found a number of bottles of liquor in Pitcher's home and in an upstairs room found a broken lamp chimney. There was also a number of empty bottles, he said.

SPECIAL SERVICES AT FALLIS LINE WELL ATTENDED

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Oct. 5.—Fallis Line church was filled to capacity on Sunday afternoon and evening on the occasion of its anniversary services, which were of a harvest thanksgiving character, with Rev. Gordon Porter, M.A., of Canton, as the guest preacher.

The choir of St. Andrew's church, Millbrook, furnished special music for the services, the double quartette sung by Mrs. H. W. Johnston, Mrs. M. McDowell, Mrs. F. L. Edworthy, Miss Eva Hansman, and Messrs. W. H. Coombe, M. McDowell, F. L. and Earl Edworthy, "Saviour Breathe an Evening Blessing," being particularly enjoyed by the large congregation. The fall blossoms, foliage, and fruits used for decorative purpose added to the beauty of the house of worship.

"I am very glad to have this privilege of standing in the pulpit here on your anniversary occasion, in the community where my mother taught in her earlier years. Doubtless a number whom I see before me sat under her teaching, and now you are present to hear her son." So stated Rev. Mr. Porter in his introductory remarks, the pastor, Rev. A. L. Siscoe, being absent taking the visiting preacher's work for the day.

"Wells digged which thou diggest not" (Deut. 6:11) were the words from which Mr. Porter preached an inspiring sermon at the afternoon service, reviewing the various reasons for which we are today indebted to the past, such as the character of our homes; our inheritance in the field of literature, particularly the Bible; our political liberty; and above all in the field of religion. "Keep these wells open for those who come after us. Let God hold us and keep us from sliding from the great plan for which our fathers lived, and may He Himself implant the desire within our hearts to do something to make this a fairer world to live in—wells from which we can draw water, and keep them open so that our children may still be blessed in them."

Personals

On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Byam's guests at their home, Bank Street, included Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Daniel, Mr. and Mrs. David Lloyd, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Webster, of Cambray, and Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Byam of Tyrone.

And you, Mr. Working Man, are paying the bill!

Ontario Keeps Strike Police At Estimated Cost of $40,000

Hon. H. C. Nixon, provincial secretary, today confirmed statements made by Conservative Leader Earl Rowe that reserve provincial police who were drafted into the force at the time of the Oshawa strike are still on the provincial payroll.

"I don't recall the exact arrangement," the provincial secretary said. "It is a matter, of course, for the police, but as I remember a number of them were retained in a reserve capacity and a little financial inducement was extended to them."

Officials of the attorney-general's department confirmed the report. "We are paying these men $100 a year," one official stated. "For this they are expected to hold themselves in readiness for duty if we find it necessary to call upon them."

It is unofficially estimated that 400 men are retained in this reserve capacity, involving a cost to the government of $40,000 a year. The men, according to informants, are not required to drill, and some of them, it is said, are known to have accepted steady employment, though still drawing the yearly stipend from the government.

TOKYO REPLIES TO ROOSEVELT WITH WARNING

Trouble If Demands Of "Have Nots" Refused

TOKYO, Oct. 6.—(AP)— Japan officially answered President Roosevelts condemnation of aggressor nations to-day with a warning "Peace will be difficult to maintain" if the demands of the "have not" nations are refused.

The foreign office spokesman said in reply to the United States' President's speech at Chicago yesterday "the ideals of right as conceived by western peoples is incompatible to that of the Orient."

He added Japan's demand was that the Japanese people be permitted to "enjoy the freedom of movement and happiness which is rightfuly theirs."

Harking back to the Japanese exclusion law passed by the United States in 1924, the spokesman characterized it as "one which is against the natural laws of mankind and is greatly deplored by the Japanese people."

"Japan's population has doubled during the past 50 years. Being crammed in such a limited area, Japan wants to send her people elsewhere but all outlets are denied by countries everywhere."

While the spokesman denied Japan was making any demands as a "have not" nation, he asserted:

"We hear of late a heated argument on the question of unequal distribution of resources between the have and the have not countries.

"If the haves refuse to concede to the rightful demands of the have nots, peace will be difficult to maintain."

Blames Chinese Despatches.

"We can not stay our hands out of respect for a world opinion formed on the basis of dispatches written by Chinese governmental officials. We believe the surest way to minimize suffering is to speed the conclusion. We will do everything possible to speed the end and bring the situation back to normal."

The Japanese comment was based on the obvious assumption that President Roosevelt's attack on aggressor nations was aimed, in part, at Japan's campaign against China.

"What Japan wants is peaceful cooperation between Japan and China. That cocperation China refused by force of arms, resulting in the present affair."

NO KING GRIEVANCE AGAINST HEPBURN

OTTAWA, Oct. 6 (CP)—Declaring that "so far as I am aware" there had never been any real differences between himself and Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario, Prime Minister Mackenzie King last night said he hoped for a Liberal victory in Ontario's general election. "I don't want to see a Tory government in Toronto," he said.

"So far as I can recollect I have never uttered a disrespectful word either to or about Mr. Hepburn," the prime minister said. His comments came at an interview when a questioner asked if his "breach" with Mr. Hepburn was now healed.

Mr. Mackenzie King referred to the absence of himself and several of his ministers from the public meeting held by Mr. Hepburn in Ottawa. His absence could in no way be interpreted as a snub, the prime minister said, since he had to leave Ottawa that day to keep an appointment in Quebec made months earlier when he was in England.

Due At Wedding

"I had no invitation to attend the meeting," Mr. Mackenzie King said, "but of course I knew it was being held. I had agreed to attend the wedding in Quebec of the daughter of Mr. Lapointe (Minister of Justice) and could not get there in time if I remained in Ottawa for the

Alberta's Governor Blocks Three Aberhart Bills

Withholds Signature 2 Bank Acts, Press Gag; Leaves Action To Ottawa—Unprecedented Move

OTTAWA, Oct. 6.—(CP)—Next step in the Alberta government's legislative efforts to establish Social Credit may be decided in Ottawa. As a result of Lieutenant-Governor Bowen's action in referring three bills unsigned to the Governor-General yesterday fate of the three acts passed at the special session will now be placed in the hands of the Dominion Government.

Some days may elapse before the acts are formally before the governor-general-in-council. In the meantime, Prime Minister Mackenzie King has refused to comment in any detail. The bills provide for increase in bank taxes, a measure of government control of banks and an act to "ensure the publication of accurate news and information."

Mr. Mackenzie King said last night he understood the bank acts were a repetition of those disallowed by the federal government in August. Asked as to his reaction to the press legislation, the Prime Minister said he was "for the freedom of the press and for the maintenance of fundamental liberty."

Making History.

Old observers here were of the opinion Alberta's lieutenant governor made history when he reserved assent yesterday and referred provincial statutes unsigned to the governor-general.

Constitutional students are watching with keen interest the situation created by the lieutenant-governor's refusal to follow the customary course of assenting to all legislation originated by his ministers and passed by the legislature. If the same circumstances arose between the governor-general of Canada and his executive council the result would almost inevitably be resignation of the government.

ROWE CONFIDENT PARTY WILL WIN WITH SIXTY SEATS

BARRIE, Ont., Oct. 6 (CP)—Hon. Earl Rowe, confident that by nightfall the people of Ontario would have returned a Conservative government to office, today awaited the result of the provincial general election in the seclusion of his farm home at nearby Newton Robinson.

The Conservative leader wound up the two-month campaign last night by predicting his party would win 60 seats, a gain of 43 over the 17 held at the dissolution of the last legislature. He said he was more confident of victory "than I have ever been in an election since I entered public life."

Mr. Rowe ended his tour of the province with two addresses last night, one here and the other at Bradford, 15 miles south of Barrie. In his Barrie address, he told a crowd which packed the armories that Premier Hepburn and Hon. L. J. Simpson Simpson, Minister of Education, had been "afraid" and "ashamed" to discuss the government's separate school legislation repealed at the last session of the legislature.

Disappointed Both Sides

He said the government had disappointed both public and separate school supporters by bringing in legislation giving separate schools a larger share of corporation taxes and repealing it at the last session. It had lost the confidence of both groups.

Mr. Rowe said of Premier Hepburn's opposition to the Committee for Industrial Organization that voters in Simcoe Centre, his home constituency, would not be "stampeded" by that wild red bogey." He promised that if elected his party would "preserve for you your individual right of free association with any organization you wish as long as you maintain law and order."

At Bradford, the Conservative leader said the government's legislation nullifying court action against the Hydro-Electric Power Commission was a threat to British rights in the province. He challenged any member of the audience to voice approval of a man who would pass such legislation.

MARSH TO SUPPLY 65 CARS PRODUCE

OTTAWA, Oct. 6.—(CP).—R. L. Wheeler, fruit commissioner, said last night the Dominion Department of Agriculture had offered 65 carloads of vegetables from the Holland Marsh growers at Bradford, Ont., to be shipped to the Western Canada drought areas.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner announced some time ago the government would buy a number of commodities across the country for such purposes. The Department will take charge of assembling the commodities which will consist of apples, potatoes, carrots, cabbage, cheese and cured fish.

Distribution of these commodities will be carried out under the Voluntary Relief committee in Saskatchewan and by similar organizations in Alberta.

Mining Boom Still On In Radium Area

Voting Rather Light During The Morning

However By One o'Clock One-Third Of Vote Was Cast In City

Peterborough took its time in voting up to noon to-day. From ten polling places it was reported the polling was rather light, but some of the Deputy Returning Officers informed The Examiner that one-third of the registered voters had claimed their ballots by one o'clock, indicating that with the afternoon before them until 7 p.m. the city electors would probably roll up a heavy total.

Two polls at Archie Brault's store Hilliard Street, reported 53 votes cast out of the possible 180 at one, and 82 of the 199 polled at the other by 1.30 p.m.

At J. S. Mason's house, Armour road, 59 of the 324 voters at one poll had marked their ballots, and 100 of the 300 at the other poll had voted.

J. H. Croker's house, Maude street, in the south ward, reported 90 of the 440 on that list already voted at 1 .30 p.m.

At J. C Harrison's house, 733 George street, 91 out of 314 had voted, and at B. R. Weese's house, 559 Harvey street, a double poll, the vote at 1.30 was 72 out of 237 at one and 53 out of 184 at the other.

Gloomy skies and a threat of rain tended to cut down the morning balloting, but the sun broke through the clouds at noon with every likelihood that the afternoon voting would be heavy.

A 38-POUND maskinonge measuring 51 inches, was caught by John Kinmich of Ellwood City, Pa., yesterday. Mr. Kinmich was the guest of George Griffin at Keneden Park on Pigeon River. Another member of the party caught two muskies, one weighing nineteen pounds, and the other sixteen pounds.

HAMILTON POLICE HUNTING STABBER AFTER MAN DIES

HAMILTON, Ont., Oct. 6 (CP).—Police today started a search for the slayer of Sidney Lawrence, brother of the only Co-operative Commonwealth Federation member of the last Ontario Legislature, a few hours after he died from a stab wound here.

Found unconscious on a sidewalk Monday, Lawrence was taken to hospital, where he declined to name his attacker. But a few hours before his death late last night he mentioned "an argument over the elections."

His brother, Sam Lawrence, is a candidate in today's general elections in Hamilton East constituency, which sent him to the Legislature in 1934.

Police who picked up the wounded Sidney Lawrence believed at first he was only slightly wounded, but medical examiners found a knife had pierced his bowel. He sank rapidly yesterday.

Convinced he was the victim of a murderous attack, police used every resource to prepare for a coroner's inquest, ordered by Dr. J. H. Mullen, chief coroner. Date of the inquest was not set.

Duke Off Sunday For Germany

PARIS, Oct. 6 (A.P.).— The Duke and Duchess of Windsor plan to leave for Germany on Sunday on the first stage of the survey of social problems which will take them to the United States, a friend of the Duke and Duchess said today.

It was understood they would stay briefly in the Reich, then return to Paris to prepare for the more extensive study in the United States.

Specific plans for the American trip have not been arranged. The Duke has accepted engagements in Paris for as late as October 27.

TORONTO. — Osgoode Hall Law School opened for the fall term today, two weeks behind schedule, because of the infantile paralysis epidemic. More than 300 students were present for first classes.

THREATENING RAIN KEEPS VOTE LIGHT UP UNTIL NOON

TORONTO, Oct. 6.—(CP).—Early voting in Ontario's general election to-day was reported light in many constituencies. While the weather was threatening and sultry, it appeared probable most of the province would escape rain during polling hours.

Political observers estimated the total vote would exceed 1,500,000, approximately the same total as in the 1934 general election, if rain held off. They expected a heavy afternoon vote, especially at rural polls.

While most cities and towns reported light voting between eight o'clock, E.S.T., when polls opened, and the noon hour, an exception was London. Voting there was described as one of the heaviest ever recorded at all city polls. Weather was dry.

There was no early rush to the polls, however, in Toronto's 13 constituencies and the morning vote was also reported comporatively

McCarthys Go Wild For Seven Runs, 5 Hits in Sixth

Hubbell Yanked by Terry in 6th After Holding Ruppertmen Hitless in 2, 3, 4 and 5th Frames

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Five hits off the mighty bats of the New York Yankees' Murderers' Row and two errors on the part of the Giants infield in the last of the sixth inning spelled the downfall of King Carl Hubbell, ace southpaw hurler for the Terrymen. The game, the first of the 1937 world series was under the control of Hubbell for the first five innings, the lanky left-hander holding his opponents to one single and retiring the side in order in the 2, 3, 4 and 5th frames.

Lazzeri added further to the Yankees' cause by clouting a homer into the lower field stands and the Yankees won the opener 8-1.

By Alan Gould
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Oct. 6.—(AP).—The 1937 World Series opened in a foggy setting today as rival left-handed aces, Carl Hubbell and Vernon Gomez, pitched for the Giants and Yankees, in the fifth renewal of the all New York rivalry.

Skies were overcast and mists shrouded the scene. The field was soggy after heavy overnight rains. Attendance was far below capacity and estimated from 45,000 to 50,000 at game time. Only the bleachers and boxes, representing the two extremes in seat prices were filled.

The batting order:

Yankee: Crosetti, s.s.; Rolfe, 3b.; Di Maggio, cf.; Gehrig, 1b.; Dickey, c; Hoag, lf.; Selkirk, rf.; Lazzeri, 2b.; Gomez, p.

Umpires—Plate, Ormsby, (A.L.); First Base, Barr, (N.L.); Second Base, Basil (A.L.); and Third Base, Stewart, (N.L.)

FIRST INNING

Giants.—Moore grounded out to Gehrig unassisted. Bartell singled on a sharp bounder just inside the third base line. Ott lifted a high fly to Gehrig. Leiber fanned, swinging at a fast ball, with the count two and two.

Yankees—Crosetti walked, the fourth ball being high and outside. Rolfe fanned, swinging at a screw ball. DiMaggio singled past Ott, Crosetti stopping at second. Gehrig lifted a high fly to Leiber in short right centre. The base runners did not try to advance after the catch. Dickey drove a long fly to Leiber, who made a nice running catch.

No runs, one hit, no errors; two left.

SECOND INNING.

Giants — Ripple filed to Hoag. McCarthy lined to Lazzeri, who took the ball off his shoetops. Mancuso lined to Selkirk.

No runs, no hits, no errors; none left.

Yankees — Hoag grounded out, Bartell to McCarthy. Selkirk bounced out, Whitehead to McCarthy, as he hit the first pitch. Hubbell made a nice gloved-hand stab of Lazzeri's hopper and threw him out.

No runs, no hits, no errors; none left.

THIRD INNING

Giants.—Crosetti made a neat stop of Whitehead's bounder behind second base and threw him out. Hubbbell lashed a long drive that Selkirk caught on the bank a few feet in front of the stands. Moore was thrown out, Gomez to Gehrig. The pitcher made a nice stop of a hard-hit grounder.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees.—Gomez grounded out on the first pitch, Whitehead to McCarthy. Crosetti filed to Moore with the count three and two. Rolfe hoisted a short fly to Moore.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

FOURTH INNING

Giants.—Bartell filed to Hoag on the first pitch. Ott was thrown out on a pretty play, Lazzeri to Gehrig. Tony grabbed a tricky hopper on the run behind second base. Leiber popped to Lazzeri who backed up on the grass for the catch.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

75-SEAT VICTORY HEPBURN CLAIMS; BOOED IN OSHAWA

GALT, Ont., Oct. 6 (C.P.).—Tired but confident, Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn to-day awaited the result of his second Ontario election at his farm home in Elgin County. Before leaving here after his final speech last night he predicted the Liberals would capture 75 seats in the Legislature of 90.

Mr. Hepburn's campaign came to a whirlwind finish yesterday with meetings at Oshawa, Kitchener, and Galt. The Oshawa meeting was stormy, the only really difficult one of the campaign.

Booed and hooted by a minority of an audience which jammed every inch of space in the Armouries, the Premier stood up to the barrage and secured a hearing.

"If you want a weak-kneed, vacillating leader, then don't elect me, because I'm going to carry on as before," he told the crowd as he referred to the General Motors strike of last April.

Loud cheers helped Mr. Hepburn to drown out the hecklers, and he declared it was a reflection on the City of Oshawa that the Prime Minister of the Province was unable to obtain a fair hearing. He charged few of the disturbers were citizens of Oshawa.

At Kitchener Mr. Hepburn said the big task confronting the Government after the election would be to see that working men got wages commensurate with modern living conditions. The Government had solved the Province's financial problems and made a good start on a solution of labor problems with the Industrial Standards Act.

The Galt meeting was the last, and here Mr. Hepburn indicated he proposed to turn over some of his executive responsibilities to other ministers after the election.

For the past three and a half years he had had to "keep my nose to the grindstone" owing to the necessity of straightening out the financial and other difficulties inherited from the previous Conservative Government.

League Warns Japan To Agree On 9-Power Settlement

Threatens Possibility Of International Action As Alternative In China Conflict

GENEVA, Oct. 6.— (AP) — The League of Nations Assembly today warned Japan of the possibility of International action unless she agrees to a peaceful nine-power settlement of the China conflict.

The Assembly unanimously approved resolutions containing the warning. Poland and Siam abstained from voting, but their attitude did not prevent unanimity because States which abstain in voting are considered absent.

Applause broke over the Assembly Hall as the Aga Khan, Assembly ed moral support of China and re the resolutions which condemn Japan for invasion of China and provide for the conference of the nine signatories to the pact guaranteeing the territorial integrity of China.

The League president was empowered to take necessary action for convoking the nine-power treaty signatories.

The strong League stand expresscommended that members should commended that members should refrain from taking any action that might weaken China's power of resistance.

A closing admonition was given League members to consider giving direct aid to the beleaguered Chinese.

The Assembly adjourned but remained subject to call whenever the international situation warrants.

Peru is expanding its public works program.

The usual bulletin service will be issued and then seven telephone operators will give out results.

Two Summers On Arctic Run Sends Doctor To Tropics

Hopes To Escape Operating On Board And Prescribing By Wirefess

By William Stewart
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

QUEBEC, Oct. 6.—(CP).—A couple of summers of doctoring in the Arctic have left Dr. Fernand Lizotte ready to swap his mittens and long underwear for tropical whites and sign up on a ship heading for the West Indies.

And that's just what the 33-year-old physician on the Canadian government icebreaker N. B. McLean has done. He'll soon be off to the south where you can get something better than a piece of board for an operating table and where the ice doesn't force you to do your diagnosing and prescribing by wireless. He has signed as doctor on the passenger vessel Lady Somers which runs to the British West Indies.

Those were a couple of the snags the doctor form Levis, Que., ran up against this summer while the McLean was patrolling the far-northern shipping route to Churchill, Man. As the powerful icebreaker lay here at the end of his second trip north, Dr. Lizotte told of treating a blood-poisoning case by wireless; removing an appendix aboard ship with the help of two of the crew, and treating an Eskimo cancer case.

Case of Poisoned Foot.

He told the staff of a wireless post at Cape Hope's Advance, in Hudson Strait, how to dress their cook's blood-poisoned foot, while the McLean lay more than 200 miles away.

Montreal, Oct. 6 (CP)

RESPONDING to an alarm, firemen were asked yesterday to find a place in jail for 18-year-old Marcel Beland. The youth's father explained later in court Marcel had pulled the alarm in hopes he would be sent to jail and avoid working for his father. Said Chief Judge Gustave Perrault: "We'll give him until November 22, and if he doesn't work for you we'll see what the court can do."

Cruise Keeps Mountie From Daughter Sees Her First At 2 Years Old

Vancouver, Oct. 6 (CP)

SERGEANT H. A. Larsen, skipper of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police patrol ship St. Roch, has at last met his two-year-old daughter.

Baby Larsen was born a few months after the St. Roch sailed from Vancouver for the seaways of the north 27 months ago.

The patrol ship returned yesterday but Baby Larsen seemed little interested in the father she had never seen. Instead she turned her attentions to the monster black-and-tan husky dog he brought her from the Arctic.

"It was just a routine trip — little out of the ordinary," the skipper told interviewers after greeting his wife and child.

Returning Officer Nabbed On Street Offering 350 Ballots For Sale

Toronto, Oct. 6 (CP)

MICHAEL Conroy, deputy returning officer in Toronto Bracondale constituency advance poll, was arrested today and charged with fraudulently taking ballots.

The charge was laid under section 186, sub-sections E and F of the Ontario Election Act.

Ira A. Humphries, chief election officer, said his information was that Conroy had left his polling station and was on the street with 350 ballot papers in his pocket, offering them for sale.

The charge against Conroy was of taking ballot papers from a box in a polling booth. The box in question was held by Returning Officer E. C. Bogart pending a full investigation of the incident.

JAPANESE DRIVE REPORTED HALTED ALL CHINA FRONTS

SHANGHAI, Oct. 6 (A.P.).—The Japanese advance on all China fronts from Shanghai to the far north was reported to-day to have been halted by stiffened Chinese resistance.

In the Shanghai sector, the repeated Japanese thrusts against the 26-mile line running north-west from the North Station were beaten back by force of numbers in hand-to-hand combat.

Far to the north in the strategically more important operations in the rich provinces of Hopeh and Shantung, reliable foreign reports bore out the Chinese claim that Japan's push had been stopped.

In the eastern sector of the North China war zone, Japanese claimed their mechanized column had invaded Shantung Province, completed the capture of the walled city of Techow and was pressing on against Tsinanfu, the provincial capital.

Correspondents for the Associated Press, and other foreign observers at Tsinanfu reported, however, a Chinese counter-attack had forced the Japanese to abandon their siege of Techow and retreat to the north.

Foreigners Feel Safe.

The Shantung legions of General Han Fu-Chu were streaming north and foreigners resident in Tsinanfu declared they felt no anxiety.

Farther inland, the Japanese column advancing along the railroad from Peiping to Hankow was said to have been outflanked at Paotingfu, the captured capital of Hopeh Province.

Foreign reports agreed with Chinese the Japanese push had been slowed up at Paotingfu, and strong Chinese units were striking at the flanks of the 80-mile Japanese line of communications to Peiping.

Informed Chinese and Japanese circles in Peiping reported that Japan planned to form the five North China Provinces of Hopeh, Shantung, Chahar, Suiyuan and Shansi into an autonomous republic—if and when they are captured. Peiping, its name restored to Peking, was said to have been selected as the capital for the new republic which would fly the former five-barred Chinese flag.

Five Killed When Bulkhead Breaks Underground

Five sandhogs were killed, eight injured and eight others narrowly escaped death when a bulkhead broke 85 feet underground in a tunnel of a $20,000,000 Works Progress Administration project at Detroit, Mich. The eyes of three survivors ABOVE, staring through mudcaked faces, reveal the terror from which they barely escaped with their lives. Those killed were sucked through a two-foot opening between the finished and unfinished parts of the tunnel by the terrific force of compressed air. The roar of the escaping air sounded like and explosion and manhole covers three miles away were blown ten feet in the air.

Saskatchewan Trio Drown In North

GOVAN, Sask., Oct. 6.—(CP).—Bert Phipps and Garner Pratt of this town and a companion named Walker have been drowned in Lake Nistoseene, near Lac La Ronge, in Northern Saskatchewan, according to a message received here. Govan is 100 miles south-east of Saskatoon.

The message gave no details of the accident, but a Royal Canadian Mounted Police constable has left Prince Albert, Sask., for the northern lake in an airplane piloted by Charles Banting.

Members of the party were reported connected with a mining concern and were believed returning from May lake, in the Lac La Ronge area, when the mishap occurred.

BLACK'S POSITION BELIEVED SAFE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—(AP).—Many opponents of Justice Hugo L. Black here agreed to-day that there is slight chance of removing the former Ku Klux Klan member from the United States' Supreme Court, but they clung nevertheless to three admittedly forlorn hopes.

They might hold Justice Black ineligible for his present office under the ouster action brought yesterday by Albert Levitt, former Federal Judge in the Virgin Islands.

The second was impeachment.

And the third lay in the invocation of a little used legal device known as an "extraordinary writ of quo warranto."

Nab Douglas Emissary On Double Charge

Faces Libel, Counselling To Murder Along With Aberhart Whip—Both Raise Bail

EDMONTON, Oct. 6 (CP) — George F. Powell, emissary of Major C. H. Douglas, "father" of Social Credit, and Joseph H. Unwin, government whip in the Alberta legislature, face charges of libel and counselling to murder. They were arrested yesterday and later released on bail.

Charges against the men, counselling murder, seditious libel and defamatory libel "well knowing the same to be false," and an additional charge of defamatory libel against Mr. Unwin, were laid on information and complaint of Senator W. A. Griesbach in connection with publication of a leaflet.

Mr. Unwin, Social Credit member of the legislature for Edson, appeared in police court yesterday and was remanded to Oct. 14. He was released on $5,000 bail. Mr. Powell, arrested last night, was freed on $20,000 bail. It was expected he would appear in police court today.

Friends Come to Aid

S. A. Berg, Social Credit member of the legislature for Alexandria, and A. E. Fee, Social Credit member for Sedgewick, each posted $5,000 bail for Mr. Powell and he was granted $10,000 on bail on his own recognizance.

The criminal code provides a maximum sentence of 20 years for conviction of seditious libel, 14 years for counselling murder and two years for defamatory libel "knowing the same to be false." No minimum sentences are given in the code but fines can be levied.

When Mr Powell appeared at the police station last night accompanied by Hon. Lucien Maynard, provincial minister of municipal affairs, he gave his age as 56 and his occupation as "economist."

After G. L. MacLachlan, chairman of the Alberta Social Credit Board, went to England last spring to ask Major Douglas to act as technical adviser to the board, it was agreed two "experts" would be sent to investigate the technical and political situation in the province.

Thought Pills Candy Oshawa Tot Dies

Oshawa, Oct. 6.

THE funeral will take place Wednesday afternoon from her home, Verdun Road, of June Goldie Fowler, 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fowler, who died yesterday afternoon in the Oshawa General Hospital, where she was taken after swallowing pills believed to contain strychnine.

Despite efforts of the parents to allay the course of the deadly poison in the child's system, death came in less than an hour after she had consumed what she thought was candy. Dr. R. E. McMullen, Coroner, after reviewing the case, stated that an inquest will not be held.

RECTOR COMMENTS CHURCH REPAIRS

In the current issue of "The Parish Messenger" the Rev. Canon W. P. Robertson, rector of St. John's Church, comments on the work that has been done during the past summer on church, rectory and parish hall.

"Extensive tuck-pointing was done on the church and parish hall, metal sheeting on wooden gables of the hall, concrete sills and steps to church cellar replacing decayed wood. A number of trees were planted. Two rooms were decorated in the rectory, the garage repaired and a wire fence replaced the rotted picket fence."

In connection with the work, the rector acknowledges the help of the Rev. R. T. F. Brain whom he refers to as "foreman" and also the work undertaken by some men of the congregation.

Declaring their free service was equivalent to a substantial sum of money, the rector thanks by name, Messrs Massey-Cook, R. Crocker, E. Copperthwaite, Grey, Glen, Chate, N. Chate, Pammett, H. Lang, Gordon Clegg, Jeffries and the sexton."

In stressing the need of further contributions to the Fabric and Restoration Fund, Canon Robertson states, "Much remains to be done. Church, hall and rectory must be re-shingled with fireproof material. Eavestroughs need repairs and renewals. The interior of the Parish Hall needs some painting. It is desirable in a year or two to paint the plain surface of the church walls, cleaning and retaining the decoration. We may also contemplate attention to the pews and kneelers. The need of a metal hand rail from Brock street on the slope, so dangerous in winter, has been brought to our attention. Some plumbing in the rectory, and possibly in the church, is much to be desired."

Predictions!

(By the Canadian Press.)

Leaders of the three largest groups seeking election in Ontario's general election today have made forecasts of the result for the Canadian Press. Here they are:

Premier Hepburn (Liberal) — The government will be returned with an increased majority. On the basis of reports from Liberal candidates throughout the province I expect we will have 75 seats in the next legislature against 72 in the last.

Hon. Earl Rowe (Conservative) —The Conservative party will win 60 seats in the election. We will win 12 in the east, eight in the north, 16 in Central Ontario, 10 in Western Ontario and 14 in Toronto and the Yorks.

Herbert Orliffe (Ontario secretary of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, speaking on behalf of his party)—If the people have really caught the vision of a world of economic security for all, a world of happiness and the fullest development of one's individual capacity, it is by no means unreasonable to expect that 25 of the 28 C.C.F. candidates will be elected.

St. Andrew's Y.P.S.
Successful Meeting.

In spite of weather conditions a good turn-out of members enjoyed a program of worship, song, education and fellowship at the regular meeting of St. Andrew's Young People on Tuesday evening.

The devotional period was in charge of Jim Harvey, with Margaret Patoine presiding at the piano.

In the business meeting, the minutes were read by acting secretary, Harry Vass. Preparations were discussed for the next four meetings of the Society, and also plans to attend the "Bay of Quinte Young People's Conference" to be held on October 15, 16 and 17. Each member pleadged an amount for missions, a collection being taken for that project.

Francis Clarke, in charge of the remainder of the program, gave an exceptionally well prepared summary of the first chapter of the study book, Dr. Jesse Arnup's "A New Church Faces a New World," giving an account of the foundation of the church in Canada.

Ministerial Association
Luncheon at Bridgenorth.

Presided over by the president, Adjutant Neil Warrander, the annual luncheon of the Peterborough Ministerial Association to welcome new members was held in Bridgenorth on Wednesday.

A delicious meal was served by the Women's Missionary Society of the Bridgenorth United Church in the Sunday School rooms, the long tables being made attractive with snowy cloths and bouquets of marigolds and other late summer flowers.

A warm welcome was extended to the Rev. V. E. Zufelt, new pastor of Knox United Church, by the Rev. F. W. Craik on behalf of the Association. Mr. Zufelt, in his appropriate reply, spoke of the good he felt was accomplished by the hours spent together at the Association meetings. The new pastor of St. Andrew's Church, the Rev. E. W. Young, was introduced by the Rev. M. C. Parr, who spoke of his happy associations with Mr. Young in London, Ontario. The affection and appreciation felt for Mrs. Young in that city was also mentioned. The Rev. Mr. Young replied for himself and Mrs. Young. On behalf of the ladies, Mrs. E. W. Rowland extended a welcome to Mrs. Zufelt and Mrs. Young.

A vote of thanks to the ladies responsible for the much-enjoyed luncheon was proposed by the Rev. E. W. Rowland, and responded to by Mrs. E. McLachlan. It is worthy of note that the W.M.S. of Bridgenorth United Church, with a membership of only eight—most of the ladies of the congregation belonging to the W.A.—ranked fourth in offerings this past year in the Presbyterial according to membership.

A short business meeting was held by the Ministerial Association in the church, the ladies remaining in the Sunday School for a social time.

Those present were: Adjutant and Mrs. Warrander, the Rev. and Mrs. E. W. Young, the Rev. and Mrs. V. E. Zufelt, the Rev. Canon and Mrs. J. D. Paterson, the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. A. T. Barr, the Rev. and Mrs. M. C. Parr, the Rev. J. H. and Mrs. Sutcliffe, the Rev. and Mrs. E. W. Rowland, the Rev. F. W. Craik, the Rev. R. T. F. Brain, the Rev. and Mrs. F. G. Boyter, absent through illness, and the Rev. Mr. Brown of Springville that they were unable to be present.

Queen's Principal Addresses Alumni

The recent progress at Queen's University, by which the university is becoming a stronger force in the development of our national life, was reviewed briefly by the principal, Dr. R. C. Wallace, as guest speaker at the dinner of the Queen's Alumni of the Peterborough district held in the Peterborough Golf and Country Club. Introduced by Adrian MacDonald, who spoke in just appreciation of the principal's practical ability as well as fine scholarship, Dr. Wallace was greeted by the audience with the singing of "For He Is A Scottish Man."

Describing how the Department of Extension is being widened to include courses for those who are interested in education beyond what is required merely by college grades and degrees, the speaker showed how the Western Universities have inaugurated this service through their Departments of "Adult Education." In this regard the principal maintained that true culture of the individual who has completed his so-called necessary education, is achieved by self-pursuit of subjects that interest him. He advised moreover that clubs organized to study should not depend entirely on outside speakers for their inspiration, but should be ninety per cent self-reliant.

Further efforts to meet the need of the times are being made by Queen's in the establishment of a Department of Industrial Relations, and in the equipping of a new building for advanced chemical research in biochemistry and physiology. The latter was made possible by the generous bequest of a member of the first women's class to graduate in medicine from Queen's University, Dr. Agnes Crane.

In these days of intense competition and changing values, Dr. Wallace declared he would demand integrity of character, as well as ability, from students entering the university. Necessarily a high degree of scholarship is demanded, but without integrity of character, ability will not aspire the student to the greatest service. Already applicants for the course in Applied Science at Queen's are so numerous that only the best can be taken, and this best represents a wide range of territory. It is Dr. Wallace's ambition for the university that similarly all its faculties, with a maximum registration of not more than two thousand, will attract men and women of quality in both character and mind.

On behalf of those who enjoyed the privilege of hearing Dr. Wallace, Miss Verna Burgess, a recent graduate of Queen's thanked the principal, asking him if he "would noo come back again."

E. R. Shirley, president of the Queen's Alumni of the Peterborough district, welcomed the ninety graduates and students who were present. A toast to the university was proposed by Dr. Charles M. Scott, with a humorous illustration of the universal loyalty of her students. Tom Allen and Don Munro led a spirited singing of college songs, two solos being sung by Ross Williamson, accompanied at the piano by Miss Musa Cox.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"Be happy, peaceful and satisfied, just as you stand, having sufficient steadfastness and independance to hold your own against all eddies and rapids about you, "Accept your position as it is, and make the very best of it till it passes. Work with it, knowing that God is guiding you, and so cease all anxious though; and rest."

O. S. Marden.

Dear Friends:

My mail has been piling up so much that I thought I would answer some of the most urgent letters this week, and the less urgent later on. So many seem as if their lives were in a turmoil, so I shall do my best to help them.

And so, I give you the quotation above, which calmed and comforted me, and will do the same for you if you read it over once or twice. It would be a good one to have handy at all times so I shall carry it in my purse every day.

But how many of us will not accept things as they are. We get all in a dither we go around with our brows knit, striving striving, and maybe if we accepted and did the best with circumstances AS THEY ARE, we would get quicker through with them, and get on to more pleasant ones. I know of a man who was told two or three years ago that his heart was bad, and since then he must have died a thousand deaths, besides keeping all those around him worried and bothered. What's the use of that? We all have to die some time, so why make such a fuss about it?

But we cannot condemn him too much, for we too die many kinds of death because we will not accept what has come into our lives and make the best of it. Mark you, I do not advise accepting things if they can be bettered, so look around this trouble from all angles, and if you can see no way out, just figure it is like a bad dose of medicine and get it down you.

So to the lady who signed herself "DEE" I would suggest she accept things right now using that same intelligence she showed in her letter to me. None of us like discomfort, and it is as natural as breathing to try and avoid it, but when we "cease all anxious thought and rest" what a difference it makes.

You know we can be so tense that we make things worse. Did I ever tell you of the time when I was in the hospital when I had a hard painful ordeal to go through? My mind was all taken up with it, so that I kept suffering the thing so much before it happened that I almost died. My doctor kept saying, "can't you relax, can't you forget it for awhile? It won't be as bad as you think." But I told him he had said that before so how could I relax. Prayers did no seeming good, neither did talk or sympathy, so in the hours of the early morning, about three a.m. I said to God, "alright, I give up. If I am to die, help me not to be too noisy about it, give me courage not to scream too hard."

And would you believe it, BY GIVING UP, I became really relaxed, so that it was not one thousandth part as bad as I had expected. And so it is with many of the things that happen to us. We fight them off too much, instead of going ahead and doing them.

No, Dr. can help a person much unless they relax. All their muscles tighten up so that they are hard to work with. Watch a baby fall. He does not stiffen and brace himself for the fall he lets himself go and that is why he does not get hurt as often as it seems he should.

So relax and let yourself go with this trouble. Loosen up your mind so that you can handle it right. Get as much pleasure and profit out of this experience as you can, and "work with it, knowing God is guiding you." Thank you Mrs. "Dee" for counting me as one of your real friends, and for all your lovely remarks about my column. Hoping I have helped you. Your Friend, BOBERTA.

Free Sundays Key Servant Problem

LONDON, Oct. 6—(C.P.).—G. F. Robey, an Englishman who has served more than 65 years in domestic service, claims to have a solution for the present-day servant problem.

"Give the servants free Sundays as used to be done in the houses of noblemen before the war," he says. "Let the Sunday dinner be cooked Saturday and the family eat it cold, save for the soup."

Housework, in Robey's opinion, is the best training a girl can have for marriage, and if she does not marry, but stays in one place long enough, she stands a good chance of being mentioned in the will.

"Housework now is easy," Robey reflected. "Look at the improvements. No lamps to trim. No candles and candelabra to see to, and hot water in every room."

Soy Bean Flour Valuable As Food

(By Logan Clendening, M.D.)

I predict that the soy bean, which has long been used in the Orient, will become in the near future a widely used food.

The flour is richer in protein and much lower in starch content than other flours and is, therefore, suitable as a bread substitute for diabetics and overweight people on a reducing diet.

Its proteins are similar to those of animal food, so that it can be used as a meat substitute. I have had within the last week a breakfast at which soya bacon was served, and can aver that it makes a good substitute.

It has been suggested as a substitute for milk for infants with eczema, who are sensitive to cow's milk.

It reduces in the body to an alkaline ash, so that it is suitable for those who need to get over on the alkaline side. It is thus a valuable ingredient of a basic diet for high blood pressure and similar states.

The Chinese make a highly salted cheese with soy bean flour, known as Chinese Roquefort, which can be found in Chinese restaurants. It goes well with salads, vegetables, etc., Soy bean sauce, or gravy, on account of the high fat content of the flour, is a favorite dressing with the Chinese.

In its Winter sleep the lump-nosed bat curls its ears in spiral coils like a ram's horns.

With The Girl Guides

First Company—Owing to the sickness of our captain, guides were left to their own devices last week. A letter was read from captain putting us on our honor to act as though she were present, and I am glad to report they did.

This week four recrutis were welcomed, and a guide from Oshawa joined our ranks. Iris Whalon was voted "Company Leader."

An enjoyable camp-fire was taken by the Nightingales. To celebrate "National Guide Day," a church parade will be held at St. Andrew's. All guides are requested to be at the Guide Hall at 10.15, Sunday. Also do not forget to listen to the address on Saturday evening.

Second Company—2nd Company held a jolly weiner roast on Thursday. An outdoor party had been planned, but inclement weather forced a retreat to the Guide Hall. Games and taps ended the meeting.

Brownies—We welcome Dorothy as assistant to "Tawny Owl."

PROMISE MUST BE KEPT

MONTREAL, Oct. 6—(CP).—Establishing Quebec jurisprudence on the point, Mr. Justice Louis Boyer, in Bankruptcy Court yesterday ruled a promised gift by a husband to his wife in a marriage contract gives the wife the right to rank as a creditor in her husband's bankrupt estate.

Judgment followed a ruling of W. H. Campbell, trustee-in-bankruptcy of U. I. Rosenthal, that Mrs. Rosenthal was not entitled to enter a claim for $3,000 her husband promised her under the marriage agreement.

Both Cannot Be Right

There were things stated at the close of the election campaign which cannot possibly be true. No doubt it is considered necessary for each political party to keep up with what is known as a "swing toward victory" feeling, and in order to keep that feeling from becoming weary it is considered well to make claims of victory.

There are two statements, the truth or otherwise of which will be made clear within a few hours. Hon. T. B. McQuesten was speaking in Hamilton, and his prediction was:

"Hon. Mitchell F. Hepburn and his Government will sweep Ontario with an even greater majority and Hon. Earl Rowe will go down to defeat in his own riding."

It might be well to put that to one side for future reference. Hon. Earl Rowe in his pre-election address in Massey Hall at Toronto, said this:

"I regret the Armouries were not engaged tonight. If they had been there would still have been 5,000 people standing outside unable to get in. I stand here tonight on the eve of a great victory. We will form the next Government in Ontario."

It takes only an elementary education to know that both of these gentleman cannot be right. Fortunately we shall know in a short time which was in error. The suspense—if suspense there is—will be of short duration.

Now They Understand

George Yocum was a coal miner, and like a good many others who follow the same vocation, he was injured by falling rock. The injury was of such a nature that George Yocum said he could hear the roar of blood rushing through his head; he had head noises of such intensity he was hardly able to stand it.

Not many days ago there was an interesting experiment carried out in Philadelphia where Yocum had gone for treatment. Placing the "mike" of a broadcasting set on the man's injured head, 500 medical students and doctors were able to hear a sound like static which was produced by the blood stream in his head wound. But it was not ordinary static as the noise stopped when the transmitter was removed from Yocum's head. It was stated those who listened were impressed; several of them said they had no idea such perpetual torment could be inflicted on a person from a head injury.

Interesting undoubtedly, and broadly suggestive of the fact that a great many people never know just what another person has to contend with. Until the students and doctors heard for themselves just what was going on inside George Yocum's head they knew nothing at all of the strange and disturbed world in which he was living. After they took the trouble to find out they were in a better position to understand.

There are plenty of people in the world—some of them may be living on your street or on your concession or sideline—who are bearing up under difficulties of which you know nothing at all. They may not have noises in their heads, but they have other noises or impending fear or disaster which are ever present. They may have burdens too heavy for their slight shoulders; there may be many things which you think they should do which are beyond the range of their capacity. Never do these people parade their troubles; rather do they bravely seek to conceal them and meet the world as pleasantly as possible. If we had a head-set which could read their lives we might have a great deal more consideration for them.

Shouldn't Hang Him

William Labadie is under sentence of death at Sarnia. He was found guilty of murdering the 7-year-old son of the farmer for whom he was working. There is no doubt Labadie killed him, neither is there any doubt that such a killing is worthy of the passing of the death sentence.

But there is more to consider. Labadie is 17 years of age, and we do not believe a person of that age has ever been executed in the Dominion. At the trial it was stated he had the mentality of a child of ten years or so. He was left by his parents when he was two years of age because they parted and have been living apart ever since. When he was 13 years of age Labadie is said to have started to drink, and he had purchased a bottle of liquor not long before the murder. We have a good many organizations in existence for looking after young fellows, but this lad Labadie seems to have slipped through the fingers of all such or else they never noticed him.

We do not believe the youth should be hanged, nor do we find much comfort in the idea that one of 17 years should be sentenced to prison for life. What we refer to as our social order or our form of civilization has not done much for this Labadie youth in the 17 years he has been exposed to it. That is what makes us hesitate to believe that organized society should proceed to hang him.

Should Pay The $1,000

Red Ryan was killed in Sarnia on May 23, 1936 when he was holding up the liquor store, and in that gun fight a member of the Sarnia police force was shot to death. Previously the government had offered a $1,000 reward for the capture of Ryan.

The police commission of Sarnia has asked for the $1,000 reward several times, the intention being to make use of it in providing for the widow and family of the police officer who was shot, but the reply has always been the same—the officer who shot Ryan was not eligible for the reward.

At best that does not seem good reasoning. The policeman in this case is of course not eligible for the reward because he is dead. When that reward of $1,000 was offered the government and its officials could hardly have expected that some private citizen would start out looking for Ryan. Any one would know there would be little chance in trying to engage in a gun battle with a man like that. And for that reason such an attempt would not be made. It would remain for some officer to find him and deal with him. It all settles down to this—the government wanted Ryan and was willing to pay $1,000 for him. The policeman in Sarnia shot Ryan and in turn was himself shot. It would look much better if the government handed over the $1,000 to the widow and children in that family.

Fair Warning

Some person around the office of the Stratford Beacon-Herald is in danger of having a right swing land on his proboscis. By that we mean he is in danger of getting smacked on the end of the editorial nose.

Referring to the way in which political candidates make their printed appeals over such names as "Bob" and "Frank" and so on, the Beacon-Herald man says:

"Queerly enough that stormy petrel of Brantford, Mr. MacBride, sticks to the good old dignified Morrison Malcolm MacBride."

Whether Morrison Malcolm MacBride gets around to reading that within the next day or so we do not know; for the sake of the Stratford man we hope he does not. The man in Brantford is Morrison Mann MacBride. It is so inscribed in the Parliamentary Guide and it is so written in full in all the Brantford man's political announcements. It was so in the days when Morrison Mann MacBride of the Brantford lacrosse team used to camp on the neck of McIlwain of the St. Catharines team down behind the Brantford dyke. It has always been so.

Whether the Brantford MacBride will take kindly to being called Malcolm we do not know. Malcolm is a good enough name but people are apt to get a little touchy about having the wrong monickers attached to them. So if the Stratford man sees a head of white hair looming through the doorway he might be well advised to reach for a club, assume an attitude of defiance or contrition, or jump through the window, depending entirely on how he feels about it and the degree of physical fitness with which he is endowed at the crucial moment.

Not A Shot Was Fired

Three men entered the premises of the Majestic Beverage Co. in Hamilton. Did so at night and proceeded to haul a 1,400-pound safe from the office to a rear room. Morris Raphael, manager of the plant, and David and Mrs. Raphael, (his son and daughter-in-law) paid an unexpected visit to the premises and upon their appearance the three intruders started on the serious business of getting away. Two of them went through a window but Raphael Sr., managed to grab the third and his son came to his assistance. There was a hard enough struggle when Mrs. Raphael took a pop bottle and struck the intruder on the head. The tap had sufficient force to put the man out, after which the woman took the telephone and called for help. The operator at central notified police headquarters and the marauder who was captured was lodged in jail.

That in brief is the story. It is worth noting that no guns were fired; no person was killed or wounded. The sum total of casualities would be a lump on the head and some shaken nerves. Striking a man nicely on the head was just as effective as putting a bullet in him. This Mrs. Raphael must be a capable young woman because with three struggling men before her she was able to pick out the one on whom the pop bottle should bounce. So the humble pop bottle receives for the moment an exalted position as an exhibit in this event.

Then there was the girl working at the telephone office who was quick enough in the head to sense something was wrong when she heard Mrs. Raphael calling for help. The right thing to do was to plug in for police headquarters, and having some person sitting in an office at night who knows enough to do the right thing is exhibit number two.

Having a police department so equipped that its members could reach the bottling plant in a hurry is also helpful. Exhibit number three in the catching of an intruder.

It might also be added that the combination of father, son and daughter-in-law going down together late at night to the plant was desirable—much better than had the members of the family been scampering hither and thither each bent upon a different path. So when that report from Hamilton is analyzed we find several things bringing about the capture of a robber: The family members together, the sensible telephone operator who knew what to do with a trouble call, the police waiting to receive such a call, and also the well-wielded pop bottle. And not a shot was fired.

This Organization Grew

At the junction of the Galt and St. George highways a memorial cairn has been erected to the honor of Mrs. Adelaide Hoodless, and it was Mrs. Hoodless who brought into existence the Women's Institute.

Mrs. Hoodless probably had no idea of the length to which her work would grow. It has covered the Dominion and it has gone overseas. There have been countless organizations started, but the majority of them fall by the wayside because there is no substantial object to be served by their continuance.

The Women's Institute is in the class which survived because it should survive. We doubt much if there is an organization the equal of it in the country today. It seems to have given to the women of the country exactly what they needed to improve the condition of the home, to stimulate the community life and prove a clearing ground for all manner of good ideas and good work. If you have a good rural community without a Women's Institute you will have a better rural community with one. The Women's Institutes of North and South Brant who erected the memorial cairn to Mrs. Adelaide Hoodless did exactly what should have been done.

This is Fire Prevention week in Canada, and in that connection it is worth while remembering that there was never a big fire that did not start as a little one.

A truck at Utica was so packed full of passengers that when it collided with another car no one was hurt. In that case a Toronto street car should be among the safest of vehicles.

OUR BIG DAY

(By A. R. K.)

¶ Today when you and I will vote, we have our short-lived chance to gloat, they realize our worth; the politicians smile on us, and make a great and goodly fuss, we are the salt of earth.

¶ On this one day they'll send a car, and tote us near or drive us far, take chances on defeat; on other days they let us walk, and hump along block after block, with corns upon our feet.

¶ They've mailed us tickets by the score, stuffed reading matter in the door, on us they've spared no pains; our intellect ranks very high, when voting day was drawing nigh, paid tribute to our brains.

¶ And we've been warned and we've been told, about the scroundrels in the fold, and of the harm they'll do; we've fed on figures and on facts, in leaflets and in flashy tracts, and few of them are new.

¶ Corruption warnings we will note, today when we go in to vote, and read them without fail; if we've accepted any cash, we'll feed on watered soup and hash, they'll lock us in the jail.

¶ But just today we're special freight, while we attend affairs of state, an honored sort of clan; we'll be forgotten by tonight, we'll then take up our daily fight—and do the best we can.

THE QUAINT old town of Pershore in Worcestershire, England has been in the grip of a ghost scare—a scare that has been causing its inhabitants, young and old, to keep indoors at night. Blood-curdling shrieks are stated to have been heard at midnight coming from the direction of the old Abbey House ruins but searching inquiries and special investigations have failed to throw any light upon the mystery. Despite these investigations however, a large number of residents especially those living in Church-row which overlooks the ancient Holy Cross cemetery persist in the belief that a ghost is abroad.

Several employment schemes of the highest importance will shortly be under way in Scotland as the result of grants totalling £260,000 given by Lord Nigel Douglas-Hamilton, the special area commissioner. Among the more important developments are the provision of new sewage schemes, the establishment of health services and the straightening of the River Clyde.

The contribution toward the cost of improving the river will amount to £70,000 and the work is expected to be commenced immediately. When completed, it will permit of much easier access to the port of Glasgow by large ships and will also simplify considerably the task of getting No. 552, the sister ship of the Queen Mary from the basin of her makers, John Brown and Company, Clydebank, to the sea.

A Popular Soldier.

AUSTRALIA has been making much of the 72nd birthday of Field Marshal Sir William Birdwood, who spent his anniversary out there for the Anzacs remember him effectionately as their commander-in-chief on Gallipoli. Whoever else they might criticise his men had nothing but admiration for "Birdie."

Sir William was equally popular with his command in France where he had some amusing as well as some tragic experiences.

On one occasion, he recalls, he was inspecting the front-line trenches and his guide gave him directions in a low whisper.

✧ ✧ ✧

"How far are the enemy from this point?" Birdie whispered back "About 800 yards, sir" was the almost inaudible reply.

✧ ✧ ✧

Then why all this whispering demanded the officer in surprise. "Because I've got a boute of a cold" the guide replied.

A Camping Experiment.

AT BRIDPORT in England this year a girl's camping project along the lines of the present King's boys' camp at Southwold was tried out and was voted a sweeping success. All "class" and "degree" were left out in the operation of this camp and the campers ranged from daughters of the aristocracy to daughters of London costers. Girls are supposed not to be good mixers but the way in which this group of sixty got tgether was regarded as marvellous. They walked, bathed, worked, played and explored together in most harmonious fashion and the outing was apparently enjoyed by everyone.

Domestic Help and Their Long Hours

Little Time Left For Their "Afternoon Off" Reasons Are Plain Why Such Work Disliked

(Letter in Montreal Star)

SIR,—Why is it that an educated and supposedly intelligent body of men and women, who show consideration and are solicitous of the welfare of cats, dogs, and other destitute or strayed animals, show such utter disregard and want of feeling toward their fellow-beings, their domestic help? Why do they consider it all right to impose on these women a thirteen to fifteen-hour day, steady duty, every day, Sunday included? Interviewing over one hundred and fifty women and girls, they tell about the same story. The hours are excessive. No one asks a man to put in that many hours for "one day's" work. No man would do it, because he's a man.

Why do they expect efficiency, cheerfulness, and permanency under these circumstances?

This class of women are, for the greater part, good honest people. They enter into domestic service because they wish to earn an honest living, and from necessity. They expect, and are willing to do, a day's work. They have their own lives to live, their own private burdens to bear, their own heart interests and hopes. Such excessive hours give them no time to themselves, and very soon they lapse into a state of hopelessness which is conductive of no good, and which makes them feel that they are actual slaves to their masters. You can drive a horse to water but you can't make him drink, and so by their want of thought or consideration these employers frustrate the very object they had hoped to achieve. Is it because this particular line of employment falls more directly in the hands of the "Gentler Sex?" We've heard of "Man's ingratitude to man;" we've also heard that "The female of the species is more deadly than the male." Not three per cent. of these women can manage to get through with their work on their only afternoon off a week, before three or four o'clock p.m. What time does that give them, for a little rest, and to get ready to go up town to attend to their own private needs, do shopping, etc.? The papers are full of advertisements, "Domestic help Wanted," and the city is full of women looking for work. The above, which is not one iota enlarged upon, should be explanation enough why. Let us hope that when the Executive Committee discusses the matter with the unemployment "Relief Division," as it promises or "threatens" to do, it will find a way of remedying this existing state of affairs. It's worse than Russia.

People Who Have Slept For Years

Case of Patricia Magiure Stirs Memories; Several Others Have Done the Same Thing

BY JOHN LEAR
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

PATRICIA Maguire went down in history as the "sleeping beauty" who slumbered through a visit to Eternity. For the famous Illinois girl "died" twice.

In the depths of her five-year sleep in Chicago's suburban Oak Park, she once slipped away from life and back again and lived for four years before she died and did not come back on Tuesday night.

The story of that first "death" is hidden in a half dozen words buried in the account of Patricia's case as written by her family physician, Dr. Eugene F. Traut, in April of 1936.

Her pulse stopped and her breathing ceased during a severe attack of pneumnia in 1933—she had then been sleeping for a year—Dr. Traut reported. An injection of epinephryre restored her life.

"The double death" was the only thing that made Patricia's case unusual, despite the publicity she got, for many victims of various forms of "sleeping sickness"—Patricia suffered from encephalitis lethargica, slumber caused by brain inflammation—have slept longer than she.

✧ ✧ ✧

Jim Eslinger, of Fort Smith, Ark., slept all through the Great War, dropping off to sleep for 7½ years. He died, still sleeping, in April, 1922.

✧ ✧ ✧

Lancet, the British medical journal records a 19th century case known as "the sleeping girl of Trouville." She fell asleep when 11 years old, and slept for 10 years.

✧ ✧ ✧

"Sleeping Effie" was a famous English medical character in the early 1800's. She made a practice of going for walks about the country just when other folks were going to bed. Then she would return home and fall into a deep slumber that would last anywhere from one to five weeks. This kept up for 15 years.

A Human Being—Not "Just a Hand"

Right Way To Promote Peace In Industry; Says It Has Been Tried and Found Correct

(Chatham News)

THESE ARE great—at least not dull days for business. People are buying. Land values are rising. Employment is increasing. Yet simultaneously labor strikes have been erupting all over industry's smiling face. What are business leaders doing about the problem — about their half of the problem? Says a recent "United Business Service" report:

"There is no general formula that will solve the labor problem. Each employer must seek to establish and preserve harmony in his own organization. For this purpose nothing can take the place of frank, fair, human dealing. Treat each employe as a person, not as a 'hand.' See that every complaint gets careful, patient attention, and insist that every junior executive and foreman maintain the same spirit. Be always ready with full explanations; maintain employe interest in the firm by its business, its problems, its achievements, interdepartmental relations, even earnings."

That quotation is recommended as 1937's "best Vocational Service slogan" by Charles L. Wheeler, executive vice-president of the McCormick Steamship Company, San Francisco, California.

"Frank, fair, human dealing" is without doubt an aid to the solution of employer-employe troubles, yet each must learn that there exists but one brand of fairness, the sort that is as good for the one as for the other—and for the ultimate consumer of the product they jointly produce, as well.

More earnestly than ever is industry trying to give its consumer a fair deal, adds an editorial in the Fortnightly Magazine. Dozens of industries today have huge investments in equipment and men whose sole effort is the development of a better and, if possible, cheaper product.

The fight between labor and industry is age old. The fight between consumer and producer is no younger. Some men hold that blind economic forces, generated by the profit motive, will resolve them. But it is a self-evident truth that progress can be speeded up by leaders who, conscious of their responsibilities to society, develop and apply measures that are corollaries of the principle of frank, fair, human dealing.

Used Meat Chopper in Family Quarrel

Indian Girl Desired to Have a New Dress; Other Garment Badly Torn During a Fight

FROM LONDON, Ont., there came a report of something which was referred to as "just a family quarrel." The report:

Belva Powless, 18, of the Oneida reserve, forsook the tomahawk, ancient weapon of her forefathers, and tried to use a meat chopper as a persuader, instead, when she encountered some family objections to buying a new dress.

As a result, she was sent to jail for 10 months on a variety of charges.

Belva had had a new dress, but a few days earlier, she wore it to a dance, got into a fight, and had it torn to ribbons, Corp. J. M. Bella, of the R. C. M. P., told County Magistrate Hawkshaw.

After Crown Attorney Norman Newton declared she might have been accused of attempted murder if her relatives hadn't interfered in a quarrel between her and her sister, Mrs. Maud Deleary, Magistrate Hawkshaw convicted her of two assaults, and vagrancy.

He gave her two months on each assault charge, and six months on the vagrancy, the terms to run one after the other.

Belva wanted her mother, Mrs. Fred Powless, to give her the price of a new dress, but her sister objected, Corp. Bella told the court.

"Something in the nature of a tomahawk?" asked Mr. Newton of Mrs. Deleary.

"It was just a meat chopper," said Mrs. Deleary.

Mrs. Deleary said she didn't make any complaint against her sister, and "Belva's a liar if she says I did."

"Don't call anybody a liar in this court, or I'll lock you up," said the magistrate.

"It was just a family quarrel," said Mrs. Deleary.

"Oh, a nice family quarrel," declared the crown attorney.

COWS IN THE CITY.

(Windsor Star)

WE FIND ourselves unable to share Alderman Lancaster's fear that unless a regulating bylaw is passed the city is going to be overrun with cows. The proposed bylaw would ban both cows and goats.

While, we must confess, we are not so strong for goats, we have always fancied the idea of keeping a pet cow, and we incline to the belief that thousands of our fellow-citizens have the same feeling. Lack of space or sufficient time for attendance probably keeps most of us from satisfying our longings in this respect....

One needs to remember, also that a cow is much more than a food producer. She can become a pet in much the same sense as a horse or dog, and there will be genuine sorrow in more than one home should stiff-shirted officialdom decide that Bossy has to go.

MORMONS LOOK AHEAD.

(Detroit Free Press)

COMES a story that the canny Mormons, without developing any alarmist symptoms, are quietly getting ready for the next depression.

Working as an organization, they are preparing storehouses filled with food and clothing in order to "take care of their own" if and when the lean years come.

The leaders are not indulging in any prophecies. They do not profess to be expert economists who read the signs of the times and tell to a year or a month when disaster will arrive.

But they are determined to be ready against any evil day which appears.

The Mormons are to be commended for their wisdom, foresight and thrift.

REALM OF TIME.

Go softly, Time, I pray thee, with such as I;
Speed not thy now-brief journey, nor cause one day to fly.
O, gentle Sun,
Retard thy brilliant progress across yon azure sky;
For thus it seems to me—the day has scarce begun
Ere the shadows lengthen and the light has flown
Into Eternity.

I hasten, yet thou wilt not tarry there for me;
I hurry, still on lightened wings so speedily you flee,
O, golden day!
You always goad me on, and yet elude my grasp.
Bound by hand and foot must I ever be to thee?
Can no one loose the chains that bind and set me free
For ever and ever?

The happy and the leisure hours are swiftest I learn.
Our joy in them is only brief; we then return
From whence we came.
Oh, let us not delay in idle, vain regrets;
But of our thoughts let this be prime
To praise His Name,
Who has the power in His Own hand above the same,
The God of Time.

So, haste ye, Time, and stay not; fade behind the veil:
I care not though the day declines and the night fall.
The Morn shall rise!
These things that bind us to this realm of time;
Even all restraint, all stir and strife and earthly ties,
Shall flee, with Night, at His command Who won the Prize—
Eternal Life.

COUGHLIN BITTER OVER BLACK CASE

DETROIT, Oct. 6—(AP). — Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, long silent on public affairs, yesterday denounced President Roosevelt's appointment of Hugo Black to the United States Supreme Court as "stupidity."

"If Congress can and will pass any resolution respecting Justice Black," Father Coughlin said, "it is my hope that the resolution will instruct him to wear a white hood as he occupies the Supreme Court bench so that the children of the next generation will appreciate to what depths a politician will stoop and will appreciate some of the misery we have been saved had there been five other appointees of Justice Black's calibre.

"May Black be a monument to the New Deal attempt to destroy the independence of the Supreme Court, of Mr. Roosevelt's personal stupidity in appointing him and of the United States Senate's tendency to rubber stamp practically all New Deal proposals."

Father Coughlin announced plans to resume his Sunday afternoon broadcasts, beginning October 31, but intimated he would not again take an active part in political campaigns.

On labor, he attacked the Committee for Industrial Organization because of its "political ambitions to set up a class government," and since it is "dominated in so many instances by Communistic philosophies."

Splendid Cough Remedy Easily Mixed at Home

It's So Easy! Makes a Big Saving. No Cooking.

To get quick relief from a distressing cough, mix your own remedy at home. Once tried, you'll say it's your favorite cough medicine, and it's so simple and easy.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. A child could do it. No cooking needed.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a compound containing Norway Pine in concentrated form, well known for its prompt action on throat membranes.

Put the Pinex into a 16 ounce bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make 16 ounces of very efficient remedy, and you get four times as much cough medicine for your money. It tastes fine and never spoils.

And for quick, blessed relief, it is splendid. You can feel it penetrating the air passages in a way that means business. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and eases the soreness. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

TORONTO WOOL

Disagreement among dealers as to the true market for wool has resulted in prices in these columns being quoted in a wide range for some time, and it is thought that an explanation is forthcoming. Dealers quoting the lower prices have been critical of higher quotations, while those giving the higher rates report business transacted on the price basis they quote, and each is convinced that his price is the true market.

The controversy has reached the stage where one dealer declines to furnish further quotations, because, he states, such a wide range in prices is ridiculous and not beneficial to the trade. This disparity is unfortunate, but The Examiner has felt that, in the circumstances, the nearest approach to giving its readers an idea of the market was to follow the policy of the past and quote unwashed fleece wool in the wide range, giving the highest price and the lowest prices as reported to this paper by different dealers.

All dealers reporting are reputable men and there seems to be no alternative but to continue to show the existing spread in prices. Most of the wool now, however, is out of the hands of producers and the market is quiet, but for what little is arriving local dealers are reported to be paying the following prices, delivered in Toronto:

Ontario unwashed fleece wool, flats, including rejects, 23 to 26c per pound. On a graded basis, rejects, burry, seedy, gray, black and cotted, 14 to 16c.

In contrast polling was heavy at Thorold, Port Erie and Sault Ste. Marie.

Before polls close at 7 p.m., an unusually heavy ballot was expected in many cities.

Fine weather prevailed at Kitchener towards noon and a good vote was indicated in Waterloo North. Voting was fairly heavy up to noon. Owen Sound's fall fair, attracting hundreds of Grey North riding farmers, had something to do with a brisk early vote in the country.

Brantford reported light balloting up to noon and, though bulk of voting was expected to be done in the afternoon, predictions were the total vote would be lower than in 1934.

Morning vote was moderately heavy in Chatham.

Weakness at Liverpool and carry-over of liquidation from Tuesday's weakened wheat and stock markets sent futures down more than a cent in early trading. But late strength at Chicago caused rallies. Only a scattered export trade in Canadian wheat was reported.

THINK CORNWALL BANDIT WOUNDED AS HE FLED BANK

CORNWALL, Oct. 6—Foiled in his attempted bank hold-up by the pluck of a teller, a bandit in a brown windbreaker and believed to have a police bullet in his shoulder, was being hunted in and around Cornwall last night.

As the man escaped from the Bank of Commerce branch, two shots were fired at him by Constable Arnold Edwards, on duty at the Pitt and Second Street intersection.

"I saw him wince and sort of stumble," Edwards told Chief of Police Fred Seymour. "Then he was around the corner and out of sight. I fired again just as he ducked around the corner, but missed."

Escapes In Alleys.

In the chase that followed, the bandit raced through alleys and lanes and finally outdistanced the police and citizens giving chase. The block of buildings near which he was last seen was surrounded and searched closely, but without result.

He had left the bank empty-handed when Teller James R. Millar, 26, formerly of Chesley, demanded sight of the "gun" which the bandit pretended to have in his extended wind-breaker pocket.

"This is a stick-up," the thug snarled in front of Millar's cage. "I want all the money you've got."

"Let me see your gun," said Millar.

Reaches for Pistol.

"He screwed up his pocket, and swore at me," the teller said in describing the incident. "When I again asked him to show his gun, and he didn't, I reached for my own pistol under the counter. He didn't wait a minute, but ran toward the door and was outside before I could get from behind the counter.

"The doors open inward, and he ran right into them, which delayed him a moment. Fred Legroix, the savings ledger-keeper, and I were right behind him. No, I didn't fire at him, not then."

Rushing from the bank, the bandit rushed across the street and was asked: "What's goin' on" by Constable Edwards.

"There's a hold-up in the bank over there," the man replied, and kept on running. Just then the two bank employees shouted: "Stop that man!"

Shooting Starts.

Millar then fired a shot into the air to attract help, and, with the constable and Legroix at his heels, started in pursuit. Constable Edwards fired, the bullet piercing an awning and a plate-glass window in a shop behind the fleeing bandit. As the fugitive fled up a lane, Millar and Edwards again fired, and the constable thought his shot was a hit.

The bandit rushed into a beauty-and-lingerie shop, pushed clerks and customers out of his way and dashed out a back door. "This is a hold-up," he shouted. "Get out of my way."

Bandit Disappears.

Running across Second Street, he turned north on Pitt street and ran up a lane, and was not seen from then on. His hat was found at the rear of the beauty shop. Specimens of his hand-writing were found in the bank, in which he had loitered, making out a cheque, for ten minutes before staging the hold-up attempt.

The would-be robber entered the bank just before closing time, 3 o'clock in the afternoon. There were fifteen customers present.

BETTER SOUP COMING

CHICAGO, Oct. 6—(AP).—Restaurant men are going to do something about the soup.

Duncan Hines, a food expert, told 10,000 in convention here, that thin soup spells a watery income.

"Most people like soup," Hines said. "But in the majority of restaurants it is looked upon as unimportant." He advised persons opening first-class restaurants to "give full consideration to the soup."

TWO RUMORS ARE DENIED.

LONDON.— Buckingham Palace officials to-day denied two rumors. They said there was no truth in the report the King and Queen intend to make Windsor castle their permanent residence. They said Their Majesties had made no plans to visit Australia.

McCARTHYS WILD IN 6TH INNING

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

FIFTH INNING

Giants—Ripple dropped a single into right field. McCarthy singled past Lazzeri, sending Ripple to third. Tony got his glove on the ball but couldn't hold it. Mancuso hit into a doubleplay, Crosetti to Lazzeri to Gehrig, while Ripple crossed the plate with the first run of the game. Whitehead lashed a double off the right field line. Hubbell grounded out to Gehrig, unassisted.

One run, three hits, no errors, one left.

Yankees.—Hoag lifted a high fly to Bartell on the first pitch. Selkirk hoisted to Ripple in short right. Lazzeri went down swinging as Hubbell retired the Yankees in order for the fourth straight inning.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

SIXTH INNING

Giants—Moore dribbled a single through the middle of the diamond. Bartell flied to Selkirk. Ott fouled out to Dickey. Leiber flied deep to Hoag.

Yankees—Gomez walked with the count three and two. Crosetti singled sharply to left, Gomez stopping at second. It was the first hit off Hubbell since the first inning. Mancuso threw to Bartell and Gomez was trapped off second. The Giants' shortstop dropped the ball, however, and was charged with an error as Gomez scrambled back to safety. Rolfe dropped a single in short left with the count three and two, filling the bases. DiMaggio cracked the first pitch to left centre for a single, scoring Gomez and Crosetti. Rolfe ran to third and DiMaggio reached second on the throw-in. Bartell cut off Leiber's throw after the centre-fielder had juggled the ball and just failed to catch DiMaggio at second, Gehrig was intentionally passed to fill the bases again.

Whitehead failed to hold Dickey's sharp grounder and it went for a single scoring Rolfe and leaving the bases filled. Hoag grounded to Ott and Dimaggio was forced at the plate, Ott to Mancuso. Selkirk singled sharply to right scoring Gehrig and Dickey and sending Hoag to third.

The Giants clustered around their southpaw ace while activity increased in the bull pen. It was decided to take Hubbell from the box. He was replaced by a right-hander, Dick Coffman. The announcer erroneously reported that Harry Gumbert had been selected to replace Hubbell. Manager Bill Terry of the Giants came out for a conference at the plate with the umpires before play was resumed. The hitch was over the announcement that Gumbert was to pitch. Accordingly Gumbert was ordered to the mound instead of Coffman. Lazzeri's sharp grounder went through Whitehead for an error, scoring Hoag and sending Selkirk to third. Coffman replaced Gumbert in the box.

Gomez walked, the fourth ball being low. It was his second pass of the inning and filled the bases again. Crosetti lifted a short fly to Moore. Rolfe walked with the count three and one, forcing Selkirk across the plate. DiMaggio flied to Leiber in deep centre on the first pitch.

SEVENTH INNING.

Giants—Ripple flied to Hoag in short left. McCarthy rolled out, Gomez to Gehrig. Mancuso hoisted to DiMaggio in short centre.

No runs, no hits, no errors; none left.

Yankees—Gehrig walked with the count three and two. The fourth ball was wide. Dickey walked on fourth straight pitch, and the Giants' bull pen went into action again. Hoag's attempted sacrifice bunt rolled over the third base chalk line. Mancuso attempted to pick Gehrig off second, but Bartell was knocked off his feet and dropped the ball as Gehrig collided with him. Hoag hit into a double play, Ott to Whitehead to McCarthy, as Gehrig reached third. Selkirk grounded out, Bartell to McCarthy.

EIGHTH INNING

Yankees—Al Smith, a southpaw, went to the box. He was the fourth pitcher for the Giants. Lazzeri hit a home run into the lower left field stands. Ripple made a one-hand stab of Gomez' line drive after misjudging the ball. Crosetti lined to Ott on the first pitch. Rolfe hoisted to Moore.

One run, one hit, no errors; none left.

NINTH INNING

Giants.—Ott went down swinging. Leiber lined to Dimaggio. Ripple walked, the fourth ball being low. McCarthy grounded out to Gehrig unassisted.

No runs, no hits, no errors, one left.

Harvest Service At Warkworth

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARKWORTH, Oct. 5. — St. John's Anglican Church was beautiful on Sunday, tastefully arranged with autumn leaves, fruit, vegetables, grains, and flowers for the harvest thanksgiving service. A good congregation was present at both the morning and afternoon services. Rev. T. Floyd officiated at a celebration of Holy Communion at the morning service, and in the afternoon Rev. William Stocks, rector of St. George's Church, Hastings, assisted Rev. T. Floyd with service, preaching an interesting and inspiring sermon on the harvest season. The Campbellford choir assisted in the hearty singing of familiar harvest hymns. Mrs. W. Mowat presided at the organ and the closing hymn, "From ocean unto ocean," completed a beautiful and helpful service.

LAID UP FOR WEEKS BY SCIATICA

At 76 Kruschen Conquered His Complaint

At 86 years of age, this man is still going strong, yet 10 years ago he was laid up for weeks with an attack of sciatica. Read how he keeps fit in spite of his advanced age:—

"Ten years ago, I was laid up for about a month with a severe attack of sciatica. I was quite unable to sleep and suffered a great deal. I tried several remedies, but obtained little relief. At last I saw one of your advertisements, and decided to give Kruschen a trial. I stuck to it and took about half-a-teaspoonful every morning in my coffee and my sciatica gradually went. I was 86 last month—still going strong—and my friends ask me how I keep my clear skin and healthy looks. I tell them all it is due to Kruschen Salts." —C. T. L.

Whether you are in your 'teens or past your prime, it is neither too early nor too late to start on the "little daily dose." Just a tiny tasteless pinch in your morning tea or coffee—that's the Kruschen rule for constant fitness. Advt.

CLAIMS ESKIMOS ALWAYS CHEERFUL

MONTREAL, Oct. 6 (C.P.).—Most friendly people "in the world," in the opinion of Lieut.-Commander Harold Beament, are the Eskimos.

"You never see them scowl, and they always are cheerful," said Beament, artist and naval officer who returned home to-day after a cruise to the Eastern Arctic and the Hudson Bay on the H.M.S. Scarborough. "The girls are quite pretty," he said, "and, though they are shy, their faces split wide open in a white grin when you speak to them. They have a delightful way of saying 'Hello.'

"The Eskimos watch the white men carefully, and if they see something he has that they like, they adopt it. If they turn against it after a while, they will say, 'All right for white man, but not good for me.' Then they discard it, but without malice or envy or bad feelings. They have a wonderful philosophy about things like that."

Wall Street Props Are Pulled Out

NEW YORK, Oct. 6—(A.P.). — Props were pulled from under the stock market to-day and leading issues tumbled 1 to 6 points. A few were off as much as 12. New lows for the year or longer were widely distributed.

Dealings, lively at the start, slowed later when mild support appeared, but volume picked up again near the final hour and quotations again slanted downward. Transfers were about 1,600,000 shares.

Glasgow, Scotland, will greatly increase its educational system.

ALBERTAN JAILED FOR SLAYING WIFE IN JEALOUS RAGE

McLENNAN, Alta., Oct. 6.—(CP).—Named the rifle-slayer of his wife here, Edward M. Gougeon is held by Royal Canadian Mounted Police at Peace River, Alta., on a charge of murder. McLennan is 250 miles north-east of Edmonton.

"Mrs. Alma Gougeon came to her death from shots fired by a .22 rifle in the hands of her husband," was the verdict returned at an inquest here last night. Wounded early Saturday, the woman died in hospital here Sunday.

The couple's 14-year-old daughter, Rosie, testified Gougeon left home last winter for two or three months owing to jealousy over his wife. The girl said that, when he returned, her mother denied charges she associated with other men. Early Sunday, Rosie said, she was awakened by her mother's cries and, rushing to her room in their farmhouse, she found her father beating the woman over the head with the butt of a pistol. She said her father went downstairs when she ran to her mother's aid.

Appears With Gun.

Rosie said she was assisting her mother from the room when Gougeon re-appeared with a rifle and fired a shot into his wife's chest. She staggered into Rosie's room and fell. She appealed to her husband to go for a priest but Rosie said he refused and fired another shot into the woman's body.

The daughter testified she dressed and prepared to take her eight-year-old sister and six-year-od brother to a neighbor's home, but before she could leave, she added, Gougeon reloaded his rifle and shot the wounded woman several times more.

BLAMES HEPBURN FOR MINE SLUMP

TIMMINS, Ont., Oct. 6—(CP).—Premier Mitchell Hepburn "and his millionaire friends" were accused by Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion here last night of depressing the mining market by encouraging the rumor gold was going down.

The Premier deliberately "threw in his lot with this class of manipulator" regardless of what the results might be to the men and their families in the mining camps, he said.

Dr. Manion commended J. P. Bartleman, Conservative candidate in Cochrane South, for his "outspoken criticism of Premier Hepburn and his co-dictator Mr. Godfrew (J. M. Godfrey, Ontario Securities Commissioner) for the unfair deal they have handed out to the prospector and the small financier."

In the Oshawa General Motors strike, Dr. Manion told a campaign meeting, the Premier chose the "international millionaire clique" rather than have his Government perform its duty as an unbiased judge in the dispute between the Oshawa company and its employees.

The Hepburn administration was a "bogey-man" Government, he said, for it was busy telling the world about a lot of things that would happen if Earl Rowe became Premier.

While Arthur Slaght, K.C., M.P., had warned that mining stocks would drop by one-third if Rowe were elected, under the assistance of Mr. Hepburn's millionaire friends they had already dropped below that point, Dr. Manion contended.

RESCUERS REACH MAROONED YOUTHS

VICTORIA, Oct. 6 (CP). — Saved from probable death by a companion's trek over wild Vancouver Island country and prompt organization of a three-man rescue party, George Wiltshire and Stanley Lothrop gained strength today for a 3,800-foot descent from a mountain in the West Coast Zeballos River district.

First news that the two young prospectors needed assistance was brought to Ceepeecee, near Zeballos on Vancouver Island, by Edward Mason, 17, of Vancouver. Rescuers who reached the men yesterday said they were too weak to be moved immediately, but would probably be brought to the coast today.

Mason said the party had been without food for two days when he left last Wednesday.

The rescue party, headed by Ray Petrie of Zeballos, was flown to within eight miles of the camp by Pilot R. L. (Ginger) Coote, Vancouver airman.

Wiltshire, 20, lives in Victoria. Lothrop, 23, is a Vancouver boy. All three had been students at the government camp, where young men are training in prospecting methods.

That's when I started taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it strengthened me in every way." Buy now at your nearby druggist.

DANCE PLANNED BY HAVELOCK W.I.

HAVELOCK, Oct. 6—The October meeting of the Havelock Branch Women's Institute was held on Monday afternoon in the Town Hall, with President Mrs. John Armstrong in the chair. The members answerd the roll call with several valuable "economical hints."

The Institute decided to hold their Hallowe'en dance on Monday, November 1st, and will engage Doug. Hutchinson's orchestra. The admission was placed at 35c per person. The November meeting, which would ordinarily be held on this Monday, was postponed until Tuesday, November 2nd.

A very interesting program was presented, with Mrs. J. Hoffman as convenor. A paper on "Home economics" was accompanied by a demonstration on how to build a clothes closet from ordinary orange crates.

A report from the recent officers' rally held in Lakefield was given by Mrs. Clare Price. Mrs. Price was also appointed as delegate to the annual convention in Toronto, with Mrs. Harry Pollock as alternate.

Refreshments were served at the end of the meeting, under the convenorship of Mrs. Wm. Rice.

SEE MOVE IN U.S. TO FETTER PRESS

NEW YORK, Oct. 6—(AP)—President James G. Stahlman of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association warned the seventh annual Herald Tribune forum on current problems yesterday attempts had been made, are being made and would continue to be made to "fetter" the American press.

Referring to regimentation of the press abroad, he said, "lulled into a coma of false security by the dulcet tones of demagogues and spellbinders, we in America have so far been content to think that these things can only happen elsewhere.

"A free press," he said, "is no publisher's right. It is the sole right of a free people and the newspapers are but the trustees of that right."

Speaking on "the case of the German press," Friedrich Auhagen, lecturer on German-American relations, warned against judging the German press by American standards.

"Both National Socialism and its press have no place in America," he said. "However, I disagree emphatically with snap judgments if they are meant to imply that the German press fails to serve the German people.

"The case for, as well as against, the German press, can rest only on the answer to this all-important question: To what extent do German newspapers of to-day fulfill the three most vital functions of a press, namely to gather news, to create an intelligent attitude toward important national issues, and to supply their readers with the kind of entertainment they like?"

A similar plea on behalf of the Italian press was made by Captain Ugo (CQ) V. D'Annunzio.

Tea was poured by Mrs. John Armstrong and Mrs. Johnson, and lunch was served by the members of the Young Women's Association.

British 12-Ton Atlantic Mail Planes Delayed By Test Pilot's Death

London, Oct. 6 (CP Cable)

DEATH last week of Robert Waight, chief test pilot for the De Havilland Aircraft Company, today was reported to have delayed for at least six weeks the air ministry's acceptance trials for two giant Albatross mail-planes ordered for trans-Atlantic winter flying.

Waight, who had practically finished tests with the first experimental machine, known as the "E 2," went to his death with many secrets of the performance of the 12-ton land machine undisclosed.

Four Albatross planes are waiting in the company's Hatfield factory partly built, awaiting the results of the final tests. They will not be completed until a pilot is chosen to carry on Waight's work.

Just before his death, Waight proved by tests the huge machine could carry half a ton of mail over the North Atlantic at a speed of more than 200 miles per hour.

Ackerman Mine Enterprise Is Being Followed Closely By Central Ontario People

Eighteen Men Are Now At Work With John Thompson Acting As Engineer

Extensive development operations on the property of Ackerman Gold Mines, about three miles east of Marmora, are reported to be progressing rapidly since work was begun several weeks ago.

John M. Thompson, mining engineer, son of G. H. Thompson, of Peterborough, has been engaged as manager, and recently moved with his family to Marmora. He is in charge of eighteen men, and it is expected that this number will be increased in the near future to twenty-eight, assigned to three eight hour shifts.

Preliminary work has included the erection of necessary buildings, and blasting for a new shaft.

The property is forty miles from Peterborough, and is traversed by No. 7 highway. Col. C. H. Ackerman has been devoting his time to organization for more than a year, and with the assistance of American capital has completed the financing of the company which he is directing. In the present enterprise there is no stock selling diversion to distract the management's attention from the actual development. The financial structure was erected first, and the company is now in a position to thoroughly examine the veins which were first assayed many years ago.

Old Surveys

Col. Ackerman's confidence in the reports of old engineers who surveyed the formation in the early days of mining in Hastings county, and also in the recent assays and other information have finally reached a substantial and active stage. The people of Marmora are keenly interested in this work. It expresses their hopes and convictions of several generations, and they expect that Col. Ackerman and his associates will be profitably rewarded when they advance into production.

It is understood that a concentra plant will be built on the property, although no official information has been received in that respect.

If the Ackerman Gold Mines become a financial success, one result will be to stimulate interest in the Peterborough-Hastings rock country, affording proof that the large mineralized area warrants investment. For that reason the Ackerman enterprise is being followed with keen interest by the whole countryside.

HUNGERFORD MAN HITS HERD OF COWS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Oct. 6.—While proceeding southerly on Highway No. 37, on Sunday evening, Charles Courneyea, Township of Hungerford, drove his motor car into a herd of cows immediately south of Tweed. None of the animals were injured badly, however, but the headlight and fender of Mr. Courneyea's car were both damaged. The matter was reported to Constable Hayes of Tweed.

William Lee, Tweed Chinese restaurant employee, appeared charged with assaulting Louis Meraw, and causing his actually bodily harm. The accused was arrested by Chief Constable Clare Hayes, who asked Lee be held in custody until Thursday, when he will face the assault charges.

The Faulkner highway has been opened to traffic from Jan's Corners to the road leading off the highway to Murphy's Corners. Although much surfacing remains to be done, the new highway is a big improvement over that section of the Hastings Road between Murphy's Corners and Jan's Corners. Quite a number have motored over the new section for the first time. Bad curves have been eliminated and hills have been cut down to gradual inclines and visibility is good. When the new road is completed through to Millbridge, the distance will be considerably shortened.

INSURANCE MEN HEAR A. G. NAIRN

Arriving late due to car trouble on the way here, A. Gordon Nairn, field supervisor of the Canadian Life Underwriters' Association addressed a meeting of the local branch at a luncheon at Hooper's Palm rooms to-day. President Clifford Hall presided in the chair.

Mr. Nairn spoke of some phases of the business of life insurance underwriting and stressed the ceaseless efforts of the Life Underwriters' Association in maintaining the business at a high level in the interests of the agents and the insuring public.

The fundamental objective of the Association he said was to help the individual agent learn more about his business and thus render a greater service to the public, and to make the agency end of the business more stable and more compact.

Urging the increasing growth and force of the Association, Mr. Nairn dealt at some length with outstanding reforms the organization had been able to effect during its comparatively brief existence, and spoke of some further proposals for bettering the lot of the "man with the rate book."

His address was particularly appropriate in view of a membership drive which the local branch of the Association is starting to-morrow under chairmanship of E. L. Sackville. Objective of the drive here is sixteen new members.

In extending a vote of thanks to the guest speaker, on motion of E. Wolfe, the president of the branch said the best way the members could show tehir appreciation was to get behind the membership drive and bring new men into the Association.

Announcement was made of a provincial sales and educational convention of life underwriters at Royal York Hotel on October 29. It was further announced that at the next meeting of the local branch on November 5, that Earl Putnam, manager of the Kitchener agency of the Dominion Life would be guest speaker.

SPANISH JURORS DEADLOCK ON FATE AMERICAN FLIER

SALAMANCA, Spain, Oct. 6 (UP)—Six officers of a Spanish insurgent court-martial appeared to be deadlocked last night over prosecution demands that Harold E. Dahl, 28-year-old aviator from Champaign, Ill., be put to death before a firing squad.

The six judges, a colonel and five captains, began deliberating the case at 1.50 p.m. The verdict had been expected last night, but will not be announced until Thursday.

During the testimony the prosecutor, Captain Juan Espinosa, said Dahl's attorney both paid tribute to the United States policy of neutrality in the Spanish war.

Dahl, who joined the loyalists at a salary of $1,500 a week "because I needed the dough," was captured July 12 when his plane was shot down behind insurgent lines.

Wife Wires "Good Luck."

His last act in his own defence was to place before the military judges a telegram from his pretty bride of eight months, Edithe Rogers Dahl, who waited across the frontier on the French Riviera.

"With all my heart, good luck," said the telegram.

It was delivered to Dahl as he sat, in new khaki trousers and a blue coat, in the stuffy court room and heard a prosecutor demand that he be executed for "insurrection" against the Nationalist Government of Spain.

A smile broke over Dahl's lean face as he ripped open the telegram and read it.

His attorney, the Marques del Merito, an aviation officer and a grandee of old Spain, took it from him and read it dramatically to the court.

Claims Forced to Fight.

Dahl's testimony was brief—that he came to Spain under the illusion that he was to be a technical advisor, but was forced by the loyalists to fight and kill.

Throughout the trial the testimony centred almost as much on Dahl's bride—she formerly sang with Rudy Vallee's orchestra—as it did on her husband.

It was love, he said, that brought him into Spain's slaughter.

"There are many aviators in the United States," he said. "It was difficult to find a job. This looked like easy money, so I took it. I had just been married; I wanted money to give my wife the kind of life to which she is entitled."

His attorney, appealing to Latin romanticism, stressed that Dahl has been a model husband, writing almost daily to his wife from his white-washed prison cell.

It appeared that Dahl and the Marques believed that, if the court martial found the young American guilty and condemned him to death, Mrs. Dahl might influence Generalissimo Francisco Franco to spare his life as she did once before.

TWO TEACHERS ARE APPOINTED

Appointment of two additional teachers to the public school staff for household science and manual training was authorized by the Board of Education at its meeting last evening. The two appointees are Mrs. James Turnbull and N. C. Munro.

Two half days a week will be served by Mrs. Turnbull and Mr. Munro. They will instruct all grade 7 and 8 classes of the six schools.

Agreeing to the suggestion of Dr. C. M. Scott, chairman, that local service clubs engaged in health work would be able to use to advantage the annual report of the public schools medical officer in their summer programs if the report were made available earlier in the year, the Board agreed to ask Dr. A. W. McPherson for his report in June in future years. His annual report for the 1936-1937 year was tendered the Board last evening.

School Inspector K. S. Wightman reported the boys' band sponsored by Lions' Club will likely give a free concert some time this month. "They have been practising all summer and are getting along fine," he said.

The Board granted $50 for prizes for the Collegiate field day Thursday. A request from the Workers' Educational Association for use of a room at the Collegiate for their meetings was granted.

DUKE OF WINDSOR MAKE NO SPEECHES DURING U.S. VISIT

LONDON, Oct. 6 (UP)—Sir Ronald Lindsay, British Ambassador to Washington, has obtained "favorable reaction" from the White House regarding the Duke of Windsor's forthcoming visit to the United States, it was said last night on excellent authority.

The Duke was said to have agreed to refrain from making any speeches during his travels over the United States. The "no speeches" agreement was believed to have been one of the British Cabinet's stipulations before it sanctioned the visit.

Ambassador Lindsay was understood to have been instructed to consult with the White House in Washington immediately after the Duke made known his desire to go to the United States for a study of housing and working conditions.

After he obtained "favorable reaction" to the plan, thereby dispelling any suggestions that the Duke's visit might prove embarrassing to the American Government, Lindsay's information was relayed to the Duke in Paris.

The Windsor party that will visit the United States within a few weeks, will include five or six persons—the Duke and Duchess; Lieutenant Dudley Forwood, permanent equerry to the Duke; Detective Lieutenant David Storrier of Scotland Yard; and the Duke's valet and the Duchess's maid.

$1,500 DAMAGES SOUGHT IN ACTION

Decision was reserved by Judge Sheldon Smoke after hearing of an action by Harold Spinks for $1,500 damages from Belmont Township in connection with a motor accident in County Court on Tuesday.

Mr. Spinks claimed he was proceeding south on the Methuen Road between Oak and Twin Lakes on August 6, 1936, and was driving his truck up a hill when the truck struck a ledge in the road. The accident resulted in damages to the truck and personal injuries, the plaintiff complained, contending the township was responsible for a negligent state of repair of the road.

It was argued for the defendant township that the road in question was in adequate state of repair, and that any damages suffered by the plaintiff were the result of his own negligence. G. N. Gordon, K.C., acted for Mr. Spinks and F. D. Kerr, K.C., and Edward Borbridge acted for Belmont Township.

Six other cases on the list were adjourned, special dates to be named.

CAMPBELLFORD

ROAD REPAIRS TO COST $200

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD Oct. 6. — Repairing cracks in the pavement came under discussion at the Council meeting on Monday, when it was indicated that all necessary repairs could be made at a cost of $200. A motion by Reeve S. H. McKeel authorizing the clerk to write the Standard Paving Company enlisting their services to do the work at a cost of $200 was passed.

Reeve McKeel also advocated that Council investigate the matter of grants from the Government and County Council to assist in the expense of this work. That the cost of resurfacing that part of the pavement recently excavated by the Bell Telephone Company should also be determined and the work proceeded with at the same time, it being understood that the said company should assume 100 per cent. of the cost of repairs in accordance with their agreement.

A letter from the St. Thomas Council requesting the endorsation of certain resolutions pertaining to the Ontario Municipal Association and with regard to their being given a certain proportion of taxes from and control of public transportation agencies. On motion of Reeve McKeel and Deputy-Reeve Calver the Council endorsed the motion embodied in the letter.

When it was indicated that the cost of a cast-iron runway would be about $40.00 Council abandoned the idea of placing this form of driveway at the east side of the Post Office, and decided instead to investigate the possibility of placing a concrete slope on the edge of the sidewalk.

Following a report from the chairman of the Police Committee and the passing of the pay sheet, the Council concluded one of its shortest sessions in many months.

Jimmy States Moguls Have Interest In Mike Jacobs' Club

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (AP).—The New York State Athletic Commission opened a big investigation Tuesday and wound up confronted with a threat to get investigated itself.

After confirming that he was correctly quoted in an Associated Press story of September 20 in which he said Chairman John J. Phelan and Bill Brown of the Commission "must have a personal interest" in Mike Jacobs' Twentieth Century Club, Promoter Jimmy Johnston stalked out of the hearing and issued a statement.

The statement, approved by Johnston but made under the name of his counsel, Newbold Morris, said:

Will Call on Governor.

"I will head an organization to call on the Governor to undertake a sweeping reorganization of the State Boxing Commission, in the same thorough fashion that he overhauled the State Racing Commission. This would give the followers of boxing a new deal."

Johnston, for once in his fiery career, didn't get a chance to say much. Neither did Attorney Newbold. The Commission swore him in and asked him if he were correctly quoted.

"Yes," he said, "and I have proof the Commission does have an interest in the Twentieth Century Club."

General Phelan almost jumped out of his chair and yelled to the recording stenographer:

"Get that in the records. He said we had a financial interest in the Twentieth...."

"I didn't say 'financial,' I said 'personal'," yelled Johnston. "Let me see what you're putting in those records!"

"We'll take care of the records," exploded the General.

Chairman Phelan refused to say what would be done in the Johnston case.

Powell Denies Charges.

A second investigation launched by the Commission centred in remarks made by Jimmy Powers, sports editor of the New York Daily News, concerning Max Baer's ability to get up before the count of 10 when he was kayoed by Joe Louis. Referee Arthur Donovan, who officiated at the fight, and Powers testified.

Donovan said that while, in his opinion, he believed Baer might have been able to get up and continue against Louis, at no time did he (Donovan) say or intimate the Baer-Louis fight was a fake. The Commission claims Powers' remarks said Donovan was induced by the Commission to say the fight was a fake. This Powers, through counsel, denied.

BRITISH ALTER HOCKEY RULES

LONDON, Oct. 6.—(CP).—A penalty shot on which the marksman will skate in on the netminder is being considered by British Ice Hockey Association officials. They may adopt it in time for use in the season starting Oct. 9.

The officials do not believe the netminders will be endangered any more than they are by the penalty shot used in Canada. There the shooter must lift the puck from a circle 36 feet from the cage.

B.I.H.A. officials are going back to the one referee system this season. They tried using two officials last year but found it led to confusion and petty jealousy.

FARR GOES HOME BUT WILL RETURN

NEW YORK, Oct. 6. — Tommy Farr, whose surprising showing against Joe Louis August 30 still is the talk of the fistic world, sails for home Wednesday, but chances are he'll come back in January for two winter bouts in the United States.

Mike Jacobs talked to Farr about meeting the winner of Friday night's Hippodrome show between Nathan Mann and Arturo Godoy, and also about a proposed fight in Miami in February.

Farr has spent the last month cashing in on the Louis fight. He received $5,000 for a week of stage appearances in Detroit; picked up another $1,000 for refereeing bouts in Montreal and Toronto and further enriched his coffers by personal appearances in other cities.

Farr has been signed for two pictures in London.

BADMINTON CLUB OPENS ITS SEASON

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Oct. 6.—The Millbrook Badminton Club opened its season for 1937-38 in the Armouries on Monday at 8 p.m., with a large attendance and a number of new players included in its membership.

Following the evening's play a social hour was enjoyed in the club room upstairs, Mrs. Harold Bigelow pouring tea at a table lovely with lace cloth, service of silver, cut glass bowl filled with pink asters on the central reflector, and pink candles burning in silver holders. Misses Ruth Thorndyke and Margaret Simpson assisted with the service of the guests, and among the visitors present were Messer. R. Hewett and F. Hall of Peterborough.

New lights, and new chairs, with a beautiful new mirror on the wall are among the furnishings being purchased by the Badminton Club this season.

Alaskan Ball Fan Will See Series

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (AP). — A Canadian and an Alaskan claim the long distance travelling record for world series spectators unless Mickey Cochrane, manager of Detroit Tigers, cares to dispute their claims.

Lawrence Hubley, theatre manager of Ketchikan and Juneau, is the Alaskan and his travelling companion is Stan Moran, cafe owner of Prince Rupert, B.C. They started for the series from Prince Rupert September 16. Both manage baseball teams and occasionally they visit Seattle to see Pacific Coast League teams in action. Moran has picked the Yanks to win while Kubley backs the Giants.

Cochrane, who has been recuperating in Europe from a head injury suffered in a ball game here last May, returned on the Queen Mary yesterday.

London is to have a new chain of swimming pools by next summer.

Don Heap Hits Iowa State Line For First Touch

ODD ITEMS FROM A SPORT SCRAP BOOK

By Bradley

PAUL DERRINGER

It is an indisputable fact that luck plays a major part in our sport of today. Paul Derringer was known as baseball's hard luck pitcher because of the degree of bad fortune he received in his pitching.

Just a few years ago he was a pitching goat of the season, losing 27 games. However, this was due more to bad luck than lack of ability, for he lost no less than 19 of these games by the slight margin of a single run.

But, two years later, his mates were according him more support at the plate and lady luck seemed to be smiling on his efforts, with the result that he was right at the top of the standing at the end of the season. And in the middle part of that season of which we speak he was chosen to play in the all-star game and did so.

Chessman Thinks Russians Safe

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Oct. 6. — (CP).—Al Cheesman, co-pilot who expects to accompany Sir Hubert Wilkins on his second search for the missing Russian fliers off the Alaskan coast, said he "was absolutely certain the men were safe."

On Sir Hubert's unsuccessful seaplane search for the Soviet aviators recently, "the plane picked up radio sounds of a set in operation somewhere in the area where the Russian party was supposedly lost," Cheesman said.

Ice fields were such that anyone who could fly a plane at all could land without difficulty, and landing conditions were good all the way to the North Pole from a point about 120 miles off the Canadian Arctic shore, he stated.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

PETE KING hasn't definitely decided to hang up his lacrosse stick yet. He was telling us the other day that he had planned to retire at the end of this season, but now he's so mad at missing half a dozen or so scoring chances in the final game 'gainst the Cheltenham champs here that he may stay in there another season. Pete figures he's slowing up but might hold his own for another campaign. We assured him that he'd be a sap to step out while he is still one of the potent scorers on the Auburns. Pete may not cover so much ground any more but he is still the best pass-receiver in this part of the Province and his experience around the rival cage nets the locals a lot of goals. Till someone better is developed or imported to take his place on the forward line, the veteran star should stick in there. The game owes a lot to Pete and we'd hate to see him drop out just yet.

* * * * * * *

TOMMY FOLEY, erstwhile centre fielder for the Petes, has been going great guns this year for the Oshawa GM-men. Fielding in sensational style and clouting the apple at a terrific clip—especially in playoffs. Tom was a fine fielder here, but the change of scenery has made him an even bigger diamond star. He is more content in Oshawa, making more money and with a winning club. No doubt, he'll stay with the GM-men during the 1938 season, too. However, we still feel that Foley would prefer to play ball and hockey for his home town had he a satisfactory job in Peterborough. He would have looked nice in local livery the past summer, eh?

* * * * * * *

GOOSE GOSLIN has been released by Detroit Tigers, and the veteran outfielder is looking for a coaching or managerial berth. He has had a long and honorable career with Washington and Detroit, and helped the latter to two pennants and a world's series title. We saw him drive in the winning run in the final game to give Detroit the title in 1935. Living up to his rep as a money player, he came up in the ninth with two out and Cochrane on second. And the Goose promptly singled to score Mickey. He was the big hero that fall and, even the next year, every time the old Red Gander shuffled up to the plate, the bleacherites began chanting: "Yea, Goose; yea, Goose; yea Goose!" But time marches on.

* * * * * * *

FAITH, AND this is getting more like a metropolitan centre all the time. We mean for working scribes at sports events. Time was, and not so long ago, when one or two of us covered a ball game, puck contest or grid fixture—getting it for the local sheet and sending it out to other papers. But nowadays there are no less than four pressmen in Peterborough getting the dirt at games, and sometimes one or two visiting scribes. We would humbly suggest that sports officials get busy and enlarge press boxes to take care of half a dozen of the writing gentry. Correspondents for out-of-town papers have the local kibitzer backed up tightly in the corner of cramped quarters and half the time he finds himself writing his notes on the next guy's pad—which is almost outrageous!

* * * * * * *

FOR THE third time this fall, we announce the opening of the grid season in Peterborough on Saturday. The last two Saturdays saw it postponed due to the infantile paralysis scare with Toronto teams slated to come here. But this time, it will be two Oshawa Collegiate crews, the juniors and seniors, opening their C.O.S.S.A. schedules 'gainst our P.C.I. squads at Riverside in a grid double-header. Ought to be two good games between the strongest teams in these groupings, and no doubt a lot of local fans will flock out to see the 1937 editions of the Garnet and Gray in action.

* * * * * * *

OUR ORFUNS are readying up for their second scheduled game on Monday, Thanksgiving Day, in Lindsay. This squad had tough luck in getting their opener with Toronto here last week called off —and they must play away from home again before entertaining the Galloping Ghosts in Riverside, October 16th. They may have a tough task in trying to subdue the Blue Bombers. The latter gang took a bad beating at the hands of Cobourg last Saturday but will be back in there battling hard against their oldtime rivals from Peter's borough, and it ought to be a nifty rugby tilt. These teams had two memorable melees last season, each winning one, and the Orfuns always claimed they were a better outfit than the Scugog squad in 1936. They intend definitely to prove it this semester, if possible. A number of local fans may motor up to see this scrap.

NORWOOD RINK Association held its annual meeting recently and these officers were elected: Presy, W. Bitten; vice-president, Alex Kempt; secretary, F. Kempt; treasurer, W. Giffen. Nothing definite was decided yet about hockey for this winter. Annual Fair night entertainment will be held on October 13th—a week from today—with a gals' softball tourney in the rink, such teams entering as Keene, Lindsay, Cambray and the Westclox damsels from here. With a dance after the diamond debris is cleaned up.

* * * * * * *

TAKING A gentle poke at us for handing out one of our "old-fashioned ribbings", especially in view of the fact "the Peterboroughs gave Oshawa their stiffest opposition of the season"—the quotes are his—the Quinte writer discusses our criticism of some of the Petes' ballsters during the 1937 season. He adds: "Perhaps the Peterborough scribe is really driving at the folly of importing ball players. Though it must be conceded that the C.O.B.L. is productive of the best calibreof baseball in Ontario, would it not be better to quit this importing of players and produce their own diamond material?" He points out that the C.O.B.L. held its own even when homebrews were used exclusively and that the wholesale importation of players put out such places as Belleville, Cobourg, Lindsay and Port Hope. "The good work," says he, 'of Al Clark, youthful Petes' shortstop this year, proves that imports are not necessary in this part of the Province when it comes to baseball." True enough, but which town will stop it first?

* * * * * * *

PICKING 'EM off the grapevine: There are a few new pucksters living here lately . . . . Toronto Westsides have an exhibition grid game with Belleville Panthers on Turkey Day . . . . Annual P.C.I. field day is Thursday . . . . Eddie Baker, veteran sports editor of the Ottawa Citizen, died yesterday . . . . Oshawa GM-men have outhit Toronto Grads 34 to 22 so far in their senior final serias . . . . O.A.S.A. intermediate final game between Toronto and Stratford will be Sat'day in Guelph, instead of today . . . ' P.C.I. teams plays in Bowmanville on October 16th, with Cobourg and Orfuns clashing here . . . . Jim Dorris will represent Peterborough at the annual C.O.B.L. meeting in Belleville the 16th . . . . Local sprinters are training for the races in Hastings on the holiday . . . . Rain may force the postponement today of the opening game in the N'Yawk world's series . ' . . POME (with a nod to Tennyson): We hold it true whate'er befall, we feel it when coach cusses most—'tis better to have lost on downs, than never to have held the ball! . . . . Okay, officer, we'll go peacefully.

BOSTON RED SOX ORIGINAL GOATS WORLD SERIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—The stars stride, the goats stumble, across the stage in our series cavalcade. Those glum fellows heading the parade are the Red Sox—the original series goats. They won the first interleague tournament back in 1903 against the Pirates, but got only $1,182 apiece, which is about one-sixth what the winners will get this time.

Here comes Christy Mathewson. You know they're comparing Carl Hubbell to Christy—but will King Karlos pitch three straight shutouts like Christy did back in 1905 against the Athletics?

Probably never heard of this fellow behind Mathewson, huh? Name's George Rohe. The White Sox needed a sub third baseman against the Cubs in 1906, shoved him in, the fans groaned in distress — but then, so did the Cub pitchers. The unknown guy blasted three triples which won three games. Dropped back to the minors next year. Never been heard from since. Wonder if any of the substitutes which studded the line-ups of both Yanks and Giants this season will do what Rohe did?

Example For Melton Set By Babe Adams.

You know this fellow, of course —Babe Adams. They say Cliff Melton can't win against the Yanks because first-year men never do, but they forget that Babe, a Pirate rookie, gave the Tigers a skimpy total of 18 hits in three games he won in 1909. The last one was an 8-0 game which gave the Pirates the championship. That sheepish fellow there is Fred Snodgrass. Poor Fred's never got over the fact that he dropped a fly ball which started Boston's winning rally against the Giants in the 1912 deciding game.

Those amazing 1914 Braves—here they come led as usual by old Hank Gowdy. They were the first to win a series four-straight—beating the million-dollar Athletics—and Hank's .545 batting average stood for years. Wonder if some light-hitting guy like Hank'll run wild this time?

Look at poor Heinie Zimmerman . . . thought he could beat Eddie Collins to home plate and chased him across with a run that helped the Sox beat the Giants in 1917. Forget these fellows behind Heinie. They played in the 1919 series—the Black Sox. But, say, there's one fellow who was really a hero—little Dickie Kerr. Remember how he won two games pitching for a team that was trying to lose?

Umpire Calls Game With Sun Shining.

Look at Bill Wambsganss strut. Bill's the only fellow who ever made an unassisted triple play in the series. Did it in 1920 when the Indians beat the Dodgers. Must've done something to both teams. Neither have been in the series since. Yeah, that's an umpire. It's Hildebrand of the American League. He's the fellow who called the third game of the 1922 world series in the 10th inning on account of darkness with the sun still shining right smart. Old Judge Landis saw what a mistake Hildy had made and ordered the receipts of that game turned over to charity.

That's a peeble Earl McNeely has in his fist. It's the pebble his grounder hit in the 1924 world series. The ball hopped over Lindstrom's head to score the winning run. That fellow with the scowl is Roger Peckinpaugh. He was voted most valuable player in the American League in 1925 and then made eight errors to keep Washington from beating Pittsburg.

They Must Like Their Baseball

This New York policeman took world series "madness" into consideration when he allowed Tony Albano (upper berth) and Pete Russell (lower) to maintain their places as first in line for series tickets at the portals of the Yankee stadium.

Rugby Coaches Welcome Rain Training Test For Mudders

Big Four Tigers And Queen's Tricolor Favorites In Heavy Going

TORONTO, Oct. 6 (CP) — This new fangled razzle-dazzle and glorified basketball is all right in football when the sun is shining. But when the gridiron is knee deep in mud and the ball is as hard to handle as a greased cannonball, a team has to have something else.

That's why coaches of eastern Canada's teams welcomed a general rain last night as they prepared for Saturday's schedule openings. They got opportunities to judge the mudding and sloshing possibilities of their charges.

Probably Mike Rodden of Hamilton's Big Four Tigers and Ted Reeve, coach at Queen's University, welcomed the weather change as much as anyone. Their products always have relished heavy going, featuring "two bucks and a kick" and a lot of rugged line play.

All along the eastern front coaches made the most of the rain test. Lew Hayman's prescription for his Toronto Argonauts included signals, kicking, scrimmage, plunging and tackling and he made his halves catch towering punts.

Alex Ponton skippered his Balmy Beach crew through the storm for two hours and reported the entire squad in good shape; if a trifle wet. Ottawa Rough Riders would start at University of Toronto drilled in signals.

Ottawa Sports Editor Dies Of Heart Attack

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (C.P.). — Edward Baker, widely known sports editor of the Ottawa Citizen, died here early to-day after a heart attack.

Baker, internationally known as a turf authority and official, arrived in New York yesterday to cover the World Series starting to-day between the New York Yankees and the Giants.

Hubbell Yet To Lose Opening Game While Gomez Unbeaten In Classic

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.— (AP)— This is the day, barring fire or flood, when all normal activities traditionally cease for a couple of hours in the afternoon and the mortality rate among grandmothers leaps out of sight.

The truth is that New York Giants, of Harlem, and New York Yankees, of the Bronx, are meeting at 1.30 p.m. E.S.T., in the latter's park in the first game of the world series.

The weather has been threatening complications, just as it did last year, but the forecast to-day was for cloudy weather and showers in the morning, possibly clearing toward afternoon.

If the rain of last night should continue long to-day, however, the clubs' hopes for a record gate may be knocked into a cocked hat.

Although practically all the reserved seats have been sold, the prospect of a sellout crowd of 70,000 depends entirely upon how many customers turn up to buy the unreserved grandstand seats at $2.50 and the bleacher seats at $1.10. Best advance indications put the crowd between 50,000 and 60,000, somewhat short of the record of 65,669 the same clubs set last year when the Yankees won four out of six games.

The eyesore of all eyes to-day, depending upon the fortunes of battle, was expected to be either Carl Hubbell, the Oklahoma apple-knocker who always pitches first world series games for the Giants, or Vernon (Lefty) Gomez, of California, to whom Manager Joe McCarthy has entrusted the Yankees' fortunes.

They promised — these two New Yorkers—to wage a homeric struggle. They are the greatest pitchers in their leagues. Hubbell, one of the great pitchers of all time, known as the "meal ticket," silenced the Yankees' big Berthas in the first game last year. Gomez, seven years younger than his mound rival and twice as eccentric, didn't work for the Yanks until the second game of the 1936 series, but he won two games.

Right down to the wire, the Yankees have been staunch favorites to win again, even though everybody, including Manager McCarthy of the Yankees, had admitted that the Giants are greatly improved over last season.

Stronger Defensive.

They are stronger at third base and at first base, and they have a new left-handed pitcher in Cliff Melton, who might stand the Yankees on their collective heads. They are such a smart fielding team that an established slugger like Wally Berger can't even break into today's line-up because his throw-ins from centre field leave something to be desired.

LEO DUROCHER JOINS DODGERS

NEW YORK, Oct. 6. — (AP).— Brooklyn Dodgers played "trade" to St. Louis Cardinals Tuesday by trading four players, two of whom are better than green hands at the game, for one.

They received from the gashouse gang Shortstop Lippy Leo Durocher, a 10-year man. In return they gave Second-Baseman Jimmy Bucher, Outfielder Johnny Cooney (one of the best defensive fly-chasers in the league), Joe Stripp (veteran third-baseman and a .309 hitter for his 10 years in the big time), and Pitcher Roy Henshaw (the little fellow they obtained from Chicago Cubs last year).

Neilson Ties Dominion Record Proving Sprinting Ability

Canadian Is Outstanding Runner In Century And Two Twenty Dashes

SAINT JOHN, N.B., Oct. 6.—One of the most outstanding men in the hundred yard and the two-twenty dash in the Dominion is young Sigurd Neilson, 19, who recently tied the Dominion record for the hundred yard sprint in the British Empire trials held at Saint John on Sept. 22. Neilson was clocked by seven watches, three of which read 9 2-5 seconds—the world's record—and the other four timed him at 9 3-5—the Canadian and British Empire record. His time for the two-twenty was 22 seconds flat—3-10 of a second faster than any other performer in the zone trials throughout Canada. By this remarkable showing Neilson is expected to be picked for the Canadian team which will travel to Australia sometime in December.

Neilson, the fourth of a family of seven, is a natural runner. Before attending Mount Allison university in the fall of '35, Sig never owned a pair of spikes. Around his home town, Plaster Rock, in the north of New Brunswick, Sig would walk for miles every day in the woods thus developing his leg muscles. When he attended high school young Neilson ran his first race in a snowstorm with just plain sneakers and on an ordinary field!

Star Football Player

When Sig first came to Mount Allison he became one of their star football players and when the track season rolled around he was brought under the coaching of "Bul" Lister who started to teach him the fundamentals of sprinting. Then last spring Sig was brought under the personal supervision of Coach Tom Trenholm who was really responsible for coaching him in the art of crouch starting. During the Maritime Intercollegiate track meet which was held at Saint John last May, the "blonde flash" was forced out of the meet a day or two before with a pulled leg muscle. However he soon recovered and was again pounding the cinders within a couple of weeks. While running under the Saint John Olympic club last summer Sig unofficially tied the Dominion record but it remained for the Empire trials to officially prove it and to show his prowess in the hundred and the two-twenty. At the present time Neilson is in perfect condition, having been in strict training all summer and it is probable that if he goes to Australia he will make an excellent showing among the Empire's best athletes.

MAUREEN ORCUTT SUFFERS DEFEAT

MEMPHIS COUNTRY CLUB, Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 6— Maureen Orcutt, runner-up to Pamela Barton of Great Britain last year and one of the Eastern favorites to capture this Forty-first Women's National Golf championship, was eliminated yesterday in the big upset of the opening round match.

Miss Orcutt was defeated, one up, by Mrs. George D. Brantley of Jacksonville, Fla., the former Mary Rogers, who won the southern women's championship at Louisville in 1935.

Remember When—

(By The Canadian Press)

That old adage "they don't come back" was proven at New York five years ago tonight when Jimmy (Babyface) McLarnin, Vancouver Irishman, scored a six-round technical knockout over aged Benny Leonard. Ruler of the division in the early '20s and one of the great lightweight boxers of all time, Leonard absorbed a terrific beating before the bout was stopped.

Sports Spice

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Oct. 6. — (AP) — Plenty of deals being cooked up here as the baseball clans gather . . . Looks like the biggest winter turnover in years . . . My choice tidbit is that Cincinnati is out to get Bill McKechnie of the Bees as manager, with Gabby Hartnett and Jimmy Wilson also in the running . . . Just a question of whether the Reds can bag either of the trio . . . Reds to rebuild from ground up . . . 11 of this year's team re-signed, but none of the others have even been approached . . . Latter list includes such big shots as Ernie Lombardi, Gene Schott and Paul Derringer. . . . If they go, who will take their places?

One burned up gent is Phillip K. Wrigley, owner of the Cubs . . . He didn't bother to stay home and root for his team in the city series against the White Sox. . . . Phillip K. can't understand why the Cubs didn't come through this year and last, and promises Chicago fans more new faces than they can count in 1938 . . . Dodgers topped off another wild season with a wild trade . . . Baseball men can't feature giving four players, including Buchner and Cooney for Leo Durocher . . . Leo may be past his prime as a player, but if the Dodgers are looking for a 1938 manager, mebbe the trade wasn't such a bum one, at that . . .

Mickey Cochrane, back from Europe and looking very fit, got the glad hand on all sides . . . Joe Gould, the fight manager, was spotted introducing Joe DiMaggio to Cliff Melton in the lobby of the hotel where all three live . . . Casey Stengel went across the Brooklyn bridge and personally collected the last installment of his salary for not managing the Dodgers . . . The big eared one has three offers and will do some business in the next two days.

Scenes like this will be the order of the day at the Motor Cycle Hill Climb at Nassau on Thanksgiving Day, which is being jointly sponsored by the Lions and Kawartha Motorcycle Clubs. Events are to be timed under A.C.U. auspices with electrical timers. A fine array of professional talent is promised.

CARL HUBBELL MAY BE GOAT SAYS AP SCRIBE

By Paul Mickelson
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Some of the big league baseball's most debated riddles should be solved when they decorate the horns on the goats and the laurel leafs on blushing heroes after the 1937 World Series show between the Yankees and the Giants.

Riddle number one, strangely enough, is the game's greatest pitching master, Carl Owen Hubbell. Though he won 22 ball games this year at the age of 34, there's more than a sneaking suspicion that the screwball maestro is over the hill. He's slower and his control isn't what it used to be. Hub is depending more than ever on his baseball sense. The Yankees got a draw in two games with him last year and will be even money he won't be around in the sixth inning of tomorrow's opener.

Goat or Hero?

Cliff Melton, the slow mountain music man whom the Yanks couldn't use three years ago, is almost a cinch to be the series goat or one of its greatest heroes. Enraged because the Giants' "Mickey Mouse" said Manager McCarthy and Catcher Bill Dickey didn't know anything about pitchers, the Yanks are loaded for the greatest young pitching star of the year.

A hero before he reports for World Series duty is Red Rolfe, third-baseman for the Yankees. Suffering from a painful bone growth in his right leg, Rolfe by rights shouldn't even play. But he must if the Yanks are to win. His batting fell off 50 points from a year ago, but still he looks like the one Yankee who is sure to be in Bill Terry's hair day after day.

In Tight Spot

Joe McCarthy, more so than Terry, is on the hottest spot of the two managers. Colonel Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, is going around town saying the Yanks are a kick-in, but if the Giants win he'll be pretty sour.

Another big question-mark in the series of question-marks is Hal Schumacher, veteran pitcher of the Giants. Well-founded rumor has it that he socked Terry on the jaw during a dispute three years ago, and that since then they haven't been what you would call pals. Strictly a hot-and-cold pitcher, Schumacher might swipe the whole show.

Mel Ott's tenure as a third-baseman also may be decided. Since he moved over from the outfield, little "hotfoot" has been going swell in everything but scooping up bunts. Two of the wickedest bunters in baseball are sure to give Ott his real test, Rolfe and Frankie Crosetti are two of the finest drag bunters in the game.

NAPANEE AWARDED SOFTBALL HONORS

GUELPH, Oct. 6.—(CP).— Napanee won the Intermediate "C" title of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association yesterday when Dover Centre forfeited the third and deciding game of the final series.

Forced to take the field in a drizzling rain after both teams had travelled 200 miles, play reached the last half of the second inning with Napanee leading 3 to 0 when an argument developed which ended when the Dover Centre manager decided to call his players to the bench. A Dover Centre supporter took up a position behind the plate and refused to leave the field when ordered away by the umpire.

Napanee had pounded across three runs in the first inning and had the bases loaded with none out when the game ended.

Newark Swamps Columbus 10-1 To Even Minor Series

A. A. Champions Drop Three Games At Home—$22,000 In Players' Pool

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 6 (A.P.).— The surprising Little World Series between the Columbus Red Birds and Newark's Bears was right back where it started to-day, all even, and more than $4,000 worth of chips were down on the outcome of the seventh and deciding contest to-night.

The Birds, American Association champs, swept the three-game series at Newark, and then the Bears, International loop pennant winners by a 25½-game margin, allowed the Birds a total of two runs in taking the three contests here. In the last three games the Bears outscored the Birds 19 to 2, last night's count being 10-1.

The $22,268.50 players' pool, poured into the coffers in the first four games, will be split on a 60-40 basis, with the winner taking the heavy end. There's a difference of $4,458.30, and to-night's clash decides who gets the extra bit.

HIS RECORD STANDS

LONDON.—(CP).—Norman Wainwright, Hanley swimmer, failed to lower his own British quarter-mile record, covering the distance in five minutes, 5 2-5 seconds; seven seconds slower than his time last year.

JOINS ST. HELENS

ST. HELENS, England—(CP). — Glyn Plyer, 25-year-old scrum-half who has played with Caernarvon and Llanelly, has been signed by St. Helens, English Rugby League club.

GOLF-FACTS NOT THEORIES
by Alex Morrison

Number 20

If you start the clubhead back from the ball while your midsection is tense, you can't hit the ball properly. Tension in your mid-section is like rust in the bearings of the mainspring of a clock. All that makes possible a smooth running machine has been locked against the movements of other parts.

In the case of a clock this relation between the mainspring and the rest of the works is easy to see and you can take my word that the same relation exists between the midsection and the rest of your body when it comes to making a golf swing.

Now the problem is to keep track of the state of your midsection, to know when it is relaxed or tense. It is sure to be tight when you bend over toward the ball too much and when you hold your breath during the swing. In order to keep it somewhat relaxed, you must stand as upright as possible throughout your swing and above all things you must breathe normally.

Most players make the mistake of catching their breath as the club goes back and holding it until after the ball has been hit. It is all right to inhale during the backswing, but be sure to exhale as the clubhead swings down toward the ball.

DEAD RECKONING

BY BRUCE HAMILTON

READ THIS FIRST:

Tim Kennedy has been writing a suicide note to himself in his wife's handwriting. He had graduated into a would-be homicide from the school of armchair murderers. Tim, who had built up a lucrative dental practice in a small town near London, had done so with great premeditation and planning years before.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 4.

Tim's professional efficiency eventually got around, and in particular he acquired a reputation as a painless dentist. For Dentist Jameson had a vein of Scottish stoicism that rendered him impatient with people "making a fuss over nothing"; besides, he was against drugs. And Taylor and Evans, both excellent workmen, were inclined to be a little overrapid and therefore ungentle in their treatment: they generally had full waiting rooms and were working against time. Yet, so strong is habit that, at a time when his work was being increasingly praised, he gained little ground from his competitors.

Perhaps Kennedy's personality was too unassertive. Shrewdly aware that this was the case, he laid himself out to acquire a good professional manner. He trained himself to chat easily with those patients who liked it, and though he at first found it difficult to combine close work with light conversation, he came to manage it very well. He gained skill in adapting his manner to individual characteristics: he learned how to reassure nervous patients, and how to make a parade of silent efficiency with businesslike ones. He also took to going to church, and here he scored, for Jameson was a Presbyterian, Taylor and Evans indifferentists and sabbath-breakers. Kennedy's first big capture was the new rector, and quite a number of church people followed the lead.

The summer of 1914 found his condition and status perceptibly advanced, but he was still a long way from occupying the dominating position he afterwards reached. The real turning point in his fortunes was the Great War. By 1916 two of his rivals had been wiped out—Taylor blown to bits on the Somme, and Evans, attached to a medical unit at Amiens, receiving in an air raid injuries amounting to total disablement.

Kennedy did not rush into khaki. His lung trouble, though by now practically cured, served as an excuse. But in the black year of 1915 the pressure of public opinion became very strong and he applied for and obtained a commission in the ordnance corps. He was by no means deficient in personal courage, but the offer of his services was dictated purely by selfinterest. He foresaw that in the years following the conflict a high premium would be placed on a war record, and that a man of military age who could not boast of one would be handicapped professionally. Also, he was aware that the holding of a commission would raise his social status—hitherto negligible—in a way nothing else could. He looked well in his uniform—prematurely middle-aged, but quiet and distinguished in his slight, rather trim fashion.

He spent all his leaves in West Shilston, forswearing the delights of wartime London for the sake of impressing himself on the mind of the town in the character of an officer and a gentleman. On these leaves he found himself welcomed and even courted in circles with which he had had no contact before. He accepted this new position as his right, but modestly and without presumption.

In the spring of 1919, immediately after demobilization, he was quietly married to Esther Ashwell.

Ester, the daughter, of a gentleman of leisure and race horse owner in a small way, niece of Dr. Arkwright, the most considerable medical man in the district, and a very attractive girl in her own right, was about as marriageable a proposition as any mother could hope for; and the marriage could hardly have passed without some scandal and social discomfort a few years before. But Kennedy was by now thoroughly established. He encouraged people to call him Captain Kennedy but quietly dropped the title at the psychological moment just before the retention of temporary military honorifics became ridiculous. He took an active part in the organization of the local British Legion; he followed up, with unassuming pertinacity, every contact capable of strengthening his position.

His social advance was paralleled by an equally rapid move forward in his professional standin. Taylor was dead, Evans finished. Jameson dead. The latter, overwhelmed with work in the later war years, had taken a man called Fiddian as partner, and the two had carried on until just after the armistice, when Jameson had died of peritonitis. Fiddian continued with moderate success, and in 1919 a very young man named Harris started out in the poorer part of the town; he was believed to be struggling.

But the most striking effect of these hazards and changes was that Tim Kennedy was suddenly promoted from junior to senior dentist in the town. Fiddian and Harris were newcomers, almost foreigners, but Kennedy was of the prewar vintage. To his always good reputation he could now add the background of an assured social position; he became beyond challenge THE dentist of West Shilston, and he was able to increase substantially his formerly very modest fees without risk of losing business.

He kept his rooms in High street, but ceased to reside on the premises; he had not spent a single night there after joining the army. The waiting room and living room were knocked into one, and made a very handsome apartment. The surgery was re-equipped and refurnished throughout; new decorations, new curtains woodwork completely exorcised the dingy flavor of the old regime. The staircase, too, was put in better shape, a smart plate of white metal replaced the former brass, and patients were encouraged to ring the outside bell. This was now answered by Adams, formerly a corporal in Kennedy's company, who had saved his officer's life by pulling him into the cover of a shell hole at a critical moment in a retreat. (The fact that this was the only occasion when Kennedy had been under fire was not made public.)

Shortly after their marriage, Tim and Esther moved out of town. About a mile and a half from West Shilston, near the bottom of a hollow in the Merton Forest, lay a Queen Anne house, know as The Wilderness. It had been unoccupied for several years, was in a bad state of repair, and suspect of dampness. But it was of charming appearance, commodious in a haphazard way, and had a delightful garden of about 15 acres—lawns, kitchen garden, orchard, and a wild overgrown part by a stream around the hollow, from which the place derived its name. It was the property of Kennedy's father-in-law, under entail, and on his daughter's marraige, he modernized and put it in order, supplied a new roof and a great deal of concrete to help with the draining, and placed it at the pair's disposal.

He also made Esther a personal allowance of £500 a year, which he continued to pay till his death in 1926. A wild spring afternoon on Newmarket Heath gave him a chill which carried him off in a week. After his house and stables had been sold and his outstanding debts settled his personal estate was found to be less than £4,000—a tenth of the figure expected. He had been a widower for five years, and the money was equally divided between Esther and her brother Neddy. But by mutual agreement Esther made over her share of the money to Neddy as a gift, in consideration of being left in undisturbed occupation of the Wilderness.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S TRUMPET

"Wait for me, Uncle Wig! Please wait for me!"

Mr. Longears, the jolly rabbit gentleman did not need to turn around to know who was calling him.

"That's Baby Bunty," he said with a laugh. For only Baby Bunty, the orphan, of all the rabbits, was allowed to call Mr. Longears by the name "Unkie Wig."

"What is it, Bunty?" asked the rabbit uncle as he stopped and waited.

"Will you please take me adventuring with you, Unkie Wig?" asked Bunty.

"Don't you have to go to school?" he asked.

"Not this morning," said Baby Bunty. "The Lady Mouse Teacher said I was so good at my lessons yesterday I didn't need to go to school today."

"That's fine, Bunty. That's wonderful!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "So hop along with me and perhaps we may have an adventure."

Off They Hops

Up hill and down hill, over the fields and through the woods hopped Uncle Wiggily and Baby Bunty.

"I'm an adventure!"

In the woods Bunty saw a vine clinging to a tree. Hanging from the vine were some long red flowers.

"What are those blossoms Unkie Wig?" asked the orphan rabbit.

"Those are trumpet flowers," said Mr. Longears.

"Can you blow on the trumpet flowers?" Bunty wanted to know.

"You can try," said Mr. Longears, laughing.

Baby Bunty picked a trumpet vine flower and blew on the small end. To her surprise a noise like that of a horn came out of the large end.

"It is, truly, a trumpet, Unkie Wig!" said Bunty.

"So it is," agreed the rabbit uncle. "I wasn't sure, myself, a horn sound would come out of a trumpet flower. I don't believe it would for every one. But you are clever Bunty."

"I once made a noise like a trumpet by blowing through a dandelion stem," said the orphan rabbit.

"I suppose that's how you learned to blow on a trumpet flower," said Mr. Longears.

Then he and Bunty hopped on through the woods.

"I don't see any adventure!" complained the orphan rabbit.

Meet "Adventure."

"Here is one!" suddenly mewed a savage voice and out of the bushes popped the Bob Cat. "I'm an adventure!" he yowled.

"Oh, dear me!" said Uncle Wiggily. "Nibble me, if you please, Bad Chap, but don't nibble Bunty."

"I won't nibble Bunty, but I'll nibble you!" howled the Bob Cat.

"Run home, Bunty!" said Mr. Longears. "Let the Bob Cat nibble me!"

Bunty ran and hopped, but did she go home? No, indeed, she did not! She hopped to the woods where she had found the trumpet flower and on one of the blossoms she blew a loud blast: "Bam! Bam! Bam!"

The Bob Cat, who was just going to nibble Uncle Wiggily, heard the sound of the trumpet flower far away and mewed:

"Oh, there's the fish peddler blowing his horn. I must go get my fish. Wait here until I come back, Uncle Wiggily." Away ran the Bob Cat. But do you suppose Uncle Wiggily waited?

Indeed, he did not. Away he ran to his bungalow, stopping for Baby Bunty on the way. The orphan rabbit blew a last blast on the trumpet flower. The Bob Cat hunted around in the woods one hour for a fish peddler he couldn't find. So everything was for the best.

And if the safety pin will pick a fur lined cap off the hat tree I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's flower clock.

"The Authority on Authorities"

FRIGHTENING YOURSELF

ONE OF THE greatest dangers of opening with a hand somewhat below your usual standards is the psychological effect upon your own later bidding. You are even afraid then to show due respect for forces and slam invitations by your partner and thus may keep the side from missing a sure game or slam.

(Dealer: South, North-South vulnerable.)

South on this deal was a player with a penchant for having quite strong hands whenever he opened vulnerable. His great distribution here induced him to shade his usual honor strength requirements, though, and start the ball rolling with 1-Club. After West overcalled with a spade and North doubled, South was afraid he had inaugurated a mess of trouble and wondered how to get out of it. He took out the double with 2-Diamonds—really, a tipoff to North that his hand could not be very hefty in honor strength and therefore not good for defensive play against a low doubled contract.

This reverse bidding of a higher ranking suit after a lower ranking start could not help sounding to North like the indication of a hand so strong offensively that South was interested in slamming and not in a moderate set of a low contract. So North took the hint and bid 4-No Trumps. Thoroughly scared now by what he had done, South passed instead of bidding the 5-Clubs he should. West doubled this, and it was too bad North did not redouble. He took it out into 5-Clubs, which South passed, and a grand slam bonus was missed.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: South, East-West vulnerable.)

If East led the spade queen out of turn against South's 5-Diamonds contract, what penalty could be exact which would help him most?

NEW PICKFORD VENTURE

BINGHAMPTON, N.Y., Oct. 6 (AP) —Mary Pickford, Toronto-born actress, said here she "would go to Hollywood in about three weeks, and I may head a studio."

Asked if she would surround herself with headliners, the wife of Buddy Rogers, orchestra leader and former motion picture actor, replied:

"Nothing but headliners. It will be a co-operative venture."

She declined to elaborate.

Scars Of Battle Fade Swiftly From War-Torn Spain

Peasants Stolidly Start Patching Ruins As Struggle Moves Over Next Hill

By Edward J. Neil
(Associated Press Foreign Staff Writer)

WITH THE INSURGENT ARMIES, Santander, Oct. 6—(AP).—Bits from a war correspondent's notebook....One of the most amazing things about this Civil War in Spain is the speed with which the scars of fighting fade from the luxuriant mountain countryside as the battle flow moves steadily ahead.

One day a main road curving up into green-topped hills is a death-trap, swept both ways by machine guns hammering from the heights....the deserted village in the bene is burning fitfully.... Shells whine overhead, crash into the houses....

Airplanes in V's of three and six overhead....Their bombs, and the heavier shells draw lines of quick bright flame through the black smoke, pointing out the trenches on the hillsides....Rifles rattling an undertone....Thousands of men on the hills, in the fields beside the roads....Yet the most you see occasionally is the top of a steel helmet, inches from the dirt....Every man on his belly, keeping on living by the luck he has finding cover....

Trenches Just Clay Scratches.

Then the next day, when the attack has moved up the road no more than a mile or two....You can stand up and look without drawing a host of steel hornets around your head....The trenches are empty clay slashes irregular against the brow of the hills, bright and quiet in the sun....barbed wire flattened in a dozen places where the troops finally went through, wanders crookedly in the grass below the trenches....Cement pillboxes look like giant divers' helmets tossed on the ground, black slashes for the mouths where the machine guns were so busy yesterday....

To-day cows are browsing again in the fields, munching around the black loam edges of fresh shell holes....Engineers are hammering away getting a temporary structure across a ravine where the bridge was blown out....Soldiers fill in shell holes in the road....The rumble of the guns is still loud just over the hills....

Down the road comes an occasional oxcart, squeaking loudly on its solid wooden wheels, a squat basque in traditional costume, blue beret, blue denim shirt, black baggy pants and black slippers, guiding the lumbering animals with a stick....The carts are filled with household goods....Chickens with their legs tied look foolishly down from a pile of bedding....

Men and women fumble in the debris of the village, filthy with the filth of soldiers no longer caring much about anything....Sweeping out the houses that haven't been hit....Digging the roofs out of the upper storeys of those that have.... or just sitting helplessly on the doorsteps of complete ruins.

TWO SUMMERS ON ARCTIC RUN

It might have been too late when the vessel reached there.

"A wireless operator at the Cape messaged us that Cook Edward Moore of Summerside, P.E.I., had driven a nail in his foot, and it was badly swollen," said the young doctor.

"I guessed the cook hadn't taken proper care of the wound, and poultices were needed. I sent instructions by wireless how to make the poultices, and when we picked Moore up a few weeks later he was as good as new."

Dr. Lizotte had one case of cancer this year and one last year.

The company refused to increase wages and strikers have decided not to return to work until wages are increased.

SOFT COAL SMOKE PNEUMONIA'S ALLY

NEW YORK, Oct. 6—AP).—The soft coal smoke of cities is a weight reducer, an ally of pneumonia and bronchitis and a cause of fibrosis in the lungs.

This medical report, one of the first in a campaign started by physicians to learn the health effects of smoke, was published in The American Journal of Public Health in connection with the 66th annual meeting of the American Public Health Association, which began here to-day.

The medical smoke test, for the first time, separated the effects of the three common fuels, bituminous, anthracite and coke. Little harm was found in anthracite and coke.

The study was made on rats, mice and rabbits by Lucy Schnurer, M.D., of the William H. Singer Memorial Laboratory of the Allegheny General Hospital and Mellon Institute, Pittsburgh. The animals lived in chambers containing smoke in the same proportions breathed by humans, but the concentration was higher and more constant. Compared with other animals living in smoke free chambers the rats in the anthracite air gained five per cent. more in weight. In coke air the rats gained 14 per cent. In bituminous smoke their weight gain was 25 per cent less than the control animals.

Soft Coal The Worst

This, however, did not mean that coke and anthracite are sure to cause more weight. For rabbits showed their weight increase in all three kinds of smoky air. Far the worst for them was soft coal, which cut them down by 91 per cent.

The largest numbers of uncomplicated pneumonias and of cases of bronchitis appeared in the animals in soft coal smoke.

"Not even the faintest suggestion of fibrosis of the lungs," the report states," was seen in the control animals of those exposed to anthracite or coke. In the lungs of animals exposed to bituminous coal apparently the earliest stage of fibrosis was noted."

Fibrosis is formation of connective tissue in the lungs. It is not a disease in the sense that once started it continues to grow by itself. It is serious only when extensive. It is one of the effects of the dusts which cause silicosis.

New Black Action In Court's Hands

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. — (AP)—The United States' Supreme Court deferred action to-day on a motion by Albert Levitt designed to compel Associate Justice Hugo L. Black to show cause why he should be permitted to sit on the high tribunal.

Whether the court will grant or deny the motion probably will be announced next Monday.

Proceedings were brief. Levitt merely arose and said he had submitted the motion asking permission to file a petition challenging the Black appointment. He did not read the motion.

"You may submit the papers," Chief Justice Hughes told him.

meeting. The same was true of several ministers who also attended the wedding."

As evidence there was no desire on the part of the government to snub Mr. Hepburn, the prime minister mentioned several of his cabinet colleagues were actively campaigning for the Ontario Liberal party.

Misunderstanding of the Dominion's immigration laws, the prime minister thought, was the reason for Mr. Hepburn's declaration early this summer denying his allegiance to Mackenzie King Liberalism. He referred to the Ontario government's request that the Dominion bar certain C.I.O. workers.

There was nothing in the immigration laws to enable the department to forbid entry to any citizen of the United States so long as he was financially responsible and behaved himself. If he did not conform to Dominion laws he could be deported, or if he violated the contract labor law he could be sent back. The government was powerless to meet Mr. Hepburn's request at that time, Mr. Mackenzie King said.

Young Bear, Once Playful Pet, Is Shot Trip To The C.N.E. Made It Savage

JOE Dean who had a vicious captive bear on his hands and who was earlier reported to be at a loss to know what to do about it, found a solution to his problem.

Now he has bear steak on the menu at his George street restaurant and an empty cage sitting out in the back yard of his premises.

Because the bear, once a playful pet, reverted to savagery after his return from Canadian National Exhibition where he had been loaned as part of a display sponsored by the Ontario Department of Game and Fisheries, Joe decided he would have to get rid of the animal.

The filtration plant zoo refused it because of lack of accommodation and fear that trouble would result if he was placed in the same cage as that already occupied by another black bear.

He suggested releasing the animal in his native haunts but was cautioned against this course by the game warden, as the officer believed brutin would offer a real danger to life and property.

Taking the only alternative Joe had Provincial Motorcycle Constable Lloyd A. McClure shoot the bear on Monday afternoon. When a .22 rifle proved ineffective, the officer had to fall back on his service .45 calibre revolver to complete the job.

Now so long as the carcase holds out, bear steaks are on the bill of fare at Joe's restaurant.

Early in August Mr. Powell was appointed, along with Mr. MacLachlan and Mr. Byrne, as temporary commissioner to administer the Social Credit Act.

Mr. Unwin announced many weeks ago he was acting without remuneration for the Social Credit Board handling publicaton and distribution of posters.

Some 2,400 leaflets were seized on Saturday when police visited the downtown offices of the Alberta Social Credit League and an indisclosed number were picked up at a printing firm's offices. The leaflets were alleged to contain libellous statements on which the charges were based.

Names of nine prominent Edmonton lawyers and political executives who had opposed the Social Credit Government were on the leaflets. When Conservative Leader D. M. Duggan found a copy of the leaflet on his desk in the Legislative Chamber last week he urged a House Committee investigate. The request was rejected.

DRUMMONDVILLE, Que., Oct. 6—(CP).—Two men who registered as guests of the American hotel, bound and gagged the clerk early yesterday and fled with $1,121 in cash.

The men registered last night and came down from their room in the morning, ordered beer and food from Willie Simard, 24-year-old night clerk. As Simard turned to fill the order, one of the guests showed a revolver against the clerk's back and ordered him to open the office and unlock the safe. The man with the gun kept the clerk under cover while the other guests cleaned out the safe.

After stuffing the money into their pockets the intruders bound Simard and stuffed a gag in his mouth, then fled in a car.

ONTARIO SWEEPS HEPBURN TO 63-SEAT VICTORY

YANKS DEFEAT GIANTS 8 TO 1 IN SECOND GAME

American Champions Out-hit Terrymen 12 to 7 for Victory

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Oct. 7.—(AP)—The Yankees clubbed lanky Cliff Melton to the showers in five innings, continued their heavy bombardment against Harry Gumbert and Dick Coffman and duplicated their 8 to 1 opening game margin over the Giants in the world series today. A crowd of 57,675 saw the world champions make it two straight triumphs.

The batting order:

Yankees—Crosetti, ss; Rolfe, 3b; DiMaggio, cf; Gehrig, 1b; Dickey, c; Hoag, lf; Selkirk, rf; Lazeri, 2b; Ruffing, p.

Umpires—Plate, Barr (N.L.); first base, Basil (A.L.); second base, Stewart (N.L.); third base, Ormsby (A.L.).

FIRST INNING.

Giants—Moore fanned, swinging at a fast ball. Bartell dropped a Texas leaguer into left field for two bases. Hoag barely got his glove on the ball but couldn't hold it. Ott lashed a single to right, scoring Bartell. Ott ran to second on the throw-in, sliding safely into the bag to beat Dickey's relay. Ripple fanned, swinging. McCarthy fanned, swinging at a high, fast ball.

One run, two hits, no errors; one left.

Yankees—Crosetti fanned on a called third strike. Rolfe grounded out Bartell to McCarthy. DiMaggio lined out to Bartell on the first pitch. The Giant shortstop speared the ball a foot from the ground and clung to it as he fell.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

SECOND INNING

Giants—Chiozza rolled out, Rolfe to Gehrig. Mancuso grounded out, Crosetti to Gehrig. Whitehead hoisted to Selkirk in the right field.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees—Bartell threw out Gehrig on a pretty play, taking Lou's hopper on the run behind second base and catching him with a fast throw. Chiozza took Dickey's long drive on the run. Hoag was thrown out on another sensational play by Bartell.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

THIRD INNING

Giants—Rolfe took Melton's slow roller and threw him out. Moore grounded out, Crosetti to Gehrig. Bartell singled sharply past Rolfe for his second straight hit. Ott lifted a high fly to Hoag.

SEN. JAS. ARTHURS DIES IN TORONTO

TORONTO, Oct. 7.—(CP)—Senator James Arthurs, 71, Conservative-appointee to the Upper House, died last night at his suburban Leaside home last night.

Senator Arthurs represented Parry Sound as a Conservative in the House of Commons from 1908 until his Senate appointment by Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett in 1934. He was a native of Toronto.

The Senator lived in Powasson in the Muskoka district for many years after ill health prevented him being called to the bar, for which he studied in Toronto and Hamilton schools.

At the outbreak of the Great War shortly after his general store at Powasson was destroyed by fire, Senator Arthurs raised and trained the 152nd Battalion in Parry Sound district. He took the battalion to England, where it was broken up and Col. Arthurs reverted to the rank of captain, going to France with the First Battalion. In France's battle fields he rose to comand this unit.

The Senator lived in Parry Sound until a month ago when he and Mrs. Arthurs, who celebrated their golden wedding anniversary September 10, move dto Leaside.

He is survived by his widow, three daughters, Mrs. N. Farrell and Mrs. C. C. Jackson, Toronto, and Mrs. S. G. Freeburn, Calgary, and four sons, J. N., of Parry Sound, J. H., of Boston, W. G. of Seattle, and Victor R. of Toronto.

OTTAWA, Oct. 7.—(CP)—The death of Senator James Arthurs in Toronto to-day created the fifth vacancy in the Senate. Conservatives still have a majority in the appointed Chamber, holding 57 seats to 34 for the Liberals.

Liberal Candidate Has 1,344 Lead In Peterborough

Conservative Plurality in 1934 in City Changed To Liberal Lead—Elliott Also Carries County

Alex L. Elliott, young Liberal candidate, was elected yesterday representative for Peterborough in the next government of Ontario under the leadership of the Hon. Mitchell F. Hepburn by a plurality of 1,344 votes over T. Percy Lancaster of Havelock, Conservative member of the Legislature since 1926, and William S. Johnston, candidate of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation.

Unrevised returns from all the polls gave:

	Votes.
Elliott (Liberal)	10,729
Lancaster (Conservative)	9,485
Johnston (C.C.F.)	1,859

The decisiveness of Peterborough's response to Premier Hepburn's appeal for a new mandate is indicated by the fact that three years ago Mr. Lancaster was elected by a plurality of 34 over James Hawthorne and the Rev. Mr. Sutherland, C.C.F., as compared with Mr. Elliott's plurality Wednesday of 1,344, according to the total vote compiled by the Examiner late last night.

The principal gain by the Liberal candidate was made in the city. In 1934 Mr. Lancaster carried Peterborough city by a plurality of 567. The unconfirmed figures available to-day reversed that substantial margin almost to the last digit, for Mr. Elliott had a plurality of 536 in the city and 808 in the country.

Expectations of a heavy vote were confirmed by the total of 22,073 as compared with 21,171 in 1934. The tabulation of the returns received from all parts of the city and county last night had to be made hurriedly, and it is probable that some of them may be changed when the official result is announced by the returning officer, Vincent Eastwood.

Among those who congratulated Mr. Elliott in the Examiner office last night was Mr. Lancaster who was just as manly in defeat as he had been in his own hours of victory. Unaccompanied he arrived about 10 o'clock at the Examiner office which had become headquarters of election information for thousands of citizens, and in extending his best wishes to Mr. Elliott he received from recent opponents expressions of regret that the turn of political fortune had gone against him.

Mr. Elliott was surrounded by the rank and file of his supporters when he reached the Examiner, coming directly from the Liberal committee rooms. With him were Lieut. Colonel John A. Dewart, E. L. Sackville, T. J. Carley, Dr. E. M. Crough, Warden Roy Brown of Apsley and others who had assisted him in his successful entry into a major field of public service. When he takes his place in the government benches of the next session of the Legislature he will be one of its youngest members.

Gained Early Lead.

The first polls to report to the Examiner shortly after 7 p.m. clearly indicated the trend of the electors' choice in favor of Mr. Elliott. Ten polls gave him 719, Lancaster 623 and Johnston 154. The next ten polls increased the totals to 1426 for

REFUSE HATFIELD LEAVE TO APPEAL

TORONTO, Oct. 7 (CP)—Captain Freeman Hatfield, 76-year-old skipper of the now famous Gypsum Queen, was today refused leave to appeal against an 18-months sentence imposed at Ottawa Sept. 23 on a charge of defrauding the Dominion government out of $71,276.72 over the loss of his boat during the Great War.

However, Mr. Justice W. E. Middleton, to whome the application was made, said Hatfield's appeal against his conviction should be facilitated.

"I think this application must be refused," said His Lordship regarding the application for leave to appeal against the sentence in a written judgment handed down at Osgoode Hall today.

"The sentence, 18 months, is light punishment for the serious crime committed," he said. "The amount involved is large and the crime was of the most serious nature. It involved much scheming and deliberation. The fact that the government was able to secure part of the money does not in any way minimise the offence. A very large sum has yet to be secured."

Japs Call Emergency Session After U.S. Condemnation

Not Discouraged CCF To Reorganize

TORONTO, Oct. 7 (C.P.). — Not discouraged by their failure to elect a single candidate in yesterday's Provincial election, the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation is heartened by the solidity of its Farmer-Labor vote, Herbert Orliffe, C.C.F. Provincial Secretary, said to-day.

In fact, he said, its vote increased "considering the smaller aggregate provincial vote and this despite the most high pressure and heavily financed campaign of distortion this province has ever seen."

"We cannot be beaten ultimately," declared Mr. Orliffe. "The world is slowly but surely turning to Socialism as the solution of its economic ills. New Zealand, Sweden, Denmark, and other countries are leading the way."

The C.C.F. would undertake at once a provincial drive for funds with which to build an organization to contest every Ontario seat in the coming Federal election.

No Backing Out Now No Matter What Powers Do Says Foreign Office

TOKYO, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Japanese statesmen were called into emergency session at the foreign office today on receipt of news from Washington the United States had condemned Japan's invasion of China as a violation of her treaty obligations.

No immediate reply was expected to the formal statement of the American State Department, accusing Japan of violation of the Nine Power pact guaranteeing China's territorial integrity.

The Domei (Japanese) News Agency quoted unnamed foreign office officials as saying "Japan is confident she will prove equal to the contingency" even in the face of any concrete measures the powers might take.

The foreign office felt certain, in the light of the State Department statement, Domei said, that the Washington powers would meet in answer to a call from the League of Nations but "in the event of such convocation Japan will not partici-

Dry Huron, Bruce Ridings Return 3 Liberals

Election Outcome Seen Endorsement Of Government's Liquor Policy

GODERICH, Ont., Oct. 7 (C.P.).—Re-election of three Government candidates in Huron and Bruce ridings last night was claimed as an endorsement of the Government's liquor policy by its supporters. The issue between the Canadian Temperance Act, Federal legislation, and the Ontario Liquor Control Act, was joined in Huron, Huron-Bruce, and Bruce ridings.

James Ballantyne won in Huron, C. A. Robertson in Huron-Bruce, and J. W. Sinclair in Bruce, all being re-elected.

The Canada Temperance Act permits counties to vote themselves dry, that is forbid the sale of liquor. It does not forbid the importation of liquor. The Act provides it shall be effective until superseded by more restrictive legislation.

The Hepburn administration claimed that the Ontario Liquor Control Act was the more restrictive inasmuch as it forbids importation of liquor and puts the Government in control of sales. Beverage rooms were opened in the riding.

Hon. Earl Rowe, Conservative Leader, was said by the Conservative candidates in the three ridings, to have given an undertaking the Canadian Temperance Act should be allowed to prevail in those areas desiring it.

ROME IS ISOLATED BY TERRIFIC GALES TOWNS DESERTED

ROME, Oct. 7 (AP)—Violent wind and rain storms, sweeping down from the Apennines for the past few days, reached Rome today and drenched the city with prolonged heavy rain and hail.

Firemen responded to numerous telephone calls to drain flooded cellars and linesmen hastened to find a break in wires that cut Rome's telephone communications with the rest of Europe.

Provincial dispatches said five persons were killed Tuesday night in an avalanche of stones, earth and tree trunks near the Apennine town of San Pellegrino.

San Pellegrino and the town of Spedaletto were reported evacuated and the nearby villages of Camillo, Sambuca and Pavana were cut off from communications.

PERMIT HYDRO APPEAL

TORONTO, Oct. 7 (C.P.). — The Court of Appeal of Ontario, in a judgment handed down to-day at Osgoode Hall, ruled the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario and the Attorney-General could appeal to the Privy Council against a judgment in favor of the Beauharnois Light, Heat and Power Company without requiring security for costs being posted by the Hydro Commission.

SIX NEW FACES FOR HEPBURN'S COUNCIL TABLE

May Include Conant; Find Campbell Seat

TORONTO, Oct. 7—(CP)—Five or six new ministers will sit around the council table at Queen's Park after Premier Hepburn completes reorganization of his cabinet.

Resignation of two ministers last spring and the defeat of two more at yesterday's election necessitates a new line-up of departmental heads. Mr. Hepburn is also anxious to relieve himself of some of the executive burdens he has been carrying during the past three and a half years.

While he will likely remain provincial treasurer he will probably assign all other departments and concern himself less with details than he has in the past.

Five of the seven ministers in the cabinet were re-elected. Two were defeated and their places must be filled. Two resigned over the Oshawa motor workers' strike in April and were never replaced. In addition the Premier has announced his intention of appointing a full-time Minister of Labor.

Hon. Peter Heenan, Minister of Lands and Forests, is a former Federal Minister of Labor and a trade union member. He was re-elected in Kenora, but there has been no intimation he will be given the Labor department.

The Department was headed by David Croll until he resigned, but Mr. Croll also administered the departments of Welfare and Municipal Affairs. The new Labor Minister will have charge of drafting and presenting to the House an unemployment insurance bill.

Separate Labor Post.

With such recent labor measures as the Industrial Standards Act on the statute books and more to come, Mr. Hepburn intends to consolidate all labor and social legislation under a single minister. The administration of the Workmen's Compensation Act will be transferred from the Attorney General's Department to the Labor Department.

Hon. Harry Nixon, Provincial Secretary and senior member of the Cabinet, will likely remain at his present post, the same one he filled in the Drury government from 1919 to 1923.

Hon. Paul Leduc is the minister who has been Acting Attorney-General since the resignation of Arthur Roebuck last April. Two other lawyers elected yesterday have been already mentioned by Mr. Hepburn as certainties for the new cabinet, Eric Cross of Simcoe and Harold Kirby of Toronto. One of these three men will likely be Attorney-General.

May Find Seat For Campbell.

Had Colin A. Campbell been elected in Addington he would have been made Minister of Mines. As Mr. Hepburn wants Mr. Campbell in the Cabinet and wanted him in 1934 when he was also defeated, a seat may be found for him.

The Minister of Health, Hon. J. A. Faulkner, was defeated and his post will go to one of the medical men elected on the Liberal side or a non-medical minister may be chosen to head the department, whose chief

Rowe Is Defeated; Conservatives Gain 6 to Total 23

All C.C.F. Lose—Drew Beaten—Croll, Roebuck In; Conant Wins Ontario—Faulkner, Marshall Out

TORONTO, Oct. 7.—(CP)—Ontario electors today scanned a new page in the political history of the province and found it bore striking resemblance to the 1934 record when the Liberal party swept into power.

From 1,500,000 ballots cast in yesterday's general election, Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn's government drew a wealth of voting strength that sent the Liberal tide surging almost to the high water mark of three years ago.

Hon. Earl Rowe, Conservative leader, was defeated along with more than three score of his supporters. Mr. Rowe lost to Hon. L. J. Simpson, Minister of Education, in Simcoe Centre.

In the scramble for the 90 seats in Ontario's 20th Legislature, Liberals accounted for 63 and Conservatives 23. Premier Hepburn can also count on support from two Liberal-Progressives, one Independent-Liberal and one member whose political label is United Farmers of Ontario.

With a total strength of 67 in the house, the Liberals are short only five compared with the total they rolled up in 1934. Then they counted 66 Liberals, four Liberal-Progressives, one Independent and one U.F.O., against 17 Conservatives.

Conservatives Gain Six.

Despite the defeat of their leader, the Conservatives picked up a net gain of six seats, encroaching upon the Liberal Cabinet preserve for two.

Conservatives made their best showing in the Eastern and Central districts. Except for the border ridings of Dufferin-Simcoe, Peel and Simcoe East, not a Western Ontario constituency drifted into the Conservative column.

The Liberal trend was apparent almost from the time the polls closed at 7 p.m. The first result was flashed by the Canadian Press at 7.39 from Brantford, recording the victory of M. M. MacBride, Independent-Liberal.

By the time the first Conservative victory was recorded at 8.36—W. A. Summerville in Toronto Riverdale—20 Liberals were safely elected.

At St. Thomas, in his home constituency of Elgin, Premier Hepburn smiled happily as crowds in the streets cheered him. When his government's return was assured the Premier issued a statement declaring the result an endorsement of his opposition to the Committee for Industrial Organization, the John L. Lewis' group of labor unions.

Croll and Roebuck Back

Two of Mr. Hepburn's ministers who resigned last spring in disagreement with his labor policy, were returned in their constituencies. Arthur W. Roebuck, former Attorney-General, will again represent Toronto Bellwoods, and David Croll, who held the Labor-Welfare portfolio, will return from Windsor-Walkerville.

The riding that produced the General Motors strike and injected the C.I.O. into the political arena voted Liberal. In this constituepey—Ontario—four newcomers to campaign wars fought it out. Dr. Grant Bird, the Conservative standard-bearer, who supported Mr. Rowe, ran second to Gordon Conant, Liberal.

F. M. Dafoe, C.C.F., and E. G. Forest, Socialist-Labor, trailed.

Cabinet Winners.

Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Minister of Highways, Hamilton-Wentworth; Hon. H. C. Nixon, Provincial Secretary, Brant; Hon. L. J. Simpson, Minister of Education, Simcoe Centre; Hon. Peter Heenan, Minister of Lands and Forests, Kenora; Hon. C. W. Cox, Minister without portfolio, Port Arthur; Mr. Hepburn; and Hon. Paul Leduc, Minister of Mines, Ottawa East.

To Mr. Leduc went the honor of piling up the biggest individual majority in the election. Over his Conservative opponent, N. J. Lacasse, the minister of mines had a plurality of 13,167. His majority over Lacasse and A. Denomme, only Social Credit candidate in the 90 ridings, was 13,646. The vote: Leduc, 17,019; Lacasse, 3,852; Denomme, 521.

Dispute In Conacher's Riding

FIVE MORE YEARS INDUSTRIAL PEACE HEPBURN PLEDGES

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Oct. 7 (CP)—Five more years of "industrial peace" was promised the Province of Ontario last night by Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn as he viewed the sweeping return to power of his Liberal Government in yesterday's general election.

"The people of Ontario may rest assured they will have another five years of industrial peace," he stated, in the midst of a buoyant celebration in his home town constituency here.

"Ontario," he said, "has given endorsement to the first jurisdiction that had enough courage openly to defy and resist the threatened C.I.O. (Committee for Industrial Organization) invasion."

As the returns showed, the list of elected Liberals mounting, the Premier turned to his friends and exclaimed: "It's a sweep, fellows, a sweep."

Mr. Hepburn expressed satisfaction when the election of Arthur Roebuck, his former Attorney-General,

Hands Off Policy Opposed By Labor

BOURNEMOUTH, Hampshire, Oct. 7 (CP Cable)—The Labor party today gave its approval to rearmament and decided to campaign to have the government end its non-intervention policy in regard to Spain.

By a vote of 2,169,000 to 262,000, the annual conference of the party rejected a motion by the veteran Pacifist, George Lansbury, to refer the report of the national council of labor on foreign policy back to the party's executive committee.

U.S. TO JOIN PARLEY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (A.P.). — State Secretary Hull indicated today the United States Government's intention of participating in a nine-power conference to consider the Far Eastern conflict.

Hull said at his press conference that no invitation to such a parley thus far has been received, but as one of the signatories to the Nine-Power Treaty he "presumed" this Government would accept if and when the bid is received.

Vaccines Against Common Cold Aid 80 P.C. Of 20,000 Tested

Shorten Duration, Lighten Sickness, Avert After-Effects But Do Not Reduce Number

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 (AP)—Vaccines against the common cold, tried on 20,000 persons, helped 80 per cent of them—were useless for the others.

This verdict, resulted of the largest, longest and most complete tests of common cold vaccination yet reported, was announced to the American Public Health Association today.

All known kinds of cold vaccines were tried. All helped in the same way: they shortened the duration of common colds, kept people from feeling very sick, averted after-effects.

But none of them reduced the number of colds.

The report was made by Leverett D. Bristolwn, M.D., health director of the American Telephone and Telephone and Telegraph Company, New York city. With these human tests he explained there could be no "guinea pigs," such as some persons left unprotected to learn how much worse off they might be.

Tests To 17 Years.

But the lack of this scientific verification was partly made up by the fact the tests were made in five different companies, independently. The vaccines were given to 20,100 persons for periods ranging from 17 years in one company to five years in the shortest test. The average is nine years.

The long time covered is one of the vital facts in the results, for epidemics of colds are severe some winters, mild in others. Considering the different location of the companies, today's report covers 46 years of "common colds."

The largest company, 13,000 vaccinated, found beneficial effects of vaccine reported by 80 per cent. In this company three to 10 per cent of the vaccinated reported colds as bad or worse than previously. The others saw no difference either in numbers of colds or severity.

The vaccines are made from bacteria found in the nose and throat during colds. These are all common and well know germs. It is known that they are not the sole cause of common colds, but they are more active during a cold.

WASHINGTON BRANDS JAPAN PACT VIOLATOR

Swings With League To End China Strife

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP). — The United States Government, branding Japan a treaty violator, ranged itself alongside the League of Nations today in its effort to stop hostilities in the Far East.

Further action by the United States appeared imminent in consequence of a formal State Department pronouncement last night condemning the Japanese Government for its campaign in China.

This is expected to take the form of immediate consent to participate in a nine-power conference to consider possible new steps in the crisis.

The State Department acted swiftly to give practical force to President Roosevelt's pledge of co-operation with all peace-loving nations to end what he described as the prevailing reign of international lawlessness.

Its indictment of Japanese aggression was timed to coincide with similar action by the League of Nations Assembly.

"In the light of the unfolding developments in the Far East," the State Department said "the Government of the United States has been forced to the conclusion that the action of Japan in China is inconsistent with the principles which should govern the relationships between nations and is contrary to the provisions of the nine-power treaty of February 6, 1922, regarding principles and policies to be followed in matters concerning China, and to those of the Kellogg-Briand pact of August 27, 1928."

Second Such Action.

It marked the second time in a little more than five years the United States has resorted to this extreme in its Far Eastern policy. Similar action was taken in 1932 by State Secretary Henry L. Stimson when he sought to call Japan to account for its invasion of Manchuria.

Significantly, the outspoken pronouncement said conclusions of the United States' government with respect to Japan in the present crisis are "in general accord" with those of the Assembly of the League of Nations."

Informed observers interpreted this to mean that State Secretary Hull and his advisers already have decided to accept an anticipated invitation to participate in a conference of nine-power treaty signatories, being convoked under League auspices.

State Department officials are represented as feeling that while consultations among the signatries are eminently proper in the circumstances, any action looking toward restoration of peace in the Orient is the responsibility of all nations.

If this view prevails, some observers say, it may mean the proposed nine-power conference will act principally as an advisory agency, leaving to the League to determine and execute any specific program calculated to end the hostilities.

Authoritative persons professed to see in the State Department's denunciation of Japan an indication of the extent the United States may be prepared to go in cooperating with the League.

This collaboration, they contend, is to be limited strictly for the moment at least to application of the utmost moral pressure, parallel to but completely independent of League action. This course would be calculated to keep the United States aloof from assumption of responsibilities which go with membership in the League.

Big Customer In Russia

Another development touching upon American dealings with foreign powers was the disclosure Soviet Russia has bought more than $18,000,000 in arms, munitions and implements of war in the United States during September.

More than half of the purchases were for war vessels — apparently the first materials and equipment for two battleships which the Moscow government sought sometime ago to buy in the United States.

Disclosures of the Russian purchases in the state department's monthly report of export licenses was the first indication the United States government had consented to the transaction.

The total Russian purchases were by far the largest for a single month ever recorded by a single nation since the law prohibiting the export of arms, ammunition and implements of war except by specific permission by the state department, was enacted.

The total purchases of all countries in September also was the largest on record, amounting to $18,000,537.

China, England in conflict with Japan, bought $2,809,099 in war supplies, most of which went for materials listed under the category of grenades, bombs, torpedoes, mines and depth charges.

LIBERAL WINS IN PETERBOROUGH

Elliott, 270 for Johnston and 1207 for Lancaster.

Forty polls broadened the Elliott margin to 400, the summary being 9383 for Elliott, 1390 for Johnston and 2671 for Lancaster. With sixty polls heard from Mr. Elliott was leading by 700, and seventy-two polls left him only a few votes short of 1,000 ahead of Lancaster. As the returns continued to come in Mr. Lancaster slightly reduced that advantage, but the totals for one hundred polls gave Elliott 6572, Johnston 2301, and Lancaster 7,316, and considerably before that stage the election of Mr. Elliott was assured and also conceded.

In the narrow space of the Liberal headquarters, Mr. Elliott, surrounded by all his supporters who could crowd into the room, followed the increasing total the people of the county and city were giving him, and heard the first cheers to be shouted at him as a political leader. When there was no longer any doubt that the campaign had carried him into the provincial Legislature as a member of the government he responded to demands for a speech at the conclusion of which the crowd headed off with him to the Examiner office.

Not A Personal Victory

"It is a great pleasure to learn the result," Mr. Elliott said when it was learned that the Conservative had conceded his election. "I do not regard this as a personal victory. It is due to the fact that the people of this city and county appreciated the Hepburn administration and wanted Premier Hepburn to carry on. Those who should feel gratified are the men and women throughout the riding who where active in the campaign. I cannot thank them all individually, the poll chairmen and vice-chairmen, the workers everywhere aand many others who contributed to today's success. I want to mention Bill Mellis for his splendid help, also our campaign manager, E. L. Sackville, Mrs. Banks, president of the Women's Liberal Association."

Mr. Elliott said the campaign had disclosed a Demosthenes in Dr. E. M. Crough "whose forensic eloquence made the walls shake at many of our meetings."

Assistants In the East

"In the eastern section of the riding we had an organization that did fine work under the leadership of Rork Ferguson, M.P., and with him were associated Frank Breckenridge, Ernie McDonald, Perrin Rork, Bruce Curtis and others who also deserve to be mentioned. And we certainly owe a great deal to Dr. Donald Munroe of Warsaw who has been president of the old East Peterborough Liberal Association for 29 years including the time since 1934 when he became president of the amalgamated riding association. Dr. Munroe is a philosopher. During the lean years he carried on when Liberalism seemed in eclipse and attendances at meetings were small, but he believed that our day would come again. Now it has come, and I know that no person in the riding is more pleased than Dr. Munroe. I want to mention the co-operation of Mr. Duffus who has assisted us very much in the campaign and in today's work.

I wish also to express my thanks to Percy Lancaster who has been a member of the Legislature since 1929, and Mr. Johnston the third candidate in this election for the manner in which they conducted the campaign. There have been no public utterances introducing personalities, and I sincerely hope that I shall be able to serve all the people of this riding in the responsible position to which they have elected me."

At the request of Mr. Elliott, Dr. Crough spoke briefly congratulating him on the day's success. "I am more than delighted that this constituency now has a member who will represent us with the government. Alex Elliott is a close friend of mine and I am delighted at the honor that has come to him, but another point in the election was to get Hepburn elected, and the only way we could do it was by electing Mr. Elliott. I am proud and happy to acclaim Alex Elliott as our representative."

AT LIBERAL HEADQUARTERS

As the hour of seven o'clock drew near at the Liberal hearquarters, telephones were ringing until almost the last minutes. Some persons enquired whether their names were on the voters' list. Several calls were for automobiles to rush tardy electors to central polls. Finally the clocks struck seven, and while some of the volunteer staff went out for lunch, others took their places to await the verdict that would soon be on the wires.

At 7.10 p.m. Mrs. Chas. Banks telephoned the advance poll giving Elliott 24, Lancaster 22 and Johnston 2.

The first poll to report at headquarters was Cook's house at Sherbrooke and Park Place giving Lancaster 57, Elliott 47 and Johnston 20, leaving Lancaster eight votes up. It wasn't an encouraging start, but a minute later at 7.15 p.m., poll 5a, Clarence Logan's house on Lake Street, turned the tide and set it rolling for Elliott with a mounting tide of victory. The south ward poll was —Elliott 79, Johnston 16 and Lancaster 61, leaving Elliott with a plurality of ten.

Hooper's store, George Street north, added four for Elliott, the count being 69-56 with 11 for Johnston, and then came J. S. Mason's house on Armour Road with Elliott 127, Johnston 36 and Lancaster 26.

Hill's house on Robinson was next from Ashburnham with Elliott 95, Johnston 19 and Lancaster 70. Two returns came from the north ward, a half poll at Archie Breault's house giving Elliott a majority of 10; and W. J. Young's house 689 Water Street, contributed thirteen to the steadily increasing majority.

Several Slight Gains

Two polls, one on William Street and another on Water Street north, offset each other; then MacPherson's store on George Street, gave Elliott 82 to Lancaster 66; and Tobin's house in Ashburnham, a split poll, contributed an Elliott plurality of 40.

Mrs. Sine's house on McDonnel Street, with 123 each for Elliott and Lancaster, left the totals unchanged; and E. L. Sackville at 7.35 announced that incomplete returns from Otonabee were Elliott 416, Johnston 22 and Lancaster 218.

By that time the small store formerly occupied by George Coleman and Son, painters, was crowded with hardy campaigners who greeted the big aid from Otonabee with prolonged cheers. It was the first definite assurance that the country was going to stick to Hepburn while the city was apparently on the way to reversing the decision by which it had neglected James Hawthorne, the Liberal candidate in 1934.

Half a poll on Pearl Avenue brought more Liberal comfort with 101 for Elliott and 62 for Lancaster and 18 for Johnston; another half poll at Park and Elm Street came through with Elliott 131, Lancaster 72 and Johnston 11; and at that stage the Liberal campaign manager, E. L. Sackville expressed the opinion that the city voters were going to carry Elliott to a comfortable lead representing the large urban section of the riding.

An Otonabee poll with 108 for Elliott, 13 for Johnston and 45 Lancaster was sandwiched between two minor setbacks at Young's Point and at 181 Stewart Street. By that time the committee room was packed, and a robust fire in the furnace was producing perspiration with the excitement. Among those who had arrived betimes were Hon. G. N. Gordon, J. J. Duffus, M.P., and othe' stalwarts of the Liberal party.

The poll at 338 Reid Street reported 165 for Elliott, 27 for Johnston and 102 for Lancaster; and Dinadale's house on Westcott contributed another substantial gain with 102 for Elliott, 20 for Johnston and 56 for Lancaster.

Forecast of Victory

News from the Examiner office announced that 72 polls gave Elliott a majority of 994, and the crowded room rang again with cheers.

"Let's start a parade," some one called out, and Mr. Elliott's comment was "We have quite a lot to hear from yet."

Shortly after that the two Lakefield polls turned in solid majorities for Lancaster and Buckhorn gave him eleven more.

Cheers greeted a report that Douro had given Elliott a plurality of 285, and there was more cheering when James Hawthorne announced the vote at Warsaw, Elliott 176, Johnston 4, and Lancaster 116.

"Where's that poll?" some one called out when the first half of the poll at Huggins' house on High Street in North Monaghan telephoned a majority of 30 for Lancaster; but that loss was quickly picked up at 346 Aylmer Street with a majority of 34 for Elliott.

"Good old Ennismore," was shouted when that township rolled in 252 for Elliott, 4 for Johnston and 24 for Lancaster.

"G. K. Fraser has conceded the election of Mr. Elliott by a plurality of 1,200," Mr. Sackville announced at 8.35 o'clock, claimxing the demonstration in the committee room with cheering acclaim and general congratulation for Mr. Elliott.

Conservative Rooms

Amid gloom which overhung the Conservative headquarters from an early stage in the evening, G. K. Fraser, president of the Liberal-Conservative Association, indicated the first concession of Conservative defeat in Peterborough riding at 8.15 o'clock. At that time 113 polls had been tallied with a majority of 1,201 for Elliott. Mr. Lancaster was on his way to the city from Havelock to make his personal address to the gathering before the Examiner, conceding his defeat.

"It looks as though we are beaten," Mr. Fraser announced to the fifty persons in the small Water Street committee room. "But don't get discouraged for there's always another election coming. If it hadn't been for the C.C.F. and if Conservatives themselves had turned out to vote it would have been a different story."

Taken By Surprise

The Conservative defeat appeared to take the workers gathered in the room by surprise. The first poll to come in put the assembly in a jubilant mood for it was 8a at the corner of Park and Sherbrooke which reported a majority for their candidate—Lancaster 57, Elliott 47 and Johnson 20. The cheers which rang out were dampened by the second poll report to be received—5a on Lake street which gave Elliott 79, Lancaster 61, Johnson 16.

Conservative spirits were buoyed by occasional reports of outstanding Lancaster majorities at city polls such as 16a which gave their candidate 100 votes to Elliott's 66 but the workers soon gave up hope of a victory in the city and looked to the County returns. As County returns began coming in and the Elliott majority continued to mount, hope was abandoned.

Several laughs were enjoyed by the clerks who received the poll results at the committee room's telephones. One poll official called and gave the poll figures in the accustomed manner and, after a pause, said:

Wanted a Liberal

"If that was a Conservative I was speaking to, please give me a Liberal now and I'll tell him the results too."

"Liberals are very scarce around here," the clerk replied. "This is the Conservative committee room."

Another person simply wishing election results was apparently bent on giving the Conservative leg a pull. After being told by the clerk at the 'phone that Elliott was leading by a large plurality, the inquirer declared: "That's fine!"

Aberhart Hints At An Election Over Holdup Of 3 Bills

"Up To Alberta Citizens To Talk If Ottawa Blocks Measures"

MILK RIVER, Alta., Oct. 7.—(CP).—Premier Aberhart spoke last night in this town near the International border of the possibility of an election in Alberta.

He referred to three bills on whith Lieutenant-Governor J. C. Bowen reserved assent at the pleasure of the Governor-General when the special session was prorogued Tuesday. Mr. Aberhart told of events just prior to prorogation.

"The Lieutenant-Governor called me in at two minutes to three p.m. with no intimation of such a thing before, to tell me he must refer three bills," Mr. Aberhart said.

"There has never been precedent for such action in Alberta. The Lieutenant-Governor is supposed to take the advice of the Premier.

"Now if Ottawa says 'No,' I have nothing to say. You (the people) must do the talking."

Earlier in his addres to his audience the Premier said:

Wants Definite Stand.

"If I don't get the will of the people I may have to call an election."

"My appeal to you is to express yourself kindly and definitely," he said as he concluded the address.

The bills awaiting pleasure of the Governor-General are one respecting taxation of banks, amending and consolidating the credit of Alberta Regulation Act and a bill "to ensure the publication of accurate news and information."

The latter bill would affect news-

The ducks surrounded him, loudly clamoring for food and cluttered up the roadway so traffic was tied up both ways until they were shooed away.

BREAD proved to be "the staff of life" in more than one sense for 10-year-old Betty Mahar. Clutching a loaf under her arm she ran into the path of a speeding automobile and was struck. She escaped uninjured, however, as the bread dropped beneath her, breaking the fall.

BENOIT GUILTY RECLUSE MURDER

MONTREAL, Oct. 7 (CP).—Pleading innocence, Exelphat Benoit, 31-year-old ex-convict, was convicted by a King's Bench Court jury yesterday of murdering Hyacinthe Cote, wealthy Montreal landlord, whose battered body was found July 24 last in a suburban field. Mr. Justice Wilfrid Lazure sentenced Benoit to be hanged January 14.

The jury returned the guilty verdict after more than two and a quarter hours' deliberation. When Benoit, handcuffed and surrounded by five guards, was brought in to hear the verdict, his face was flushed and he kept biting his lips.

"Your Lordship," he said, before sentence was passed; "I do not expect to receive any favor by what I am going to say. I wish simply to express my own views. As a Roman Catholic I was told always there were two words. As I go for the first time to the other world I swear on my very soul that if this is the first time Your Lordship has sentenced a man to death, you will have sentenced an innocent man.

"The real guilty party," he said, in a choking voice, "is Lionel Gauthier."

Gauthier is co-accused with Benoit and will be tried October 12. He testified for the Crown against the convicted man.

Mr. Justice Lazure told Benoit he believed he had received a fair trial.

"Your lawyers," he said, "did everything they could to save you and I think the jury returned a fair verdict."

Cote, eccentric 67-year-old realtor, disappeard from his home July 20 and his mangled body was discovered four days later, half-buried under a pile of rocks in a suburban field and with the hands and feet tied. His clothes had been rifled.

CHEATED IN WEIGHING

HARTFORD CITY, Ind., Oct. 7 (AP).—A woman who said she "cheated" a penny weighing machine mailed a nickel to A. E. Goldreich, department store manager, to relieve her conscience.

The woman explained in a letter that she and four others had weighed "all for a penny" on the scales. She said she had been converted recently and realized her "wrong."

BIRMINGHAM, England—(CP)—After a visit to the Austin motor works here, Labor Minister Ernest Brown told reporters that in the last six months the firm had engaged 646 workers over the age of 40. There were 110 employees of 65 or older, he said.

regular duty is the administration of hospitals.

Oliver To Agriculture Job?

The agriculture portfolio is vacant as a result of the defeat of Duncan Marshall in Peel. Among the prospects for this post is Farquhar Oliver, U.F.O. member for Grey South. Although a young man, Mr. Oliver is one of the senior members of the legislature. He was only 22 years old when he was first elected in 1926.

Along with the reorganization of the cabinet will come changes in the Hydro-Electric Power Commission. Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Minister of Highways, re-elected in Hamilton-Wentworth, is a member of the commission but the resignation of Arthur Roebuck from the cabinet left a vacancy. Should a full-time minister be assigned to hydro Mr. McQuesten would probably get the call.

Gordon Conant, Oshawa lawyer who won Ontario for the Liberals in the face of bitter opposition from C.I.O. unionists arising out of the April automobile strike is prospect for a cabinet post.

A week or so may elapse before the reorganization is affected. Mr. Hepburn intends to spend the rest of this week at his farm. He will then return to Toronto to clean up pressing matters of his office and after that he hopes to go away for a week's rest.

LIONEL CONACHER WINS CLOSE FIGHT

TORONTO, Oct. 7.—(CP).— The "Big Train" of Canadian sport for more than a decade, Lionel Conacher, charged to victory in his politic debut here yesterday, winning Toronto Bracondale constituency for the victorious Liberal party in one of the closest contests of the election.

Typically, the Big Train came from behind to win. With a few polls unreported Conacher trailed his Conservative opponent, A. R. Nesbitt, by les sthan 100 votes. Reports from these final polls carried the great athlete to victory. Final unofficial figures for Bracondale read: Conacher 7,575, Nesbitt 7,528. Murra, Cotterill, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, 1996.

Political success for the Montreal Maroons' defenceman meant the National Hockey League would definitely see no more of the Big Train. Conacher was certain he meant it when he announced his retirement from sport several months ago. But there was a belief he might change his mind in the event his political venture ended in failure.

Regarded as the best athlete ever developed in Canada, Conacher was a star in several sports before he turned professional to play hockey. He became one of hockey's greatest rear-guards, though it took him many seasons of Big League play to achieve stardom.

BIGGER PULP CUT FOR SUDBURY AREA

SUDBURY, Oct. 7.—(CP).—A 75 per cent. increase in pulpwood operations and 10 per cent increase in log cutting will be recorded in Sudbury district this season, according to figures of current bush operations compiled to-day.

The pulpwood output is estimated at 64,000 cords, compared with 37,000 cords last year. The cut of sawlogs will be 1,867,000 pieces, or 117,000 more than last year.

The Austin Lumber (Dalton) Company, operating north of Chapleau on the Canadian Pacific Railway, lead pulp-cutting concerns with 30,000 cords. Central Paper Company, an American concern, is cutting 20,000 cords north of Massey.

Leading the log-cutting list is John Campbell & Sons, cutting 350,000 logs north of Westree on the Canadian National Railways. The J. J. McFadden Lumber Company will confine its activities this year to Mississauga Reserve of Blind River, cutting 140,000 logs.

NO HOSIERY DAMAGES

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 7 (AP)—A glance at his law books convinced District Judge Joseph E. Meyer that courts can make no provision for replacing women jurors' hosiery damaged in the pursuit of their duty.

Eight women jurors had sought hosiery damages after visiting a burr-infested field on an inspection tour in condemnation proceedings.

DURHAM REMAINS ON LIBERAL LIST MAJORITY BIGGER

PORT HOPE, Oct. 7.—With the town of Port Hope supplying the largest majority, Cecil G. Mercer, Reeve of the Township of Hope for six consecutive terms, captured the historic riding of Durham for the Liberals' cause in Wednesday's election. He triumphed over Milton J. Elliott, Conservative standard bearer, by a majority of 629.

Mr. Mercer succeeds W. J. Bragg, veteran member of the Ontario Legislature, who has held Durham for the past three terms. In 1934 the Liberal majority was 265.

The Grit victory was conceded shortly after nine o'clock and enthusiastic workers at once launched a celebration. A parade was held in Bowmanville and Port Hope, the visitors being met at the outskirts of the town by local followers and the brass band.

Over one hundred cars joined in a procession which completely blocked traffic in the business section. With well wishers sitting on fenders and clinging on to running boards, the newly-elected candidate was given a tremendous reception, which he smilingly acknowledged from atop a car. A short meeting was held at the Central Park band stand where speeches were given by Mr. Mercer, W. J. Bragg, ex-M.P.P., and W. Frank Rickard, M.P.

Port Hope registered a Liberal lead of 530, while Bowmanville went Conservative by 302. Newcastle went Grit by 58, while the village of Millbrook voted Elliott 253, Mercer 150, to give a Tory majority of 103. Three Lake front townships all went Liberal, the Mercer majorities being Hope township 388, Clarke township 208, Darlington township 625.

Elliott secured leads in the three northern municipalities, his totals being: Cartwright township 198; Manvers township 339 and Cavan township 87. The total poll in 1937 was 14,027, while the voters in 1934 numbered 13,614.

Asked For A Mandate—And Received It

MITCHELL F. HEPBURN was Premier of Ontario when he announced he would appeal to the electors for a new mandate on October 6. He received it and it was almost as emphatic as the one given him when he turned out the Henry government in 1934.

There were a good many issues placed before the people of the province, but we do not believe some of the issues on which emphasis was placed had much to do with determining the outcome. The school question for instance received last-minute prominence, but we do not believe it was a deciding factor in the contest. The temperance issue was brought to the front in several ridings, but that was not a deciding factor, and this paper doubts whether the much-heralded C.I.O. problem was much in the minds of the people when they went to vote.

The Government candidates had a better case to present than the Conservatives, and the presentation itself was better. The Hepburn government had balanced the budget; there had been passed back to the municipalities the equivalent of one mill on the tax papers, and it had been done in such a way that the bounty reached the people who pay taxes; the government has assumed the payment of pensions and road taxes and there had been a sharp reduction in the price of automobile licenses. We are certain these things had much to do with the outcome of the voting because they all had a bearing on the pockets of the people and that at any time is a strong way in which to present a case or argue a point.

* * *

THERE IS no way for accounting for the whims of elections and electors. David Croll after being asked to resign from the Hepburn cabinet on the Premier's handling of the Oshawa strike situation, entered his old riding as a Liberal and was elected. The same happened to Arthur Roebuck, formerly Attorney-General who fell out with his chief over the Oshawa situation. They were rebuked by Mr. Hepburn but endorsed by their own constituents, and in turn endorsation on a provincial scale was also extended to Mr. Hepburn. There is no explanation for that.

* * *

HON. EARL ROWE, newly-named leader of the Conservative party, will not have the satisfaction of appearing in the Legislature as head of the enlarged Conservative Opposition. We doubt much whether Mr. Rowe possesses the qualities of leadership which can rebuild the once great and powerful Conservative party in Ontario. We use the words "great and powerful" for it must be remembered that when the Legislature was dissolved as recently as 1934 there were 84 Conservatives in a House of 112 members and but 15 Liberals. Mr. Rowe lacks the magnetism which becomes infectious; his policy was one of constant attack without the added and vital feature of pointing to something definitely better.

Mr. Hepburn on the other hand was fearless in his leadership; he was definite in his statements, and he made the most out of every accomplishment he could claim on behalf of his ministry. If he needed a new mandate he can proceed with the assurance he has received it.

* * *

IN THE avalanche of victories which swept the Hepburn government back into power yesterday there were a few surprises in so far as the Central Ontario constituencies were concerned. One undoubtedly was the size of the majority with which Alex. L. Elliott was elected in Peterborough, sending to Queen's Park the first Liberal elected to the Legislature from this city since 1914.

The quietness which prevailed here before the election made it unusually impossible to get a line on the probable result and the extent of the support given the Liberal candidate certainly surprised his political opponents and probably some of his own workers. It was an outstanding victory.

Otherwise Central Ontario did about what independent prophets predicted, with the exception of Ontario where it was expected that the labor vote in Oshawa would give the seat so long held by W. E. N. Sinclair to the Conservatives. On the contrary the riding remained in the Liberal column.

So did Durham where the retirement of the veteran Liberal member W. J. Bragg was thought to favor the Conservative chances but where Cecil G. Mercer, Liberal standard-bearer, held the riding against Milton J. Elliott.

One of the hottest fights of the entire campaign was in Victoria and Haliburton where the veteran Liberal, William Newman, was faced by Leslie Frost, brother of the Conservative provincial campaign chairman. The battle had been a hammer-and-tongs affair from the start and the Conservative claims of victory were vindicated when the returns came in. In Northumberland H. N. Carr held his seat against a determined fight by A. R. Wilmott of Cobourg, the Conservative nominee. The two Hastings ridings traditionally Conservative, remained that way yesterday, Dr. Harold Welsh, winner of the famous by-election, retaining the seat in the East while in Hastings West, the youthful Mayor Arnott of Belleville administered a defeat to Hon. Dr. Faulkner, Minister of Health in the Hepburn cabinet.

Starting In The Home

There have been frequent calls for boycott action against Japan on account of the manner in which Japanese militarists have been killing civilian population in China. Most of the boycott suggestions come from those who believe they should be launched in a big way by governments or by the League of Nations.

The matter was discussed by the York County Council and a resolution was passed giving effect to the boycott plan. Deputy Reeve Charles P. Cashman discussed the idea this way:

"We must take a stand, right in our own homes, to protest the cruel slaughter of civilians in China."

And in so saying Mr. Cashman said a great deal that is true. When an idea gets imbedded in the national mind to the point where it enters the homes, and when it becomes so real that it affects the habits and outlook of the people in the homes then it is going to amount to something. And that goes for other things than boycotts.

At Five Miles An Hour

In London, Ont., court was called upon to deal with the case of a car driver who was charged with going too slow. Traffic officer who laid the complaint placed his speed at 10 miles an hour, and claimed he was holding up traffic on a busy road.

More serious than passenger cars are the huge trucks when they get on hills which are fairly stiff. The other evening there was a crash on what is known as the Baden Hill between Kitchener and New Hamburg. That is on the western end of No. 7 Highway and close to the hill where it was once proposed to build a memorial to Sir Adam Beck. A car containing five young people crashed into the rear of a truck making its way up the hill; two were instantly killed and three were seriously injured. The driver of the truck said he was going five miles per hour at the time. Although no statement has been given out as the driver of the passenger car was killed, it is likely he tried to pass the truck on the hill and then found another car coming from the opposite direction. If there had been no five-mile-an-hour truck trying to reach the top of the hill there would have been no accident.

The Old Order Changeth

Man pleaded guilty in court at Wallaceburg to a charge of having failed to provide school books for his children and also of having failed to have the children attend school. It seems the children in this home had not passed when trying their last examination, and so they would be spending another year in the same class and the father expected they would be using the same books.

At least he said it was that way when he was young and it was also a fact that school books were passed along from one member of the family to another. If the eldest member of the family had progressed from the starting point to the entrance class it would be necessary to provide a set of books; the next child in the same family would in turn make use of the same material and so on. It was generally done that way. Perhaps it is small wonder that the Wallaceburg father found things had been changed to such an extent that a child remaining in the same class for a second term would need a new and a different book. But it is a fact that a good many scholars who came from homes where money was scarce have made their way for a good many years on books which had been used before.

One Good Way Out

Vegetable growers in the Holland Marsh north of Toronto faced a problem they could not solve. They had produced great quantities of stuff for which they could not find a profitable market. Shipments to Toronto had resulted in a loss on account of the price of baskets, commission and trucking amounting to more than the receipts.

An order from the Commissioner of Fruits and Vegetables at Ottawa has changed all this because the government has purchased nearly all the vegetables in the Holland Marsh to ship to sections of Western Canada where such produce is badly needed. This is not a permanent solution for the problem of the growers of vegetables, but it serves for the moment to make things a good deal brighter for the people who previously did not know how to get rid of their produce.

There is something to be said for that method of distribution—taking produce from the place where there is too much of it and sending it to a section where there is no supply available and where it is needed. We do not look upon it as something which could have wide application, but for the moment we are satisfied to regard it as ideal for this particular case. Poor distribution is the cause of a good deal of our trouble.

Real Smart Fellows

This column never did make much claim at being strong in the field of mathematics. If there is a formidable column of figures to be added we find comfort in taking the problem to the business office and having the figures fed through the mechanical mill which permits of no error.

But one story from Toronto contains figures which arrest the attention of one with even elementary knowledge of simple arithmetic. It starts of by saying that most of the $6,000 stolen from the bank at Waterdown has been recovered. Fine; that is easy to understand.

Then we read that Toronto detectives "raided two west-end houses during the week-end and found $4,900. A Sunnyside district house also was searched and police who ripped up a bathroom floor found $3,770 in coppers. In still another house was found $360."

So after doing considerable adding we find that so far $9,890 has been recovered out of the $6,000 originally stolen. Which leads to the conclusion that the detectives are doing tolerably well.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Florida has had its third lynching of the year. There is still work for home missions, it would seem.

Farm laborers in Middlesex county are being paid $2 a day. The figure would seem to indicate the depression is over.

A lot of those election speeches would sound very funny today if we had to listen to them again.

The Duke of Windsor has promised to refrain from speeches while touring the United States. We imagine he gave the pledge very willingly.

We can only hope the people who have been predicting a cold winter were the same individuals who called the election results wrong.

British labor hopes to be able to organize the farmers. It is a problem that no country has succeeded in solving completely.

The Chinese price for the capture of a live Japanese general is said to be $14.50. Well a good general should be worth that much.

York council has decided to call upon citizens to boycott Japanese goods. The order will probably be complied with unless the stuff from the Orient happens to sell for less.

Tractors will be used to clear Montreal's streets of snow this winter. Old Dobbin is gradually being pushed completely out of the picture—except in Western movie films.

Premier Mussolini's son is a leader of the Italian flyers who are fighting in Spain. Only a week ago Il Duce stated his aim was peace and the two things hardly make sense.

A C.N.R. engineer running out of Hamilton has retired after 44 years service during which he covered 2,196,480 miles without a mishap of any kind. There is a nice record for the motoring fraternity to aim at.

A ninety-seven-year-old Hastings man who was due to cast his ballot would have little difficulty in remembering the time when gasoline taxes and automobile licenses were never heard of in election issues.

British labor has once again decisively rejected a proposition to form a united front with the Communists. Sooner or later the Reds will begin to feel that they are not wanted by the British workers.

The Russian purge has extended to the Moscow zoo, where officials have been removed for frightening the animals with outdoor loud speakers. Obviously the Soviet is more solicitious about animals than we in this country are about human beings.

CONVINCED

(By A. E. S.)

¶ I heard an anthem by the choir, it called the sun a ball of fire, as it sank in the west; the anthem mentioned not the hour, when it had shone with all its power, just when it went to rest.

¶ A sweet soprano told the tale, how shadows spread across the vale, the sun had sanked and sinked; and there was glory in the skies, a trifle hard upon the eyes, and in it she had blinked.

¶ The alto voice sobbed forth to say, the sun had sunk and gone away, she whispered it quite low; she had no doubt in what she sang, and real conviction in her rang, because she saw it go.

¶ And then the choir combined to sing, that they had really seen the thing, they sang subdued and sweet; the tale they told was like the rest, the sun had sanked out in the west, I know they would not cheat.

¶ The tenor then took up the air, and told his part of this affair, it was a tuneful song; and he affirmed with all his might, in notes that piled to hill-top height, he said the sun had gone.

¶ And then the basso sang his score, said he could see the sun no more, his low notes came kerplunk; so when the anthem folk were through, I was convinced it must be true—the sun had sink, sank, sunk.

Correspondents Discuss Various Topics.

CALLS IT AN INSULT

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Referring to the statement made by our illustrious alderman Mr. Stocker at the recent Fire, Water and Light meeting, "that our local firemen were living in the lap of luxury."

Any citizen interested in our Fire Department knows that that statement made by a man we presume to be a gentleman was uncalled for, and was definitely an insult to our fire fighters. Chief George Gimblett and his men do their duty as efficiently as it is possible to do it, and I have every respect for them. Through the foresight of the chief, inspections in the city are carried on regularly, and through this foresight our fire loss is not a large one, and we as right-minded citizens appreciate it.

We know what damage fire can do, in any city and we don't want our fair city burned down, even if Mr. Stocker does. As far as a three-platoon system, about which Mr. Stocker is so excited, you couldn't start one in a city this size till doomsday, then it would be too late.

I consider from a citizen's point of view that a firemen's life is far from luxury, as our learned alderman would have us believe. A fireman gets a good pay, a little better than a laboring man—that's granted, but here's where the hitch comes in. A laborer works his eight or nine hours a day, then he is finished his work for the day, but as Mr. Alex Murray stated in his letter, a fireman works 10 hours on one shift and 14 hours on the other and he is on call 24 hours a day Sunday included. They get one day off in a week. Well a laborer sometimes gets two and three days off a week. Wherever a fireman goes, or attends on any night that he is on the day shift, he must leave his phone number at the fire hall so he can be easily reached in case of need, whether he's at a hospital visiting sick friends, a threatre, church, lodge, or any other place.

When he arrives in the Hall he must be ready for duty, no matter what time of night or day it is. They have the drills and lectures regularly. He must have a good memory and must have his job and his many duties right at his finger tips. There is practically if not more than 150 pieces of fire fighting equipment. He must know how to handle the fire, that a particular piece of equipment is used for, know how to go about in the most effecient manner to extinguish a blaze, gasoline, car, roof, chimney, cellar, grass, forest, barn and many others too numerous to mention. Also he must know First Aid, know how to use the Inhalator at drownings, and how to break a hydrant just as quick as he possible can. He must know thoroughly every alarm box number, and where it is located at a second's notice, where doctors and hospitals are located. I would like to see Alderman Stocker get out of bed at 3 a.m. on a 10 below zero winter's night, and go and fight a fire all night till 7 a.m. then report to duty at 8 a.m. on the day shift till 6 p.m. It's been done by our local firemen.

I as a citizen respect and admire chief George Bimblett, and those firemen under him for the splendid work they do for this city.

MARKETING

Editor Examiner:

Sir: In The Examiner I see a news-story quoting J. B. Fairbairn, Deputy Minister of Agriculture (Ontario) as saying that the marketing solution for the fruit and vegetable producers, as far as the Toronto area is concerned, "is a terminal market to which all produce would come. This would permit control of supply and demand and yield better prices to the producers, as well as bring substantial advantages to the consumers."

This is good news, Mr. Editor. See how the viewpoint of the able and practical agriculturist quoted synchronises with that of Mr. Chas. W. Peterson, the noted editor of the Farm and Ranch Review at Calgary, dealing with the wheat marketing situation, in October issue: "It is now clear as daylight, that there was never the slightest justification for the record low price of wheat in three centuries, which was touched in 1932. That was solely the product of confused unorganized 'mob' selling against skillful, concentrated buying."

One further point, along another sector of the rural front. In that vivacious Examiner editorial "Things Look Brighter" as a result of six weeks' of political "promises," you conclude that "a number of farmers would probably be pleased to hear they could have their barns shingled with the government paying the bill."

The too-frequently deplorable condition of barns to be seen from railway windows across Ontario, often reminds me of the excellent plan of the Quebec government, i. e., supplying, gratis, appropriate quantities of green, black and white paint to farmers who will undertake to supply the labor to really make "things look brighter."

In the Days When Voting Was Open

Barrel of Whiskey Stood Under a Tree; And People Said Plainly How They Voted ("Life of John Marshall"

I VOTE for John Marshall."

"Thank you, sir," said the lank, easy-mannered Federalist, bowing.

"Hurrah for Marshall!" shouted the band of Federalists.

"And I vote for Clopton," cried another freeholder.

"May you live a thousand years my friend."

"Three cheers for Clopton!" roared the Republican enthusiasts.

It was election time in Virginia, April, 1799. A long bench was placed on the courthouse green, and upon it the local magistrates, acting as election judges, had taken their seats. By their sides sat the two candidates for Congress. As each elector came forward from the crowd to declare his preference, the favored candidate rose, bowing, and thanked his supporter. Anyone owning 100 acres of land could vote—in every county in which he possessed the necessary real estate.

Both Republican and Federalist leaders had seen to it that nothing was left undone which might bring victory to their candidates. Sick men were taken in their beds to the polls; the halt, the lame and the blind, were hunted up, and every mode of conveyance was mustered into service.

A barrel of whiskey, free for everybody, stood beneath a tree, and the majority took it straight. So hot became the contest that fist fights were frequent. Throughout the day the shouting and hurrahing rose in volume as the whiskey sank in the barrel. At times the uproar was deafening; men were shaking fists at each other, rolling up their sleeves cursing and swearing. When a tie was broken, insults were hurled at the voter's head.

"You, sir, ought to have your mouth smashed!" cried an enraged Republican when Rutherford voted for John Marshall, and smashing of mouths, blacking of eyes and breaking of heads there were in plenty.

Elections like this one at Richmond, with its oral vote and whiskey barrel under the tree, went on in most states up to the time of the Civil War.

Reduces Varicose or Swollen Veins

Simple Home Treatment Proves It At Small Cost.

The world progresses. To-day many minor ailments that took weeks to overcome can now be helped much more quickly. If you have varicose veins or bunches start to-day to bring them back to normal size, and if you are wise you will do so.

Just get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil at McDermid & Jury or any dispensing pharmacist, and apply it night and morning to the enlarged veins. In a short time the veins should begin to grow smaller and by regular use soon approach normal.

People who want to reduce varicose veins or simple swellings before resorting to operations or injections should not hesitate to try a bottle at once. It is so penetrating and powerful that a small bottle lasts a long time.

JAPANESE CALL EMERGENCY MEET

No Backing Up'

"No matter what decision such a conference should take," Domei quoted the Foreign Office officials, "whether moral pressure, concrete measures or material sanctions against Japan, the empire's fundamental policy will remain unchanged."

The Japanese Government was taken off guard by the condemnation, a high government official said.

"We are badly surprised and completely bewildered," he declared. "We had been certain prior to this that the United States understood the situation better than any other country in the world.

"We felt that the American public was completely enlightened on all issues and was traditionally neutral. The prevailing sentiment of the Japanese Government is that there is no reason for the action. We completely fail to understand the American actions which is bound to make a very bad impression on the Japanese public."

Newspaper extras appeared as soon as the bare text of the Washington statements was available. Excitement spread through the city. Crowds clustered about the newsboys, grabbing the papers as fast as they were printed.

Dry Fingernails Should Have Care

By GLADYS GLAD

There really are very few women today who neglect to keep their nails well-groomed. Yet there are some who, though they manicure their nails regularly, have very unattractive fingertips. This is due often to the fact that the nails become dry and brittle, and break easily.

The reason women acquire brittle nails is because they do not treat their fingertips properly. They may think they're doing right by their nails, but they really aren't. When their nailtips become split and broken, they feel aggrieved about it. The woman who has healthy, attractive nails, usually gives them lubricating treatments. The average business girl, particularly, should keep a bit of oil or cream in her office with which to lubricate her fingertips after cleansing her carbon-soiled hands.

Olive Oil Massage Helps

Dry, brittle nails and nails that tend to split and break easily require both internal and external treatments for the correction. The condition is caused by excessive dryness and lack of proper nourishment when the nail is in the process of formation. If person's diet is deficient in fats and oils, nail dryness and brittleness may easily result. So a woman thus afflicted should first add more of the fatty foods to her diet, for if her system is sufficiently supplied with the necessary oils, nature will supply enough to the nails to insure a healthy growth.

If the dryness of a girl's nails is due to external conditions alone, however, she can make up the deficiency in lubrication by external applications. A bit of warmed olive oil massaged into the base of each nail nightly will help a great deal. But I've found the best remedy to be soaking the fingertips each night for five or ten minutes in a melted mixture of one ounce of sweet almond oil, one ounce of lanolin and four drams of spermaceti. Then a bit of the mixture should be massaged into the base of each nail and permitted to remain on overnight. This helps to nourish the nails and restores to normal health.

Heavy Polish Helps

Women who have very dry, brittle nails can derive a good deal of benefit from applying one or several coatings of a heavy liquid polish out to the very tips of their nails. Such a polish, if heavy enough, helps to prevent the breaking, splitting and peeling that so often occur when the nails are dry and brittle, and it is possible to do this while still preserving the whiteness of the nail rims, too.

The trick in using nail polish in this fashion lies merely in employing two polishes—a colorless polish and a colored one. The nails should be buffed briskly first with a chamois buffer, in order to provide a smooth surface for the application of the enamel, and the colored polish should be used first after the buffing. It should be smoothed over the central part of each nail, but not over the rims or half-moons. And when this coating has fully dried, the colorless polish should be applied over each entire nail. In this way the nailtip receives its protective coating of polish, and yet remains appropriately clear and white in appearance.

WOOL KNIT SUITS POPULAR

Left, knitted wool jacket in nubby tweed mixture worn over one-piece frock of solid color knit wool; right, knit wool costume with quaintly patterned jacket, solid color skirt.

By LISBETH.

Fashion's spotlight seems determined to centre on suits this season.

Suits are not only the most important of daytime wearing apparel, they are as varied as they are significant. Wool jersey suits are among the popular numbers this autumn. New colors and yarns add distinction to them. Firm, resilient, and fine for tailoring are the new jersies in patterned novelty stripes, diamonds, checks and amusing multi-color motifs such as cartwheels, acorns, and clover leaves. They are ideal for this Indian summer wear, and will be decidedly nice to wear later under heavy coats.

Ensembles in wool knits are a trifle more formally styled this year, in jacket and skirt costumes, two-piece street frocks, or well-tailored frocks with accompanying jackets.

The model show nieft is of fine-knit wool finished to simulate a woven fabric and makes a fitted one-piece frock with smartly gored skirt which is worn with a collarless cross-striped jacket of nubby tweed mixture. A lovely leather belt matches the color of the frock.

Quaint Patterning

The other suit is a well-tailored wool knit style made on suit lines, with a solid color gered skirt topped by a jacket in an all-over jacquard patterning of quaint figures in bright colors. The jacket is fitted through the waist with a clide fastener closing at the front and accenting the slender lines.

Among the slightly heavier knit fabrics, the new chamois rib knits are noticeable. Warm, but light in weight, they are beautifully suited to the autumn and early winter tailored dresses and ensembles in which they are being shown.

For casual and sports coats, a lot of flat-surfaced wool knits are being shown. Many of them have that lovely brushed finish which is so luxurious to see and to touch.

Subtle new color combinations, skilful yarn mixtures and artistic pattern designing have produced an unusual number of knit wool models appropriate for wear on numerous occasions, both informal and formal.

Style Whimsies

The lace suit or tailleur is counted among the smartest fashions, and milady will do well to include at least one in her wardrobe.

Dresses with brief jackets are seen at all the smart places this fall. A very attractive model is a black sheer wool, with its jacket banded in Persian lamb. The frock is slim with a belt of the same material.

An Egg Mask Is Good For The Skin

By GLADYS GLAD

According to historians, the famous Empress Josephine, who was Napoleon's better-half, continued to bowl the boys over even after she was past 50. She didn't exactly look like a flapper of 15 when she was that age, but she had a flawlessly beautiful skin.

There's nothing like a good, old-fashioned egg mask for keeping the skin clear, smooth and fine-textured. A weekly egg mask is most effective in clearing the skin and refining its texture. And such a mask is so simple to administer that no girl should pass this beauty bet by. Actually, there are three different methods of administering an egg pack, and all three are of equal effectiveness.

In the first method the egg yolk alone should be used. Before the application of this mask, the skin should be thoroughly cleansed with a bland soap and tepid water, and then with cold cream. If the skin is inclined to dryness, a thin film of tissue cream may then be smoothed around the eyes and mouth. Then the egg yolk should be applied over the entire face, with the exception of the eyelids. After this, the mask should be allowed to dry, and when thoroughly dry, may be removed. The best way to do this is to stand over a bowl of clear, tepid water and lave the water over your face and neck with a soft cloth or lintless towel, until all the egg has been removed. Then finish with an application of a mild skin tonic, to tone up the skin.

In the second method of administering an egg mask, the egg white only is used. The skin should first be thoroughly cleansed with tepid water and a pure soap, and then with a good cold cream. In this case, too, if the skin is very dry or sensitive, a thin, light film of nutrient cream should be smoothed about the eyes and mouth. The egg white should then be beaten very stiff. Then it should be smoothed over the entire face and neck and permitted to dry. When it is thoroughly dry, it should be removed with tepid water and a soft cloth.

The third method entials the use of both the yolk and the white of the egg. When employing this mask, of course, you should first cleanse and lubricate your skin in the manner outlined above. Then take the white of an egg, beat it stiff, and apply it thickly to your face and neck with a small brush. When this has dried thoroughly, go over it a secon dtime with the brush, so that the egg white is all used up. Then, after this second application is dry, paint on the beaten yolk of the egg, and permit this also to dry. When the entire mask is thoroughly dry, remove it with a soft cloth or lintless towel and tepid water. And as the final step, apply a bit of cold cream to counteract any drying effects that the egg pack might have on your skin.

Moving to Toronto in 1935, he has been for the last seven years employed as chemist in the Wellesley Hospital.

When living in this city, Mr. and Mrs. Madill were both active members of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, where Mr. Madill was an elder and was also superintendent of the Sunday School for many years. At the rally day service in the Presbyterian church on Sunday the pastor, Rev. W. H. V. Walker was in charge for the first time since his recent illness. An inspiring address on "Jesus the Prince of Peace" was given by Mr. Leonard McNeil, Principal of the Continuation School. Jack Walker read the Scripture lesson based on World Peace.

Two vocal duets entitled "I love Him" and "Wonderful Peace" were sweetly rendered by little Misses Verna Mae Allison and Ruby McGill and Misses Verna Wright and Norma McGill. The Sunday School choir sang as an anthem "The Light of the world is Jesus." The church was prettily arranged with a profusion of Autumn flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. H. Wilson, Mr. J. Marshall, and Misses Isabel Marshall and Bessie Howe, attended the shower at Blackstock on Wednesday evening in honour of Mr. and Mrs. W. Reid, of Clarke, (formerly Miss Myrtle Weatherilt.)

Mrs. Mary Hall and daughter, Mrs. Jack Perrin, of Bailieboro, spent last week the guests of the former's niece, Mrs. James Howe, and other friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Burn and Mrs. Jack Perrin and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Stinson and Mrs. Harvey Davidson, were among those from here who attended Millbrook Fair on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Evans of Carnduff, Sask., were guests at the home of the latter's cousin, Mrs. James Howe, on Friday. Mrs. Evans was formerly Myrtle Halliday of Janetville and she will remain a couple of weeks to visit her many friends.

The community was shocked to hear of the passing of Mr. Lewis Fallis of Franklin, on Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Fallis and family were former residents here where they were held in the highest respect and esteem and the sincere sympathy of the entire district is extended to the bereaved at this time.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Carr and daughter, Miss Helen Carr of Toronto, visited recently with Rev. and Mrs. W. H. V. Walker, at the Manse.

Rev. and Mrs. M. A. Bury have returned from their honeymoon trip to Quebec and have taken up residence at the parsonage, where they have the best wishes of their Janetville friends.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

They also serve who only stand and wait.—Milton.

All things come round to him who will but wait.—Longfellow.

Everything will come if a man will only wait.—Disraeli.

Dear Friends:

This is to answer "Impatient" who tells me she is tired of all the waiting she has to do. She waits on her children, on her husband, she waits for better times which never seem to come. She is tired to death waiting for some brightness to come into her life.

And I don't know how it feels to be continually waiting, until I took a hand in things myself. Why don't you try "Impatient" for your family to wait on you sometimes? Maybe you have accustomed them to much to your doing all of it, that they sit back and let you do it.

As the head of the house (the man is the head of the family) you have it in your own hands one way or the other. Where there is a real excuse for delay, make allowances, but where there is none, make none.

You say you have to pick up after each one? You don't have to. Tell them what you expect, and if it isn't done, leave things as you found them, and shut the door. They will soon get tired of messiness especially if you leave these things to show when some of their friends are expected.

Then too, why wait for your husband or family to make a good time for you. Make some for yourself, then when they see what a good time you are having they will want to join you.

This lady tells me it even seems as if God makes her wait for an answer to her prayers. Maybe it wasn't possible for you to get an answer sooner, maybe the angel who attends to those things was busy with someone whose needs were greater than yours. Did that ever occur to you?

Maybe you are waiting for something that is close to you, but, because you have your vision on some far horizon you cannot see it. Ann Robertson Brown tells us: "Let us lay hold of the happiness of today. Do we not go through life blindly, thinking some fair tomorrow will bring us gifts we miss today?... Know thou, my heart, if thou are not happy today, thou shalt never be happy?"

See what I mean? Maybe your happiness lies in this waiting on your husband and children. It must have, to a certain extent else you would not have done so much of it, nor so long. If you have overdone it you are the only one who can rectify it, I can but point the way.

But, do not think all this waiting will go for naught. The wheel will turn, and you will get your reward when you least expect it. Judging from your letter you are a younger woman than I, and I can assure you that with most of us, life is a series of waiting.

The fruit that falls from the tree is over-ripe. The fruit we reach out for tastes sweet, so do a little reaching, and in the doing of it you will not wait so long. Anything worthwhile requires effort, but you have used your efforts in only one direction.

What you need is a little variety, and in this too you must come to your own rescue. There is so little others can do for us compared to what we can do for ourselves. So many women tire themselves out with the doing of things that are not expected of them.

They will not seek their own pleasure, then wonder at the sameness and monotony of life. And so, hoping these things will be of help to you, and that you will continue to get pleasure from my column as you have in the past, I wish you well in your new adventure, for you will try, won't you? Write again soon.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

They also serve who only stand and wait.—Milton.

All things come round to him who will but wait.—Longfellow.

Everything will come if a man will only wait.—Disraeli.

Dear Friends:

This is to answer "Impatient" who tells me she is tired of all the waiting she has to do. She waits on her children, on her husband, she waits for better times which never seem to come. She is tired to death waiting for some brightness to come into her life.

And I don't know how it feels to be continually waiting, until I took a hand in things myself. Why don't you try "Impatient" for your family to wait on you sometimes? Maybe you have accustomed them to much to your doing all of it, that they sit back and let you do it.

As the head of the house (the man is the head of the family) you have it in your own hands one way or the other. Where there is a real excuse for delay, make allowances, but where there is none, make none.

You say you have to pick up after each one? You don't have to. Tell them what you expect, and if it isn't done, leave things as you found them, and shut the door. They will soon get tired of messiness especially if you leave these things to show when some of their friends are expected.

Then too, why wait for your husband or family to make a good time for you. Make some for yourself, then when they see what a good time you are having they will want to join you.

This lady tells me it even seems as if God makes her wait for an answer to her prayers. Maybe it wasn't possible for you to get an answer sooner, maybe the angel who attends to those things was busy with someone whose needs were greater than yours. Did that ever occur to you?

Maybe you are waiting for something that is close to you, but, because you have your vision on some far horizon you cannot see it. Ann Robertson Brown tells us: "Let us lay hold of the happiness of today. Do we not go through life blindly, thinking some fair tomorrow will bring us gifts we miss today?... Know thou, my heart, if thou are not happy today, thou shalt never be happy?"

See what I mean? Maybe your happiness lies in this waiting on your husband and children. It must have, to a certain extent else you would not have done so much of it, nor so long. If you have overdone it you are the only one who can rectify it, I can but point the way.

But, do not think all this waiting will go for naught. The wheel will turn, and you will get your reward when you least expect it. Judging from your letter you are a younger woman than I, and I can assure you that with most of us, life is a series of waiting.

The fruit that falls from the tree is over-ripe. The fruit we reach out for tastes sweet, so do a little reaching, and in the doing of it you will not wait so long. Anything worthwhile requires effort, but you have used your efforts in only one direction.

What you need is a little variety, and in this too you must come to your own rescue. There is so little others can do for us compared to what we can do for ourselves. So many women tire themselves out with the doing of things that are not expected of them.

They will not seek their own pleasure, then wonder at the sameness and monotony of life. And so, hoping these things will be of help to you, and that you will continue to get pleasure from my column as you have in the past, I wish you well in your new adventure, for you will try, won't you? Write again soon.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

FEAR B.C. THEATRE STRIKE TO SPREAD

VANCOUVER, Oct. 7 (CP)—Union officials guiding British Columbia's theatre strike claim it may spread to other Canadian provinces and even into the United States.

W. P. Covert, international union official from Toronto, warned last night of a possible strike extension after negotiations between theatre owners and projectionists went into their third day of deadlock over wage increases.

Covert, second vice-president of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees and Motion Picture Machine Operators, came to Vancouver in connection with the strike called here last Tuesday.

The official said if the strike spread outside British Columbia the union would consider an attempt to stop entry into Canada of negative films from Hollywood by calling a strike in the film capital.

WATCH FASCISM BENNETT WARNS

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I., Oct. 7—(CP)—Appeal to Canadian patriotism, to a defence of British democratic ideals upon which Canadian citizenship was founded and which today was threatened by pressure from many disruptive forces, was made last night by Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, federal Conservative leader, at a public meeting here.

Mr. Bennett was introduced by Dr. W. J. P. MacMillan who was re-elected to leadership of the Prince Edward Island Conservative party at a convention.

The Conservative convention, which brought 1,000 delegates to Charlottetown from outlying sections of the province indicated "a magnificent triumph of democracy," Mr. Bennett said. "You saw a leader elected, not by a few, but by five delegates from every polling subdivision of this province."

Unfortunately, he said, such a triumph of democratic principles was not evident in other parts of the world. "Even in Canada there have been signs of Fascist agitation and if we are to preserve our liberty and freedom we must do so at the price of constant vigilance."

THEY CALLED IT OFF

BLACKPOOL, England—(CP). — More than 800 persons stormed the box office after a Blackpool soccer game, waving programs bearing the number "1000" entitling them to seats at the next match. They were told there had been a mechanical mix-up and the prize scheme was called off.

FOUND! A WAY TO MAKE A "NO-SCRUB" SOAP REALLY SAFE!

Now expect new things! For here is a new-type laundry soap that soaks out dirt in 15 minutes . . . washes white clothes 4 to 5 shades whiter . . . yet is completely safe for all washable colors and hands!

OXYDOL was developed by the makers of gentle Ivory soap at a cost of over $1,000,000! It is the result of a patented process to make soap far faster acting . . . an amazing new formula that makes mild, gentle soap two to three times whiter in washing, but "keeps it safe." Thus, OXYDOL combines speed and safety in a way no single soap has ever done before. And does these four amazing things:

(1) Soaks out dirt in 15 minutes—no scrubbing—no boiling. Even "dimiest" spots come snowy with a few quick rubs between the fingers. (2) Gets white clothes 4 to 5 shades whiter—as proved by scientific Tintometer tests. (3) Cuts washing time 25% to 40% in tub or machine. (4) Yet so safe that even sheer cotton prints washed 100 consecutive times in OXYDOL suds, show no perceptible sign of fading.

So no wonder women all over America are discarding former favorites and adopting this new wonder-soap—to save time and drudgery on washdays, to protect clothes and hands. OXYDOL is extremely economical, too. Tests show that it will go ½ to ⅔ again as far as even the latest soap flakes on the market. And tests further prove that, cup for cup, OXYDOL gives 28% to 60% more suds than the 3 other best known granulated soaps on the market. Get OXYDOL from your dealer today.

Harold N. Carr Holds Northumberland In Liberal Column

CAMPBELLFORD'S EX-MAYOR WINS BY 764 MARGIN

COBOURG, Ont., Oct. 7.— Harold N. Carr, Campbellford Liberal candidate, was returned as member for Northumberland County in a sweeping victory over A. R. Willmott of Cobourg, Conservative candidate, at yesterday's election.

Although revision of returns from scattered polls in the riding might effect some change in the figures, the Liberal majority would be altered only slightly. Mr. Carr only had a majority of 35 in his own home town of Campbellford, while Mr. Willmott's majority of 108 in his own town of Cobourg was considerably less than his supporters expected. Carr had a majority in seven of the 14 municipalities as follows:

Campbellford, 35; Cramahe Township, 104; Haldimand Township, 563; Hamilton Township, 61; Percy Township, 135; South Monaghan, 63; Hastings, 29.

Mr. Willmott had majorities of 108 in Cobourg, 1 in Alnwick Township, 3 in Murray Township, 10 in Seymour, 32 in Brighton Village, 49 in Brighton Township, and 3 in Colborne.

of football and perennial star in National League hockey, was in the thick of one dispute.

On the basis of unofficial compilations, Conacher made his political debut by winning the Toronto Bracondale riding for the Liberals with a majority of 47 votes. His Conservative opponent, A. R. Nesbitt, member of the last House, quickly came out with a declaration that two ballot boxes were missing and that one was stuffed. He indicated he would carry his fight to the courts.

Better Deal For Labor

"The people of Ontario may rest assured they will have another five years of industrial peace," the premier said. "Ontario has given endorsement to the first jurisdiction that had enough courage openly to defy and resist the threatened C.I.O. invasion. There will be industrial peace in Ontario and there will be a better deal for labor."

The C.I.O. became a debated issue in the campaign that began last August when the premier called for an election. His open stand against the Lewis organization came with the General Motors strike at Oshawa in April.

Mr. Rowe, who espoused the right of free association among workers and attacked other policies of the government, learned of his own defeat and that of his party at his home in Simcoe Centre riding.

After wiring his congratulations to the premier, Mr. Rowe said: "I cheerfully accept the verdict of the electors of Ontario and heartily congratulate Premier Hepburn on his decisive victory at the polls. My chief regret is the disappointment of all those who have so loyally supported the Conservative party."

C.C.F. Hopes Wiped Out

When the legislature next sits there will be only government supporters and opposition. The lone third party member of the last house, Sam Lawrence, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation member for Hamilton East, was defeated in yesterday's voting.

None of the C.C.F.'s 36 candidates in the field was returned. Col. George Drew, who broke with his leader on the labor question and ran as an Independent-Conservative in Wellington South, was defeated by Dr. J. H. King, a Liberal. No official Conservative candidate contested the riding.

Lone Two Women Fail

Most of the candidates bearing hyphenated party affiliations polled small votes. Two women candidates failed. They were Mrs. E. A. Miles, C.C.F., in Fort William, and Mrs. Jean Laing, Labor Toronto St. George.

The march of Liberals was not without stragglers and two members of the Hepburn cabinet were left behind. Hon. J. A. Faulkner, Minister of Health, was defeated in Hastings West by R. D. Arnott, Conservative. Hon. Duncan Marshall, Minister of Agriculture, bowed in Peel constituency to T. L. Kennedy, a former Conservative minister with the same portfolio.

Conroy Refused Bail.

In Toronto Bracondale came the arrest yesterday. Michael J. Conroy, deputy returning officer, was taken into custody on two charges of fraud, and was refused bail last night. Police said they found three books of ballot papers, numbering 150, in Conroy's pockets. Conacher's application to provide bail for Conroy was refused.

From Toronto St. Andrew came another protest. Joseph B. Salsberg, Labor candidate, who was expected to poll a heavy Communist vote, lost to J. J. Glass, Liberal, by an unofficial count of 179 votes. Salsberg, leader in the early returns, charged "thuggery and intimidation," and demanded an investigation.

In York East, on the outskirts of Toronto, the veteran George Henry, former Conservative Premier, saw a slim lead disappear and reappear frequently. Latest returns gave him an unofficial majority of 216.

Black Beats Campbell.

Oldest member in the last Legislature and oldest in the point of service, W. A. Black fought a close battle to retain his Addington seat against the challenge of Colin Campbell, Liberal, who resigned his seat in the Dominion Parliament to contest the riding. Late returns, with one poll missing, gave the veteran Conservative member, who will celebrate his 70th birthday on October 17, a majority of 111.

In the same area, T. A. Kidd retained the Kingston constituency for the Conservatives by an unofficial majority of 130 over W. Y. Mills, Liberal.

J. D. Hepburn Goes In.

Another narrow margin of votes brought the election of a newcomer who will put the name of Hepburn on the Opposition side of the House. J. D. Hepburn, who retrieved Prince Edward-Lennox for the Conservatives, had a majority of only 184 over his Liberal opponent, T. G. Bowerman.

His margin was in sharp contrast to the record 5,308 plurality Premier Hepburn scored in Elgin over N. R. Martin, Conservative. John Tough polled a small vote there for the C.C.F. and the Prime Minister's majority over both opponents was 4,961.

In the campaign that ended with yesterday's voting Premier Hepburn made his labor policy one of the chief planks in his platform. He held up the financial record of his Government, claiming reduction in taxes, collection of succession duties from laggard estates, and a balanced budget warranted the return of his Liberal forces.

Rowe's Pleas Fail.

Mr. Rowe proclaimed the right of labor to organize in unions of its choice and attacked the Government on its financial policy, declaring it allowed American interests to control timber limits in the north and failed to provide for a threatened shortage of electric power. Mr. Hepburn defended his cancellation of power contracts with Quebec companies by declaring millions of dollars would have been wasted.

There were charges and counter-charges over the school tax. The legislation that allotted corporation taxes between Separate and Public schools lasted only a year the Premier accepting a Conservative motion for its repeal.

The ballot count wrote a story of only 13 changes throughout the Province. Conservatives gained nine seats at the expense of Liberals, but lost three to the Government Party. Liberals made their fourth gain by defeating the C.C.F. member, Sam Lawrence.

In Northern Ontario the Conservatives brought about only one upset—in Fort William. One Toronto riding hopped rom Liberal ranks to Conservative and two made the jump the other way.

Ottawa Splits.

In other urban centres the Liberals made a sweep in the Hamilton district. In the London area, and in all constituencies surrounding Windsor. The two Ottawa ridings were shared between the major parties.

Popular vote figures early to-day were still incomplete, with more than 1,000 polls missing. Total vote was expected to pass 1,500,000, with the possibility of 1,600,000 being reached. In the 1934 election, 1,561,826 votes were cast.

Incomplete returns showed Liberals led the voting with more than 666,000, Conservatives recorded more than 500,000 ballots, and the C.C.F. had 77,000.

ABERHART HINTS AT AN ELECTION

papers. The bank taxation bill would provide for taxation of banks in the province to an estimated $2,000,000. The credit legislation would provide for licensing of credit institutions and establishment of one or more local directorates to govern credit policy.

Mr. Aberhart said the new Credit Act was misunderstood. The Provincial government, he declared, had no wish to interfere with banks, but they must have the full power to monetize credit.

Referring to the Act respecting newspapers the Premier said the Government's aim was mainly one of obtaining the privilege of correcting wrongs. The Government did not intend to interfere with a free press.

"Do you want me to back up?" he asked.

Provincial Treasurer Solon Low, accompanying the Premier on his speaking tour through Southern Alberta this week, also defended the Government's record.

VOL. LXXIX, No. 82 — PETERBOROUGH, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1937 — PRICE THREE CENTS

Minister Of Health Beaten In West Hastings By 825

Alex Elliott's Plurality Is Set At 1344 Votes With All Polls Reported

Of 16 Municipalities In Riding Liberal Candidate Carried Ten

The Examiner's complete but unrevised returns from the 101 polls in Peterborough increased today Alex L. Elliott's plurality to 1344.

The totals were: Elliott, Liberal, 10,728; Johnston, C.C.F., 1,859; Lancaster, Conservative, 9,485.

Elliott's plurality in the city was 536 and in the townships and villages 808.

The municipalities that lined up in support of Mr. Elliott were Peterborough city, Otonabee, Dodro, Dummer, Belmont, Asphodel, Galway-Cavendish, Smith, Ennismore and Harvey.

The others that gave Mr. Lancaster majorities were Havelock, the Conservative candidate's home village, Lakefield, Norwood, North Monaghan, Burleigh - Anstruther, and Chandos.

In 1934 the city's majority for Lancaster over James Hawthorne was approximately 587, and in reversing that attachment Mr. Elliott made the notable gain of the campaign. The other municipalities that lined up in the Lancaster column three years ago were the three villages, North Monaghan, Chandos, Belmont-Methuen, Burleigh-Anstruther and the road camps in the north eastern part of the county that gave Lancaster 473 to Hawthorne's 83.

The only municipality to switch entirely to the Liberal column was Belmont-Methuen where Mr. Elliott was assisted by former Warden Frank Breckenridge and a group of campaigners. Its majority for Lancaster of around 35 was changed to an Elliott majority of 2.

Municipal Summaries.

The following are sectional summaries based on the returns which came to the Examiner last night and today:

Where They Get 'Em.

MARMORA, Oct. 7.—Fishing for votes is over, but not fishing for good fish so long as reports like the following come to hand:

Over the week-end Sanford Lawrence was guide for Harry Lewis and Roy Webber, of Toronto, and choosing a stretch of stream at Beaver and Otter creeks, which took them as far north as Traynor's Rapids, they caught six nice muskies, two weighing ten pounds and another brace weighing eight pounds.

LEFT-HANDED PRAISE

MILK RIVER, Alta., Oct. 7 (CP) —Premier Aberhart and Provincial Secretary Solon Low shared their platform here last night with H. C. Moire, exponent of a single tax theory.

Mr. Moire gave a brief explanation of his idea. He expressed admiration of the Social Credit government's efforts, but did not approve its method.

"I am proud," he said, "to stand on the platform with a man who is trying to accomplish something—but who does not know how to do it."

MAIN STREET TOPICS

By an Examiner Reporter.

TO POLL ON CRUTCHES.

Harry Rudkins who recently suffered a fractured leg while at work on the highway construction job east of the city, is reported to have risen from his sick bed yesterday in order to vote. He went to the polls on crutches.

WINTER KNOCKS.

Peterborough had the first snow of the season today. True it was not a heavy fall that carpeted the district in white, merely a few flakes that tangled with the raindrops. But it was snow none the less, providing a gentle reminder that winter is on its way.

KIWANIS PROGRAM.

The program in connection with the Kiwanis Luncheon at Empress Hotel on Friday, includes a list of speakers who will outline the work of the Y.W.C.A. and plans for future development. They will include, Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner, Miss Leta Brownscombe, Mrs. Morrison and Miss C. P. Littlefield.

FIRST HAIL OF SEASON.

Several flurries of hail struck the city at noon to-day and some unusually large hail stones were reported from certain sections of the city. The hail beat on windows and car shields harmlessly for a few minutes and passed on. No crop in danger of hail damage remains in the farm district at present.

PULP CUTTERS WANTED.

Experienced pulp cutters in the Peterborough district are urged to register for work by Dan Douglas, superintendent of the Employment Bureau. Calls for 90 such workers are on hand from northern points in the province. Other calls for specially skilled men require such workers as a brass moulder, a tinsmith, an aircraft bench mechanic, tool and dye makers and a second class stationary engineer.

HALTED TRAFFIC.

City police found it expedient to cut off the movement of traffic from the Hunter and Water street intersection for a period last night when a large crowd jammed the corner from curb to curb, listening to election results broadcast from The Examiner through a public address system and watching the postings by lantern slides on the Sun Life building. The crowd was orderly, demonstrating only with short cheers and applause when the successful and unsuccessful candidates appeared.

TO PAY BET TONIGHT.

News from the Hood and Cummings garage this afternoon intimated that Albert Juby of the sales staff would pay his election bet at 6.30 this evening when he would draw Jimmy Conway uptown in a light buggy that once was popular before the Ford cars were invented. Mr. Juby bet that Hon. Earl Rowe would be the next Premier of Ontario, the wages being the free ride for Mr. Conway, with the option of settling for five dollars. Mr. Conway has been suspected of preferring the five dollars, but this afternoon's information was to the effect that Albert was going to do his stunt between the shafts of the old democrat. The game is off if the grounds are wet.

WOMEN LEAD IN INQUIRERS.

Examiner clerks who manned seven telephones in the Bell Telephone office to provide a special election information service Wednesday night, report the volume of inquiries compared closely with that experienced on New Year's night this year when municipal results were in demand and on the occasion of the last Provincial election. The heav rush of calls came between 7.30 and 8.30 o'clock. Although all seven clerks were working as quickly as possible, hundreds of calls had to be turned away with "line busy" reports by the Bell Telephone switchboard operators. The information clerks report the majority of calls last night came from women.

EXCITING FIGHT SEES OLD MEMBER BEATEN BY 300

LINDSAY, Oct. 7.—The blare of two brass bands, the tooting of horns and the cheers of hundreds of supporters of the Conservative cause disturbed the slumber of citizens late last night when complete returns showed that L. M. Frost, K.C., had triumphed over his Liberal opponent in one of the hottest political contests in the history of Victoria and Haliburton counties.

L. M. FROST

A procession headed by the Citizen's Band and included the Boys' Band paraded the streets until midnight, Mr. Frost being borne in triumph along the route to his home.

The election brought many surprises, in the last provincial election Mr. Frost had a majority of only 75 in the town of Lindsay, but in Wednesday's contest he rolled up a majority of 925. There was also a very decided slump in the Liberal vote in the villages and townships. In Omemee, for instance, Mr. Frost had a good majority over his opponent where as in the last provincial election the Liberals had a majority in this centre. Bobcaygeon, which gave Mr. Newman a majority in the last contest gave a decided majority for the Conservative candidate. The same story is told of Fenelon Falls.

Lose In Townships.

In the townships in Victoria county, out side the Liberal stronghold of Mariposa, the Liberals lost heavily. Fenelon, Ops, Verulam, Sommerville and Emily Townships which in the last election rolled majority for Newman went into Conservative column on Wednesday. Incomplete returns indicated, the county of Haliburton, however, administered, the most powerful body blow to Liberal hopes. In the last two provincial elections, Mr. Newman carried this traditionally Conservative county. Mr. Newman's supporters had counted on a substantial Liberal majority in the northland in view of the big programme of road construction carried out in that district, but their hopes were blasted when the return from the township showed decided Conservative gains.

Conservative headquarters announced at noon, Frost's majority was 300. Two outlying polls are yet to come in.

In the last provincial election Mr. Newman had a majority of 2,800 over Mr. Frost, so that the Conservative victory is most decisive. With Mr. T. H. Stinson, K.C., ex-M.P., as campaign manager, the Conservatives had perfect organization in every part of the riding. This fact, together with certain statements made during the campaign, which had a tendency to inflame a section of the electorate contributed largely to the Conservative triumph.

Mr. L. M. Frost briefly addressed his cheering supporters at the Town Hall, he thanked the electors of the county for the support accorded him and promised to bend every energy to prove himself a worthy representative in the halls of parliament.

Citizens Delighted With Speedy Election Service

Great Crowd Gathered In Front Of The Examiner To Hear Results

"Well, that's what I call a complete election night service."

"As complete, fast and accurate as anything could be."

"I drove in 18 miles to see this, and it has been worth while."

Those were remarks made about The Examiner election service on Wednesday evening. Election night around a newspaper office actually begins quite a while in advance. There is a lot of arranging and rehearsing to be done because it is known that when things start to happen they come quickly and everything must be arranged in advance. It is a process of checking and double checking.

The location of The Examiner office on the corner of Water and Hunter is one of advantage. There are two sides from which to work and that gives greater room to serve more people. Dick Lush with his loud-speaker equipment had the editorial rooms covered with wiring and equipment so the speakers could be heard from any angle, and through these Mr. Lush gave virtually the entire Canadian Press service as it came from the special leased wires which serve this paper daily. Although there is nothing new in this wire service many who came to this office in the evening saw it in operation for the first time and marvelled at the speed and accuracy of the automatic receiving machine. The machines are duplicated and each was working on a carbon roll election night, producing four copies in all of the complete service. The speed with which returns are collected now through The Canadian Press is remarkable. It was necessary to wait only two hours before there was sufficient to show which way the election had gone, and those returns had to be gathered from ridings all over Northern Ontario as well as from the more-easily-reached sections of the province.

As a precautionary measure, a Morse instrument had also been placed in the office in case anything happened to the usual receiving apparatus. This was arranged by the C.P.R., and it was used for the sending out of reports from this district to the head office of Canadian Press, as the regular leased wire entering this office was so busy during the entire period that the circuit could not possibly be broken for the sending of messages in the opposite direction.

The Telephone Service

The Bell Telephone Company helped a great deal. On election night it is necessary to keep the phones in The Examiner office free for incoming returns from the city and district. The Bell office made arrangements by which a staff of operators from The Examiner was allowed to operate in the Bell headquarters. The latest returns were furnished there at short intervals from this office and from there sent to all who inquired. The number of calls was not registered, but every phone was kept busy.

Then there was the matter of adding to this service by making use of a lantern. The fine office building directly across from The Examiner is painted a light yellow, and it looked as though that wall could be used without placing a sheet there. Would the owners or tenants of the building object? Indeed they would not. They said so. That was all tried out on the night before election. The lantern used was the property of St. Paul's Church, and Hurrell Dodds came to see that it was properly operated. It was. The screen was used to post the frequent summaries issued by The Canadian Press, to give the fate of leaders and other high spots in the contest. Radio mats were used and they were typed and placed on the screen within two minutes of the time they left the head office in Toronto. In addition to that there was a bulletin service with special lighting arrangement in the street-level windows.

The Successful Candidate

When it became certain that Alex. L. Elliott had been returned for this riding arrangements were made for him to have the services provided by the loud speaker, so he might address the crowd gathered around The Examiner office. Actually it was a magnificent audience numbering in the thousands. Mr. Elliott was well received and his win was plainly a popular one.

The Examiner desires to say a sincere thank-you to all those who aided the staff in making such a complete service possible.

Then there was a splendid service provided by the D.R.O.'s and pollclerks in telephoning in the results. Never before has such co-operation been given The Examiner by these election officials.

FEW REGISTERING FOR MINING COURSE

Final closing for registrations will be tomorrow morning yet only three Peterborough young men have applied in response to the Government offer of free mining courses, Employment Superintendent Dan Douglas said today. Registrations will be forwarded to Toronto and there selections of men to be extended the government course will be made.

The invitation to register was advertised by the Government some time ago and the special forms have been on hand for the past three weeks at the Employment Bureau. Young men from 18 to 30 are eligible. From information on the registration cards, selections of men most suited for the training and the work will be chosen. It is understood they will be taken to a mining center and put through the training at the expense of the Government in accordance with the recently-announced Government policy of absorbing all available young men into Ontario industry as rapidly as possible.

A corresponding course of training in domestic science has been offered young women of the province but, up to today, no registration had been made here. As in the case of the mining course, the intention is to select suitable candidates for training at a central point in the province for superior domestic positions.

Mr. Douglas laid the lack of registrations to current low rate of pay prevailing in domestic labor and the ambition of local girls to obtain factory work in preference to domestic work. The registration for this course will remain open.

MAYOR ARNOTT WINS HOT FIGHT WITH FAULKNER

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Oct. 7.—Hon. Dr. J. A. Faulkner, minister of health, went down to defeat in West Hastings in Wednesday's voting. Mayor R. D. Arnott and one of the rising young barristers of the province defeating him by approximately 825 majority in one of the most bitter fights seen in this historic riding in years. Results have been tardy in coming as facilities in the north townships are very inadequate in giving coverage of the vote. Dr. Faulkner was elected along with Mitchell F. Hepburn in 1934, when he swept the province, and his appointment as a Cabinet Minister was the first honor given to the county in a great many years. He filled the position wth dignity and executive ability, but a dead set was made on his seat by the Conservatives and they succeeded in accomplishing their purpose.

During the campaign, Dr. Faulkner told from a public platform the record of the government, but the Conservative party injected into the campaign at every opportunity the school question and as the riding has a strong Orange population and being predominently Conservative, the wining candidate, Mayor Arnott cut down the majority rolled up by the Minister of Health in 1934. In Belleville, the stiffest fight of the campaign occurred with Arnott winning by 180 majority, while in the 1934 election, Dr. Faulkner obtained 1,095 majority of the 1,179 piled up in that campaign. Hastings county was generously treated by the Hepburn regime during the last three years, nearly 75 miles of Provincial highways being built, which did not cost this riding a cent, and the tuberculosis clinic for this district was established in this city.

Trenton Close.

The town of Trenton, the second largest voting district in the riding, slipped back from its Liberal allegiance in 1934 and with the airport gave the Minister of Health but 45 majority. The same condition existed through the riding with Arnott making steady gains especially north of the township of Rawdon.

Mayor R. D. Arnott was born in Belleville, 32 years ago, and after his early education entered Osgoode Hal and became a partner of the firm Porter, Payne and Arnott. He entered municipal life some three years ago, serving as alderman the first two years and being elected Mayor of the city in 1937.

For Friday, October 8

The astra. influences holding sway on this day are conflicting and, in some instances, adverse. The outstanding factor is the possibility of a sudden break in an old impediment that should make way for a stabilization of the affairs. Elders should prove helpful in bringing this about.

Those whose birthday it is are assured a year in which a readjustment and stability will mark the affairs. This should follow the removal of cerial nobstacles. Shun all possibility of enmity, malice and scandal, and protect personal possessions.

A child born on this day may be serious, studious, profound and independent, and it should surmount frustrating and adverse situations.

Human Nature Responsible Health Insurance 'Racket'

Rotarian H. B. Longmore Speaks On Free Health Service At Campbellford

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 7. — "It is human nature which makes National Health Insurance unworkable." Rotarian H. B. Longmore, M.D., told the club members in an address in which he discussed the case for and against Free Health Service. In opening his subject the doctor paid tribute to the Department of Health which is at once notified by the local M.O.H. on the outbreak of a contagious disease, "and immediately puts its machinery in force to cope with the situation." The Department will in some cases put a specialist on the case when it is assumed important enough to merit this service. There is a certain part of the Township of Seymour in which a mild form of typhoid breaks out each year and the department has sent men to investigate the cause of the infection. In many of the clinics which the government maintains to treat patients free of charge the doctor is paid at the rate of about ten cents per patient. That is public health. Pressure is now being brought to bear for free medical care of every kind although even today there is no need for anyone to go without a necessary operation through lack of funds.

"Governments have been beseiged with requests to take some measure that will bring about free medical care". Old age pensions came as the result of the general feeling that that aged should be taken care of and "we know that is a racket whereby parents all over the country and right here in this town are signing over everything to their children in order to get the $20.00 per month each."

Political Platform.

"Now what would happen in the case of free medical care?" There are many people who find themselves hardly able to make ends meet and who believe that they shouldn't be called on to pay such things as doctor bills. Despite the fact that the Department of Health is non-political the prospect of free medical care would probably afford an excellent political platform to the candidates with one party offering to give free office service, the other would promise free house service, the next would promise free hospital service and then would come private rooms in the hospitals and so on.

The Department of Health is at present affording many excellent services and putting a supply of radium for free use in clinics situated at such places as Kingston, London and Toronto, was by no means the least of these. It can be arranged for patients who are able to pay only a small fee—a fraction of the actual cost—to receive treatment, while those who are penniless receive treatments free of charge.

Turning next to the case for free medical care the doctor pointed out that sickness not only provides expense but often cuts off the earning power as well. "This free service is given in Russia, where to make a profit is a crime considered equally as serious as murder. I am not going to argue that it is something which should not be considered at all, but it is human nature which would be the greatest difficulty to overcome due to the desire to get something for nothing.

The speaker then told of how a large corporation had attempted through one of its departments to formulate a scheme for free medical care. According to their plan a certain amount was deducted from the men's salaries each month and in order to ascertain that the amount was adequate the doctors of the community were consulted to find what would be the cost per year to cover all kinds all illness in each family. The arrangements called for both employer and employee contributing a certain per centage towards this policy of sickness insurance. At the end of the first month it was found that the doctors were doing nearly three times as much work as they had done previously with people running to them with every sort of minor ailment.

"Bills exceeded the estimates by over 66 per cent. and one doctor had to call in two assistants to take care of his increased business. Remuneration was paid on the basis of work done. From the M.D.'s side it was found that those who formerly had a small practice were now experiencing a boom in business and the thing became quite a racket. When Mr. Blank called on a member of the medical fraternity to receive treatment for a minor injury he was asked about his wife's health and if she had a slight cold the physician would suggest that he send her over. Inquiries about the children brought each of them to the office where a further charge could be added to the monthly account. One doctor was paid a fee of $10.00 a day to check over the accounts of all the others and in one case found it necessary to slice $115.00 from a bill for $150.00.

"It was agreed by the medical society that no operations should be performed unless three doctors decided that it was necessary."

"It is expected that this method of health service will eventually become so successful that it will put to an end any thought of government service along this line", concluded Dr. Longmore.

RURAL VOTE AIM OF BRITISH LABOR

BOURNEMOUTH, Hampshire, Oct. 7—(CP).—British labor is to drive for the rural vote. In the rural divisions lies its great weakness, for few return Labor members to Parliament.

"Unless we can get a substantial number of rural seats," George Dallas, a member of Labor's National Executive, admitted before the Labor Conference yesterday, "all our work is in vain. The rural vote is the key to victory."

Plans contemplate special financial aid for voluntary work, appointment of more full-time agents, and special propaganda work by speaking and literature.

By a resolution unanimously adopted, the conference also laid down the broad lines of an agricultural policy. It declared land should be controlled by the nation in the interests of all the people, not in the interests of landlords and farmers as at present.

Plan Big Program of Uplift.

Land workers should be guaranteed wages, conditions of employment, and other social conditions comparable to the best paid artisans in the towns, and should be provided with suitable houses, with adequate water supply and proper sanitation, and should have holidays with pay, it contended.

Delegates from the National Union of Agricultural Workers were insistent in their demand for better conditions for the land worker. E. G. Gooch, president of the Agricultural Workers' Union, declared that up to last year £94,000,000 ($465,535,000) was spent in subsidies for cattle, wheat, and beet sugar. That money went to landlords and farmers. Farm-workers had to fight every inch of the way for a small increase in pay.

The conference unanimously adopted a further resolution viewing with alarm the present plight of the British fishing industry and proposing that it be brought under national ownership and controlled and reorganized on Socialist lines.

The National Executive is to appoint a special committee to investigate fishing.

SHEEP RANCH IN TOWN

LA SALLE, Ont., Oct. 7 (CP).—A sheep ranch is operated within the borders of La Salle. Paul Suvik, Rumanian shepherd, owns the flock. Last spring he sold 241 lambs.

Before La Salle was incorporated as a town, large farms were subdivided into lots, streets were laid out, sidewalks were paved and land cleared. Speculators bought the lots in 1929 boom days, but few houses were built. When Suvik emigrated to La Salle nine years ago, he saw the waste land and began to buy sheep. Today he owns 369 head.

AMATEUR NIGHT SCORES SUCCESS ON FAIR NIGHT

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MADOC, October 7.—One of the memorable events of Madoc Fair night of October 4th, was the amateur night under the auspices of Hazzard's Y.P.U. held in the Masonic Hall, Madoc, with Gordon Pinden as station announcer of H.Z.R.D. and Archie Kincaid as Major Bowes. The evening was an assured success right from the start.

A very varied program was given of vocal solos, duets, piano duets, guitar trios, violin solos, readings and dances, and as clowns, B. Edwards, K. Bird and J. Kincaid surpassed themselves and as Major Bowes said, beat anything this side of New York. Sambo also appeared in a vocal solo.

First prize by popular vote went to three little tap dancers, Barbara Nicol, Jeannie Crawford and Joyce Kemp, girls of 9 to 11 years. Billy Tumulty, four years old, won second prize with "Has anyone seen my kitty?" Third prize was awarded Margaret Vanderwater, tap dancer. Fourth prize went to Billy Hawthorne, soloist in "Sally." Fifth and sixth were tied for by Glen and Betty Haggerty vocalits and Harry White, guitar and song and seventh and eighth by three giutars. Burris brother and sister and Miss Ketcheson, and the Redview sisters, guitar and song. Several violin numbers were given and Mr. Johnston gave one of his splendid solos.

Much applause was given to each umber, and all were enjoyed by a elighted audience. The clowning numbers especially "Sweet Adeline" were good and all especially the ounger artists won great praise for heir graceful rendering under trying circumstances.

Archie Kincaid deserved the hanks of all the artists and the udience too, by his excellent handling of a difficult program.

U.S. PEACE STAND LIKELY TO STIFFEN BRITISH ATTITUDE

LONDON, Oct. 6.—(AP). — The Cabinet to-day weighed growing dangers to world peace both in Europe and the Far East, with President Roosevelt's call for action against military aggression interpreted unofficially as inviting British cooperation in the Orient.

Sentiment here was opposed to the possibility of a lone-handed fight against Japanese militarism, but informed persons believed the cabinet might be prepared to adopt a sterner attitude in cooperation with the United States.

What the cabinet sought was a magic formula to quarantine the twin "contagions" of war—as Mr. Roosevelt put it in his Chicago address—both in Spain and Asia.

Premier Mussolini's bold, new aerial intervention in Spain, through a force of ace bombers, including his second son, and reports the Italian Black Arrow Brigade had reappeared in the north-eastern Spanish fighting presented a new threat to British and French efforts to localize the Spanish war.

Spanish government scouts reported papers found on insurgent dead on an upper Aragon battlefield indicated all of a large column barely thrown back by government forces were Italian soldiers.

More Black Arrows.

They were said to be the Black Arrow Brigade that helped General Franco capture Santander several weeks ago.

They had apparently been brought from Northwest Spain into the struggle for strategic areas along Franco's Spanish frontier through which arms and foreign reinforcements for the Valencia government would stream if non-intervention control of the border were relinquished. The scouts said the men were fighting with Italian equipment.

At the same time the British Cabinet had before it the implications of a pronouncement in Mussolini's Milan newspaper the world was going Fascist, with pointed references to the Orient and South America, and a renewal of pirate submarine activity in the Mediterranean.

The floor of the Mediterranean, off the Eastern Spanish coast, may hold the answer to the identity of the undersea craft which two days ago tried to torpedo the British destroyer Bazilisk. It was possible depth bombs of counter-attacking destroyers had sunk it.

Usually reliably informed quarters asserted the Cabinet had no plans to offer at present if Mussolini unequivocally refused or gave hedging approval to the proposed British-French-Italian talks on intervention in Spain.

It was expected generally that Mussolini would decline the invitation.

The British ministers, it was said, perhaps would formulate a course of action to-day but would await the end of the Labor Party conference at Bournemouth and the Conservative Party conference tomorrow at Scarborough before making public their decisions.

Others believed the Cabinet might wait until Parliament reassembles Oct. 21 before revealing its plans.

Heartened By U.S.

However, His Majesty's ministers arrived at No. 10 Downing Street heartened by the belief they would have at least the moral support of the United States in any plans they might formulate.

Some quarters in London interpreted Mr. Roosevelt's outspoken address as an implication of full support for Great Britain and France in their peace efforts.

Paris sources hailed the speech as outright abandonment of United States isolation in the face of Italian, German and Japanese "anarchy." Both Italy and Germany have openly avowed and openly defended their intervention in Spain.

Other straws in the rising winds that may presage developments in Spain were:

Reports from the Italian island of Sicily that another detachment of Italian "volunteers" had left for Spain;

The word of high British sources there had been a considerable reinforcement of the airbase on Majorca, the Insurgent-held island off eastern Spain, by planes thought to be Italian;

Charges by Virginio Gayda, authoritative interpreter of official Italian opinion, through the newspaper Giornale d'Italia that Soviet Russia had sent more than $15,000,000 worth of war supplies to the Valencia government in the past eight months;

The prediction of Mussolini's Milan newspaper, Il Popolo d'Italia, that "20th century Fascism" would triumph over "19th century capitalism, parliamentary democracy, Socialism, Communism, Liberalism and a certain vacillating Catholicism with which sooner or later we shall deal in our own manner," and the declaration "we fully understand and justify" Japanese efforts at expansion;

Germany's cry for return of her war-lost colonies, voiced twice by Chancellor Hitler in recent days;

The re-appearance of submarine piracy in the Mediterranean.

It was suggested in Geneva President Roosevelt's speech contributed to a strengthening of a resolution adopted yesterday by the League of Nations Sino-Japanese advisory committee, calling for convocation of the signatories of the nine-power pact to deal with the Japanese invasion of China.

SYDNEY, Australia—(CP).—C. G. Macartney, famous Australian test cricketer of other days, suggests an Indian cricket team should be invited to tour the Commonwealth during the 1938-9 season.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 7.—Falling from the roof of a house at 8.30 Wednesday morning James Mitchell received bruises to his arms and legs and other undetermined injuries. ICEBREAKER ENDS 11TH ARCTIC TRIP

QUEBEC, Oct. 7. — (C.P.). — Captain W. J. Balcolm brought the Canadian Government ice-breaker, N. B. McLean, into her berth at Kings' wharf yesterday, completing his 11th season in command of the Arctic ice-patrol.

The powerful vessel steamed into Quebec harbor about two hours after midnight after what the Captain said was "a record home run." The N. B. McLean left Resolution Island last Friday evening and made the 1,400 miles to Quebec in 80 hours.

The ice-breaker's three-month patrol of the far-northern shipping route leading through Hudson Strait to Churchill, Man., completed more than 7,000 miles. She touched as far north as Cape Dorset in Baffin. Land and served northern Government wireless posts, replacing operators and giving medical aid, and performed current surveys. At Button Island a new light was installed.

Captain Balcolm said the patrol was one of the easiest in his experience. The breaker met with little ice and traffic through Hudson Strait was exceptionally light. From Churchill only two grain ships sailed outward and a total tonnage bound for the northern port was 4,671.

GANANOQUE MILK LAW DEADLOCKS

GANANOQUE, Ont., Oct. 7 (CP). —When three town councillors quit a committee meeting last night on pleas of previous engagements, the by-law for a compulsory pasteurization of milk and cream failed to gain approval. Nineteen of the 20 clauses were approved on a 4-3 vote each, but the final clause did not go through.

Mayor Elden Staebler and three councillors voted in support of the clauses with opposition coming from Councillors C. Mackenzie, Walter Cummings, and Fred Huribut. The three opposing councillors submitted the resolution be not put, but this was defeated 4-3. They favored a plebiscite on the question.

When the final clause came before the meeting the three in opposition to the by-law pleaded pressing engagements, and left the room. The Mayor then said a special meeting would be called later.

NEVER AGAIN WILL HE SAY ALL "BOUGHT SOUPS" ARE ALIKE

● "You don't mean to tell me this is a "bought" soup!" exclaims the head of the house. And then you tell him the secret. "It's a Heinz Soup," you say, "the home-made kind, with the goodness cooked in."

And there really is a world of difference. Heinz Soups are made with selected meats, fine, flavoursome vegetables and special Oriental spices. In the cream soups there is real cream—thicker than whipping cream. Heinz Soups are completed in one cooking—you add nothing, do no work; just heat and serve. Be sure to get in a supply this week-end. Everybody likes them because each kind offers the fresh individual flavour of its ingredients.

HEINZ TOMATO JUICE

YOU WON'T BE SURPRISED to learn that Heinz Tomato Ketchup is by far the most popular flavour in the world! For every taste tells you that here's a sauce to make meats of the most hum-drum dishes, and you have probably found, with other thrifty folk, that Heinz Tomato Ketchup goes much further. It's so rich, so full of the fine savour of red-ripe tomatoes, that a single dash flavours a whole dish for just a fraction of a cent. Keep a bottle on the table and another handy in the kitchen.

DELEGATE NAMED BY MILLBROOK L.A.

MILLBROOK, Oct. 7.—Mrs. F. A. and Miss Phyllis Kidd were hostesses for the October meeting of the Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's church, at their home on Tuesday evening, the election Wednesday interfering with the regular day for the gathering.

The chair was taken by the president, Mrs. P. I. Bentley, and communications read by the secretary, Mrs. Werton Fallis, included a letter asking the society to have delegates present on Wednesday, October 13, at George Street church, Peterborough, when a meeting will discuss forming a Presbyterial Ladies' Aid organization. The president will represent Millbrook on the date mentioned.

Reports received included one from Mrs. J. McKnight, treasurer, stating that at present the balance in the bank is $345, of this amount the taxes on the Parsonage will be paid within this month, and looking forward to a good balance from the annual fowl supper on October 19, the society will give a thank offering of $200 to the church trustees. Admission to the fowl supper was set at fifty cents, 35 for children and for the waiters. The pastor, Rev. A. L. Siscoe, Mrs. P. Stinson and Mrs. J. McKnight will see to the printing of the bills announcing the church anniversary on Sunday, October 17, and the fowl supper the following Tuesday.

Another year it is possible that the plan of having a canvass for funds will be followed, obviating the very considerable amount of work involved in carrying through the fowl supper. Arrangements were made for details in connection with the supper, heads of tables including Mrs. Edworthy and Mrs. J. H. Might; Mrs. W. C. Fallis and Mrs. Herbert Ball; Mrs. H. J. Armstrong and Mrs. J. H. McKnight, Monday, October 16, immediately after dinner these ladies with their helpers will meet at the church to prepare the tables, with Mrs. H. A. Fallis in charge. Mrs. H. W. Johnston and Miss M. E. Needham will look after the decorations for tables and basement.

The program committee reported a number of artists secured for the evening, promising an excellent entertainment, and when necessary helpers in various departments connected with the supper, had been appointed, the pastor closed the meeting with prayer. Mrs. Kidd, Mrs. Stinson, and Miss Phyllis Kidd served refreshments during the pleasant social hour at the close. The November meeting will be at Miss Burnham's home.

Alderville Indians Transported From The Bay Of Quinte

First Public Building Was Used As Church And School

ROSENEATH, Oct. 7.—Travelling on the Provincial Highway between Roseneath and Cobourg one comes to the Indian village of Alderville, one mile south-west of Roseneath. A short distance from the highway, and facing the township road running through the village, stand the church, the Public school and the community hall, and the former mission house, now the teacherage. The teacherage, community hall and school are spacious brick buildings. The latter two buildings are under one roof, the school on the first floor and the community hall on the second floor. The church is a white frame building, with a belfry, from which the ringing of the bell calls the people to worship. On a plot of land intersecting the highway and township road, stands a cenotaph, erected to the memory of those who served their country during the Great War. At the base is a tablet bearing the names of those who went overseas, a number paying the supreme sacrifice. The monument is enclosed by a wrought iron chain fence, the plot is of velvet smoothness and greenness and has a flower plot. The monument may be seen for miles around and attracts the attention and admiration of the travelling public.

3,000 Acres in Reserve

The reserve comprises approximately three thousand acres of the best land in Alnwick township. The population numbers about three hundred persons. About three miles north and west of the village is Rice Lake. While the Indian has learned from his white brother the methods of agriculture, he has not forgotten his natural trait and cunning, in fishing, hunting and trapping. Rice Lake is his rendezvous for his favorite sport.

Approximately one hundred and seven years ago, the Mississauga tribe of Indians were brought from Grape Island in the Bay of Quinte by Elder Case, to the Indian reserve now known as Alderville.

The first public building was made of logs and was used for divine service as well as a day school. Not only Indians but white settlers attended divine service, coming on foot, and those from a greater distance travelling in wagons drawn by oxen. Elder Case and his wife, the first missionaries in Alderville, labored faithfully and unceasingly in the interest of their flock. Elder Case died in 1885. Rev. Hulbert followed Elder Case. A large mission house was built and in this building a boarding school flourished for five years. Then an epidemic of typhoid fever broke out and worked great havoc among the boarding school pupils, resulting in closing the school. It was never re-opened as a boarding school.

The Missionary's House.

The missionary and his family lived in this house, and in recent years the building has been made smaller and is more suitable to its present purpose. Mr. Hulbert was succeeded by Rev. O. B. Madden, and the latter by Rev. J. A. Ivison.

The old log building was no longer adequate, there was not sufficient funds for a new building, so under the leadership of Mr. Ivison a concert troupe was formed, as the Indians possessed a natural musical talent. This troupe toured the country, giving musical concerts and the tour proved so successful that sufficient funds were raised to make a fine start in the erection of the present edifice.

A word in passing concerning some of the members of this concert troupe. There were in the troupe Peter Crowe, known as "Professor," his sons Enoch and Albert, his daughters, Mary Ann, now Mrs. Black, Sarah, now Mrs. Norman Marsden and Miss Charlotte. The last four named are living and have retained their musical abilities. Another member of the troupe was Robert Marsden, who is now over ninety years of age and excepting the loss of his sense of hearing, is keen of intellect, and able to enjoy a daily walk. He has the distinction of being the oldest native of Alderville. His father, Thomas Marsden, was a boy of eight years when he came to Alderville with the Mississauga tribe.

The late William Baker was another member of the troupe and his descendants also are numbered among Alderville's population, as are those of Mr. Marsden.

The Early Years.

During the early years the Indians hunted, fished and trapped, tanned the deer hides which were later made into moccasins, mitts, gloves and thongs for snow shoes. The country was then forest, and wolves and bears roamed therein. Mail delivery was very irregular, arriving by horse back carrier once or twice a month.

On down through the years the Indians were ministered to by a succession of missionaries who preached on Sunday and taught the day school pupils.

The supply of missionary teachers was arranged by the Department of Indian Affairs at Ottawa. This system was changed approximately seven years ago, when the Alderville charge was placed in the care of the pastor of the Roseneath charge. A Public school teacher was hired who lived in the teacherage. At present Rev. L. W. Scott, Roseneath, ministers to the Alderville people, and their Public school teacher is one of their own people. He is John Loukes, son of William Loukes and the late Mrs. Loukes, and grandson of Mrs. Ellen Loukes, Alderville's grand old lady, of eighty-six years.

Celebrates Centennial.

Alderville's centennial will be fittingly celebrated. On Sunday, October 10 and 11. Three services are being planned for Sunday, with one or more former pastors present. A short memorial service will be held at the cemetery, where the body of Elder Chase is interred, and a short service will be held at the cenotaph also. On Monday a parade, headed by the Alderville brass band, will march through the village. This will be followed by a program of sports. In the evening the annual harvest home supper will be held in the hall, followed by a concert. The following are the committees in charge of the celebration:

Decorating Committee — Chief Norman Maraden and Mr. and Mrs. Moses Smoke. The Chief will also arrange the parade.

BELIEVE DROUGHT OVER IN PRAIRIES

EDMONTON, Sept. 14 (CP). — Cycle of dry years which has ruined grain lands on the southern Canadian prairies has ended and bountiful crops likely will be harvested next year, it was forecast by Dr. Frederick James Alway, Ontario-born agronomist, in an interview here.

Dry years occur in definite traceable cycles, he said, and "the one which this year has caused such dreadful ravages throughout the grain belts in Canada and the United States is ending now; probably is already finished.

"I am prepared to state without hesitation that it is likely to be one of the wettest, most productive crop years in decades, and it is a pleasure to be able to make such a forecast with sincerity after witnessing what I have seen in Saskatchewan this summer," asserted Dr. Alway. He has been Professor of Soil Chemistry and Chief of the Division of Soils at the University of Minnesota since 1913.

Bill Terry Is Man Of Mystery, Kind Father And Husband

But New York Giants' Manager Almost Cruel In Working His Players

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Mr. Bill Terry, who has just won his third pennant in five years of major league managing, is probably the most mysterious man it'll ever be your displeasure to meet.

There's no denying the man's good qualities...he's a churchman—used to sing baritone in a choir; a clean liver — no man has ever seen him over-indulge in liquor; a fine, faithful husband; a strict, but loving parent; one of the greatest players that ever lived; and a splendid leader.

On the other hand, he's a surly, selfish, money-grasping fellow. He's as polite as a bill collector, as rude as a sheriff evicting you from the old homestead, and as considerate as a stampeding buffalo herd.

Nobody has yet been able to quite figure out the guy.

Perhaps the explanation can be found in the fact that he started out in life as a southpaw pitcher.

His Favorite Literature.

The only book Terry reads is his bank book. Baseball, he freely admits, is a business, not a game with him.

The baseball writers, who hate him heartily, admire him for this frankness. After all, the average ball player is just as interested in the cash involved, but pretends to be an it-doesn't-matter-whether-you-won-or-lost-but-how - you - played - the-game fellow.

Terry's slogan, frankly, is: It doesn't matter whether you won or lost—but did you get paid?

They say that as soon as the last Giant was retired in last year's series debacle with the Yanks Terry rushed to the clubhouse calling to Coach Frank Snyder. . . . "Say, Frank, how much did you say the loser's share was?"

As a player, he was an annual holdout. As a manager, he's with his players in their salary arguments. He is always trying to get them more money. Only this summer he told Dick Bartell not to talk on Babe Ruth's radio hour because the $100 fee wasn't enough.

That's what Bill always thinks of ...is it enough? Not so long ago he promised to attend a Boy Scout meeting, but didn't show up because he heard that there was no money on hand for him.

He is cold and heartless in his baseball dealings. One of his first moves when he became manager was to trade his room-mate, Freddie Lindstrom, probably because Freddie had wanted John McGraw's job, too. And just this season he shipped Freddie Fitzsimmons out of the World Series money, sending him to Brooklyn.

His best friend—and, perhaps, only friend—is Travis Jackson. They played together down in Little Rock in the old days..."I want Travis to succeed me when I step down," says Bill.

Terry, despite his great reputation for being a manager, is not a developer of players. Clyde Castleman is the only player who has grown up under him...the rest were re-planted by cash or trade.

He doesn't believe in deep strategy on the field, but rather in the spur-of-the-moment hunches. He wastes little time in changing hurlers. And he won't stand for players who won't keep in condition. Unlike McGraw who tried to reform bad boys, Terry gets rid of them.

Terry Is Wealthy.

Terry has been married for 21 years, has one daughter, and three sons.

One of the boys, Bill, Jr., is a law student at the University of Virginia, 6 feet 5 inches tall, and plays baseball tolerably well. Mrs. Terry seldom goes to the ball park and his daughter has seen only a few World Series games. Terry doesn't like them to be photographed.

Bill, who worked in a filling station and played ball on Sundays for $25 a week not so very long ago, now owns a good share of Standard Oil Co. stock, and is some sort of an executive with the organization in Memphis. He has a $100,000 mansion in Memphis, gets something like $25,000 from the oil people, and just signed a new five-year contract at $40,000 per with the Giants.

He never goes to the movies, can't play bridge, hates poker because it may cost him money, is a poor conversationalist, grunts his helloes most of the time, smiles about as pleasantly as a racketeer on the spot, or the gunman who is putting the racketeer on the spot.

In short, it would be hack being marooned on a desert island with him.

But, in all fairness it must be reported that if anybody could get you off that island Mr. Terry could.

Without it costing you—or him—any money.

Sports Spice

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.— (AP)— When the Yankees go out, they go "all out" as the boys say at the tracks....Young Mister Melton has his work cut out for him if he wants to rub out the memory of that sixth inning yesterday....And why not? ....You can have Gomez and Di Maggio....We liked Lazzeri's execution of the hit and run in the sixth....And he added a homer and a swell play on a ground ball in the fourth....The Yanks will miss him (any team would).

Gomez got a terrific bang out of hitting a ball into the right field stands in batting practice.... None of the Yanks could remeber him doing it before....As he stepped up to the plate to take another cut, a wag said the Giants would play for him on the running track....."Ah," said El Goofy, "I'll fool 'em. I'll bunt." The boy can pitch....When he uncoils that high hard one it looks like a string stretched between the mound and the plate.... But all he talks about is his hitting.

Gus Mancuso had one or two uncomplimentary things to say about American League umpiring and Umpire Emmett Ormsby when the Giants got to their lockers....Gus claims Emmett missed Hubbell's low pitches....Mancuso gave a good imitation of "The Thinker" during the Yank batting practice....He sat in one corner of the dugout and gave murderer's row the old double-o ....Carl Hubbell went around signing autographs....Something he doesn't usually do the day he is slated to pitch. . . . Col. Will Terry hove into view in a rubber sweat shirt and a dour look....Like all the Giants before the game he was calm....The Yanks collected.

The Babe is getting a little grey ....Mayor Laguardia must have a rubber arm....He tossed out "the first ball" exactly 11 times....The Giants may use him yet.

HOLIDAYS WITH PAY

Peru's new labor law provides for an annual 30-day vacation, with pay, for employees of the Government, public institutions, banks and commercial, and industrial houses throughout the country.

Two Divisions Of Yankee Power Await Giants

Some of the power of the New York Yankees is seen in the layout ABOVE. The Yankees will meet their intra-city rivals, the Giants, for the world series championship. One of the hardest hitters in the league, and the heaviest piece of artillery on the Yankee lineup is Joe DiMaggio, LEFT. He is pictured from an odd angle as he stands at the plate waiting to clout one for a possible home run. Note the powerful forearm muscles that supply the driving force that sends the apple on those long journeys. The hurler on the RIGHT is none other than Vernon "Lefty" Gomez, of the Yankees, better known to New York baseball fans as "El Goof". He presents an eyeful for the camera here as he appears to a batsman awaiting one of his red hot ones.

OPENING GAME WON BY BRUINS

CHICAGO, Oct. 7 (CP). — The Chicago Cubs finally became serious about the city series yesterday and blasted the American League White Sox, 7 to 3, for their first victory in nine series games.

Ted Lyons kept the Cubs fairly well in hand on his home grounds until the sixth when they routed him with three runs on four hits, including doubles by Frank Demaree and Phil Cavarretta. Bill Dietrich, of no-hit fame, gave up three more in the eighth as the Cubs rounded out their fifteen-hit attack.

Jim (Tex) Carleton, right-handed crossfire pitcher, gave up only five hits and might have scored a shutout but for costly walks in the second and eighth.

In the second, Zeke Bonura singled and stole second. Hayes walked. Luke Sewell singled, filling the bases. Lyons then poked a single into centre, scoring Bonura and Hayes.

The Cubs scored once in the fifth on a single by Galan and another by Frey, then put on their first mass attack in the sixth. Herman led off with a single and Demaree scored him with a double down the left-field foul line. Cavaretta scored Demaree with another double into centre and came on home when Marty singled.

They picked up three more in the eighth on Cavarretta's single, Galan's double and a booming triple against the right-field wall by Frey.

Radcliff's single after Carleton had walked Piet and Walker gave the Sox their final run in the eighth.

HASTINGS

UMP GETS PAIR SMOKED GLASSES

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Oct. 7. — The Elgin softball team was officially presented with the "Uncle David" Trophy, by its donor, Frank Gilbert, for the second year in succession at their annual ball held on Wednesday night in Lynch's Hall.

In the absence of Max Scott, the captain of the team, Roy Richardson received the trophy on behalf of his team-mates. He was also awarded a cup for being the most valuable player for the year. Andy McKee was awarded a trophy for pitching.

The ball is held yearly and is put on for members of the club after the ball season closes each year.

A highlight of the affair was when William Wellman, the umpire, was presented with a pair of smoked glasses, as was "Dit" Clapper, who also received a head of cabbage. He was the Outlaws' first baseman.

Doug. Hutchison's Orchestra of Havelock furnished music for the largely attended dance, which wound up in the "wee sma' oors" of the morning.

GOES OVER TO PROS

NEATH, Wales—(CP). — Harold Thomas, Neath forward who has played for Wales six times in the last two years, has signed professional forms for Salford, English Rugby League champions.

Oshawa And P.C.I. Here On Saturday

The 1937 Peterborough football season opens this Saturday afternoon in Riverside Park with a C.O.S.S.A. double-header. Oshawa Collegiate and P.C.I. junior and senior squads clash, the juniors at 1.30 and the seniors at 2.45, o'clock. These are the first school games of the year and the first rugby to be seen here this autumn. P.C.I. seniors took their group last year and went on to give St. Mike's of Toronto a tough tussle in Ontario semi finals. Coach Bamforth rates his present outfit at least as strong as the good 1936 gang. With the addition of two of last year's Orfuns, Curtin and J. Creighton, he has a mixture of experience, speed and brawn, and the team is sure to flash plenty of that wide-open, tricky play that made it so popular last fall.

The Oshawa teams are always tough and reports from that centre have it that both their teams are expected to go a long way in rugby this year. Their juniors will give the local's a hard battle, but Coach Wm. Jackson of P.C.I. has hopes of starting off with a win. He has lined up a good team and the boys are in fine shape and ready for action. Both games promise to be crowd-pleasers and they rate a big following of fans here on Saturday.

KISS FOR FOOTBALL

MELBOURNE, Australia—(CP)—Soccer has its comic side. Playing in a Dockerty Cup semi-final, a goal-keeper became excited when his team scored the first goal, grabbed the ball and kissed it.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

TWO CLASSES of competition will be seen at the motorcycle hill climb at Nassau next Monday afternoon—Thanksgiving Day—commencing at 1.30 o'clock. The class "B" is professional, while the class "C" events are open. A bunch of ace motorbike daredevils from Toronto and other outside points, and some local stars, will take part. Should be a mighty interesting spectacle, and a flock of people from around here will take it in, we imagine. Admish is two bits, with parking free. Two Toronto guys, Percy Mann and Tarzan Schoemick, are battling for points for the 1937 hill-climbing championship, and this event should decide it. The competition is sponsored jointly by the Lions Club here and the Kawartha Motorcycle Club, with proceeds going for the Lions' Club boys' band.

Send entries to Fred Crate at Hastings.

A FOOTBALL double-header is billed for this Saturday afternoon in Riverside with Oshawa juniors and seniors clashing with P.C.I. teams in C.O.S.S.A. schedule openers. The junior joust lifts the lid at 1.30 while the senior struggle starts at 2.45. Coach Wm. Jackson has been working hard with a good junior grid turnout at the local Collegiate and he has a promising young squad set to start things. He has hopes of knocking off the Motor City seconds in this fixture but expects a battle between teams that are likely to be well-matched. Not a great deal is known yet of either junior outfit, but fans can bank on plenty of action in this first clash.

* * * * * * *

COACH BAMFORTH has a good senior P.C.I. machine ready but he is sure to meet with plenty of opposition from the big Oshawa school outfit. While the starting lineup for the Garnet and Gray gang isn't positive as yet, we understand it will be something like this: Johnston at snap, Bill Turner and Ascott as insides, Kelly and Curtin the middles, Duncan and Craig for outsides, and Barnell at flying wing. Leether is quarterback and the halves are Gee Clark, Thornton and Creighton. Al Clark is out of action for a week or so with an injured shoulder. Some of the subs include: Phil Turner, Scott, Ward, Csumrik, Mathewson, Northcott and others.

* * * * * * *

DON'T FORGET the senior P.C.I.-ers had a sweiegant squad last year and their coach rates this year's team as strong if not stronger. The boys gave St. Mike's a grand battle in the Provincial semi-finals in '36, so the 1937 array of huskies have possibilities, to say the least. But they may get off to a bad start in their tangle with the mighty Motor City crew. Ought to be some shucks of a rugby opener, anyway, and deserves a big crowd of fans—not only school followers but grid fans in general. By the way, an exhibition football tilt has been arranged for here Monday, Thanksgiving Day—when Orfuns play in Lindsay—between P.C.I. seniors and Pickering College of Newmarket. It'll be at 2.30 o'clock.

AT TRENTON yesterday, the Fliers copped an 8-1 win over the Kingston Garrisons in an O.R.F.U. contest. The game was on the airport grounds before a small crowd. The powerful Kingstons, who had beaten Belleville—as had the Fliers—held the Aviators in check till a third-quarter touchdown. Both sides used straight football all the way, just three forward passes being attempted and in vain. It looks like the Fliers now to cop the group and tangle in Ontario playdowns with the winner of the grouping up this way, probably Peterborough or Cobourg. At that, you can't quite count out Toronto Eastsides or Lindsay Bombers—at least, not until the results of the Thanksgiving Day fixtures are known.

TORONTO GRADS won the senior O.B.A.A. championship in Toronto yesterday, defeating Oshawa GM-men (the 1936 Provincial champs) by an 8-5 score. It was their third straight playoff win after being humbled by a 13-0 count in the opener. A real upset, but the Grads seem to be worthy champs. They got to both Turner and Biddle yesterday, outhit Oshawa and fielded on even terms. Hurst and Bennett had two hits each for the losers, with Foley getting one in five. Rasson twirled steady ball and helped his own cause with a double, a sacrifice and five assists. So 'tis the end of the trail for the C.O.B.L. champions and the windup of senior ball this year.

* * * * * * *

OVER IN N'Yawk yesterday, the Yanks' Murderers' Row got to Don Carlos Bubbell in the sixth stanza to score seven runs and cop an 8-1 win in the first game of the world's serious. El Goofy Gomez hurled nice ball and had fine backing before a big—but not a sellout crowd. Aside from that blowup in the sixth inning, it sounded like a smart scrap. Old Poosh-'em-up Tony Lazzeri hit the only homer of the affair. The Giants are liable to win a few yet before it is over, but those big guns of the McCarthymen will be hard to muffle the rest of the way. Dunno yet if the weather will interfere with today's game. Much interest is being shown around here by fans in this serial. And we wonder how the local ball players who are in N'Yawk for the big doings are enjoying the spectacle.

GRAB-BAG: Sportdom's contribution to the election yesterday, Lionel (Big Train) Conacher, was successful . . . . The Grads' won the first senior ball title for Toronto in 11 years, when Osler's won . . . . Only one team won the senior O.B.A.A. title twice in a row—and Galt Terriers did it on two occasions, in 1922-23 and in 1930-31 . . . . Big list of events was run off yesterday at the King Edward School field day; two events being left over till today . . . . Scribe Campbell of Oshawa hasn't had enough baseball, so off he goes to the world's series . . . . No more local boxing dope lately . . . . . Lindsay gridders are practising hard for the Orfuns on Monday, and Coach Lamb will be in the lineup . . . . Eastsides are at Cobourg that day . . . . The P.C.I. field day today is likely to be postponed for rain . . . . Jubenville has been kicking the ball a lot in O.B.A.A. playoffs this year . . . . A week from tomorrow is the O.H.A. deadline for importing players . . . . As Overflow Phone Calls Editor last night we wish to state that we are glad this election business is all over.

CECIL HART PLANS 'AMATEUR' TRYOUT

MONTREAL, Oct. 7.—Cecil Hart is original. He plans an "amateur hour" for Canadiens' rookies at the Forum.

First thing he knows, they'll be calling him the "Major Bowes" of hockey. Yes, he'll have a gong—all right, all right, all right...!

The "amateur hour" isn't the only original idea Hart will promulgate this fall.

He will import three Americans to try for places on Les Canadiens, only charter member club of the National Hockey League.

That sounds like sending ice to the Eskimos, tea to China, oranges to California and matches to Sweden.

But strange as it seems, transportation has gone out to Joe Davignon, of Lake Placid, N.Y.; Ben Laveridiere and Henri Noel, who reside in New Hampshire, Noel at Suncook.

Since returning to the helm with Canadiens a year ago Hart has built a scouting system that stretches from Coast to Coast like the two great Canadian railroads.

Canadiens have 14 spies scattered throughout the country, and they are sending their proteges, to Montreal for the training, which opens with calisthenics tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the Nationale gym.

Twenty-six rookies will be scanned by Hart. They all come to Montreal at the expense of the Canadien Hockey Club, a number from the far West. Hart considers it the only means of building up the club and keeping it at the top.

Young players get their train fare and meal money enroute. Their hotel expenses here are looked after by the club. If they don't make good, they are given a railroad ticket and enough pocket money to get them back home in comfort.

Promising Ones Kept

The lads who show promise are kept here.

If they are not quite ready for the N.H.L., they are either placed on one of the Senior Group teams or farmed out to New Haven, with which club Canadiens will again have a working agreement this season.

Hart thinks he has a "find" in William "Smiley" Maronek, who is at present enroute to Montreal from his home in Portage La Prairie, in Man.

PRINCE OF WALES BEATS KING GEORGE

Prince of Wales registered another win in the Public School Soccer League yesterday (Wednesday) afternoon by defeating King George 6 to 0. The high wind spoiled the game, which compelled the boys to keep sending the ball along the ground.

League Standing.

	P.	W.	L.	D.	F.	A.	P.
King Edward	4	3	0	1	15	1	7
Prince of Wales	3	2	1	0	8	5	4
Queen Alex.	4	2	1	1	3	3	4
Central	2	1	1	0	3	1	2
Queen Mary	3	1	2	0	1	8	2
King George	4	0	4	0	2	13	0

Two points for a win and one for a draw.

First Half.

Prince of Wales captain lost the toss and faced the wind. They were hemmed into their own territory to battle against the steady attack led by King George centre-forward, and from a kick sent across the goal-mouth the ball rolled in between the sticks. Within five minutes, the West-End boys had the equalizer through the combination play of Henry and Crowe, as the latter sent in a low grounder. On the next visit by Prince of Wales, a full-back gave away a penalty kick when he handled the ball in the dreaded area, but the parting shot was skyed into the air over the bar. Time and again, the East City boys would break away to lack the finish around the goal. Half-time: Prince of Wales 2, King George 0.

Second Half.

On resuming, Prince of Wales' attack kept swinging the ball up into goal, where the goalie was kept busy saving his charge. The full-back cleared upfield, where Henry trapped quickly to dribble his way into goal to increase the count. Burns added the third. D. Crowe made it four, to be further increased by Doughty and Crowe. Prince of Wales 6, King George 0.

King George—Jack Whittaker, goal; D. Ralph and H. Clyde, full-backs; K. Ferguson, H. Withers and F. Mason, halves; C. Eason, D. Withers, G. Patterson, R. Hendry and G. Clyde, forwards; subs.: G. Powell, J. Lang and R. Cairns.

Prince of Wales—W. Parnell, goal; J. Gross and L. Maudsley, full-backs; W. Dyer, H. Henry and S. French, halves; R. Doughty, R. Crowe, R. Lacey, R. Burns and J. Saunders, forwards; subs.: C. Stewart and W. Defoe.

Giants Pin Hopes On Melton To Win 2nd Game Of Series

Hubbell's Collapse In Sixth Of First Too Much For Shaky Support

NEW YORK, Oct. 7. — (AP).— Bruised by Yankee bats but defiant still, the jittery Giants to-day pinned their faith in Cliff Melton, the gawky freshman from the mountain country, to square accounts and keep them in the running for the winners' share of the world series swag.

After yesterday's opening exhibition, when 60,000 fans, including many a gloating admirer, saw the Giants' pitching and defence fall apart at once, it looked a forlorn hope. Yet the Giants and their followers were sure that Melton, who looks like Ichabob Crane come to life and can pitch like all get-out, would put them all-even again.

Melton, skinning off his uniform in the funereal Giants dressing room after yesterday's rout, said: "I'll sure be in there trying."

Granting that he would do his best on every throw, the fact still remained that the Yankees got an important jump by shelling Carl Hubbell from the premises in the opener. They promised to be hard to head off.

If Lefty Gomez throttled the Giants' bats, holding them to a single run on three bunched hits in the fifth inning, there was little reason to suspect his big, right-hand team mate, Rufus (The Red) Ruffing, might do the same to-day.

Gloomy For Giants.

Things in other words, looked gloomy for the "Jints." Unless Melton comes through it may be all over in a hurry. There's something about the way those Yankees pile into a pitcher the instant he even appears to hesitate that gives you the shakes clear up in the second tier. Melton is bound to have that same feeling; as though he is toying with dynamite.

Another thing, the mountaineer can't feel quite so sure of his support after having watched the incomparable Hubbell get his bumps in yesterday's night-mariah sixth inning, when the Yanks scored seven of their eight runs.

With the right kind of infield defence behind him, King Carl would have escaped with maybe a run or two. That is something Giant pitchers have learned to expect. Yet when Hubbell momentarily lost what his battery mate Gus Mancuso, called "the fine edge of his stuff," his supporting cast went to pieces. That, as Manager Bill Terry admitted later, is bad.

Just before it started Hubbell had retired 14 straight Yankees. He had them puzzled, biting at his sweeping curve and swinging wildly at his screw ball. It looked as though he might coast in behind the one-run lead his mates had given him in the fifth.

Walked Gomez.

Then Hubbell's first pitch to start the sixth chapter nearly beaned Gomez, the Yankee hurler. In the end he walked Gomez, and that appeared to open the flood gates of Yankee hits and Giant errors.

Before it ended the Yanks had seven runs on five hits, four walks and errors by Dick Bartell and Burgess Whitehead. The home run that Tony Lazzeri hit off Al Smith, fourth Giant pitcher, in the eighth inning, didn't matter at all.

NEWARK WINS MINOR SERIES AT COLUMBUS

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 7 (A.P.).— If New York Yankees don't win that big World Series they can't blame it on their International League farm hands, Newark Bears, for the Bushers showed 'em how by wrapping up and tucking away the Little World Series championship.

While the "Papa" Yanks are out in front by winning the first game from the Giants, the "Baby" Yanks won their laurels the hard way—and proved their claims to the title of the "wonder club of the minors."

They clinched the championship on a muddy diamond here last night by romping over the Columbus Red Birds, American Association champs by 10-4, for their fourth straight victory. The Red Birds had won the first three at Newark, but the Bears had the punch in the pinch after the trek west and Columbus didn't have a chance.

In fact, the Birds were so much out of it that they scored only six runs in the 36 innings here, while the Bears were piling up 29. For the entire Series the Birds had 22 runs to 40 for Newark.

TERRIERS CONTINUE VICTORY MARCH

HIGH RIVER, Alta., Oct. 7 (C.P.). — Orillia Terriers, box lacrosse champions of Canada for three successive years, set out to-day for Vancouver and another Mann Cup final. Terriers whipped Calgary Rangers 25-8 last night to enter the best-of-five series with New Westminster Salmonbellies starting on Friday.

Outclassed by the more experienced Terriers, Alberta's youthful champions nevertheless made a gallant stand in the first half when Orillia took a lead of 12-6. Rangers wilted thereafter and the Easterners fired 16 more goals while Calgary netted only another pair.

Young Jim Kirkwood of Calgary shared scoring honors with two ace Orillian forwards, Hal Gordon and Joe Cheevers. The trio netted five goals each.

Oshawa GM-Men Beaten Senior O.B.A.A. Final

Heavy Hitting In Early Frames Gives Toronto Team 8-1 Victory

TORONTO, Oct. 7—Hap Watson's G. & W. gang did something epochal yesterday afternoon—they became the first Toronto team since the 1926 Oslers to win the Ontario senior baseball championship.

And the Distillers functioned like champions as they turned back Oshawa's vaunted G-Men, 8 to 5, at Maple Leaf Stadium, to hang up their third win in a row after being humiliated, 13 to 0, in the first game of the final series.

Steady thumping that drove Johnny Turner, starting Oshawa hurler, to the showers within two innings and was continued in the face of Jake Biddle's relief tossing, enabled the Toronto team to build up a commanding lead. And, with veteran Irish Rasson serving 'em up in equally steady fashion, the Distillers never seemed in danger of relinquishing their early advantage, despite a strong closing rally by the invaders.

Heavy Hitting Siege.

Turner didn't linger long on the scene. A walk and three singles gave G. and W. two runs in the opening frame, and two more one-baggers and a sacrifice shoved across a third marker in the second inning and eased the Oshawa hurler to the dugout.

Jake Biddle, ace of the Oshawa staff came into the picture, silenced the Toronto guns for the remainder of the inning, but ran pellmell into an even more powerful uprising in the third. When it was all over, five runs had drifted platewards on three hits including doubles by Rasson, which scored two runners, and Glenn, an error and a hit batsman.

But over the rest of the route, Biddle twirled in effective fashion, keeping the Distillers off the scoresheet, and giving up four hits.

Errors Aid G-Men.

While all this was going on, Rasson was elbowing in splendid fashion. Up until the fourth Oshawa could only get two men to the initial station, both on walks. They rapped out three bingles in the fourth, but failed to bunch them, and it wasn't until the sixth that they broke their goose-egg string. At that, overgenerosity by Crippen and Stanley paved the way for the two tallies they marked up. G-Men added another in the eighth on Crippen's error, and finished with a two-run burst in the ninth on two solid hits.

Pete Glenn, Bobby Giroux, Harold Crippen, Dowling and Wilson featured the G. & W. 12-hit barrage. Each secured a brace, with Rasson, Giroux and Glen smashing out doubles for the only extra-base wallops of the fray. Giroux, Glenn, Dowling and Stanley sparkled afield.

Hurst, Bennett Lead Hitters.

Hurst and Bennett paced the Oshawa hitters with a pair of singles apiece. Wallace, Bennett, Hurst, Jubenville and May turned in nice fielding efforts.

KINGSTON SQUAD BEAT AT TRENTON

TRENTON, Oct. 7.—Feeling the effects of the fight to hold the Flyers down until the third quarter, weary Kingston Garrison squad lost out to Trenton R.C.A.F. 8 to 1 yesterday afternoon on Aerodrome Grounds. Two top-notch teams in O.R.F.U. intermediate grouping battled until the quarter when Flyers unleashed a drive to take the game.

BREAKS CREATE WORLD SERIES HEROES, GOATS

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—When the blue chips are down and a couple of thousand dollars ride on every pitch, ball players react in strange unpredictable ways.

That's why the World Series every October always produces a hero and a goat. Stars choke up in a clinch, make a bobble or take one cut at a bad pitch which will make the fans forget records made over the 154-game grind and label them goats. Ordinary players will rise to the occasion, play better than they know and become heroes for a day or a week.

The World Series opening at Yankee Stadium October 6 will produce new heroes and goats—

Tony Lazzeri, Yankees' second baseman, who has been both a World Series goat and a hero, will close his career in the blue ribbon classic. Most fans will be rooting for "Poosh 'em Tony" to wind up wearing the hero's togs.

Lazzeri's Famous Strikeout.

In the 1926 World Series Lazzeri, then a raw rookie, went to bat in the seventh inning of the seventh and deciding game between the Cardinals and Yankees with the bases loaded. Old Pete Alexander, who had pitched the day before and evened the series, was called in to stop the rally. Alex, thinking he wouldn't pitch any more, had done some serious celebrating the night before and walked from the bull pen on uncertain legs. But he struck out Lazzeri, and the Cards won the series. Last year Lazzeri got his revenge. He came up with the bases loaded in the third inning of the second game and hit a homer off Dick Coffman.

Lou Gehrig will be playing in his sixth World Series. He has a World Series batting average of .386. Until last year, when he batted .292, he had never failed to hit better than .300.

The batting hero of the 1936 series was Jake Powell, Yankee outfielder, who was only an ordinary player during the season, batting .299. In the World Series, he was "hot," and the Giants could not get him out. He made 10 hits for an average of .455.

The greatest pitching exhibition in World Series history was supplied by Christy Mathewson who hurled three shutouts within five days as the Giants beat the Athletics in 1905. He allowed only 14 hits in three games.

Mathewson Nearly a Goat.

Even Mathewson became something of a goat in the 1911 World Series against the Athletics. Rube Marquard threw a home run ball to Frank Baker in the second game, and the next time Mathewson in a ghost written article criticized Marquard's judgment. Marquard threatened to take a punch at Matty. The next day Mathewson faced the A's and it went sailing out of the park for a game-winning homer. That's how Baker got his nickname of "Home Run." Instead of punching Matty, Marquard just laughed right in his face.

Started Rally

JOE DIMAGGIO

Cracked a single to left centre, bringing in two runs and started the Yanks off on their power drive in sixth frame of first game.

FIND SKELETON MISSING TRAPPER

NORANDA, Que., Oct. 7—(CP)—Skeleton of Onezime Hamel, 62-year-old trapper was found September 30 on the bed of his shack on the Wawagosik River 100 miles north of Macamik, it was learned here yesterday.

Hamel left home September 7 last year to spend the winter tripping in the bush. When he left Chasel Township, he intended to return in March or, at the latest, June. In July his son searched for him without result. In September he went out again, penetrating farther into the bush to find the shack where lay his father's skeleton, clothes still on.

Though Hamel was well supplied with food for the winter when he left Chasel Township, none was found in his shack and his two dogs had disappeared. A large hole in the shack floor indicated the dogs had burrowed their way out or other animals had entered, perhaps to consume the food.

At an inquest at Macamik, where the remains were brought, the son testified Hamel had two severe dog bites on his body when he left home. The jury brought in a verdict then based on the probability of complications setting in from the dog bites.

DEAD RECKONING

BY BRUCE HAMILTON

READ THIS FIRST:

Tim Kennedy has been writing a suicide note to himself in his wife's handwriting. He had graduated into a would-be homicide from the school of armchair murderers. Tim, who had built up a lucrative dental practice in a small town near London, had done so with great premeditation and planning years before. His marriage to Esther Ashwell had been a fortunate one.

NOW GO WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 5.

Neddy, Tim's brother-in-law, was a spoiled only son who, after narrowly missing expulsion from Harrow and being sent down from Oxford, had lived an idle life at his father's expense. He had plenty of brains, but no real interest in anything except horses. Twenty-three years old at the time, he had been the only Ashwell to resent Esther's marriage. He had been expecting his sister to make a first-class match, thus on the one hand providing him with a brother-in-law on whom he could sponge lightly, and on the other removing any fear that his sister would have to be seriously considered in the old man's will.

His manner toward Tim had at first been one of downright rudeness, and he had caused a lot of awkwardness by deliberately absenting himself from the wedding. There had subsequently been a sort of rapprochement—Tim had never allowed himself to be provoked into an open quarrel—and Neddy visited The Wilderness every now and then, though his behavior was usually moody and ungracious. To his credit it should be added that he was really fond of Esther, and apart from any question of his own interest, he sincerely believed she had thrown herself away on the dentist.

On his father's death Neddy decided to go to America, and after a jolly six months in New York, where he spent the greater part of his £4,000, he reaped the harvest of his prodigality in the shape of a good job as "gentleman trainer" at a racing stable in Virginia. It was the only sort of work he was really fit for, and he did at last appear to be making good—at least so his letters to Esther suggested. He claimed to be making money over and above his salary, was enjoying the life, and had no intention of returning to England for many years.

Meanwhile Tim Kennedy, though disappointed by the failure of his expectations from his father-in-law—he had contemplated retiring early to the easy life of a country gentleman—was able to put a good face on the matter. In point of fact he was singularly free from financial anxiety at this period. His practice had extended enormously, and was now really lucrative.

Patients sometimes asked him why he did not try his hand in London, but he always smiled and shook his head. The country life suited him, and he was doing well enough for his needs. He was not avaricious, and on the steady income he was receiving he could get all he wanted out of life. He had ample leisure, for he had trained Adams as a dental mechanic, and the former corporal soon developed enough skill to justify the delegation of some of the simpler work to him.

Life indeed was very pleasant for Kennedy during the third decade of the century. Although his egotistical makeup did not permit him to love his wife, he admired her beauty and he liked her personally. This was easy enough, for she was devoted to him with a love that was not obtrusively possessive, but held him with an embracing warmth and solicitude. She was very gracious and very conscientious, and took it to be her duty to smooth his path in every way. She was sometimes apt to wonder what had originally attracted her to this unassuming, unspectacular little man, and generally concluded that it was an intuitive apprehension of his fundamental masculinity.

She was always a little in awe of him. She was conscious of his reserves while never fully understanding them. She accepted this as she accepted his gentle obstinacy in getting his way: she was used to that from men. He was never other than gentle in his manner to her, and she considered herself very happily married. Her only disappointment was that she had no children.

She was always very merry in her dark-haired petite way. Though she never chatted foolishly, her speech was quick and voluble. Sometimes, when her ideas outpaced her power of expressing them, she would fall into a slight stammer, but the effect was of a charming idiosyncrasy rather than an unfortunate defect. The stammer was a relic of a highly nervous childhood.

While she was still quite a baby her parents had taken her with them for a month's holiday to a Black Forest resort. The train in which they were travelling had just pulled up at the station of an industrial town in western Germany when there occurred a terrible explosion in a big chemical works, less than a hundred yards away. The station and train were wrecked, and though the Ashwells miraculously escaped serious hurt, Esther developed symptoms that led her parents to rush her back to England without delay.

The reports of the specialists were on the whole reassuring, provided great care was exercised, and the fear of insanity was quickly dispelled. But she contracted most of the habits characteristic of infantile neurosis, and in particular a marked susceptibility to terror. At recurring periods she would suffer from dreams of alarming violence, nightmares which left her exhausted and deprived her of all vigor and appetite. She dreaded being left alone at night, and indeed it was not safe to leave her.

Eventually patience, a healthy country life, and the affectionate skill of her uncle, Harold Arkwright—a clever doctor who held advanced views on the subject of nervous diseases—succeeded in exorcising the demon. Esther's bad periods grew less and less frequent, and from the age of 12 she made rapid progress in every way. Her natural comeliness grew into a vivid pale beauty, and it seemed that her painful experiences had enhanced her attractiveness, endowing her with a quick sympathy and fine perception quite alien to her commonly rather stolid family.

She made an admirable chatelaine and hostess. She treated her servants with an unassuming familiarity which cost her no dignity, and they repaid her with affectionate devotion and unstinting service. The domestic atmosphere at The Wilderness was easy and without strain. People liked the pleasant informality of the household, which was indeed a kind of Liberty Hall. Friends of the Kennedys were encouraged to drop in whenever they liked, whether the family was at home or not, to play on the putting green, knock the balls about in the billard room, or to take a book to a deck chair on the lawn.

There were regular parties, too: tennis parties, bridge parties, dinners. Esther, with her vivid energy, was the inspiration of these occasions, but Tim played his part—quietly in the background, a little overshadowed by his wife, but always ready for a chat with anyone who offered, or to play whatever game was going forward. Apart from chess, he had hardly played any games before he was 30 but he made himself expert at the dying pastime of croquet, an excellent doubles partner at tennis (he was too slow to be much use in singles), and a successful bridge player—cautious in bidding, slow and methodical in play, but capable of strokes of boldness generally successful by virtue of their unexpectedness. He brought the same qualities to his chess, and his extreme patience and will to win usually gained him victory in his battles with Dr. Arkwright, a more brilliant but over impetuous player, who was his only serious rival among the people he met.

The years slipped quietly by without giving any sense of the passage of time. There were changes in the town—Fiddian retired in 1932, selling his practice to a man of the name of Mower. Kennedy did not like Mower—he considered him an upstart who threw his weight about far more than was justified by his position was too well assured for him to fear any serious competition for the time. He was happy, secure, and able to contemplate the future with equanimity.

Bedtime Story

By
HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S FLOWER CLOCK

"Oh, Bunty, weren't you frightened?" asked Jingle.

"I should think you would have been," said Jangle.

"No, I wasn't. I knew I had to save Unkie Wig from the Bob Cat and blowing the trumpet flower to make the Bad Chap think it was the fish peddler's horn was the best way," said Bunty. "I remembered that all cats are very fond of fish."

The little orphan rabbit was telling the twin rabbits, Jingle and Jangle, about her adventure of the day before.

"I wish daddy would take us on an adventure," said Jingle.

"Here he comes now," said Jangle. "Maybe he will if we ask."

"I think he would do it if Baby Bunty asked," said Jingle.

"All right, I will," said the orphan rabbit. "School is out so we can easily go."

Mistake.

Oh, dear! Excuse me! I have that wrong. He was twinkling his pink nose as he hopped around the corner of his hollow stump bungalow.

"Unkie Wig," said Baby Bunty, "will you please take Jingle and Jangle and me on an adventure hop?"

"Yes, I'll do that," promised the rabbit gentleman. "But you had better tell Nurse Jane where you are going or she might be looking for you."

So Jangle called:

"Nurse Jane! Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, Jingle and Baby Bunty and I are going adventuring with daddy."

"All right," squeaked the muskrat lady housekeeper. "But, Jingle and Jangle, you must be back here soon after 4 o'clock to take your music lessons."

"Yes, we will," promised the twin rabbits. Baby Bunty didn't have a music lesson that day.

"Don't forget—4 o'clock!" warned Nurse Jane.

Away hopped Uncle Wiggily with the rabbit children, up hill and down hill, over the fields and through the woods. All of a sudden they found a most jolly adventure.

It was a Summer Hill. That is it was a hill covered with slippery brown pine needles from the pine tree. And the hill was so slippery the rabbit children could slide down it almost as well as if it had been a Winter Hill.

"Oh, what fun!" cried Baby Bunty.

"Lovely fun!" said Jingle.

Finds a Clock.

"But we mustn't forget to go back by 4 o'clock," said Jangle. "Have you a watch, Daddy, to tell us when it is time to leave?"

"No, my dear, I haven't," answered Mr. Longears. "But I will tell you the time just the same."

"Do you mean by the sun?" asked Jingle.

"No, I mean by this flower," and Uncle Wiggily pointed to a closed one growing in what had once been an old-fashioned garden. "This is the Four O'clock Flower," said the rabbit. "Almost exactly at 4 o'clock it will open. Then we shall know the time."

The rabbit children played on the Summer Hill. After a while Mr. Longears called: "Four o'clock time to go home." Surely enough the flower was opened wide. It was the bunny's flower clock.

So the little rabbits reach the bungalow in time for their music lessons. And if the lawn mower doesn't plant an electric light bulb thinking it will grow into a corn flower, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's sky writing.

KNOW THE LAWS

ONE DEPARTMENT of the skill of a well-rounded player is knowledge of the laws and how to obtain the results intended by them when an opponent has committed an irregularity. There are many situations in which a player has a choice of penalty which he may assess against the other side, such as calling a lead or treating a card as an exposed "penalty card" when it has been led out of turn. Sometimes it is better to do one of these and sometimes the other.

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

Plenty of bidding occurred on this deal — South's 1-Diamond, West's 1-Heart, North's 2-Diamonds, South's 3-Diamonds, North's 4-Diamonds and South's 5-Diamonds. East had failed to pay close attention and thought it was his lead. So he offered the spade Q.

"Lead out of turn!" exclaimed South, who added that this gave him the right to call a lead from West. He asked for a diamond, and as a consequence he was set with the loss of two tricks in hearts and one in spades.

Under the laws, South was permitted an option. Instead of calling a lead from West, he could have treated the spade Q as a "penalty card". It would then have been placed face up, to be played at the first legal opportunity. Had South done that and let West make any lead he wished, he could later have played the spade A, compelling East the put on the Q, and then could have used a finesse to catch the jack, which had been located by the false lead.

DEAD RECKONING

BY BRUCE HAMILTON

READ THIS FIRST:

Tim Kennedy has been writing a suicide note to himself in his wife's handwriting. He had graduated into a would-be homicide from the school of armchair murderers. Tim, who had built up a lucrative dental practice in a small town near London, had done so with great premeditation and planning years before. His marriage to Esther Ashwell had been a fortunate one.

NOW GO WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 5.

Neddy, Tim's brother-in-law, was a spoiled only son who, after narrowly missing expulsion from Harrow and being sent down from Oxford, had lived an idle life at his father's expense. He had plenty of brains, but no real interest in anything except horses. Twenty-three years old at the time, he had been the only Ashwell to resent Esther's marriage. He had been expecting his sister to make a first-class match, thus on the one hand providing him with a brother-in-law on whom he could sponge lightly, and on the other removing any fear that his sister would have to be seriously considered in the old man's will.

His manner toward Tim had at first been one of downright rudeness, and he had caused a lot of awkwardness by deliberately absenting himself from the wedding. There had subsequently been a sort of rapprochement—Tim had never allowed himself to be provoked into an open quarrel—and Neddy visited The Wilderness every now and then, though his behavior was usually moody and ungracious. To his credit it should be added that he was really fond of Esther, and apart from any question of his own interest, he sincerely believed she had thrown herself away on the dentist.

On his father's death Neddy decided to go to America, and after a jolly six months in New York, where he spent the greater part of his £4,000, he reaped the harvest of his prodigality in the shape of a good job as "gentleman trainer" at a racing stable in Virginia. It was the only sort of work he was really fit for, and he did at last appear to be making good—at least so his letters to Esther suggested. He claimed to be making money over and above his salary, was enjoying the life, and had no intention of returning to England for many years.

Meanwhile Tim Kennedy, though disappointed by the failure of his expectations from his father-in-law—he had contemplated retiring early to the easy life of a country gentleman—was able to put a good face on the matter. In point of fact he was singularly free from financial anxiety at this period. His parctice had extended enormously, and was now really lucrative.

Patients sometimes asked him why he did not try his hand in London, but he always smiled and shook his head. The country life suited him, and he was doing well enough for his needs. He was not avaricious, and on the steady income he was receiving he could get all he wanted out of life. He had ample leisure, for he had trained Adams as a dental mechanic, and the former corporal soon developed enough skill to justify the delegation of some of the simpler work to him.

Life indeed was very pleasant for Kennedy during the third decade of the century. Although his egotistical makeup did not permit him to love his wife, he admired her beauty and he liked her personally. This was easy enough, for she was devoted to him with a love that was not obtrusively possessive, but held him with an embracing warmth and solicitude. She was very gracious and very conscientious, and took it to be her duty to smooth his path in every way. She was sometimes apt to wonder what had originally attracted her to this unassuming, unspectacular little man, and generally concluded that it was an intuitive apprehension of his fundamental masculinity.

She was always a little in awe of him. She was conscious of his reserves while never fully understanding them. She accepted this as she accepted his gentle obstinacy in getting his way: she was used to that from men. He was never other than gentle in his manner to her, and she considered herself very happily married. Her only disappointment was that she had no children.

She was always very merry in her dark-haired petite way. Though she never chatted foolishly, her speech was quick and voluble. Sometimes, when her ideas outpaced her power of expressing them, she would fall into a slight stammer, but the effect was of a charming idiosyncrasy rather than an unfortunate defect. The stammer was a relic of a highly nervous childhood.

While she was still quite a baby her parents had taken her with them for a month's holiday to a Black Forest resort. The train in which they were travelling had just pulled up at the station of an industrial town in western Germany when there occurred a terrible explosion in a big chemical works, less than a hundred yards away. The station and train were wrecked, and though the Ashwells miraculously escaped serious hurt, Esther developed symptoms that led her parents to rush her back to England without delay.

The reports of the specialists were on the whole reassuring, provided great care was exercised, and the fear of insanity was quickly dispelled. But she contracted most of the habits characteristic of infantile neurosis, and in particular a marked susceptibility to terror. At recurring periods she would suffer from dreams of alarming violence, nightmares which left her exhausted and deprived her of all vigor and appetite. She dreaded being left alone at night, and indeed it was not safe to leave her.

Eventually patience, a healthy country life, and the affectionate skill of her uncle, Harold Arkwright—a clever doctor who held advanced views on the subject of nervous diseases—succeeded in exorcising the demon. Esther's bad periods grew less and less frequent, and from the age of 12 she made rapid progress in every way. Her natural comeliness grew into a vivid pale beauty, and it seemed that her painful experiences had enhanced her attractiveness, endowing her with a quick sympathy and fine perception quite alien to her commonly rather stolid family.

She made an admirable chatelaine and hostess. She treated her servants with an unassuming familiarity which cost her no dignity, and they repaid her with affectionate devotion and unstinting service. The domestic atmosphere at The Wilderness was easy and without strain. People liked the pleasant informality of the household, which was indeed a kind of Liberty Hall. Friends of the Kennedys were encouraged to drop in whenever they liked, whether the family was at home or not, to play on the putting green, knock the balls about in the billard room, or to take a book to a deck chair on the lawn.

There were regular parties, too: tennis parties, bridge parties, dinners, Ether, with her vivid energy, was the inspiration of these occasions, but Tim played his part—quietly in the background, a little overshadowed by his wife, but always ready for a chat with anyone who offered, or to play whatever game was going forward. Apart from chess, he had hardly played any games before he was 30 but he made himself expert at the dying pastime of croquet, an excellent doubles partner at tennis (he was too slow to be much use in singles), and a successful bridge player—cautious in bidding, slow and methodical in play, but capable of strokes of boldness generally successful by virtue of their unexpectedness. He brought the same qualities to his chess, and his extreme patience and will to win usually gained him victory in his battles with Dr. Arkwright, a more brilliant but over impetuous player, who was his only serious rival among the people he met.

The years slipped quietly by without giving any sense of the passage of time. There were changes in the town—Fiddian retired in 1932, selling his practice to a man of the name of Mower. Kennedy did not like Mower—he considered him an upstart who threw his weight about far more than was justified by his his position was too well assured for him to fear any serious competition for the time. He was happy, secure, and able to contemplate the future with equanimity.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S FLOWER CLOCK

"Oh, Bunty, weren't you frightened?" asked Jingle.

"I should think you would have been," said Jangle.

"No, I wasn't. I knew I had to save Unkie Wig from the Bob Cat and blowing the trumpet flower to make the Bad Chap think it was the fish peddler's horn was the best way," said Bunty. "I remembered that all cats are very fond of fish."

The little orphan rabbit was telling the twin rabbits, Jingle and Jangle, about her adventure of the day before.

"I wish daddy would take us on an adventure," said Jingle.

"Here he comes now," said Jangle. "Maybe he will if we ask."

"I think he would do it if Baby Bunty asked," said Jingle.

"All right, I will," said the orphan rabbit. "School is out so we can easily go."

Mistake.

Oh, dear! Excuse me! I have that wrong. He was twinkling his pink nose as he hopped around the corner of his hollow stump bungalow.

"Unkie Wig," said Baby Bunty, "will you please take Jingle and Jangle and me on an adventure hop?"

"Yes, I'll do that," promised the rabbit gentleman. "But you had better tell Nurse Jane where you are going or she might be looking for you."

So Jangle called:

"Nurse Jane! Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, Jingle and Baby Bunty and I are going adventuring with daddy."

"All right," squeaked the muskrat lady housekeeper. "But, Jingle and Jangle, you must be back here soon after 4 o'clock to take your music lessons."

"Yes, we will," promised the twin rabbits. Baby Bunty didn't have a music lesson that day.

"Don't forget—4 o'clock!" warned Nurse Jane.

Away hopped Uncle Wiggily with the rabbit children, up hill and down hill, over the fields and through the woods. All of a sudden they found a most jolly adventure.

It was a Summer Hill. That is it was a hill covered with slippery brown pine needles from the pine tree. And the hill was so slippery the rabbit children could slide down it almost as well as if it had been a Winter Hill.

"Oh, what fun!" cried Baby Bunty.

"Lovely fun!" said Jingle.

Finds a Clock.

"But we mustn't forget to go back by 4 o'clock," said Jangle. "Have you a watch, Daddy, to tell us when it is time to leave?"

"No, my dear, I haven't," answered Mr. Longears. "But I will tell you the time just the same."

"Do you mean by the sun?" asked Jingle.

"No, I mean by this flower," and Uncle Wiggily pointed to a closed one growing in what had once been an old-fashioned garden. "This is the Four O'clock Flower," said the rabbit. "Almost exactly at 4 o'clock it will open. Then we shall know the time."

The rabbit children played on the Summer Hill. After a while Mr. Longears called: "Four o'clock time to go home." Surely enough the flower was opened wide. It was the bunny's flower clock.

So the little rabbits reach the bungalow in time for their music lessons. And if the lawn mower doesn't plant an electric light bulb thinking it will grow into a corn flower, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's sky writing.

United Church At Yelverton Observes 75th Anniversary

Rev. H. M. Patterson Of Sonya Guest Preacher For Services

YELVERTON, Oct. 6. — On Sunday morning and evening Yelverton United church celebrated the 75th anniversary of its founding with large congregations attending each service, and Rev. R. M. Patterson of Sonya, a well known and much loved clergyman, formerly in charge of the Yelverton, Lifford and Fleetwood circuit, in charge of both services.

The interior of the church, which is kept in spotless condition, looked lovely in a profusion of varied hued autumn leaves bedecking the pulpit choir loft and windows. Among these were placed fruit and gay bouquets of gladioli, asters, marigolds, etc., altogether presenting a very attractive colour scheme.

The local choir who have been practising special numbers for some weeks were highly commended by all present for their pleasing numbers and specially selected combination of voices. "O Give Thanks" and "Now the Day is Over," were among the most appealing anthems for the Sunday occasion. A fine male quartette, with Messrs. Victor Malcolm, Sydney Ferguson, Clarke Williams and Earl Gray rendered much appreciated selections, among which were "Child Come Home." Vance Wilson, organist of the church, was in charge of the instrumental music for the entire occasion.

A liberal Thank offering was received at each service, including many contributions sent from distant friends of the church. It was announced at evening worship that the total contributions were sixty-eight dollars for morning service offerings and outside contributions.

Church History

Rev. C. Ferguson, pastor of the church, extended a warm welcome at each service to the many visiting friends as well as a large representation of local supporters. He referred briefly to church history, stating that Yelverton church is the oldest building in Peterborough presbytery and has taken on different forms. Originally the minister stood well up in a high pulpit and looked down upon his congregation. The ante-rooms at the rear of the church were originally at the front. Several coats of wall paper have adorned the interior from time to time, but the church is still known as the "White Church on the Hill", which it is hoped will stand for years to come as the symbol of Christ. Messages were read at each service from several who were absent in body but present in spirit. Among these were from Rev. Thos. Brown, Lindsay, Rev. J. G. Robson, who thirty-two years ago supplied for a term at Yelverton church during the absence of his father, the regular pastor, and Rev. R. W. Paton, the pre-decessor of Rev. Ferguson, who gave a great deal to Yelverton church during his two years' pastorate. The reading of other messages were heard at the festivities the following Monday evening, including those from Rev. L. W. Scott, Rev. C. C. Miller, Rev. Horwood, Mrs. Cook of Wembly, Alta., who sent a contribution, Mrs. Lucas, formerly Miss Alma Finnie, a teacher at Yelverton, who also sent a contribution, Miss Edith Lindsay Chesley, Miss Norma Stacey Hudson and others.

The Guest Speaker.

Rev. Patterson, the guest speaker, was introduced in well chosen words. Mrs. Patterson, who was also present, was originally a native of Yelverton and her father, Mr. Richard Evans, was the oldest resident present at the anniversary occasion.

Rev. Patterson expressed a deep pleasure in being present and congratulated the Yelverton people on having a pastor who could look down on them from a physical standpoint, but to whom they could look up to as well. The choir received special congratulations from the guest speaker, who also highly commended the floral decorations. He expressed the hope that although this was the end of 75 years of service it would also be the beginning of a new and better period.

The speaker's discussions at evening worship were centred on the words, "Angels came and ministered unto Him," which were appropriately chosen in this generation of hope and ambition when "more of God" and "less of self" should be the ideal of all. It should be the desire of all, too, to pass on to the next generation a better heritage than that which has been handed down to us. The heirs of all the ages, the speaker said.

The special Sunday services were followed by a goose supper, served in the large church shed recently erected near the church, on Monday evening. When all had been liberally served, the crowd congregated in the church for a fine miscellaneous program, presented by the local choir in old time numbers in costume as well as several splendid readings by Miss Velma Staples of Springville and Mr. Manley of Lindsay who assisted in song.

Receipts are Large

The financial receipts for the entire occasion were by far the most satisfactory in the years and added encouragement and splendid financial assistance to church work in generl.

It is interesting to note in connection with the early history of the church that the original trustees of Ground for Chapel were Samuel Staples, James McGill, Henry Henders, James Fowler and Adam Maguire. Naturally many changes have taken place during the life of the church, changes in organization, in name and in officers. Many faithful servants have been promoted to higher service with their Maker, and others have entered the service here. But through every change and development the "White church upon the hill" has stood as a symbol of that great invisible church calling men to the higher way of life where man is at one with God and with his fellow men. Those who have ministered: New Communion Methodists:

1862-63, James B. Kershaw; 1864, James Peck; 1865-68, George Buggin; 1869, John J. Wilson; 1870-73, Edwin Holmes; 1874, Calvin Shaw, Bible Christians, John Harris; 1879-83, Jesse Whitlock; 1883-84, E. A. Tonkin; Methodist Church of Canada, Janetville Circuit, 1884-85, E. A. Would See Ottawa House In Jail

EDMONTON, Oct. 7—(CP)—Declaring Alberta had complete "Sovereign rights," A. V. Boucier, Social Credit member of the Legislature for Lac Ste. Anne, told a meeting of Associated Social Credit groups last night "the Dominion Government's disallowance of Alberta legislation was unconstitutional. It's about time the Dominion Government was put in jail.

O. L. MacLachlan, chairman of the Social Credit Board, asserted:

"We are fighting the greatest power on earth. We are not fighting banks; we are fighting the policy of banks."

"The constitutional weapon is for the people to rise up in a mass and say they will not be oppressed any longer," said Mr. MacLachlan. "The aroused indignation of an oppressed and discontented people is your weapon. If that is sedition I'm prepared for it.

EDWARD THANKS IMPERIAL CORPS

BRANTFORD, Ont., Oct. 7—(CP)—The Duke of Windsor has sent his thanks to the Imperial Corps Association of Ontario for the greetings sent him from their annual convention here in August.

"Thank you very much for your letter of August 16 written on behalf of ex-service men and women who served in the Imperial forces during the Great War, assembled in convention in Brantford," the Duke replied.

"Please convey to the seven thousand members of the Imperial Corps Association whom you represent, my sincere gratitude for their generous message. I would further ask you to assure them that their good wishes mean a great deal to me and that their kind thoughts are much appreciated.

"Finally I would like to thank you personally for delivering their message. Yours sincerely, Edward."

The letter was received by Secretary John Tingling of the Provincial Association.

The Association in its greeting said, "We remember with gratitude the service rendered to our Empire by your Royal Highness and your deep concern at all times for the well-being of veterans. We wish you to know that our love and affection for you as a comrade remains undimmed and we wish you long life and happiness."

Jack Doyle's Romantic Career Reaches New High

The amazing career as a romanticist of Jack Doyle, pugilistically inclined Irish singer, soared to a new high with the filing of a two-million dollar heart-balm suit by his estranged wife, the former Judith Allen against Mrs. Delphine Dodge Godde, alleging that the latter stole the affections of the handsome Irishman while there was still a chance of reconciliation with Miss Allen. Two more feminine names entered into the story as it made headlines, and here is the boxing world's "great lover" surrounded by the quartet of charmers who soar on his troubled horizon. At the TOP LEFT is Miss Allen and across from her, Mrs. Godde, heiress to motor millions, who must answer the love piracy charges. But bubble-dancer Elinor Troy, LOWER LEFT, claims that Doyle squired her around town in the 'wee sma' hours," kissed her good-night and asked for another date. All Miss Troy reportedly wants is the other date. Then Mlle. Jeanne Manet, LOWER RIGHT, Parisian actress, gave rise to a brand new flock of rumors by taking an apartment not far from Doyle's penthouse suite and intimating that an old friendship was being renewed. BELOW is a telegram on which Miss Allen partially bases her two-million dollar suit, a telegram she claims was sent by Doyle to her and which she says goes to prove that there was a chance of reconciliation before Mrs. Godde entered the picture.

REV. MR. CLELAND GUEST PREACHER AT ANNIVERSARY

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ROSENEATH, Oct. 7. — Anniversary services were held in the United Church on Sunday morning and evening with Rev. Mr. Cleland, pastor of Norwood United Church, as the special speaker at both services. The text for Mr. Cleland's morning address was taken from John 4,7. Telling the story of the meeting of Jesus with the woman of Samaria at Jacob's Well, the speaker brought out and enlarged on the following points: The humanness of Jesus, the criticism of the world because Jesus mixed with publicans and sinners, Jesus' desire for human friendship, the joy of giving, and the joy of a consecrated life.

"For what shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul" (Mark 8, 36). With this passage of Scripture as his text, Mr. Cleland in his evening address spoke convincingly of the great spiritual need of the nations of the world. Extracts from this address included the following: The real prosperity of a country is founded and prospered by religion; national development depends on the religious life of the people; national industry means more than the natural resources from crops and mines, and comes from the soul life of its people;; the reluctance shown by many to identify themselves with the real things of life, resulting in failure unless attention is given the real germ of life. The speaker also touched on the two present wars, and commenting on the Treaty of Versailles, said: "It was a treaty without Christ in it, and resulted in heartaches, tragedy, and disappointment."

In conclusion the speaker said: "Every great era of prosperity has followed a great Christian era, real prosperity of a country comes from the soul life of its people, when we have a nation of men and women of Christian integrity, then will we have a great future."

The choir of twenty voices, with Mrs. Flex McMillan, organist, and Mrs. A. Nill, leader, led in the service of song. During the morning service an anthem, "Praise ye the Lord," was sung by the full choir, and a number, "The Wings of the Morning," was sung by Messrs. Lewis Roberts, Alvin Kelly, Willis Dowler, Renslow Joice, and Melville Macklin. During the evening service these same members sang "Redeemed for Christ"; two other numbers were sung, an anthem, "O Father Almighty," and a duet, "Life's Railway to Heaven," was sung by Messrs. Lewis and Burton Roberts.

The chancel of the church looked lovely with masses of gladioli, dahlias, asters, and other autumn flowers.

CENTRETON

Mrs. Clifford Hall was hostess at an afternoon and evening tea on Saturday, sponsored by the Young Ladies' Mission Band of which she is president. Members of Centreville congregation joined the girls in making the event very pleasant. In the afternoon Mrs. (Rev.) H. R. LOLLYPOPS FOR COLDS

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7 (AP). — If children have colds give them plenty of lollypops, but don't tell them why or they'll be sick all the time, Dr. H. Harris Perlman today advised doctors attending the State Medical Society convention.

"The average child is fond of lollypops and will partake of candy in this form without much persuasion," he said. "It is useful both as a food, being high in caloric value, and as an encourager of thirst, which is desirable.

KING IS SILENT ON LEAGUE VOTE

OTTAWA, Oct. 7—(C.P.). — Replying to questions directed at him at a press interview last night about Canada's vote on Spain's membership in the League of Nations Council, Prime Minister Mackenzie King said "nothing could be more reprehensible than that racial or religious influences would sway the decision of the Dominion."

Voting on Spain's seat on the Council was by secret ballot, the Prime Minister advised his questioner, and he was not saying what directions he had been given the Canadian delegate. If the question was passed as a resolution in the House of Commons he would ask for leave to disclose the information. Otherwise he would maintain the secrecy of the ballot.

In any event, the Prime Minister added, even if Canada had voted against Spain continuing on the League Council, it would have no significance with respect to the present circumstances of that country. Spain had served the regular term and at every election it was inevitable some country would be voted down.

With respect to Senator Dandurand, Canada's delegate on the League Advisory Committee on Sino-Japanese affairs abstaining from voting on the formation of a sub-committee a few days ago, the Prime Minister said that was due entirely to the pressure of time. The move was so sudden there was not time for advice to reach Geneva from the Government here.

C.I.O. OR CITY CLERK WILL RUN DETROIT

DETROIT, Oct. 7 (AP).—A candidate endorsed by the committee for industrial organization, and the present city clerk, nearly complete official returns showed today, will be the two nominees for Mayor in Detroit in the November 2 election.

They defeated the man favored by the American Federation of Labor and two others who trailed far behind.

Richard W. Reading, the city clerk, led the five candidates in yesterday's non-partisan primary, and the second place went to Patrick H. O'Brien, supported by the C.I.O., who said during the campaign that "Labor must seize the reigns of government in Detroit and every other American city."

Reading was regarded as a "Conservative," although the contestants had no party or other designation on the ballot for municipal offices. O'Brien is a Democrat and former Attorney-General of Michigan.

In the early returns O'Brien and John W. Smith, supported by the A.F.L., were close. Smith starting off with an early lead. But as the returns from additional precincts were counted the C.I.O. candidate moved ahead of the A.F.L. choice and stayed there.

The remaining two mayoralty candidates never figured in the running. They were Clarence J. McLeod, a former Republican Congressman, and Ralph A. Philbrook, an attorney.

ALBERTA ARRESTS BREWING TROUBLE DOUGLAS STATES

LONDON, Oct. 7 (CP Cable). — "On the face of it, whoever is instigating the proceedings is asking for a great deal of trouble and is likely to get it," Major C. H. Douglas, founder of Social Credit, said to-day in commenting on the arrest of his representative in Edmonton, George F. Powell.

Word of the arrest of Major Douglas' emissary amazed London Social Credit circles. The movement's leaders at first were inclined to take the view there must have been a mistake.

Their attitude became one of indignation when a confirmatory cable was received direct from Mr. Powell. The message did not indicate the nature of the charges, but suggested they were "ridiculous."

Major Douglas explained Mr. Powell had been director of the Social Credit secretariat in London since its inception five years ago, and had been associated with him for nearly 20 years.

"Mr. Powell went to Alberta in June as a result of advice I gave the Alberta Government," Major Douglas added. "I am not aware of any leaflet being published upon which any unlawful constriction could be placed."

He declined to comment further.

Meanwhile, 36-year-old L. D. Byrne prepared to leave for Alberta to take up the post of Provincial Credit Commissioner. He plans to sail the latter part of October with his wife and two children, aged five and eight.

Over $2,500,000 has been spent for new homes in Honolulu, Hawaii, this year.

Fourth Charge Faces Douglas Mogul Over Social Credit Leaflet

Edmonton, Oct. 7 (CP).

A FOURTH charge—defamatory libel—was read to G. F. Powell, emissary of Major C. H. Douglas, when he appeared in police court here today. Mr. Powell was arrested last night on three charges, counselling to murder, seditious libel and defamatory libel "well knowing the same to be false."

The charges were laid on complaint of Senator W. A. Griesbach, in connection with publication of a leaflet.

Mr. Powell reserved plea on all four counts and Magistrate A. H. Gibson adjourned preliminary hearing until October 14 when J. H. Unwin, government whip in Alberta legislature, also will appear for preliminary hearing on the same four charges.

JAP ANNOUNCEMENT HELD DECLARATION OF WAR

JOHN MEDD IS BEST PLOWMAN COUNTY MATCH

32 Plowmen Entered Match on Batten Farm.

All sod fields apparently look alike to John Medd of Port Perry, veteran of many a furrowed field all over the province.

He won the first prize in sod at Orillia on Wednesday, and duplicated his performance at the 23rd annual Peterborough County plowing match Thursday on the farm of Henry Batten, near Brealey's School, in North Monaghan. In both competitions his victories were scored in a class that was open to the experts with jointer plows. Mr. Medd has been a rather frequent winner in this county, but leading all competitors two days in succession seemed to be a record in plowmanship.

Thirty-two plowmen turned up excellent furrows for W. L. Clark of Gormley, judge of the match. An innovation this year was a regulation by the executive of the association of which Howard A. Quinn of Douro is president requiring contestants to complete their work at a specified time. When the lots were drawn at 9.30 a.m. it was decided that the plowing had to be finished by 3.30 p.m., and all the plowmen were through for the day within that time limit.

The directors decided to avoid the delays in finishing which prolonged the judging until dusk. They intended especially to have the plowing terminated by midafternoon for the benefit of spectators, and also to enable them to see the results of the judging. The new rule had the desired effect without any depreciation of the quality of the plowing.

The number of entries was slightly less than last year, the decline being accounted for by default of contestants with two furrow plows. A. D. Runions, secretary, said the absence of plowmen in these two classes was probably due to the long dry season holding up work generally, and particularly for the double furrow plows.

Class No. 7 in stubble, confined to Peterborough County men also failed to attract entries, and was the

U.S. CHAINS CANCEL MILLIONS IN JAPAN

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. —(CP)— It was reported in trade circles today that certain large chain stores of the United States had cancelled orders for "millions of dollars worth" of Japanese goods.

The reports circulated after the American Federation of Labor convention at Denver had given a warm reception to a resolution calling for an economic boycott of Japan because of its invasion of China. The A.F.L. will take formal action on the resolution later.

A spokesman for the League for the Protection of American Standards, sponsored by manufacturers whose goods face competition from Japanese imports, said the League had received word that the boycott movement actively was underway.

Jules Gilbert, executive secretary of the league, said he had heard many China-stores and 5-and-10-cent stores were not ordering Japanese merchandise.

LAMBS HIT $6.50 AT PRAIRIE SALE

MOOSE JAW, Sask., Oct. 8 (C.P.). —A high price of $6.50 a hundredweight was paid for a packer for lambs at the 15th annual Saskatchewan Feeder Show and Auction Sale held here yesterday.

R. T. Simpson of Tilley, Sask., who took top honors for his exhibits, received $6.50 a hundredweight for his 15 prize pen domestic lambs, and the second highest price of $6.20 a hundredweight for a carload of blackface feeder lambs.

J. E. Gallagher of Watertown, Ont., made the latter purchase, and during the sale took 2,305 lambs.

Winter Visits Early Snow Blankets Much Of Ontario

Mercury Nosedives—Ponds, Vegetables Freeze Snow Slide Cuts Barrie Power—Frost General.

TORONTO, Oct. 8. (CP).—Winter paid a pre-season visit to Northern and Western Ontario during the night and early today, snow falling on a dozen cities.

Overcoats were the order of the day in Toronto as the temperature nosedived from Wednesday's 77 to a low of 33 during the night. There was no snow, however, in the provincial capital.

But Woodstock, Midland, Orillia, Barrie, Galt, Stratford and Port Hope districts experienced the season's first snow, mostly a wet variety which melted shortly after touching ground. In some places, however, a blanket of firm, white snow greeted early risers and there was ice on many ponds.

Barrie, 45 miles north of Toronto, had one of the heaviest falls and power service was interrupted briefly when snow falling off a roof grounded wires.

A light, wet snow fell over Sudbury last night and generally throughout the north temperatures moved downward and frost was in the air.

Barrie Earliest Fall

It was the earliest that snow had fallen in the Barrie district in many years and found gardeners and farmers unprepared. It was not likely the snow would remain long.

Snow fell during the night in the vicinity of Bewdley and other sections and a scum of ice formed on small ponds for the first time this fall.

In the Orillia area with the temperature at freezing point it alternately snowed, rained and hailed here during the night. Big transport trucks drove into town early today covered with a light blanket of snow. House tops were also covered with snow. In the country, tomatoes, cucumbers and squash were slightly affected by the frost.

THREE CROPS YEAR FROM FLOOD AREA

PAHOKEE, Fla., Oct. 8.—(AP).—Market letters reported the first beans of the season shipped from here this week—a prosaic item in itself.

But behind that story is the story of a hardy community that fought the horror of Florida's worst storm to a comeback that will pay a $12,000,000 dividend this year.

Pahokee virtually was wiped out when the 1928 hurricane blew the waters of Lake Okeechobee across its black acres but the planters who survived dug in behind a 40-foot levee and went back to work raising beans and tomatoes.

Farming started in this section 22 years ago, but suffered a severe catastrophe, in which more than 3,000 persons drowned. Since then the government has built a huge dike around the shore of Lake Okeechobee, and the region has boomed.

The most accurate estimates obtainable placed the gross yield for a year at $12,0000,000. The rich black muck soil and the tropical sun permits three crops a season.

225-FOOT TUMBLE CLIMAXES LOVERS' DISPUTE ON CLIFF

QUEBEC, Oct. 8.—(CP)—Chief Leon Lambert of Quebec division of the Provincial Police said today his officers were searching at the foot of Montmorency Falls for the body of Alfred Soucy, 19, of Riviere Aux Rats.

Gemma Rancourt, companion of the youthful Champlain county settler, told police he fell 225 feet from an observatory stairway at the edge of Canada's highest falls yesterday during an argument with her.

The 19-year-old Quebec girl was arrested on a vagrancy charge and placed in jail here pending investigation.

Miss Rancourt reported Soucy's death to city police after walking six miles here from Montmorency. Soucy took her to a dance pavilion near the falls Wednesday night, she said.

They found the dance hall closed so they went for a walk in a park above a cliff from which Montmorency Falls roar down 275 feet emptying into the St. Lawrence River, a few hundred feet away.

Soucy and the girl had an argument while walking down an observation stairway on one side of the falls, she told police. He lost his balance and fell over the iron railing.

Mail Carrier Is Killed By Train

CARLETON PLACE, Ont., Oct. 8. (CP).—Frederick Stansel, 55, mail courier here for 20 years, was killed today when he was struck by the Canadian Pacific Railway train Imperial Limited.

Stanzel was pushing a mail truck across one of the tracks when struck by the engine. His widow and three children survive.

An inquest will be held later today. Carleton Place is 30 miles west of Ottawa.

IS GIVEN FOUR YEARS.

TORONTO, Oct. 8.—(CP).—Peter Welsh, 39, convicted of attempted assault last June on a 15-year-old girl, was sentenced to-day to four years in Kingston penitentiary. Harry Crowhurst, 21, and Fred Grant, 22, convicted on a similar charge involving a 16-year-old girl, were sentenced to three years each in penitentiary.

Chosen To Match Wife's Gown Ex-Veteran Hunts Job

Lived Like Prince In Imperial Suite As Countess' Hubby, But Private Life Hell

LONDON, Oct. 8 (C.P.). — Seventeen years ago, at the age of 24, plain Edward (Sonny) Smith, a penniless war veteran, barged into newspaper headlines by marrying the woman known as the "Countess of Monte Cristo," more than twice his own age, and reputed to be one of the wealthiest women in the United Kingdom.

Now known as Smith-Wilkinson, a name he says his wife persuaded him to get by deed poll, Edward is back into prominence. He returned to London via the hitch-hiking route from a village in Shropshire, in search of a job.

Although he once occupied the Imperial Suite at Claridge's in Paris at the rate of £130 ($594) a week, he came back to familiar haunts of former days carrying his one presentable suit wrapped in a newspaper and the rest of his possessions stowed in a haversack on his back.

Since the days when Edward was the husband of Mrs. Smith-Wilkinson, he has been cave guide, dancer, cinema manager, a bootblack, farm laborer, and part-time telephone operator. He has written a 100,000-word book about his experiences.

Wants Book Published.

"This is my last curtain," he said. "All I want is a job and someone to publish my book.

"Was there ever another man with a life like mine?" he asked. "Why my late wife chose me—I was her third husband—because I matched one of her dresses. She was im-

Borrowing A Jack Costs Trucker $25

Goderich, Oct. 8.

WHEN A truck driver, Thomas Johnson, offered a bottle of beer to John Ferguson for his kindness in loaning him a jack to fix a tire little did he know that Mr. Ferguson was a County policeman.

The officer might have overlooked the indiscretion, but when the truck driver and his companion proceeded to drink a bottle of beer on their own account in broad daylight on a Provincial highway things were going too far.

The fine was $25 and costs for consuming.

A.F. of L. After White Collar Members To Boost Front Against C.I.O.

Denver, Oct. 8 (AP).

THE American Federation of Labor moved today to extend its sphere into the "White Collar" workers field, bringing it into opposition on a new front with the Committee for Industrial Organization.

President William Green summoned leaders of A. F. L. office workers union attending the federation convention here to a conference tomorrow. He said they would form a national council and eventually an international union.

The federation has until now sponsored only local organizations of office workers.

Awaiting convention action next week are resolutions authorizing expulsion from the federation of the 10 unions already suspended because of C.I.O. affiliations. Their adoption appeared as certain as approval of another condemning "militaristic fanatics now in control of Japan" and calling for a labor boycott on Japanese products.

YANKEES WIN THIRD VICTORY OF PRESENT SERIES

POLO GROUNDS, New York Oct. 8 (AP)).—Before the crumbling defenses of their rivals, the Yankees pounded out their third straight victory in the world series today, defeating the Giants 5 to 1 as the National leaguers committed four errors and their ace right-hander, Hal Schumacher, proved too wild to stop the enemy sluggers.

POLO GROUNDS, New York, Oct. 8—(AP)—The shell shocked Giants returned to-day to their home grounds hoping for better luck and a pitching performance by their right-handed ace, Hal Schumacher, that would halt the rampage of the Yankees, in the third game of the World Seiries.

The first right-handed duel of the series saw Monte Pearson, curve ball specialist, in the box for the Yankees. Pearson beat the Giants once last October.

The combined effects of the two-game losing streak of the Polo Grounders and a sudden cold snap hit the turnstiles a terrific wallop. The park was less than half-occupied at game time, with an estimated 25,000 fans on hand. This was the smallest turnout for any World Series game since 1933 when 25,727 paid to see the Giants and Senators on Oct. 5 in Washington.

Danning at the Plate.

The only change in the Giants' line-up was the battery. Harry Danning, though still bothered by a swollen throwing hand, was assigned to catch Schumacher. The Giants' captain, Gus Mancuso, who caught the first two games, also was a casualty. A finger on his throwing hand was badly damaged by a foul tip yesterday.

The Yankees transposed Selkirk and Hoag in the batting order, as a consequence of facing a starting right-hander. The batting order:

Umpires—Plate, Basil (A.L.); first base, Stewart, (N.L.); second base, Ormsby, (A.L.); third base, Barr, (N.L.)

FIRST INNING

Yankees—Crosetti walked on four straight balls. Danning squawked at Umpire Basil's decision. Bartell came in and Captain Gus Mancuso emerged from the bench to join the

Voters Make Sure In Ops Township

Lindsay, Oct. 8. (CP).

HILLRAY FITZPATRICK, D.R.O. in polling sub-division No. 1, Ops Township, in Victoria riding, confirmed a rumor today that there were more ballots in his box at the conclusion of voting than there were names on the voters' list.

"We found two extra ballots in the box and we are at a loss to understand where they came from, as we were very careful," he said.

DUCE TO ACCEPT CALL TO PARLEY

ROME, Oct. 8 (C.P.-Haavs)—Informed quarters said to-day Italy's reply to the Anglo-French invitation to a tri-partite conference on the withdrawal of foreign volunteers from Spain, the text of which probably will be issued to-day or to-morrow, will be in the form of an "acceptance in principle."

However, it was said Italy will make the following important conditions:

1—Recognition of belligerency rights of Spanish insurgents should come first.

2—Italy would refuse to participate in any negotiations in which Germany did not take part.

3—Italy would prefer to see the question of volunteers discussed oy the 27-Power London Non-intervention Committee.

4—Italy would oppose "any partial discussion."

Italian newspapers have printed indications that Italy's reply to the Anglo-French invitation would include a declaration that Italy shares the desire expressed by those countries to arrange a thorough disoussion of the Spanish Civil War.

The reply was expected to recall that in August, 1936, when the Non-intervention Committee was proposed by France, the Italian Government asked that non-intervention should include a ban on the sending of volunteers, arms, and money to the Spanish belligerents.

TRENTON, Ont., Oct. 8 (CP).—Though only 97 years of age, William Raycraft of Orland has been voting for the past 80 years, it was revealed here yesterday. He started when he was 17. "It was at Morganston," he recalled. "They didn't ask any questions and there was no oath taken then." Wednesday he exercised his franchise in the provincial election.

WOMAN, DAUGHTER CROSSING VICTIMS AS CAR HITS TRAIN

HULL, Que., Oct. 8 (CP)—An inquest will be opened today into the death of Mrs. Joseph Mathieu, 36, of Deschenes, Que., and her 12-year-old daughter, Rogette, killed last night when the automobile in which they and other members of the family were riding crashed against the side of Canadian Pacific Railway locomotive at a level crossing here.

Joseph Mathieu, 38, the father, suffered severe body injuries and a possible fractured skull.

Three other members of the Mathieu family and a friend escaped serious injury. They were Fleurette Mathieu, five, Genevieve, 17, and Agapit Mathieu, 14, and Donat Houle, 22, also of Deschenes, said to have been driver of the car.

Body of Rogette Mathieu was found a few yards away from Montclair Boulevard level crossing where the accident occurred. The body of the mother was found 50 yards below the crossing.

Genevieve Mathieu said the car was travelling at about 20 or 25 miles an hour and that she nor the driver did not notice the train approaching. Houle said he was not familiar with the highway and did not notice any sign indicating there was a railway crossing.

An investigation by railway officials disclosed the train had whistled as it neared the crossing, but as far as was known, none of the train crew had seen the automobile until it crashed into the engine. The train was brought to a halt within 50 yards.

Propose To Utilize Every Means To Whip Chinese

Gen. Matsui Promises Tokyo Early Victory "Enough Troops For Job"—Aim "Lasting Peace"

SHANGHAI, Oct. 8 (AP).—General Iwane Matsui, Japanese commander-in-chief on the Shanghai front, issued a proclamation today—the first official announcement of the Japanese invasion of China—which Chinese considered the equivalent of if not a diplomatically formal declaration of war.

Gen. Matsui said the Japanese army "is now prepared to use every means to subdue its opponents." In view of previous declarations of Japanese army and navy spokesmen, observers considered this the verbal prelude of Japan's threatened big push against the Chinese defence lines northwest of Shanghai.

Matsui, in the name of the Japanese Emperor, promised an early victory and a peaceful future after scourging the "Chinese government army who have been pursuing anti-foreign and anti-Japanese policies in collaboration with Communist influences." He added that the lives and property of Nationals of third powers would be protected.

His announcement came after army authorities made an implied threat to turn their land and warship batteries against Pootung and raze industrial area across the Whangpoo River from Shanghai unless Chinese batteries there ceased firing at Japanese civilian areas in the Hongkew sector of the International Settlement.

A Japanese army spokesman said the Japanese had avoided inflicting damage on the Pootung waterfront, largely foreign-owned docks and factories, but that, if the Chinese repeated last night's bombardment, they would be forced to take action.

Heavy Artillery Duel.

The duel between the Chinese batteries and the Japanese warships was severe. The concussion of the heavy shells shattered windows in scores of buildings on the waterfront, and shook the city to its foundations.

Japanese disclosed the first activity of their warplanes in North China in many days, asserting they had downed five Chinese planes in dog fights after a Chinese air patrol had attempted a surprise raid on Paotingfu, captured capital of Hopeh Province 80 miles southwest of Peiping.

Questioned concerning the significance of the proclamation an army spokesman explained that Matsui, after gathering the necessary military units, now considered himself qualified to carry out the mission entrusted to him by Emperor Hirohito.

The Japanese army, the spokesman said, was prepared to utilize all

FIND RUBBER RAFT ON HAWAII SHORE EARHART'S, ULM'S?

HONOLULU, Oct. 8 (AP)—A deflated rubber life raft tossed ashore at Hawi, northwest tip of Hawaii Island, spurred investigation today of its possible connection with the disappearance of Amelia Earhart on her ill-fated globe-circling venture.

The raft, bearing the trademark, "J. Lansing Callan Air Raft, the boat in the bag, Hammondsport, New York," was found yesterday.

F. Marvin Callan of Albany, New York, said Air Cruisers, Inc., of Hammondsport, N.Y., a firm controlled by his brother, J. Lansin Callan, had constructed a special rubber raft for Miss Earhart's around-the-world flight.

No numbers or printing other than the trade mark were discernible. The raft contained two seats and one pair of leather oar locks.

Not Navy Equipment

Lieut. Thomas G. Richards of the United States navy flight base here, indicating there was a possibility the raft was one carried by Miss Earhart, said he was positive it was not a navy raft. Officials of Pan-American's Hawaiian inter-island air lines said the raft was not one of theirs.

The Earhart plane disappeared in July in the vicinity of Howland Island, about 1,500 miles south of Hawaii. Ocean currents sweep toward Hawaii from the northeast. Lieut. Richards explained winds might have carried an inflated raft northward. It might then have become deflated, he said, by striking against rocks.

Lieut. Richards estimated the chocolate brown raft had been launched within six months.

George Palmer Putnam, husband of Amelia Earhart, in Los Angeles, expressed doubt the raft was from Miss Earhart's plane.

Thinks It Ulm's.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8 (AP).—Lieut. Frank K. Johnson of the U.S. coastguard, radio expert of the Amelia Earhart search, expressed doubt today the rubber life raft found on the shore at Hawi on the Island of Hawaii, was from Miss Earhart's lost plane.

"The prevailing currents in the South Pacific, where she was lost, are almost due west. That makes it seem extremely doubtful the raft could have been hers," the coastguard officer said.

Johnson suggested it was more likely the raft belonged to Australian Flight Lieut. Charles T. P. Ulm, who with two companions was lost near Hawaii in December, 1934, during an attempted flight from Oakland, Calif., to Australia.

Lad 14, Both Arms Amputated Draws, Writes And Rides

Sure Something Will Open Up In Life For Him When He Finishes School

WIARTON, Ont., Oct. 8 (C.P.).—Wiarton has a boy who plays football, umpires baseball, is skilled at drawing, writes well, rides a bicycle, and has his share of fun. Nothing unusual about that. But in this case the boy is Bert House who lost both his arms as the result of an accident seven years ago.

"They can who think they can" is the motto Bert holds before himself. It was inscribed in a book written by W. R. Watson, business man who lost his arms early in life, and who sent Bert a copy of the work. When Bert was seven years old he grabbed wires carrying 6,000 volts while playing on a roof. Amputation of both arms was necessary.

Bert still has trouble eating and dressing, but he thinks he soon will have mastered these arts. He writes and draws with a pencil held in his teeth. He even goes fishing, holding the pole between his chin and the side of his neck.

He has confidence in the future. He intends to make his own way.

"Something will open up by the time I leave school," he said. "I know it will."

Tobacco grown in Australia this year will weigh 4,000,000 pounds.

Woman 102 Drives 2 Miles, Votes Tory

Listowel, Oct. 8. (CP).

THE RESULT of the Ontario general election was disappointing to Mrs. Margaret Hamilton of Listowel, believed to have been the oldest person to vote in Wednesday's Balloting.

Mrs. Hamilton, who celebrated her 102nd birthday last Saturday, made a two-mile automobile trip to cast a vote for the Conservative candidate in Perth.

Hitler Arranges Audience Next Week With Duke, Duchess Of Windsor

Berlin, Oct. 8 (AP)

THE DUKE and Duchess of Windsor, reliable sources said last night, will have an audience with Chancellor Hitler early next week. He was expected to receive the former monarch and the Duchess during their scheduled three-day visit here.

Thereafter the couple was said to plan to depart on at least a 10-day tour of Germany to study low-cost housing, labor service and industrial and social measures. The visit was regarded as of a private nature.

The same sources said the Duke would receive all possible assistance to enable him to gain an insight into the social and economic structures of Germany.

He has announced he would make a similar study in the United States

FIND EMPTY CANOE, FEAR 2 DROWNED

KILLALOE, Ont., Oct. 8 (C.P.).—Two Killaloe men were missing today and discovery of their empty canoe in Golden Lake led to the belief they were drowned during a fishing expedition.

Roman A. Adelaide, 40-year-old harness maker, and Philip Harrington, 22, left here last night to fish at Black Point, three miles from the village, intending to return within a few short hours. Early to-day, Samuel Kruger started searching for them in a motor boat. The empty canoe was discovered and 50 more men in boats started an immediate patrol of the long shoreline of the lake, about 100 miles southwest of Ottawa.

Hepburn Considers Cabinet Make Up; Makes Rowe Offer

No Opposition If Any Tory Will Resign Seat Uncertainty Continues In York Over Henry.

TORONTO, Oct. 8 (CP).—Premier Hepburn kept his counsel today as to the personnel of his new cabinet while Ontario electors scanned incomplete, unofficial figures which indicated a record vote was cast in Wednesday's provincial election.

As the province awaited an announcement from Mr. Hepburn, at his farm home near St. Thomas, regarding the makeup of his new cabinet, a compilation by The Canadian Press showed the total vote from 9,748 of the 10,509 polls was 1,467,245. The complete vote in 1934 when a record was set, was 1,561,828.

The Liberal party received nearly half the votes and won 63 of the 90 Legislative seats. The two Liberal-Progressives, the Independent Liberal and the United Farmers of Ontario candidate elected were expected to support the government. The Conservative party obtained 23 seats.

In No Hurry.

Resting after a strenuous two-month campaign, Mr. Hepburn said last night he would take plenty of time to consider Cabinet reorganization. The Cabinet will meet October 12, but it was not expected announcement would be made at that time regarding changes.

The political future of Hon. Earl Rowe, Conservative leader, who resigned his seat in parliament to head the party, was uncertain. Mr. Rowe suffered personal defeat in Simcoe Centre where Hon. L. J. Simpson, Minister of Education, was returned to the Legislature with a majority of more than 1,000.

According to the Toronto Globe and Mail, Premier Hepburn will facilitate Rowe's entry into the Legislature. The paper today quotes the Premier as saying: "If any officially elected Conservative member cares to resign his seat in favor of Mr. Rowe, I shall facilitate matters and call an immediate by-election and ask the local Liberal Association of the riding concerned not to oppose Mr. Rowe."

Uncertainty Over Henry.

Nothing new developed last night to change the party standing. Additional, scattered returns from belatedly reporting polls did not affect the situation in several ridings where close votes brought conflicting claims from rival candidates. Uncertainty continued in York East.

There, former Premier George S. Henry held an unofficial majority of 216 votes over his Liberal opponent, H. J. McConnell. Mr. McConnell yesterday refused to concede Mr. Henry's election. Returning Officer Lyman Kennedy said the official result would not be known until Tuesday. Several polls still are to be heard from.

Liquor Control Act administration will engage the attention of Mr. Hepburn when he ends his post-election vacation next week. During the campaign he suggested a three-man non-political Liquor Board be established instead of the existing one-man commission—E. G. Odette. The Premier said yesterday he is ready to go ahead with his plan "to take the vexed liquor question out of politics."

HOGS, LAMBS DROP, CALF AND CATTLE PRICES HOLD FIRM

TORONTO, Oct. 8 (CP)—Cattle prices were generally unchanged in dull trading on the Toronto livestock market this week, the Dominion livestock branch reports. Calves also held steady while hogs dropped 50 cents cwt. and lambs 25 cents cwt.

The cattle run included 5,700 westerns. Ontario shipments were held back owing to the overloaded condition of the market. While prices were no better than at last week's close, the holdover of 2,000 from the previous week was reduced to about 1,000. The situation brightened somewhat with expectation of lighter western offerings next week.

Common to medium butcher cattle ranged from $3.50 to $5.50 and a few good butchers brought from $6 to $7. There were no heavy steers of good quality offered until Thursday, when a small lot sold at $9.75.

Fed calves held firm at $11.50 to $12 for choice with mediums downward to $8. Butcher cows were steady at $3 to $4.50 with canners at $2.25 to $2.50. A few good butcher bulls sold from $3.75 to $4.25 and bolognas traded up to $3.60. Some plain butchers were unsold by the close.

Store cattle trade was fairly active at steady prices. Ordinary stockers sold at $3.50 to $4.50 with picked feeders at $5 to $5.50. One load reached $5.75. Milkers and springers sold slowly at a general top of $65.

1,750 Western Calves.

Calf receipts included 1,750 heavy westerns. Western calves were the bulk of the supply, selling at $650 to $7.50 for good killers with stocker calves at $4 to $5.50. Veal calf trade was steady at $9 to $9.50 for choice and downward to $5 for common. Export shipments were again very light.

Hogs dropped 50 cetns cwt. and held steady at the close on Thursday's light run. Bacons closed at $9.50 off trucks with sows quoted at $3.00 to $6.50. The market feeling was still weak at the close.

The sheep and lamb supply included 480 westerns. Lamb prices opened 25 cents lower at $2 for good ewes and wethers and held steady for the balance of the week. Bucks sold generally at $7 and culls at $6 to $6.50. Sheep were steady from $1.50 to $4.50 cwt. Western breeding ewes were sold at $5 to $8 according to quality and age.

Early in the week it was announced the Toronto livestock market would be open Thanksgiving

Ontario Premier Hears Election Results

After a difficult and trying election campaign, Premier Mitchell Hepburn took a short rest on election night to hear the result as the facts and figures came over a telegraph wire at Masonic Hall in St. Thomas. The smiling premier, who incidently was returned to power with 63 seats out of a possible 90, is shown ABOVE as he read each word as it was typed out by the telegrapher, shown at the bottom of the photo. Alberta Liberal Leader Sweeps Bye-Election

Sees Result Beginning Of General Move To Defeat Aberhart

EDMONTON, Oct. 8.—(CP).—E. L. Gray, Alberta Liberal party leader elected to the Legislature in yesterday's Edmonton Provincial by-election, said in a post-election statement: "This is just the beginning of a general movement throughout the province which will result ultimately in the defeat of the present government."

Elected by a clear majority over his four opponents' combined vote, Mr. Gray will fill a vacancy created by death of G. H. Van Allen, Liberal. His candidature came at request of the Unity Committee of Liberals, Conservatives, People's League, United Farmers of Alberta, and Co-operative Commonwealth Federation.

Unofficial complete returns gave Mr. Gray 17,680; Mayor Joseph Clarke, People's Front, 9,738; Jan Lakeman, Communist, 1,714; Alderman Margaret Crang, Labor-Progressive, 1,309; and Rice Sheppard, People's Candidate, 245.

Keen interest in the contest and ideal weather resulted in a total vote far above the 19,416 figure for the June, 1936, Edmonton Provincial by-election when a Liberal also was elected.

In Grouard last year a by-election returned J. H. Tremblay, Liberal.

Chosen Leader in June.

Forty-two-year-old Mr. Gray, chosen Provincial Liberal Leader in June, campaigned on the sole issue of opposition to the "irresponsible" Social Credit Government.

Mr. Gray charged activities of the Provincial Government "have ruined Alberta's credit, retarded development, shattered confidence." He urged elimination of present "experimental tactics" and return to "sane, business methods" of Government.

A native of Grey County, Ontario, the Liberal Leader came west as a boy to a Saskatchewan homestead. In 1923 he came to Alberta following graduation grom the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph.

After serving on the staff of Alberta Agricultural Schools and as a district agriculturist at Hanna, he was appointed Provincial Field Crops Commissioner in 1930. Mr. Gray was appointed Deputy-Minister of Municipal Affairs in 1934, retaining that position until becoming manager of the Eastern Irrigation District at Brooks, Alta., in 1935.

closest competitor in the four-cornered contest. In 1934 his plurality was 3,222.

Hamilton - Wentworth returned Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Minister of Highways, with 11,427, which gave him a majority of 4,069 over both his opponents. In 1934 his majority was 2,793 over two candidates.

A. S. Gordon was re-elected as Liberal member for Kent West, with a larger majority than in 1934 when it totalled 4,879. In this election he polled 6,006 in 55 out of 102 polls compared with 1,696 by his opponent, A. W. Sanderson, Conservative.

M. D. McVicar, Liberal, increased his majority in Lambton East. In 1934 his majority was 2,406 but in this election—with three polls unreported—he collected 8,430 votes compared with 4,775 by his opponent, D. J. Matheson, Conservative.

With only 92 out of 125 polls in Sudbury riding reported, J. M. Cooper had nearly tripled the plurality E. A. Lapierre obtained as successful Liberal candidate in 1934. Cooper's plurality was 4,110 compared with Lapierre's margin of 1,604.

LEDUC PLURALITY TOPS ALL ONTARIO

TORONTO, Oct. 8 (CP) — Hon. Paul Leduc, Minister of Mines in the Hepburn government appeared today to have the largest plurality or majority of any candidate in the Ontario election.

The 48-year-old barrister, first elected to the legislature in 1934, polled 17,019 in Ottawa East compared with 3,852 for N. J. Lacasse, Conservative, and 531 for A. Denomme, the only Social Credit candidate in the province. Leduc's plurality over Lacasse was 13,167, compared with his plurality of 3,039 in the previous election.

Hamilton East, an industrial riding which provided one of the surprises of the election, elected J. P. Mackay, Liberal, with a plurality of 3,790 over Orville Walsh, Conservative candidate. Mackay's total was 4,918 greater than the 4,819 polled by Sam Lawrence, C.C.F., who won the seat in 1934 and ran third this time.

Two other Hamilton ridings gave large pluralities to Liberal candidates. W. F. Schwenger was re-elected in Hamilton Centre with 10,909 votes, a total 4,889 greater than B. W. Hopkins, Conservative, his

FIRE LOSSES DECREASE

TORONTO, Oct. 8 (CP) — Fire losses in Canada for the week ended October 6 are estimated by the Monetary Times at $113,250. This compares with $35,200 in the preceding week and with $219,550 during the corresponding week of 1936.

PROPOSE GERMANY BE GIVEN COLONIES ON MANDATE PLAN

LONDON, Oct. 8—(CP Havas)—A suggestion that Germany be returned at least part of her former colonies and let govern them under League of Nations mandates was advanced today in an open letter signed by Vernon Bartlett, diplomatic correspondent of the News Chronicle, Prof. Gilbert Murray, president of the League of Nations Union, Lord Noel Buxton, former minister of agriculture, and Arnold J. Toynbee, directed of studies of the Royal Institute of International Affairs.

The letter referred to the statement made by Charles Te Water, South African high commissioner to London, at Montreal in which he said in his personal opinion, his government would be disposed to participate in a conference to examine the question.

"Speaking as a citizen of a country which, like Great Britain, is administering part of the former German colonial empire, the high commissioner of South Africa to London has just pleaded in Canada for a speedy examination at a conference table of Germany's claims," the letter declared.

"In the hope Te Water's initiative may be followed up we venture to make suggestions regarding the conditions necessary for a satisfactory settlement and the possibility of reconciling these conditions with each other.

Two Conditions

"The first condition is that the natives of non-self-governing territories—both mandated and un-mandated—should not be sacrificed to the improvement of inter-European relations.

"The second condition is that in the matter of legitimate sources of supply, European powers should be placed upon a footing of equality.

"The second condition obviously calls for a revision of the colonial chapter of the Versailles Treaty, while the first forbids any relapse into unrestricted exercise of sovereignty.

"Both conditions can—we suggest—be satisfied simultaneously if the European powers can bring themselves to agree upon three measures.

"The first is that some at least of the former German colonies shall be handed back to the Reich to be administered by her—not under the pre-war regime—but under existing mandates.

"At the same time those European powers which possess Crown colonies should consent to placing at least an equivalent portion of those Crown colonies under a similar mandatory regime.

"Thus Germany will not find herself the only power asked to administer under a mandate colonial territory which previously were crown colonies.

"In the third place all non-self-governing territories ought to be thrown open to trade to all nations on equal terms—as the mandates are to-day and as British crown colonies were until yesterday."

EXPECT JAPANESE RENOUNCE TREATY

TOKYO, Oct. 8 (A.P.). — The Japanese Foreign Office announced to-day the "Imperial Japanese Government" was drafting a formal statement of Japan's attitude on her condemnation by the United States and the League of Nations for violation of the Nine-Power Treaty guaranteeing China's territorial integrity.

Reliable sources indicated Japan would denounce the treaty as obsolete and inapplicable in the present emergency. Japan, these sources implied, would refuse to participate in any conference of the treaty signatories.

"These are the national sentiments," the Foreign Office spokesman said. He declared, however, to say whether the Government's answer would be dictated by national sentiments. The time for issuing the statement was not announced, but it was expected to-night.

The Tokyo Stock Exchange, which weakened after President Roosevelt's speech advocating concerted action to "quarantine" aggressor nations, opened slightly stronger to-day.

FINDS JAIL TERM REAL MILLSTONE

DETROIT, Oct. 8 (CP)—A 10-year term in a Canadian prison followed Harold Goddard, Windsor, Ont., to Winnipeg and he was fired from a welfare project there in 1932, he declared in Circuit Court here yesterday before being sentenced for burglary to three to four years in Jackson prison.

"I do not, because of my previous prison record, speak for myself, but for the men who will soon be released from your Michigan prisons," the Canadian pleaded.

"The reason so many ex-convicts are repeaters is that nobody will employ a convicted man. The government does not seem to care what becomes to one. After I was released in 1932 after serving 10 years in a Canadian prison, I was sent to Winnipeg to work on a welfare project. As soon as the foreman discovered I had served time he fired me."

Goddard served overseas, enlisting at 16 and being wounded. He was arrested in Windsor, Aug. 12, stolen jewelry and silverware having been found in his home as well as a revolver owned by Lieut.-Col. Wm. G. Y. Masson, commanding officer of the Essex Tank Regiment, Windsor. He was convicted of looting Detroit homes.

ROOSEVELT STAND CHEERS ENGLAND

SCARBOROUGH, Yorkshire, Oct. 8. — (C. P.. Cable). — President Roosevelt's Chicago speech found welcoming words at the opening session of the Conservative conference here Wednesday.

"The speech which Mr. Roosevelt made a few hours ago expressed in eloquent language the same ideas that are in our minds," said Winston Churchill.

"I have no doubt it will be cordially welcomed by our leader, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, to-night. We should have no exaggerated expectation about American action, but this I will say, that an understanding so perfect, so spontaneous, between the two great branches of the English-speaking race is bound to bring an enormous contribution and consolidation to those forces in the world which stand for peace and freedom.

"Let us indeed support the foreign policy of our government, which commands the trust, appreciation and comradeship of peace-loving and law-respecting nations in all parts of the world."

RECORD SCORED AT FOWL SUPPER

(Examiner Correspondence.)

SELWYN, Oct. 8. — The annual fowl dinner of the Selwyn United Church was held in the church sheds on Tuesday evening, and despite the disagreeable rainy weather one of the largest crowds on record was in attendance. The long supper tables, covered with their immaculate white tablecloths and prettily decorated with autumn flowers were fairly groaning with the appetizing victuals and everyone was free to partake of all the food they wished.

The entertainment for the evening was presented by the Cheerful Workers' Bible Class of St. James United Church, Peterborough, and was in the form of a four-act rural drama entitled, "Valley Farm." The amateur players all enacted their parts splendidly and their efforts met with the greatest of approval. The cast was as follows:

Hetty Holcombe, a pretty young country girl who married Harold Rutledge, a wealthy young New Yorker, were played by Dorothy Drysdale and Ernest Davis; Isabel Corney, a rival to the heroine and a lovely but scheming blonde, was enacted relaistically by Dorothy Williams; Perry Deane, a handsome young farmer who was secretly in love with Hetty but had never told her so, was played by Eric Douglas; two very contrasting characters are seen in David Hildreth, a New York lawyer and uncle of the charming Isabel; and Silas Holcombe, owner of Valley Farm and father of Hetty. These two opposites were depicted by Henry Turner and M. H. Drysdale in their usual fine manner; Mrs. Rutledge, the interfering mother of Harold, and Alvira Holcombe, the typical old maid, were admirably done by Mrs. Drysdale and Mrs. Henry Turner; J. Lawson played a dual role, first appearing as Azariah Keep, suitor of Almira, and also as Jennings, the Rutledge butler. Lizy Ann Tucker, who borrows but never gossips; and Verbena, the hired girl at the farm, were made very realistic by the clever acting of Mrs. B. Kennedy and Norma May. Delightful Hawaiian selections were rendered between acts by two of the young ladies of the cast.

Rev. C. C. Miller acted as chairman and the evening was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

The many friends of Samuel Northey will regret to learn of the misfortune that befell him. On Sunday morning last, after attending the church service at Selwyn, he was cranking his car to return home when it backfired, causing him to break a bone in his wrist.

The anniversary services held in the United Church at Selwyn on Sunday last were very well attended, the church being almost filled to capacity both morning and evening. The W.A. had very beautifully decorated the church for the occasion with a profusion of cut flowers and house plants. The speakers were Kenneth Stewart of Wesley in the morning and Rev. Fred Craik of St. James' United Church, Peterborough, in the evening. Next Sunday will be the regular harvest thanksgiving service, when everyone will rejoice and give thanks for the bountiful harvest which has been bestowed upon us.

Well, What About It?

We regard it as highly significant that the government of United States should openly brand Japan as the aggressor nation in the undeclared Sino-Japanese war.

Significant too that Washington should officially declare that Japan had violated the Nine-Power Treaty Pact and also the Briand-Kellogg anti-war treaty.

It may be the world is well aware of the things contained in the United States' declaration. Any person who has read the news of recent weeks knows well enough the accusation is correct. The League of Nations has also named Japan as the aggressor nation.

United States has not in years given much inclination that it is minded to participate in world affairs. The doctrine of neutrality seems to have been uppermost. That and the Monroe doctrine relating to the protective attitude of United States toward the Latin countries of South America has just about completed the foreign policy of the country to the south.

It is one thing to make a declaration and quite another matter to do something about it. Japan knew within a short time about the attitude of the League of Nations; knew also word for word what had been contained in the plain-spoken message from Washington. But Japan can very well take the attitude she has taken before when world opinion was turned against her. Put into plain words it is merely this: "Well what are you going to do about it?"

The undoubted expectation of Japan is that she will be able to accomplish her military objectives inside of four months, after which she will proceed to dig herself in and take possession of the vast area which is being taken away from China. Japan knows from past experience that there is no threat or menace in words of condemnation. She has learned that what the world will say and what the world will do about what it says are two entirely different things. So far in all her exploits against China the Japanese have found nothing to stop them or even seriously embarrass them by way of outside interference. The protesting nations have not even cut off trade relations with Japan. They keep on purchasing all the cheap material she has to offer for sale.

So while it is significant that United States should speak plainly at the moment it does not mean that Japan will withdraw a single man from China or drop one less bomb upon civilian population. Japan has become hardened to protests because that country has learned they have worked no injury.

His Wife Was There

A report from St. Thomas tells of the manner in which Premier Hepburn gets the election returns. The method was the same in 1937 as it was in 1934. There is a room at the back of the Masonic Temple in St. Thomas and there Mr. Hepburn has a telegraph key put in, and the operator will sit there and take down the reports as they come from the wire. And there his wife sits with him. There are a few others who manage to make their way in, but an occasion of that sort would be pretty much a man-and-his-wife affair because a great deal is at stake.

When a political leader closes a campaign he knows well enough there is nothing more he can do about it. It remains for the people to go out and furnish the answer. And after they have finished marking the ballots it must be something like the arrival of zero hour before going over the top. Right in that small space of time between the closing of the booths and the announcement of the results there must be packed a good measure of suspense, uncertainty, hope and all such things. It may be that is why the Premier wanted to have his wife sitting there. He had staked his political future and he would be one of two places—in or out.

A candidate for any kind of office who has only one ward or one riding to look to experiences that same feeling just before the returns come in. A good many of them have told us it was the hardest moment of the campaign. But when a man's fate rests upon what an entire province has done we should think the suspense would be multiplied. In a time like that we believe any man would want his wife right there and not far away.

Best In The World

The Examiner is not boasting or stating anything which cannot be proven when it says that the publishers of this country through their own organization, the Canadian Press, have brought into existence the fastest and most accurate news service in existence. It is just a little better than anything of which we have record elsewhere. Perhaps a good deal better.

Elections took place on the 6th of October and the polls did not close until 7 o'clock in the evening. At 8.37 the same evening the Examiner leased wire carried this:

"Canadian Press concedes the return of the Liberal Government in Ontario."

And that was just one hour and 37 minutes after the most remote poll in the entire province had been closed. Everything which happened afterward merely emphasized the accuracy of that early forecast. The reading public has perhaps an inadequate idea of what it means to have a correct report from even a single riding. In Peterborough riding, which includes the city and the entire county, there are 138 polling places from which the Examiner has to secure reports, and arrangements have to be made in advance for each one of those places to have its report here as quickly as possible. In the northern part of the riding there are five polling places where there is no telephone service, and two of them are 16 miles from the nearest telephone service. And yet those outlying places with no telephone service had their reports in this office a few minutes after 9 o'clock.

We mention this riding not as an exception, but merely as an example of what is taking place all over the province, and many of the ridings in Northern Ontario would be much more difficult to handle than Peterborough. All the service which a newspaper can employ or devise is placed at the disposal of the central body, the Canadian Press. We do not have to think or bother about what is taking place in Port Arthur or down around Windsor or any other place. The Examiner merely concentrates on its own district, knowing that in every other district some other Canadian Press member will be doing exactly the same thing. All these reports go immediately to the head office in Toronto and with rapidity and accuracy all members receive in return all the reports from the province. When a province the size of Ontario goes to the polls and finishes its voting at 7 in the evening, and when our own Canadian Press service is able to announce one hour and thirty-seven minutes later that the government has been sustained, we have sure evidence of having brought into existence in this country a press service which is just a little better than exists elsewhere. So we make the plain statement: If there is any news gathering service in the world which can beat that then let it go ahead and show it can be done. There is no boasting in such a claim, but we do feel that we in Canada are a trifle backward at times in putting our own accomplishments sufficiently to the front.

Made His Own False Teeth

There was something in the papers about John Garrah of Gananoque, a gentleman of 82 years. Recently he was interested in some conversation which had to do with the making of false teeth from wood. Then it was Mr. Garrah spoke of his own problem and the way in which he brought successful solution to it. Thirteen years ago when he was working in the steel factory as millwright he was having trouble with his upper set of false teeth. He thought he could do better work himself so he made the mould in the moulding shop and a set of aluminum teeth were poured by the boss moulder. Mr. Garrah admitted the teeth were a little rough at the start, but he used a file on them. An expert mechanic can do wonders with a file and the man in Gananoque touched his up so successfully that they would not only bite but chew as well. The stoking of victuals became a matter which could be attended to with ease, comfort and 100 per cent. nourishment.

We fear the dental profession is going to find itself walking on hard ways if the custom becomes general of making one's own false teeth. There are some folk of course who will never attempt it because they have within them no skill; they cannot even hang a fly door without having it scrape badly at the bottom; they have no idea of how to fix the end of the electric cord which enters the toaster when the thing goes out of kilter; if they attempt to make a rustic seat it looks much like a summer cottage, and they cannot put in place a pantry shelf without loosening the side of the house.

But there are other men who seem to be quite handy at doing everything. If these folk start scampering off to moulding shops and pouring out sets of false teeth in aluminum, or iron or brass then it is going to be hard on the dentist. Or if it is found that a man who is handy with a jack-knife can whittle out a set for himself the situation will become even worse. If man were to find he could go and find himself a nice bit of hickory and create a set of false teeth there is the added danger that all his relatives would be sending for him to come and do a little visiting and bring his block of hickory and his knife with him. He might in that way become very popular. Our fall fairs may in future be moved to include a section where people can exhibit their false teeth. Whether they would go in the section for home-made articles or in the place devoted to the development of art we do not know.

As It Was On The Tenth

It was not a particularly pleasant day, but when there is a county plowing match the farm men are going to attend regardless of the weather. It was so when the plowing match took place on the H. Batten farm in North Monaghan on Thursday. And they talk about the same things as they did years ago. We heard them saying once more that match plowing was not practical; we heard them discussing how long should be allowed for building and patting down a crown and all such. Truth is if the plowing was done just the same at a match as it is nearly every day on a farm few people would go across the road to see it. A plowing match is somewhat of a show.

It was like that on the Tenth Concession. On the Batten farm there were some young Rocks running about in the farm yard and there was an older speckled hen that looked as though she was trying to get over her moulting before the cold weather set down in earnest. It was like that on the Tenth. Grandfather used to go to the plowing matches. There were plenty of chores and odds and ends in which he never was interested, but he was strong on doing the plowing. With rope lines around his shoulders he'd follow the plow in sod any day until the horses took to looking around to see if he were ready to quit and call it a day. He never was keen on letting any other person do any of the sod, although others could ride the gang-plow. Grandfather never would admit that was plowing at all; he'd be around to set the depth and watch the first furrow, then he'd leave.

But when it came to the time of the fall plowing match grandfather was there. And he had to have his own team; and his own rope lines. In later years when they started using the whole family for running along and packing the sod for the crown by hand grandfather was annoyed. He looked at it and said "Fiddlesticks!" And that was about as close as he ever came to strong language. He believed a plowman should go forth alone and unafraid and turn his own furrow and let the crown rest as it might.

Of course it's different now. A good many plowmen strap their pet plow on the side of the family car and they are off; they use a team about which they know little or nothing, while on the Tenth the team doing the plowing had to pull the wagon there and back and if any one wanted to go to the plowing match then it was a case of ride in the wagon or stay home. Few stayed at home.

Different too to watch a man of science testing soil in the big tent on the Batten farm and announce that most of the soil which he had put through that day was short of potash, and to hear him explain there would be about ten pounds of potash in a ton of barnyard manure. Such things were never heard of on the Tenth. Fertilizing was done by drawing out the manure to a field and putting it in little heaps here and there and afterward going out and flinging it about with a fork. And that wasn't such a bad job. If a person has any reason to work a bit of bad feeling out of the system we know of nothing much better than flinging manure for a day. But as to land needing more potash, more nitrogen or more phosphorous—such words never came to the Tenth. And perhaps had grandfather heard of such new fangled discoveries he might have said "Fiddlesticks!" once more. Truth is they are getting rather scientific out in the country at present.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Conservatives must often take a look at the Senate these days just to see a place where their party has a majority.

Much criticism has been levelled at the 1938 car markers, the color scheme being orange and blurr.

Leopold Macaulay was re-elected to the Legislature. That means of course that Leo polled enough votes to beat his opponent.

The horse may be disappearing but we notice where a Stratford man sold a riding steed for $2,250 and you can get quite a car for that amount.

A naval officer back from the Arctic says the Eskimos are the most cheerful folk in the world. They should be in view of the fact that they haven't the least idea what a tax collector looks like.

LAMENT

(By A. R. K.)

¶ I guess my memory's getting old, for I forget most things I'm told, and chores that should be done; and at the gas place I don't shop, and then my pink sedan will stop, and I can't make it run.

¶ And I get home all filled with grief, for I forgot to get the beef, I promised that I would; I walked right past the butcher's stall, and never thought of it at all, and that is none too good.

¶ And I forget to pay the rent, the landlord's such an urgent gent, he comes in after tea; and when I see him coming in, I start to gather up my tin, because he glares at me.

¶ When I start walking down the street, I meet with Joe or Jake or Pete, and they have much to say; they talk of horses that they back, and how they'll get their money back, though they lost yesterday.

¶ They whisper scandal now and then, and mention some important men, and tell me tales of grief; I take in everything that's said, my errands go from out my head, and I forget the beef.

¶ I guess I must be growing old, for I forget the things I'm told, my memory's good no more; upon my fingers I've tied string, and then I gaze upon the thing—and wonder what it's for.

FROM GERMANY come reports that the Nazi government is now organizing household economy, conformed to train wives for the picked of Hitler's biggest enemies.

War Minister Wernher von Blomberg has issued orders that no soldier may marry a girl who is not provided with a certificate of aptitude by the Organization of Mothers' Schools.

✧ ✧ ✧

The Mothers' School was originally formed a train wives for the picked troopers. The girls are taught how to keep house economically and to help the four-year self-sufficiency campaign. They are also given a political course and each student must serve at least six weeks every year in a service of "honor" such as the sanitary service or a similar branch of public work.

King George has decreed that portraits of himself, the Queen and their daughters should soon cease to appear on chocolate boxes and other articles offered for sale. The branding of goods as "King George VI" and "Queen Elizabeth" is also to stop.

✧ ✧ ✧

The restrictions were lifted for the Coronation and although later reimposed did not stop unauthorized use of the royal portraits. No objections have been raised to the use of titles or portraits of former sovereigns on articles which have always borne them.

A Desert Ruler.

THE MAHARAJAH of Bikaner, Sir Ganga Singh Bahadur, has been celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of his accession and 936,218, Hindus, Mohammedans, Sikhs and Jains have been participating in two weeks' rejoicing. Bikaner is the sixth largest Indian state. The Maharajah who is the 21st of his line which dates back to 1465 has done much for his state, people and his policy of irrigation has converted a desert-like land into fertile country.

✧ ✧ ✧

To give his hardy population of farmers, camel, horse and sheep rearers the water without which they must perish the Maharajah had built the Ghaggar and Sutlej Valley Canals the former coming from the Punjab irrigating a large section along the northern border.

The richest man in all Northern Europe is 56-year-old Axel Wenner-Gren. Ten years ago few even in his native Sweden knew of the man whose fortune is estimated at 100 million kronen, about $25,000,000, who is the managing director of the world-spanning Elektrolux Company and had lately become Sweden's cannon king.

An Unusual Appeal.

AT WELLS, Norfolk Eng. receiving home the wife of Thomas Dack, a school teacher was delivered of 2 tiny twin boys, (1 lb 13 ounces and 1 lb 14 ounces.) Milk for the youngsters was urgently required and Dr. Lillie, the attending physician appealed to a London hospital. It was found however that the supply could not arrive for hours so the doctor asked the B. B. C. to issue an S. O. S., a thing never done before in the corporation's history. The appeal went on the air and soon millions of listeners had been told of Mrs. Dack's plight.

✧ ✧ ✧

From her Chelsford home Mrs. Amy Abbott, lawyer's wife who had just weaned a child of her own set out by car on the rainswept 90-mile journey to Wells. By midnight the Abbotts mud-plastered car pulled up at the Dack home. But one twin was already dead and the other could only be sustained by oxygen and water. By morning it was dead.

✧ ✧ ✧

Opera singers who warble serenely through a long performance and have tantrums the next morning are not necessarily temperamental, a voice authority declares. Sustained vibration of the vocal cords can be so exhausting that a morning-after-the-night-before feeling is frequently unavoidable.

✧ ✧ ✧

Before he died G. Titus Barham who had been selected as Wembley's Charter Mayor wrote a cheque for £4,000. As a result when the borough celebrated its Charter Day a few days ago every resident was entertained to tea in the stands at the Stadium.

Cremations Increase.

FIFTY YEARS ago, high up on a Welsh mountain, Dr. William Price burned to ashes the corpse of his illegitimate son. Immediately prosecuted, he was, to general astonishment, acquitted, Justice Stephens declaring cremation was a legal method of disposing of human bodies so long as there was no nuisance.

✧ ✧ ✧

That was the beginning of cremation in England. Last year 11,289 bodies were burned in Britain, nearly 2,000 more than during the previous year and a short time ago the International Cremation Congress met at the Guild Hall, London with the knowledge that 110,000 cremations have taken place since the process was pronounced legal.

Believes Toronto Is a Trifle Ugly

"A Great City Is a Great Evil" Is Quoted; No Planning During the Earlier Days

(Toronto Globe and Mail)

DRIVING in almost any direction through the environs of Toronto, a thoughtful observer must be impressed by the inescapable fact that the dominant characteristic is ugliness. Here and there are beautiful views of quiet, unspoiled countryside. Here and there one sees the country estate of some wealthy citizen on which money has been lavished without thought of the cost. Elsewhere the dominant note is ugliness of man's creating.

Walk through the mile-wide belt surrounding the city's business centre, and the stark ugliness, heightened by decay and the prevailing human degradation, reveals the truth of Lord Bryce's statement: "A great city is a great evil."

Consider the city's next belt, the homes of the great mass of workers, miles and miles and miles of monotony, relieved only by the bits of grass and planting between walk and house.

Thirty miles from Toronto a farmer has recently divided into lots for summer residents a small portion of an attractive valley. He gets more for a fifty-foot lot than he could for an acre of arable land. The subdivision is on the usual lines, a row of lots without regard to the contours of the land or the natural beauty of the scene. Already eight or ten modest cottages are in place, mute evidence of the desire of thrifty Toronto workmen to escape with their families for a few weeks from the deadening monotony of city life. The cottages appear to be set down without relation to each other and without plans for improving the desirability of the site.

All this is as true of every large city in America as it is of Toronto. The cause of the cultivated ugliness, with its accompanying economic loss and social degraduation, is the uncontrolled exploitation and use of land. The remedy is town-planning. In many countries since 1900 the application of the science and art of town-planning has made great strides in improving the environment of urban life. Responsibility for its introduction in Ontario rests with the Government of the Province.

Says He Is Through Messing Around

Negro Aged 31 Has Spent 14 Years in Jail; Breaking and Entering His Life Work

(London Free Press)

AFTER SPENDING most of the past 14 years in jails, reformatories and penitentiaries, Albert Edgar Williams, 31-year-old Windsor Negro, told Magistrate Menzies in city court he was "through messing around."

Up for sentence on a charge of breaking into a Dundas street "auto-wash" shop, Williams pleaded with the court for leniency. He was convicted last week when police told of finding him at the back of the shop, where a window had been broken and the place entered.

"I know my record's bad," admitted Williams. "But I want to settle down. I'm tired of this kind of life."

"Well, I'll give you a chance to make good," declared Magistrate Menzies. "Perhaps you should go back to penitentiary, but I will give you six months in jail."

Here is the Negro's record for the past 14 years:

1923—At Windsor, 12 to 24 months for breaking, entering and theft.

1926—AT Windsor, 12 to 24 months for theft.

1929—At Toronto, three months for car theft.

1930—At Brockville, four to seven months for theft.

1931—At Windsor, 12 to 24 months for breaking and entering and theft.

1933—At Windsor, two years for breaking and entering and theft.

1935—Two years for breaking and entering and theft.

1937—On June 27, released from Kingston penitentiary.

MEAT PRICES.

(St. Catharines Standard)

EVEN lamb for stew, regarded as an expensive meat in New York City, is selling retail at 28 cents per pound. And if one wants an idea of the high cost of living in a big city the following New York prices may be impressive:

Porterhouse steak	.75 lb.
Sirloin	.58 lb.
Prime ribs of beef	.53 lb.
Leg of lamb	.32 lb.
Lamb chops	.50 lb.
Roast pork	.38 lb.
Pork chops	.32 lb.

There is one sure thing, that the wage-scale for the thousands of New York Workers is not in line with the meat prices as quoted in The New York Sun. If the best steak is 75 cents per pound, what would the price of chicken be?

The small city has its disabilities in some measure but are they to be compared to the advantages — Take raising a family in a big city; what a task even to provide a meal once a week on steaks, porterhouse or tenderloin!

A $10,000 BILL.

(Wall Street Journal)

FIFTY BILLS of the $10,000 denomination, no longer being made, are still being sought by the U. S. Treasury. If they are never found, Uncle Sam will be ahead that much money, but for eight years he has advertised for the return of these and others of the large-size paper money to be redeemed in smaller currency! It is inconceivable that anyone would keep a bill of this size merely as a souvenir. The only other explanation is that they must have been lost, misplaced or forgotten.

HELP AND RELIEF.

(Detroit Free Press)

RADIO is a great invention. It is a wonderful medium of information education, and esthetic enjoyment. It is an agency for bringing much that is great, good and inspiring into the home.

But also it has become a "sound track" for much which is cheap noisesome and even dangerous. Fakes, frauds and crudities have been allowed free course to a deplorable degree.

In Canada, the public and those in control of radio are doing something about it.

But in the United States, where protective regulations have been fragmentary, spasmodic and often inept, the Federal Radio Commission just doesn't seem to be able to find its footing.

Maybe it will some day. Goodness knows the listening public needs help and relief.

WEAKLING, HUH?

(New York World Telegram)

DR. WILLIAM A. CALDER, Harvard astronomer, checking up on the sun's performance as a cosmic warming-pan, finds him not so hot. He is sending out 30 per cent. less radiation than he should for a star of his class. And not so bright, either, giving only four-tenths of the luminosity generally accepted as standard. In fact, astronomers know the sun as a "G zero dwarf star," meaning he is yellow and of very low brilliance. By contrast we are asked to admire the moon for displaying greater reflecting power than she was supposed to possess.

Far be it from us to dispute with scientists, but if that sun wasn't doing his best in August we hope he never does!

"Why? Is the food so much better?" asked his friend.

"Oh, no, but I can give orders there," was the touching reply.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Oct. 8. (CP)—Large scale inter-market operations involving selling of Winnipeg wheat led to two-cent losses on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today in active dealings. Final prices were 1⅝ to 1¾ lower, October $1.22⅜, November $1.22¼, December $1.17¾-⅞ and May $1.17⅛.

Though moderate seaboard demand and mill purchases lifted prices nearly two cents at the start, an overflow of yesterday's selling orders quickly depressed prices.

Support after the first hour was generally light and when intermarket operations began prices dropped to the day's lowest levels near the close. Export business in Canadian wheat was estimated at 250,000 bushels.

Hoag Slides Into Second In Fateful Fifth Inning

Again a big inning for the Yankees spelled disaster for the Giants in the world series, and the Bronx Bombers took the lead, two games to none. Meryl Hoag is pictured sliding into second on his two base hit to start the fateful fifth inning which brought the undoing of Cliff Melton after four innings of brilliant pitching. Score of the second game: 8 to 1, the same as on opening day.

Hoag singled to left, Selkirk stopping at second. Lazzeri drilled a single to centre, scoring Selkirk and sending Hoag to third. Pearson walked on four straight balls as Schumacher lost anything resembling control. The bases were filled. Crosetti hit into a force play, Ott to Danning. The third baseman grabbed Crosetti's hopper near the foul line, but his throw pilfied Danning off the plate and the Giants' backstop was forced to tag out Hoag as the latter slid home. Rolfe fouled to Danning.

One run, two hits, no errors; three left.

Giants—Ripple topped a high bounder along the first base line and was out, Gehrig unassisted, on a close play. McCarthy lined to DiMaggio. Chiozza fouled to Rolfe near the third base coaching box.

No runs, no hits, no errors; none left.

THIRD INNINGS.

Yankees—DiMaggio flied deep to Chiozza, who made the catch a few feet in front of the centre-field barrier. Gehrig lined a hit of the right field wall and ran to second when Ripple threw to first base in an attempt to catch Lou. It was scored as a single. Dickey smashed a triple off the left field wall scoring Gehrig. Selkirk singled to right on the first pitch, scoring Dickey. Melton began warming up again for the Giants. It was scored a double. DiMaggio beat out an infield single to Ott, sending Rolfe to third. Gehrig flied to Moore and Rolfe scored standing up after the catch. Bartell out off the throw-in but DiMaggio held first base. Dickey forced DiMaggio, Whitehead to Bartell.

One run, two hits, no errors, one left.

Giants — Crosetti threw out Moore with the count three and two, making a nice stop of Jo's hard ground smash. Bartell rolled out, Crosetti to Gehrig. Ott fanned swinging. It was the fourth straight inning which Pearson had retired the Giants in order.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

FIFTH INNING

Yankees: McCarthy fumbled Selkirk's roller and the Yankee outfielder ran to second when a belated throw to Schumacher went wild. It was scored as a double error for McCarthy. Hoag singled to center on the first pitch, scoring Selkirk. Chiozza fumbled the baschit and was charged with an error which permitted Selkirk, who had hesitated, to score. Lazzeri farmer swinging with the count two and two. Danning threw to McCarthy in an attempt to catch Hoag and the first baseman fell to the ground as he caught the catcher's wild throw. Schumacher tossed to McCarthy. Pearson bounced out, Schumacher to McCarthy, Hoag advancing to second. Crosetti filed to Moore. One run, one hit, three errors, one left.

Giants: Ripple grounded out, Crosetti to Gehrig. McCarthy bounced out, Lazzeri to Gehrig. Chiozza bunted the first pitch along the first base line and beat it out for the first hit off Pearson. Danning forced Chiozza, Crosetti to Lazzeri.

SIXTH INNING

Yankees—Rolfe dropped a hit into short right-field for a two bagger. Ripple and Whitehead both ran for the ball but it fell between them. DiMaggio grounded out, Bartell to McCarthy, as Rolfe remained at second. Gehrig hoisted to Whitehead behind second base. Dickey bounced out, Whitehead to McCarthy.

No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Giants — Lazzeri threw out Whitehead. Wally Berger batted for Schumacher. Berger fanned, swinging at a fast ball. Moore drove a single against the left-field wall. Hoag handled the rebound so quickly that Moore was prevented from trying to stretch the hit. Bartell was called out on strikes with the count two and two.

SEVENTH INNING

Yankees—Cliff Melton, gangling rookie southpaw who was knocked out of the box yesterday, replaced Schumacher for the Giants. Selkirk filed high to Ripple on the first pitch. Melton stopped Hoag's hard smash, but threw wildly past McCarthy and Hoag ran to second on the error. Lazzeri was intentionally passed for the second time. Pearson grounded into a double play, Whitehead to Bartell to McCarthy.

No runs, no hits, one error, one left.

Giants — Ott lofted a high pop fly to Lazzeri on the first pitch. Ripple poked a single between Gehrig and Lazzeri. McCarthy dropped a double off the left-field wall and Ripple scored the first Giant run as Hoag juggled the rebound. Hoag was not charged with a misplay. Chiozza bounced out. Lazzeri to Gehrig as McCarthy ran to third. Danning was thrown out by Crosetti.

One run, two hits, no errors, one left.

EIGHTH INNING

Yankees: Chiozza took Crosetti's line drive. Rolfe walked on four straight balls. DiMaggio filed to Ripple, Gehrig hoisted to Ripple in short right.

No runs, no hits, no errors, one left.

Giants—Whitehead bounded out, Rolfe to Gehrig on a close play. Ledlie batted for Melton. Ledlie fouled to Dickey near the Yankees' dugout. Crosetti threw out Moore.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

NINTH INNING

Yankees—Don Brennan, a right-hander, went to the box for the Giants. Dickey lined to Ripple after two and one count. Selkirk popped to Ott just off the third base foul line. Hoag lined to Bartell.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Giants—Bartell lined to DiMaggio in left centre on the first pitch. Ott singed to left. Ripple forced Ott at second, Crosetti unassisted, but beat the relay to first. Gehrig made a nice catch of Crosetti's throw into the dirt. Ripple stepped on Gehrig's foot and Lou took a short time out. McCarthy walked on four straight balls.

Pearson's control appeared to be going to pieces and the Yankees took time out for a conference with their pitcher. Chiozza also walked on four straight balls and the bases were filled. There was another huddle by the Yankees and Pearson was taken from the box. Coach Art Fletcher came out to accompany Pearson to the bench. Johnny Murphy, right-hander and No. 1 relief man for the Yankees, replaced Pearson. Danning filed to DiMaggio in short left-centre. No runs, one hit, no errors, three left.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

A Real Feast for Thanksgiving Day.

Thanksgiving and homecoming! They seem synonymous, don't they? Sons and daughters bringing their friends home from school and colleges for the holiday weekend. Nature radiant in her autumn colors, and radiant faces around your table! Make this a real day in the life of your family, and serve a meal the memory of which will last till next year.

Here is a suggested menu that covers everything from cocktails to nuts, and the following recipes will show you how to dress up some of the old stand-bys to make them taste even better

Grapefruit Juice
Celery Olives
Roast Turkey with Coconut Stuffing
Giblet Gravy
Stuffed Potatoes
Buttered White Onions
Green String Beans
Cranberry Mold
Head Lettuce Salad with Russian Dressing
Pumpkin Pie
Nuts Coffee Raisins

Coconut Stuffing

2 bouillon cubes (chicken flavor).
1 cup milk, scalded.
1 cup soft bread crumbs.
4 tablespoons celery, finely cut (or ¼ teaspoon celery salt).
1½ tablespoonse parsley, finely cut.
2 cups coconut, premium shred.
½ teaspoon salt.
1 teaspoon scraped onions.
1 egg, slightly beaten.
¼ teaspoon sage.
2 tablespoons melted butter.

Dissolve bouillon cubes in hot milk. Combine with remaining ingredients, mixing lightly. Pack stuffing in loosely as it expands while cooking.

For stuffed potatoes, use large flat ones. Bake in hot oven (450 deg. F. to 500 deg. F.) 45 minutes, or until done. Remove from oven, cut lengthwise in halves, and scoop out inside. Mash, season with melted butter, salt and pepper. Add hot milk and whip until fluffy. Pile mixture into potato shells and bake in hot oven (450 deg. F.) 5 to 8 minutes, or until browned. Stuffed potatoes are a wise choice for a large dinner because they can be prepared ahead of time and simply heated in time for dinner.

The cranberry mold will be a delightful change from ordinary cranberry sauce. It's new, delicious and lovely to look at.

Cranberry Mold

1 package quick-setting lemon jelly powder.
½ cup celery, finely cut.
1½ cups warm water.
½ cup canned crushed pineapple.
1 cup thick cranberry sauce, sweetened.

Dissolve jelly in warm water. Chill. When slightly thickened, add celery, pineapple and cranberry sauce. Turn into mold. Chill until firm.

The Russian dressing for the salad is made by combining:

1 tablespoon chili sauce.
1 tablespoon pimento, finely chopped.
¼ teaspoon paprika.
¼ teaspoon vinegar.
½ cup mayonnaise.

Pumpkin Pie.

1½ cups coconut, premium shred.
2 cups cooked mashed pumpkin.
1 cup sugar.
½ teaspoon mace.
½ teaspoon cinnamon.
½ teaspoon allspice.
3 tablespoons melted butter.
3 eggs, slightly beaten.
2 cups milk, scalded.

Line a 9-inch pie plate with pastry, rolled to ⅛-inch thickness. Combine ingredients in order given and mix thoroughly. Pour into pie shell. Bake in hot oven (450 deg. F.) 20 minutes; then decrease heat to moderate (350 deg. F.) and bake 30 minutes longer.

Coronation Lecture At Campbellford

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 8.—Coronation pictures and lecture will be presented in the basement of the church on the evening of November 9th according to a report of the meeting of the Women's Missionary Society held in the ladies parlors of St. John's United Church on Tuesday. The society has decided to cooperate with the Men's Club in sponsoring this event which is being anticipated with considerable interest.

Nearly thirty members attended the meeting at which the president, Mrs. Chas. K. Stephen reported that the fall bale had already been packed and forwarded to its destination. Bales for the drought-stricken area of the West are to be packed in the Sunday School rooms on Oct. 14th.

Mrs. Southworth's group provided the program which was introduced by Mrs. A. J. Armour. Scripture passages were read by Mrs. Chappelle, Mrs. E. C. Roberts, Mrs. Hutcheon, Mrs. J. D. Mills and Mrs. A. D. Bennett. Mrs. A. L. Malcolm gave an inspirational address on "The Results of Victorious Living." Mrs. Armour and Mrs. E. H. Greig gave the study book and a vocal duet by Mrs. Shapter and Miss Jordan brought the program to a close. The meeting was concluded with a hymn and prayer by Mrs. H. B. Neale.

SOUR MILK GOOD.

Sour or buttermilk in quick breads produce a texture and tenderness different from sweet milk; they are preferable for pancakes and cornbread.

Prints Are Chic For Entire Year

(By Central Press)

PRINTS, which have been so popular and colorful all through the spring and summer, will be just as good through the winter. They are bright and cheery to wear under the fur or fur-trimmed coat.

Mary Livingston, screen and radio player, is shown wearing one of the prettiest of the all-year-round print dresses which has full skirt, short sleeves and leather belt.

The ground of the print is black, with a novel pattern of calla lilies and purple lilacs, which makes an interesting color combination.

Thanksgiving Day Subject of Talk

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 8. — The annual celebration of Thanksgiving as founded by the Pilgrim Fathers was the subject of an address given before the Women's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Tuesday afternoon last.

Rev. B. Simpson Black, the speaker indicated that the causes for gratitude were many this year and might well be exemplified by a spirit of generosity to those who were in great need in various parts of the world. Mrs. A. G. Thompson, the president presided over the meeting which was well attended, it being the Thankoffering meeting. Following the opening hymns Mrs. W. W. Rutherford gave the treasurer's report and Mrs. F. Adamson the secretary's report. An appeal on behalf of those in the drought stricken area of the West was made by the supply secretary, Miss E. Buchanan, who reported that the emergency bale would be sent again this year.

The scripture reading for the afternoon was given by Mrs. St. John and Mrs. Raymond Free led the meeting in prayer after which Miss Hazel Atkinson gave a vocal solo accompanied by Mrs. John Storie.

Western Aid Asked

Citizens of all religious denominations are being asked to aid the people in the drought stricken area of the West with foodstuffs of all kinds. At a meeting held in the Public Library which was attended by representatives of the various churches in both the town and country it was made known that a car will be left on the C.N.R. siding on Oct. 20 and 21st for the purpose of receiving donations. It was arranged to have all donations either of cash or food placed in charge of Mr. A. D. Bennett, chairman of the Committee or any of the local clergy.

Politeness killed Kenneth Bamford, aged 18, of Melbourne, Australia, when he stood up to offer his seat to a woman in a train and fell through the car door.

CONSTIPATION MAY LEAD TO COLDS

Every doctor will tell you the first thing to do to avoid suffering from colds—is to be sure you are not constipated. Constipation clogs up the system. It weakens resistance, and infections take hold.

End common constipation by eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN regularly. This cereal supplies the "bulk" your system needs for normal, natural action. It also gives vitamin B to tone up the intestines—and iron for the blood.

In the body, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN absorbs twice its weight in water. It forms a soft mass, which gently exercises and sponges out the intestines.

Eat two tablespoonfuls a day, either as a cereal with milk or fruits or in cooked dishes. Chronic cases with each meal. Will help you stay regular without having to take pills and drugs—that often make conditions worse.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold at all grocers. Made and guaranteed by Kellogg in London.

Suits Are Smart The Year 'Round

By LISBETH

The suit's the thing to make a girl feel like a king, to paraphrase Hamlet's remark about the players. Only, of course, it should be to make a girl feel like a queen.

For the suit this season is the height of fashion. Time was, as the posts say, when a suit was a spring or fall costume made of woollen material. If you lived in a climate or were so warm-blooded that you could wear a suit all winter, you had a heavy woollen suit with fur trimmings. But now—such suits are worn the year 'round, silk, cotton, linen, etc., for summer, lightweight woollens for fall and spring, and the same type under a heavy coat when the zero days arrive.

Now here is such a suit worn by Joan Fontaine, who is being mentioned as a possible star of future films. It is a perky tailored suit in postman blue flannel, and is worn with a blouse of pale blue which is saddle-stitched in the darker blue.

Her felt hat matches the blouse and is trimmed with a grosgrain band to match the saddle stitching of the blouse.

Contrast in Suit

Then there are the new suits that have dark, or, at least, solid color wool skirts and jackets that either are in color—one or several—or resemble blouses with fur bands or braid trimming, and have a smart military appearance. These are the smartest of the present period, and are the type that weather the winter season under the heavy cloth or fur coat.

That rage for contrast in a costume has found an outlet in this type of dress.

GLYCERINE HELPS.

When you wash your fine silk undies, if you add a little glycerine to the last rinse water, the garments will be softer and more pliant when dry and keep that "new feeling." Glycerine is widely used in silk and rayon processing and finishing.

Fashion Service

This town or country top coat of neutral tweed is a "fashion must" in every smart wardrobe. A splendid "mixer," too. It's a coat that can be worn over almost any dress and over sweater and skirt outfits, besides your sports suit. School and college girls fairly live in the reefer type with fly front closing. Four pockets are a practical feature of this dashing little coat that dispenses with a collar. You'll think you've been dreaming at the low price after you've finished making this easy to sew coat.

Style No. 3167 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40-inches bust. Size 16 requires 2⅞ yards of 54-inch material with 2½ yards of 39-inch lining for longer length coat.

HANDBAGS DRESS FOR WORK

Even the Children's Bags Show Season's Trend to Utility With Decoration

By LISBETH

HANDBAGS have a decidedly utilitarian part to play in life, but how they dress up to play it! A woman is always intrigued with a new bag, and the new bags are certainly intriguing, fitted up with all the gadgets imaginable.

David Lewis, an American handbag designer, made the bag shown at the left of our picture, ensembling it with gloves and giving them a Midas-like touch with gold gussets set in the front and back of the skirt-type bag, and gold between-the-finger sections in the hand-stitched gloves. The bag is made of softest antelope.

These accessories are part of a costume which consists of a simple black afternoon frock, with two gold clips at the high throat-line, and a black hat.

Handbags for children have many of the smart touches that characterize those for their mothers. Their designs are given a great deal of thought and consideration. They are made of sturdy leather-like materials in the high style colors of the season. Change purses, tiny mirrors and miniature combs are included in the fittings.

Right, a little girl carries a smart handbag much like mother's, containing change purse, mirror and comb, with her checked woollen coat and bowler hat; left, bag and gloves with gold gussets.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

The habit of expectancy always marks the strong man. It is a form of attraction; our own comes to us because we desire it; we find what we expect to find, and we receive what we ask for.—O. S. M.

Dear Friends:

Doesn't this seem a hard quotation to believe? How many things have we had that we never looked for nor expected? How often we cannot see where our own has come to us in any way, shape or form.

But, wait a minute, think it over and see if what you truly desired did not have to come through someone else, someone you depended on, someone whose duty it was to see, in a manner of speaking, that you got what you desired. There's the rub, and the rock so many of us perish on.

Try reaching out on your own, try praying for things to come directly to you, try the psychology of using all your Divine power that God has given you, and see where your own will truly come back to you.

But, if you pray and think you won't be heard, where is your expectancy? If you wish and think you will not get it, you are in both cases getting what you have truly expected, failure.

Within the last year or two my life was utterly changed, all the old landmarks swept away. Sorrow and anguish of spirit was with me night and day, coupled with lack of understanding for those outside of my life.

So, I asked for certain things, and I got them from God. But the trouble was I did not ask for enough, I limited myself to the things I had asked, not realizing it was not nearly enough. The remedy is, of course, that I have to ask for more.

Are you wondering if I shall get them? Or what they involve? Would I dare ask God for money? Surely I would, and I shall get it. So sure am I that I am already planning on what I shall buy with it when it comes. God told us to take no thought as to what we shall eat or what we shall drink, or what we shall put on for clothes.

But He knows we shall be embarrassed if we cannot pay the rent, or the grocer or the milkman. Not only embarrassed but have to get out, or get no food or drink. So, I leave it up to Him, and He has never disappointed me yet.

Now I am living in expectancy of its coming, and shall tell you of it when it comes. My own shall come back to me in the form of prayers answered, wishes fulfilled, desires granted. I told you before that if you were content with a rag-bag kind of life, that is all you will get.

How will it come? Don't ask me. Might as well ask what sort of a day it will be a year from now. I never bother about how it will come but when, so I keep thinking maybe it will come today, and if not, maybe tomorrow, so that I have that to look forward to.

And don't get it into your head that because I know psychology of living that I am a sort of superwoman. I am just like yourself, but I do take God at His word, I ask and expect to receive. Sometimes it seems as if God had forgotten what I asked Him for, but just when I need it along it comes.

I have been asked if I am a spiritualist, or belong to the Oxford Group, or some other kind of new form of religion. No, I am just an ordinary church-goer like yourself, sometimes I do not go at all. You see, no matter what sect you belong to, you have to find God for yourself, no man, or body of men can do it for you. They can help you by showing the way, but that is all.

You have to do your own breathing, walking, eating, sleeping, etc., so how in the world can you expect someone else to find God for you? More later? Sure.

ROBERTA

Gen. Matsui's proclamation declared:

"Charged by His Majesty the Emperor with the task of heading the Shanghai expeditionary force, I have landed on Chinese soil south of the Yangtze River.

"The objectives of the Japanese expeditionary forces, as clearly set out by the Japanese Government's statements, are not only to protect the vested interests of Japan and the lives and property of Japanese residents of the affected area, but also to scourge the Chinese Government army who have been pursuing anti-foreign and anti-Japanese policies in collaboration with Communist influences.

"In short, the mission of the Japanese army is to establish the foundations for a firm and lasting peace in East Asia.

"We feel sorry for the many innocent persons who unfortunately are living in the area of hostilities, and it goes without saying the Japanese army has no enmity toward the Chinese people in general.

'However, against those who bear arms against Japan the Japanese will show no mercy.

"Toward officials and nationals of foreign powers who have suffered in the hostilities or are threatened with injuries to their persons and property, we express our deepest sympathies.

"The Japanese army will leave nothing undone to respect and protect the lives and property of nationals of third powers.

"With the close cooperation of the naval forces, the Japanese expeditionary force is determined to clear the skies of ominous clouds and I am confident the day is not far off when the light of peace will shine again."

TWEED, Oct. 8—Mrs. Alex. Reid formerly Miss Jennie Chambers, passed away at the home of her sister, Mrs. Stewart Best, Vancouver, B.C. Death resulted from a stroke.

Mrs. Reid was born in the Township of Madoc, on June 9, 1860. She was married in Toronto in 1889, and from there went to the United States to live for several years. Later they moved to Benito, Manitoba, in 1902, on a farm, afterwards moving into the village. In 1928 they moved to Vancouver, B.C., where her husband died four years later.

At the time of her death, Mrs. Reid was spending a vacation in Benito, Man. The funeral services were held at the Pentecostal Church on Sunday. She leaves to mourn her passing, three sons and three daughters: Harry of Florida, Glen, Fred, Gladys and Elizabeth, all of Vancouver, B.C.; Mrs. Lottie McMaster and Miss Marth Chambers of Havelock are sisters of the deceased.

MRS. ELIZABETH GRANT.
(Examiner Correspondence.)

APSLEY, Oct. 8.—The funeral of the late Elizabeth Grant was marked by a very impressive service at St. George's Church, Apsley, on Tuesday afternoon, October 5. The late rector of St. George's, Rev. C. A. G. Spence, was asked by the deceased's son, W. A. P. Grant, to take the service, assisted by Rev. F. McMullin. No funeral sermon was preached, by special request. The mourners were W. A. P. Grant and Hubert James and family, with whom she had lived for the last eight years. She was born in Manchester, England, and came to this country when 12 years old with her parents, who settled at Bancroft, very near the Eagle's Nest, later removing to Cardiff, where she was the first white woman to live there. She later came to Apsley with her parents. The late Canon Harding and his wife, Canon Harding, was the pioneer missioner of the Apsley mission.

She married the late Dr. Grant, who served Apsley many years ago, as one of the doctors of this district; two sons, Charles, who predeceased her in about 1913, and William, who resides at Englehart, Northern Ontario. Mrs. Elizabeth Grant is one of our many grand pioneer women and was greatly known and loved in this district. Eight years ago, she met with a painful accident, breaking her hip, which never healed, confining her to bed for all that time. She attained the 90 mark last April. She is survived by her son, W. Grant, of Englehart, and five grandchildren; also one sister, Mrs. Willis, and her nephew, Phillip Willis.

The bearers were Messrs. Frank Tanner, Harry Tanner, George Tanner, Charles Smith, Norman James and Robert James.

TO BAN BARBED WIRE

The Province of Buenos Aires, Argentina's largest cattle raising state, is considering a decree banning the use of barbed wire for fencing because the barbs mark cattle hides and may seriously injure the animals' health.

MUSIC TEACHERS ELECT OFFICERS

TORONTO, Oct. 8.—Immediate registration of music teachers with a view to obtaining some kind of legislation was favored by delegates at yesterday's closing session of the Ontario Music Teachers' Association at the Royal York Hotel.

In a paper from Professor J. D. Ketchum of the Department of Psychology, University of Toronto, the music teachers were told that a large number of music pupils, after years of stodgy teaching, never wanted to touch a piano keyboard again.

"What do we do to these kids to make them hate what should be a joy?" he asked. "Music teachers have not been successful in making the taking of music lessons anything more than a fashion."

Officers elected were: President, Harvey Robb, Toronto Vice-President, Miss Cora B. Ahrens, Stratford; Secretary, P. G. Marshall, Simcoe; Treasurer, George Lambert, Toronto; Council members: Dorothy Allan Park, Peterborough; Miss Jessie Hill, Guelph; Frederick Newman, London; Dr. Charles Peaker, Toronto.

Team 1—S. J. Black; 2—Charles Lacheur; 3—J. A. McKone; 4—J. W. Thompson; 5—Ken Kingston.

Back To Birthplace After 57 Years

QUEBEC, Oct. 8 (C.P.). — Lady Victoria Braithwaite hasn't seen her birthplace in 57 years, so she's "quite excited" at the prospect of visiting Rideau Hall again.

Just 60 years ago, she was born in the residence of Canada's Governor-Generals. Her father was the Earl of Dufferin, Viceroy from 1872 to 1878.

She came back to Canada yesterday for the first time since she left it as a youngster of three years. With her was her husband, Colonel Francis Braithwaite, of Denham, England.

"Ottawa must have grown very much since I left," the grey-haired lady said as she and her husband came ashore. "I shall be quite excited, I think, to see my birthplace."

Colonel and Lady Braithwaite won't see Ottawa, though, until they return this way from a coast-to-coast tour of the Dominion.

W. Y. Scollard and Hal Barker believe that Mrs. Tony Fabian, Armour Road, may have been the oldest voter in the riding Wednesday. She is ninety-five years old, and when taken to an Ashburnham poll by the two Liberal workers she was quite interested in voting and keenly understood every detail of it. Mrs. Winnifred Elliott of 567 Aylmer street, an aunt of the member elect who is in her 94th year, cast her first provincial ballot on Wednesday and won her vote.

DR. BANNISTER SPEAKS AT LINDSAY

LINDSAY, Oct. 8.—At the opening session of the Victoria County Teachers' Convention here yesterday, Mayor Logan in welcoming the delegates, stated that, in his opinion, the pupils now turned out from the schools knew nothing of the art of living. The present system of education, he declared, was all right years ago, but times have changed and the teachers should recognize this as well as consider it when directing the pupils. At the afternoon session Dr. J. A. Bannister, of Peterborough, gave an address on "The New Course of study."

An irregularity in voting at Subdivision No. 1, Ops, in Wednesday's election has been reported to Returning Officer Campbell. It seems that two more ballots were cast than names on the roll, for this particular poll.

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Oct. 8 (C. P.). — Appointment of P. M. Dewan, Liberal member for Oxford, as Minister of Agriculture in Premier Hepburn's new Cabinet was urged in a statement issued to-day by M. M Kneale president of Woodstock Liberal Association.

Face Possible Recounts In Toronto

Closely following announcement of official returns in the Ontario election came two notices of possible recounts, one from Joseph B. Salsberg, Labor candidate in St. Andrew's riding and the other from Russell Nesbitt in Bracondale riding. Both constituencies were closely contested with J. J. Glass (LEFT), Liberal candidate defeating Salsberg by 179 votes and Lionel Conacher, (RIGHT), former "Big Train" of sport, running on a Liberal ticket, nosing out Nesbitt by 47 votes. Nesbitt charged irregularities in voting and declared he would take his case to the Supreme Court of Canada. Salsberg declared he planned to "reveal the kind of tactics used in this riding to win at any cost."

May Be Given Portfolios In Ontario

Reorganization plans of the Ontario cabinet which will be put into effect within a few weeks by Premier Mitchell Hepburn, will likely include A. St. Clair Gordon, (LEFT), successful Liberal candidate in West Kent, and W. L. Houck, (RIGHT), Liberal candidate who defeated three other candidates in Niagara Falls. The new cabinet is expected to include a three-minister addition to the government and the appointment of a non-physician for the ministry of health.

Message From Rev. L. McAuliffe Picked Up By Short Wave Set

Radio Enthusiast Picks Up Message From Priest In War-Torn Shanghai

Sitting at his receiver at station W6BQ0 in Hollywood recently an amateur radio enthusiast picked-up a message out of the ether from war-torn Shanghai, which he relayed by air mail to the Peterborough family to whom it was directed.

The message was from the Rev. L. McAuliffe, an old Enniamore boy, who has lately been stationed at a Catholic mission outpost at Lushui about 250-miles from Shanghai to his aunt, Mrs. James Guiry, 502 Water street.

Originating from radio station XUBAG Shanghai, the message states:

"Living in Shanghai French concession and safe. Don't worry. Inform my father and friends. Mail uncertain. Please reply. Rev. L. McAuliffe."

Father McAuliffe received his early education in Enniamore and at St. Peter's High School here. Following his ordination in recent years he went to the foreign mission field in China.

The message was received by Mrs. Guiry from W. S. Gould, 1519 Poinsettia Place, Hollywood, California. It came on an official-looking form headed "The American Radio Relay League—Radiogram via Amateur Radio."

A footnote on the radiogram form states:

"Your reply to this message will be handled without charge by the receiving station whose address is shown above. Amateur radio operators and members of the A.R.R.L. licensed by the Federal Communications Commission offer to the public a message service to any part of the U.S.A., its possessions and Canada. As messages are handled by radio amateurs solely for the pleasure of operating, no compensation can be accepted by a station owner, so delivery is not guaranteed by the League or its members."

The Rambling REPORTERS

POPULATION INCREASED.

"I don't know," Utilities Manager Ross Dobbin confessed frankly when asked to-day what rabbit population the latest census at the Filtration Plant zoo revealed. He said offspring of the original pair of bunnies contributed to the zoo by a well-meaning citizen last spring now number somewhere in the neighborhood of twenty—C.P.K.

A good post-election story is going the rounds to the effect that on election day a shopper at Elliott's Drug Store commenting on the fact that the proprietor was not in evidence, remarked: "I suppose Mr. Elliott is busy electioneering to-day. I hope he gets in. I have voted for him." —R.

REPUTATION HAS ADVANCED.

Chief Dan Whetung of the Curve Lake Indian Reserve issued his annual winter weather prediction in an interview with the press early this week. He predicted the first snow of the season would likely come within ten days. It came yesterday, just a light flurry but nonetheless snow. For Saturday, October 9

A rather enterprising and active day, particularly in employment and new projects, is the augury for this period based on side-real operations. However, paramount interest may be centered on social functions, domestic matters and affairs of the heart. The latter should furnish much relaxation and gratification.

Those whose birthday it is will find a fairly enterprising year ahead of them, especially in connection with plans for new projects and employmeit. However, matters of artistic, social and domestic concern may prove of paramount importance. Friendship and affectional affiliations may offer happy diversions.

A child born on this day may be active, practical and energetic and also possess personal graces and be proficient in social and romantic arts.

SUMMER COTTAGE DESTROYED BY FIRE DOGS ARE BURNED

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Oct. 8.—A fire of unknown origin completely destroyed a summer cottage, a quarter mile east of this village at 11 a.m. Thursday, owned by Vincent Bassman of Toronto. Mrs. Watson and Mr. Bassman's son Cyril were occupying the cottage but were not present when it took fire. When first noticed the fire had gained quite a start and although the cottage was only 150 feet from the river it was found impossible to check it.

Three Irish terrier puppies, two of which had been sold for $35.00 and the mother, were lost. A quantity of bedding and clothing was saved, however.

A can containing a quantity of gasoline becoming ignited in some unknown manner, is the only clue advanced, as to what started the fire.

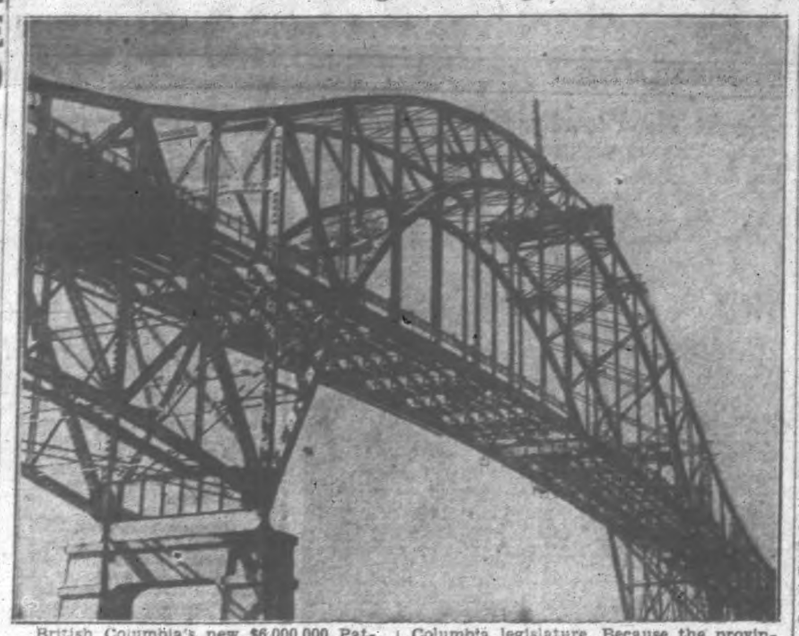
New Vancouver Bridge To Be Opened Shortly



British Columbia's new $6,000,000 Pattullo Bridge over the Fraser river at New Westminster will be officially opened on November 9, by Premier Pattullo, after whom it is named, and all members of the British Columbia legislature. Because the provincial house will be in session at that time a special adjournment will be taken so that all members will be able to attend. The bridge shown ABOVE, is of steel construction and is 200 feet above the river.

DOUBTS BENEFIT OF NASAL SPRAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (CP).—Dr. Maurice Brodie, young Canadian scientist, who has dedicated the last seven years to a search for a medical barrier against infantile paralysis, doubts the effectiveness of the nasal spray in combatting the disease.

He told the annual meeting of the American Public Health Association here yesterday that while the spray was effective in protecting laboratory monkeys, results were not encouraging so far as human beings were concerned.

Dr. Brodie, an Ottawan now connected with Providence Hospital in Detroit, said infantile paralysis, at least among experimental animals, is strictly a nerve-carried disease. Tests on macacus rhesus monkeys showed the virus did not travel in the blood or lymph. He emphasized the information had not been tested on human beings and said that there might be a difference.

Some delegates saw in the report a possible explanation of the failure of the $100,000 campaign New York State conducted against the disease in the 1931 epidemic. Immunization by serum, a treatment dependent upon lymphogenous or haemotogenous spread of the virus, proved unsuccessful on that occasion.

Dr. Brodie also told the delegates his experiments indicated there might be more than one strain of paralysis virus, and that neither convalescent serum nor any other available measures of treatment offered any hope for the prevention or limitation of paralysis in treated cases.

AMERICAN FLIER RECEIVES PARDON

SALMANCA, Spain, Oct. 8 (UP)—Harold E. Dahl, American aviator, sentenced to death by a Spanish insurgent court-martial, was pardoned tonight by Generalissimo Francisco Franco. He arranged to go as soon as possible to his bride, who walked across the French frontier.

It was indicated that the 28-year-old flier from Champaign, Ill., who wept with joy at the news, would be released within a few days from the whitewashed prison cell where he has been held since his Loyalist plane was shot down behind the insurgent lines on July 12.

Franco's pardon, announced simultaneously with the death sentence recommended by six officers of the court-martial, was said to have been influenced by the Generalissimo's desire to promote friendly relations with the United States.

He Was Afraid To Cross a Street

Lost His Nerve After 12 Months' Agony

Suffering from acute rheumatism in both his knee joints—treated in hospital twice without result — so unnerved that he was afraid to cross a street—how readily every rheumatic sufferer will sympathize with this man. Read what he says:

"For 12 months, I suffered pain and misery with acute rheumatism in both my knees. Twice, I was treated in hospital—but it was no use. I could not walk up or downstairs. I was afraid to cross the street, for I had lost all confidence in myself. Fourteen days ago, I started taking Kruschen Salts, and already I am a new man. I can walk with a smart step, go up and downstairs with ease, and cross the street with complete confidence. My rheumatism is getting better every day."—D. L.

In a good many cases, rheumatism cannot resist the action of Kruschen Salts, which dissolve the painful crystals of uric acid — often the cause of those aches and pains — and assist the kidneys to eliminate this poison through the natural channels.—Advt.

500 CIVILIANS DIE IN JAP BOMB RAID ALONG RAILROADS

SHANGHAI, Oct. 8—(AP)—More than 500 Chinese civilians were reported to-day to have been killed by bombing raids of Japanese planes on the rich southern province of Kwantung.

The Chinese Central News Agency reported eight Japanese planes, including two huge bombers, were shot down by a surprise Chinese defence of the strategic railway linking Canton on the south coast and the Yangtze river port of Yankow.

A dozen railway centres were bombed along the route from Canton to Hankow, Chinese dispatches said, killing and wounding more than 300 non-combatants in those towns alone.

In Northern Kwantung province the raiding planes were said to have caused several hundred more casualties. Twenty bombs fell on Shichow alone, demolishing 30 dwellings.

While the flight of 36 Japanese planes followed the railway to the north, dropping bombs on each village they reached, Chinese said a spirited attack by 70 Chinese planes kept the line from being more than slightly damaged.

Out of the 36 Japanese planes, Chinese said eight were shot down while the Japanese were able to take a toll of but two Chinese pursuit ships.

Flagship in Action.

The Japanese flagship Idzumo shelled stubbornly depended positions of the Chinese on the Chapei and North Station fronts. Shells fell in steady succession near the International sector northern boundary.

The Idzumo moved four miles down the Whangpoo river to avoid knocking the tops off Shanghai's sky scrapers on the Bund, and gain sufficient elevation to hurl her eight-inch sells over the settlement into Chapei and North Station zones.

In an effort to break a sharp Chinese counter-attack, tons of lead and steel were poured into the maze of Chinese lines.

In the early morning hours the Chinese came out of their pill boxes and sand-bagged entrenchments all along the 25-mile battle front from the North Station north-west to Lotien and charged the Japanese with ancient big swords and modern bayonets.

World Series Crowd Of 60,573 Sees Yanks Win Opener

Driving Carl Hubbell from the mound, the Yankees won the opening game of the world series, 8 to 1, from the Giants, before a crowd estimated at 60,573. Part of the crowd, and action in the first inning, with Bill Dickey of the Yankees driving a fly, are pictured.

EARL ROBERTSON WITH AMERICANS

CALGARY, Oct. 8.—(CP).— Roy Worters, starry little goalkeeper of many National Hockey League campaigns with New York Americans, has been placed on the voluntary retired list at his own request, Manager Red Dutton announced Thursday.

Earl Robertson, who went from Regina junior ranks to minor professional hockey and has been "pinch hitter" for major league clubs will guard the Amerks' nets, with Alf Moore as substitute goaler.

Happy Day and Joe Jerwa have been purchased to lend strength to the American defense, and Jack Shill of Toronto Leafs and Charlie Mason of Philadelphia Ramblers will bolster the forward line. Day came from Toronto and Jerwa from Boston.

"I still have an open spot at left wing," said Dutton. "There is another trade hanging fire and it may be completed immediately."

PACIFIC GOLFER IN SEMI-FINALS

MEMPHIS COUNTRY CLUB, Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 8.—Mrs. Gregg Lifur, veteran golfer from the Pacific Coast, who has played in nine women's national championships and never passed the third round, scored the biggest upset of the forty-first annual title play Thursday by eliminating Mrs. Opal Hill of Kansas City and gaining the semi-finals.

Mrs. Lifur, five-time Southern California champion, and winner of three Golden Bear State titles, defeated Mrs. Hill, 2 and 1, after being 3 down at the seventh hole.

Mrs. Lifur will meet Patty Berg, 19-year-old Minneapolis player, in the lower bracket round of four today (Friday). In the upper half Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page of Greensboro, N.C., encounters Kathryn Hemphill of Columbia, S.C.

Miss Berg, youngest member of the Curtis Cup team, emerged from the quarter-finals with a two-up decision over Mrs. Willard Shepherd of Los Angeles, after blowing sky-high on her inward nine. Patty shot a one over par 40 to go five up on the former Helen Lawson at the turn.

Series Sidelights

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(AP).—Hal Schumacher faces what a specialist in understatement would call a difficult job. Only parallel to stopping the Yankees to-day is halting Sir Malcolm Campbell's Bluebird by shouting "whoa."

Monte Marcellus Pearson, the Yankee pitching nominee for the third match, is chiefly distinguished by a curve ball that breaks here to there. He has the best curve of any Yankee pitcher since Walter Beall. Only difference is Pearson knows where to break his hook. Beall's curves used to endanger the life of Jumping Joe Dugan back in the Ruth era.

Rufus Ruffing has developed a pretty fair hook, himself. Red got Bartell in the fifth yesterday with a nifty hook after throwing the high hard one inside. Rowdy Richard was looking for the fast one when the hook broke in his face.

The Giants' strategy on defence faltered in the sixth when Selkirk smashed a double through McCarthy and knocked him down. The outfielders didn't know which to pick up, McCarthy or the ball.

Red Rolfe probably wishes the series lasted a month. He goes to hospital after the final game for an operation on a bone growth. It bothers him now. He goes down to first fast enough but limps when he walks.

STOMACH SUFFERER'S 6YEARS' AGONY

Here is bright promise of restored health for you if you are a stomach sufferer. Even though you are suffering severely from the gnawing pains of indigestion, if you are often doubled up with gastritis, or you suffer the wearying pain and discomforts of dyspepsia and heartburn, you can get the same relief reported to us by Mr. J. Hurley, of Dudley. He had suffered severely for 6 years. He was X-rayed, treated, tried remedy after remedy. All that time he could not eat a decent meal. "But," he writes, "I am glad to tell you that after taking three bottles of Maclean Brand Stomach Powder I can now eat a good meal without getting any pain."

McCarthy Is Only Man To Win Pennants In Both Ball Loops

Resigns Position

Dr. Theodore Lewald, ABOVE, has resigned from the international Olympic committee due to his advanced age. He is 76 years old. He was president of the organization committee for the 1936 Olympic games in Berlin. Chancellor Hitler sent Lewald a letter of thanks for his services.

Yankee Pilot Likes Chicken, Music, Vaudeville And Baseball Victories

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Joe McCarthy likes fried chicken, black cigars, detective stories, magicians, a pint of ice cream in bed at night, and victory.

The boss man of the Yankees is the only man ever to manage pennant-winning teams in both major leagues. And he's one of the fewer ever to get into college without first going through the formality of a high school course.

Joe got as far as the eighth grade back home in the Germantown, Pa., parochial school, worked on an ice wagon, dug some ditches for the next couple of years, and then suddenly turned up at Niagara University. . . . "I don't know how it happened," says Joe, "but there I was in college."

Music and Stage

Joe will be 50, come next April 21, but doesn't look it. He's Irish on both sides of the family and most certainly DOES look it. He has black hair, flashing brown eyes, a mouth that can be both kind and harsh, and a jutting jaw.

His hobbies are music, the theatre, movies, ice skating, and vaudeville. He and the missus go skating every morning while wintering at their home in Buffalo.

He knows the names and routines of most of the vaudeville boys and girls. He has a good tenor voice and likes to sing informally. His best friend is George M. Cohan, of whom you may have heard.

George, by the way, committed heresy in taking up with McCarthy. You see, for 25 years, or more, George had been the Giants' No. 1 fan. But when McGraw went and McCarthy came Cohan crossed the crick from the Polo Grounds to the Yankee Stadium.

Served Seven Minors

The Yankee boss played his first game of baseball 36 years ago when he was 14. The site was a section of the historic Revolutionary War battlefield at Germantown.

He played with seven minor league teams. In the winter of 1915 he signed with the Brooklyns of the Federal League but the outlaw loop blew up. That was the closest McCarthy got to playing in the big leagues. He just couldn't hit hard enough, nor field well enough, although he tried himself at second, third, short, and in the outfield.

But his shrewdness and managerial talents were recognized early and as long ago as 1913 he was manager as well as second baseman of the Wilkes-Barre team in the New York State League.

McCarthy is no Prussian officer type of manager but he does expect his players to take orders and keep in shape. . . . "You can have a drink, or two, or three," says McCarthy, "but don't ever let your conduct off the field be a matter of interest to me, or concern to the ball club, or discussion among the fans."

Wise, and well-said.

He's Great Worrier.

He has an uncanny ability to size up men and figure out how's best to handle each . . . one man must be treated roughly, one must be given sympathy, one must be lashed at—and one must be fired.

He never bawls a player out in public. He prefers to wait until the next day at noon when the players begin to gather at the park and take the errant fellow aside and talk to him privately. Tempers have cooled then and you won't be so liable to blurt out things you'll regret later on.

He's a great worrier. He likes victory by huge margins. A lead is never too big. Perhaps he is still living that horrible inning when, as manager of the Chicago Cubs, he saw the Philadelphia Athletics score ten runs in the seventh inning of the last game of the 1929 World Series to win 10-8.

Joe takes the ball game home to bed with him at night. After a bad game, he doesn't go to sleep until dawn peeps. Some of his important decisions are made at 4 and 5 a.m.

He's a great one for playing hunches, is cordial but rather close-mouthed to newspapermen, doesn't like the spotlight, has saved his money until he's rated the wealthiest manager—aside from Connie Mack, in the game.

And unquestionably, he's the most unappreciated manager in baseball.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

LADEEZ AND gennulmen, we present the P.C.I. rugbyists of 1937! At least, we poinnt out that they may be seen in action tomorrow after lunch in Riverside Park. In a grid double-header opening, playing the junior and senior squads from Oshawa. Starting the C.O.S.S.A. schedules, juniors getting away from the wire at 1.30—by your wrist watch and the seniors going into their first huddle along about 2.45 o'clock. Coaches Jackson and Bamforth have two good P.C.I. teams. Should be lots of wide-open tricky football in this grid opening twin bill, an dthe games rate a big crowd of fans. Our Orfuns are idle until Monday when they go to Lindsay. Pickering College has an exhibition rugby game gainst P.C.I. seniors here Monday.

RUGBY IS a he-man's game all the way through, and a very popular sport. It is plenty rugged and figures along with hockey and lacrosse in this respect, but has far more hard body contacts in it. Every play sees the two lines—a dozen or so gents—crash into each other with all their weight, and the backfielders charging forward like rampaging wild men till rival tacklers jerk 'em to the ground. The players are husky, well-padded and in the pink of condition. And trained to their arduous tasks. Otherwise, they'd be strewn around the gridiron on every play.

* * * * * *

WE LIKE this game of football. We don't know any more about it than the average fan but manage to catch the highlights. For that matter, the average fan has a job following the well-masked plays and the intricate rulings and scorings. But that doesn't discourage him a whit, the clash and color of it pulls him irresistibly to contest after contest. A real autumn sport. We nearly became a great player once at Collegiate but just missed out—not having the build, brains or ability. But we came close to making the second team, and have always had an intense admiration since for the huskies who do click in rugby. When we saw we'd never make the headlines, we bent our efforts toward a job writing 'em—with more success.

* * * * * *

COMMENTING ON our predictions of a change in officers at the next C.O.B.L. meeting, the Oshawa writer—ere leaving on vacash—says: "Something worth considering is the fact that Kingston may be in pro ball next year instead of in the C.O.B.L. If so, we consider it would be foolish to have the league president among the residents of a city which isn't entered in the league. Maybe they should postpone the election of officers till such time as the intentions of the clubs for the 1938 season are known." We disagree as that would be too late in the Spring. Anyway, we don't think Kingston will go pro and, if they did, Art Casterton of that city could still be loop prexy—or he could be asked to resign, if other league officials felt he should. We'd suggest Vice-President Art Casterton of Kingston as the next prexy, provided Max Swanston doesn't run.

* * * * * *

AND WE'D suggest Jim Dorris of Peterborough as the next league secretary-treasurer, if it is true that Newt Thompson of Belleville does not intend to stand for re-election. Jim is the hard-working secretary of the Peterborough Baseball Club and he knows plenty about the official end of the Central League. He, as Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce here, is in an ideal spot to handle league matters—and he is a real diamond enthusiast. With Max Swanston rumored as retiring, this city would not be represented in '38 among C.O.B.L. officers. Kingston would likely have the president and, we imagine, Oshawa would put in a vice-president. We know of no one in Napanee—since Ernie Gibbard is on the O.B.A.A.—to run for the secretaryship, so we think Mr. Dorris of this town should get the call.

TWO IN a row for the Yanks and by the same score. They took the Giants for an 8-1 ride yesterday with another barrage of blows. Seems like all twirlers look alike to the Manhattan Maulers, and they might just chalk up their third straight today at the Polo Grounds. However, we expect the Terrymen to take one or two before 'tis over. Ruffing the Red held the Giants in check while he and his buddies banged baseballs off three rival slabsmen before a fairish sort of world's series crowd. But the cash customers will be getting disgustipated with these one-sided contests and staying away in droves henceforth. Local interest, too, will lag somewhat for the rest of the serial as the Yanks appear to have both the heaving and the hitting necessary to cop the title.

AN ELECTRIC timing device from Kitchener has been brought here for the motorcycle hill climbing events at Nasau on Monday. It is an important program put on by the Lions' Club and the Kawartha Motorcycle Club—proceeds going for the Lions Club boys' band—and ought to draw a lot of folks. No doubt there will be plenty of thrills and spills as these ace daredevils of the Province, and some Peterborough stars, show their stuff on the roaring, skidding mechanical broncos—yowza!

ANNUAL re-organization meeting of the Church Basketball League will be held one week from tonight at 7.45 in the Y.M.C.A., and those interested are invited. It was first billed for an earlier date, but now is called for Oct. 13th. Officers for the coming year will be elected, teams entered and general plans made for another big season. It is hoped to start the schedules off within two weeks. This circuit annually provides plenty of keen competition and good cage play, with most of the churches here having teams in the loop. Those connected with the sport should get busy right away in lining up their squads and appointing delegates to the annual session.

And the Bowmanville writer raps the Cobourg school gridders for rough play....We hear Cobourg has a gals' cage team made up of school grads....Schreibers' lasses' softball team, which played here in August, is in Ontario finals now gainst Gerrards in Toronto.... Intermediate "B" O.A.S.A. final game betwixt Beaches and Point Anne is in Oshawa tomorrow....P.C.I. fiel dday yesterday was postponed one week, owing to inclement weather....Mick Magee is captain of the Orfuns this autumn....Understand the Oshawa ball club cleared close to $1500 the past season—a nice juicy melon, eh?....Puck rumors fly about thickly here now, some of 'em too thick, but another week and we'll know all about it....Seems to us that the way they're kept busy yanking pitchers, the Giants should have been called the Yanks—seems to us.

Remember When—

Charlie Conacher, a young right-winger from Marlboro Juniors, winners of the Memorial Cup in 1929, signed a two-year contract with Toronto Maple Leafs, National Hockey League entry, eight years ago today. It wasn't major spot news that day, but Conacher quickly proved himself to be one of hockey's best all-time wingmen. Twice he has led N.H.L. scorers.

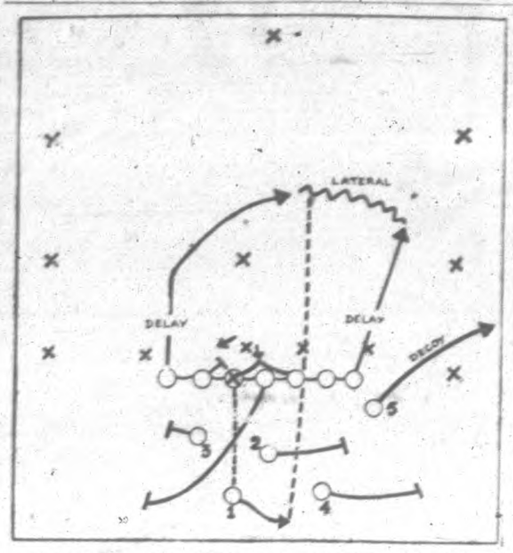
FOOTBALL FUNDAMENTALS

Defence Against Pass Can Become An Offensive By Careful Strategy

By LEW HAYMAN

Coach Toronto Argonauts Football Club



A simple pass which will illustrate use of the symbols shown below, for use in future articles.

PASS DEFENCE

A strong, well-planned and carefully developed pass defence can become a powerful offensive threat by the use of interceptions. These interceptions are not mere accidents, but are produced only after hours of planning and preparation in the ways and means of preventing passes from being completed.

Before discussing the systematic defences, I feel that it is necessary to present a number of important observations that materially help any pass defence.

Pass Play Tip-Offs

Watch the actions of the offensive outsides. If they block, it is usually a running play. Should the end or ends come down the field it will more than likely be a pass.

Find out who the opposing team's passers are, and by careful observations see if they have any peculiar habit that will give away their intention of passing. Many passers change their stance, others wet their fingers and some even glance to the spot to which they intend to pass.

As soon as a man definitely recognizes the play as a pass play, he should yell "PASS," so as to enable his team-mates to prepare against it.

Before every play all secondary and tertiary men should scan the field from the sidelines in, so as to prevent or halt a "keeper." Once spotted, don't get panicky, simply maze certain that the tertiary on that particular side of the field sees the "keeper." He will give ground so as to make the interception when the pass is thrown. However, do not be so definite in your movements that the opposition will recognize your knowledge of the "keeper." Also be certain that someone, usually the safety man, moves into the spot that you vacate which will care for any delayed man.

Hurrying the Passer

Regardless of what defence is used, the very best means to prevent the pass from being successful, is to rush, hurry or tackle the passer. All men not delegated to cover territory or receivers must charge and get to the thrower instantly. If close enough, tackle him around the arms, making him throw hurriedly and consequently inaccurately. Stop the pass at the point of its inception and you won't need to worry about any type of defence.

Checking Delayed Receivers

When rushing the passer be sure to shove or bump any delayed men coming through. Middles in particular should get the habit of using their hands and jamming the offensive outsides as they move across the line of scrimmage.

Passes Intercepted or Batted Down

In covering the pass or play, one must always keep between the man he is covering and the goal line. However, once the ball is in the air PLAY THE BALL. All passes should be intercepted rather than batted down. The only exception to this last rule being a long pass or last down, if incompleted, gives you a first down at the point where the ball is scrimmaged. Those players who are not in a close enough position to play the ball, should move in a course to head off and tackle the receiver, should the pass be completed.

SCHEDULE GAMES OPEN ON RUGBY FRONTS SATURDAY

TORONTO, Oct. 8.—(CP)—The shelling and shouting will resound again on the eastern football front to-morrow as the Interprovincial and Inter-collegiate unions' senior teams blast away in schedule openers. The Ontario union has timed its first bomb for Monday, Thanksgiving Day.

All the preliminary skirmishing has been merely a matter of conditioning, for they don't pick champions from practice games. Just for the record, too, no team has met another from its own league in an exhibition contest.

So spin your own wheel when you try to pick to-morrow's winners. In the Big Four, Toronto Argonauts visit Hamilton Tigers and the champion Ottawa Rough Riders go down the river to play Montreal Indians. The Intercollegiate schedule pits McGill against University of Western Ontario at London and Queen's play at University of Toronto.

The Dominion champions, Sarnia Imperials, will be in Toronto Monday to play Balmy Beach, a team eager to beat the Imps even before they get out of the Toronto Union. Field Captain Johnny Ferraro is ready to play for Montreal Indians after a year's ineligibility and the same club has obtained Chapple O'Connor from Regina. Doc Painton, banned under the import rule last year, is quarter-backing Hamilton Tigers, while Toronto Argonauts have a whole fistful of Queen's graduates and Ottawa is blending practically all on its champions.

Chisox Evens Series By Defeating Cubs

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—(UP)—Three-hit pitching by Vern Kennedy helped the Chicago White Sox to even the city series with the Cubs yesterday, 3 to 1, in the second game at Comiskey Park.

The Cubs also lost the services of Billy Herman, star second baseman, who collided with Tony Piet at third base in the sixth inning and received a shoulder injury. He probably will be out the rest of the series.

DiMaggio Gets First Series Hit Off Hubbell

With more than 60,000 in the stands, the Yankees trampled the Giants, 8 to 1, in the first game of the world series in Yankee stadium, driving King Carl Hubbell from the mound. Joe DiMaggio of the Yanks is pictured driving out the first hit off the Giants' southpaw, a single in the first inning.

LACROSSE FINALS OPEN FRIDAY EVE

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., Oct. 8 (C.P.). — This bustling city on the banks of the Fraser River bustled more than usual as it prepared for the opening to-day of the Mann Cup lacrosse final.

More than a quarter of New Westminster's 18,000 population, and a good-sized representation from Vancouver and other British Columbia points will crowd into Queen's Park Arena to-night for the first game of the best-of-five series between New Westminster Salmonbellies and Orillia Terriers.

All day yesterday crowds lined up before downtown ticket windows, until weary officials hung up the "sold out" sign—and said it included even standing room.

Giants Depend On Schumacher To Turn The Tide Of Battle

Terry Hurlers Blow Up After Four Innings—Nationals Weak At Bat

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP). — The Giants were in bad shape today as they threw their sinker-ball artist, Hal Schumacher, against the Yankees in a desperate attempt to stave off what looked like the inevitable.

The National Leaguers were, at least, on their home grounds, but after the plasterings they absorbed the last two days on the opposite bank of the Harlem, it was doubtful they could derive much comfort even from familiar surroundings.

They looked licked last night after Rufus (The Red) Ruffing pitched and pounded them into their second straight 8-1 defeat. The painful but unavoidable conclusion of 57,000-odd fans who saw them humiliated again by sheer Yankee power was that they didn't belong in the same ball park with the walloping Yanks.

Only 48 hours ago this was to have been a sort of modern baseball classic, with invincible Giant pitching pitted against the Yankee bats. Yet, in that short space it had become a burlesque on the sad side.

Giants Need Hits.

Although the Yanks still needed two victories to make it official, there was no doubt in anybody's mind that Schumacher had to come through today and his team-mates had to start hitting if the Giants were to escape the ignominy of a four-straight trouncing. Nobody seemed to doubt the Yankees would win eventually.

Monte Pearson, a righthander like Schumacher, was Manager Joe McCarthy's choice to follow in the footsteps of Lefty Gomez and Ruffing.

From the way they played dead at the plate the last two days, there is no tangible reason for believing the Polo Grounds would prove a tonic to the Giants. True, the walls are closer than at the Yankee Stadium, and home runs come cheaper. Yet, no one has ever accused the Yankees of being short hitters.

Manager Bill Terry, downcast at his team's collapse, wasn't even predicting that Schumacher would stem the rot. He only spread his hands hopelessly and croaked:

"They've beat hell out of us for two days. They're hitting and we're not. There's nothing you can do about that, is there?"

There doesn't seem to be unless the Giants could have the length of all World Series games shortened to four innings. Carl Hubbell had the Yanks absolutely baffled for five frames in the first game, and Cliff Melton stopped them cold for four chapters yesterday. Then each of them got knocked around violently.

Blow-up After 4 Innings.

What seemed to unsteady both pitchers, observers agreed, was the strain of having to work on every Yankee batter as though the game hung in the balance. There wasn't a spot they could let up. Eventually it "got" Melton just as it unsettled the veteran Hubbell.

That's fatal against the Yanks. Even Ruffing joined in yesterday's bombardment. His single, the Yankees' fourth straight safety, was the blow that sent Melton to cover in the fifth inning, and in the next round he bounced a double off the left-field wall to dispose of Harry Gumbert.

LEO DUROCHER

When the St. Louis Cardinals traded Leo Durocher, team captain and shortstop, to the Brooklyn Dodgers, they got four players in exchange. The four Dodgers to go to St. Louis are, centre fielder John Gooney, infielder Jimmy Bucher, pitcher Roy Henshaw and third baseman Joe Stripp. No cash was involved in the trade.

MOTORCYCLE MEET HERE ON MONDAY

A big motorcycle hill climbing program has been arranged for Nassau on Monday (Thanksgiving Day), starting at 1.30 o'clock. There will be three events in this championship meet, one being the Class "B" for professionals, one the open Class "C," and then a local heat for Kawartha Club riders. A number of Toronto daredevils, including five Dominion stars, will compete in the pro class, two of them being after the Canadian 1937 hill-climbing championship. This meet, sanctioned by the A.C.U., will settle the points for the title between Percy Mann and Tarzan Schoemick. Other stars coming are Bert Layco, Dick Gauer and Don Eby.

The program is sponsored jointly by the local Lions' Club and the Kawartha Motorcycle Club, proceeds going for the Lions' Club boys' band. An electric timing device, brought in from Kitchener, will be used for the championship trials and competent judges and officials have been engaged. Big crowds have gathered this past summer to see several motorbike meets in Peterborough and at Nassau, and another huge holiday crowd is expected at Nassau on Monday. Admission is 25 cents, with parking free.

Grid Doubleheader Here On Saturday

Oshawa Collegiate and P.C.I. gridders clash in a football doubleheader opening here tomorrow (Saturday) in Riverside Park. The two junior teams meet at 1.30 o'clock, and the senior squads swing into action at 2.45 sharp. It will be the first rugby seen here this year, and should draw a big crowd of school followers and grid fans in general. These schools ought to field the best teams in their groups and should be well-matched. Not a great deal is known of any of these teams as yet, but it is expected they will play their usual open, crowd-pleasing style of football, and that both games will be keenly contested.

Coach Jackson has a good junior Garnet and Gray gang lined up for the first fixture, and the rival junior outfits are sure to battle to the final whistle. Coach Bamforth believes his 1937 senior P.C.I. crew is stronger than the good local team that went to Provincial semi-finals last year. The addition of Curtin and Creighton, former Orfuns, should make the senior team a powerful outfit all the way through. Al Clark will not be in action, owing to an injured shoulder, but otherwise the team will be at full strength. There will also be an exhibition grid game here on Monday between Pickering College and the senior P.C.I. squad.

ST. LOUIS CARDS LET OUT HAINES

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Jesse Joseph Haines, grand old man of the Cardinals' pitching staff, was given his release Thursday by the club he served eighteen years, a record for continuous activity with one team.

The Cardinal office announcement also stated that Fred (Sheriff) Blake, signed in mid-season, had been given his unconditional release.

Haines' release was not altogether unexpected, as he had said he planned to retire from active duty at the close of the season. The announcement stated he was "given a release in order that he can negotiate for a managerial post."

"Pop" was forty-five years old last July 22, and had been with the Cards from 1920, when he was purchased from Kansas City Blues. He worked 67 innings this season and was credited with three victories and as many defeats. His major league total is 210 wins and 158 defeats.

DROUILLARD DROPS TIGHT DECISION

MONTREAL, Oct. 8 (CP).—Orville Drouillard, blond cherub from Windsor, Ont., still stands just below the top of the golden stairs his Uncle Patsy climbed 23 years ago.

A pudgy manager now, Patsy Drouillard watched his nephew-fighter drop a heart-breaking decision last night to Champion Maxie Berger of Montreal in a 10-round bout for the Canadian lightweight title Patsy held from 1914 to 1918. Southpaw Orville won a huge section of a crowd of 3,000 from the home-town boy, but his courageous, spasmodic attack failed to move the judges.

Rallying late, the sleek and hard-hitting Berger evidently was victor through the directness of his right-handed blows. But an unofficial Canadian Press score-card gave Drouillard five rounds, Berger three and called two even.

Uncle Patsy has brought Drouillard along the hard way, grabbing main-bill assignments for the youngster and letting the decisions fall where they might.

Patsy Drouillard left the lightweight championship vacant when he retired in 1918. The throne was empty again when Berger gained it last month with a 10-round victory over Dave Castilloux of Montreal.

satisfactory job. Still, it was judged best to leave it at that, trusting to massage to bring about a gradual improvement. But the fracture to the humerus did not respond. The broken bones showed no sign of coming together, and if the arm was to be saved at all a plate would have to be inserted. But this project set up a vicious circle. The longer plating was postponed the better chance Esther would have of standing the operation, but the greater was the risk of sepis, for the abrasion set up by the extension had brought the flesh to an ugly condition.

The problem was put up to Kennedy, who, with the concurrence of Dr. Arkwright, decided on boldness. The operation was successfully performed, but the fear of sepis proved only too well grounded. For many months the arm was riddled with discharging sinuses, and the union of the bone was slow in forming. It was not found possible to remove the plate until August. A month later this poor wreck of a woman left the hospital, being taken for such recovery as she could hope to achieve to an expensive Westbourne nursing home. She remained there for two months, slowly regaining a fair amount of physical strength.

Late in November Esther was brought back to The Wilderness, an object of pity and horror to all who had known her in her radiant prime. So long as she was in hospital she had never been told the full truth about her condition, but she knew the worst now. Her right leg was permanently shortened by three inches; it might not be necessary for her to use a surgical boot, but she would never walk without a limp. Her right arm was withered and the movement of the elbow completely lost. Her nose and upper lips were cruelly disfigured, and though plastic surgery held out hopes of an improvement at a later date, it could at best only be partial. Her hair had gone gray, and her face taken on deep, permanent lines.

But suffering had left legacies other than physical disability. She could not shake off the horror of the original catastrophe. That dreadful moment just before the impact, when her mind had apprehended with pellucid clearness the virtual certainty of extinction, was with her always, retiring a little before the distraction of daytime, but returning to ravage her nights.

After she had been home a few weeks her nightmares returned—at first in the form of sudden sweating awakenings with pounding heart; later, as her strength increased, taking more active and violent form. The nurse, who had been engaged to stay at the Wilderness so long as her services were required, often had difficulty in restraining her. Harold Arkwright confessed himself at a loss for an effective treatment, apart from drugging her lightly. Privately he suggested she should be taken to a psychoanalyst, though his professional position debarred him from taking any steps in the matter. In all other respects he was satisfied with the progress made. True, Esther was silent, morose, touchy, as she had never been before, sensitive in the extreme to the fact that she was a cripple—but her physical strength was returning so rapidly that he felt confident that these symptoms would prove transitory, at least in any aggravated form.

What of Tim Kennedy during this painful time? In West Shilston people gave him almost as much pity as his wife—he bore the blow with such uncomplaining fortitude, he treated Esther with such unfailing tenderness and solicitude. While she was in the hospital and the nursing home he had motored to Westbourne and back every evening after his work, sitting with her for hours on end, tending to such of her needs as he could, staying, if she could not sleep, until the small hours of the next morning.

He courted no sympathy from friends, he evinced a dislike of discussing the matter at all: but it was recognized that he was not a man to wear his heart on his sleeve. What agonies he went through, in the solitary night hours at The Wilderness could only be conjectured.

Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S SKY WRITING

When Baby Bunty told Buster, the rabbit boy, about the Four O'Clock Flower by which Uncle Wiggily told the time, Buster said,

"I don't believe it!"

He was polite enough, as far as that went, but he could not believe his father could tell time just by looking at a flower growing in an old garden near the edge of the woods.

"But he did!" insisted Bunty. "Jingle, Jangle and I saw him. They had to be back at 4 o'clock to take their music lessons and the flower opened almost exactly at that time so Unkie Wig knew."

"I won't believe it until I see the flower," said Buster.

"Come on, I'll show you," offered the orphan rabbit.

Points It Out.

Together she and Buster hopped to the woods and, in a little while Bunty found the place where the Four O'Clock Flowers grew. And if you think I am teasing you just ask your grandmother if she didn't have Four O'Clocks in her garden.

"There it is!" said Bunty pointing the flower out to Buster.

"But it's closed," objected the rabbit boy.

"It will open almost exactly at 4 o'clock," said Bunty, "and it's nearly that time now, for it was half past three when we left the bungalow."

"Well, I can tell if it opens at 4 o'clock," said Buster. "I have the little watch daddy gave me for Christmas."

Buster looked at his watch. It was about five minutes to four and, even as Baby Bunty and he were watching, the flower petals slowly opened.

"Now, what did I tell you!" exclaimed the orphan rabbit.

"You're right, Bunty," said Buster. "I'm sorry I said I didn't believe you. Gosh! This is wonderful. I'm going to tell Custer and Duster. A flower that tells the time! Wowsie!"

He started to run back to the bungalow, but he lost his way. So did Baby Bunty. They didn't know which path to take.

"Oh, dear!" sighed Bunty when, after trying several paths, she was all mixed up. "Oh, dear!"

"Don't you know how to go home?" asked Buster.

"No. Don't you?" asked Bunty.

Didn't Notice.

"Just like a girl rabbit!" said Buster. "If you could find your way here I don't see why you can't find your way back."

"Well, you were with me," said Bunty, getting a bit cross. "I should think you would have noticed."

"Well, I didn't, and now we're lost."

"Maybe Unkie Wig will come for us," said Bunty.

"How will he know where to come?" asked Buster.

"That's so," said Bunty. "Oh, dear! What shall we do?"

"I will help you," whispered a voice. It was the Wind. "I will make some sky writing for Uncle Wiggily to tell him where you are lost so he can come and get you," said the Wind. "Go back to the place of the Four O'Clock Flowers."

This Buster and Bunty did and soon the Wind began to blow the clouds into queer shapes, like letters. Uncle Wiggily, at home in his bungalow, didn't yet know Buster and Bunty were lost. But he found them as I shall tell you in the story tomorrow which will be about Uncle Wiggily to the rescue. And I hope you can stop the junk man's horses from trying to go roller skating on old auto tires.

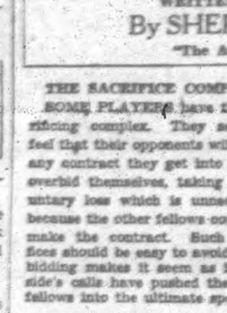
THE SACRIFICE COMPLEX

SOME PLAYERS have the sacrificing complex. They seem to feel that their opponents will make any contract they get into and so overbid themselves, taking a voluntary loss which is unnecessary because the other fellows could not make the contract. Such sacrifices should be easy to avoid if the bidding makes it seem as if your side's calls have pushed the other fellows into the ultimate spot.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

Everybody took some part in the bidding of this deal, though the villain of the cast stayed off the stage until he stole the whole show in the final scene. South raised the curtain with 1-Heart, North entered with 2-Clubs and East strode onto the stage with 2-Spades. South kept in the action with 2-Hearts and East with 3-Spades, whereupon North did his heaviest act with 4-Hearts.

This seemed likely to have driven all the other Thespians off the stage, but after East and South had passed out of the picture the villain did his stuff in the form of 4-Spades from West, who had not yet come before the audience. His untimely appearance brought North back before the footlights armed with a double loaded with just a couple of high cards, but plenty of general deductions. Following the murder of West for his perfidy, the final curtain fell upon a post-mortem in which East pointed out that he had pushed the foe beyond their voluntary depth with his last 3-Spade bid.

BY BRUCE HAMILTON

READ THIS FIRST:

Tim Kennedy has been writing a suicide note to himself in his wife's handwriting. He had graduated into a would-be homicide from the the school of armchair murderers. Tim, who had built up a lucrative dental practice in a small town near London, had done so with great premeditation and planning years before. His marriage to Esther Ashwell had been a fortunate one. Though to self-centered to be in love with his wife, Tim was happy and secure at middle age, thanks to his thriving practice and the Kennedy's enviable social position.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 6.

In the early part of 1934 there was an outbreak of measles in the neighborhood, and Esther, who had escaped the malady in her childhood, fell a victim. As commonly happens in these cases, she got it rather badly, and was depressed and out of sorts for some time afterwards. She was sent to Westbourne for a month, and at week-ends Tim motored down to join her at her select private hotel on the sea front.

The thing happened one Sunday in February on one of these occasions. A fine afternoon had been followed by a dark, gusty night, with furious scuds of rain blown over from the sea by a tremendous southwesterly wind. The Kennedys had been to a concert in the pavilion at Admiral park and had lingered a few minutes to allow the crowd to disperse. When they came out of the park the streets were almost deserted. The way back to their hotel lay through a wide-sweeping cresent of better-class residences. The cresent was protected, and they only received the full force of the gale just before they emerged into the main road.

A sudden squall lifted Esther's hat and carried it across the crescent, flattening it against the railings on the other side of the roadway. Esther at once jumped across to retrieve it. She was three yards from the railings when she became aware of a truck wheeling round from the main road. The howling wind had drowned the sound of her husband's warning shout. She hesitated, nearly lost her nerve, then decided to try to get back. There was just time, but in turning she slipped on the greasy surface.

The corner was badly lighted, and the driver, on his proper side, did not see her until she was beneath his wheels. . . . The truck carried her a dozen yards before throwing her, with a hideous sound of collapse, louder than could be conceived possible, back on to the roadway. Kennedy was up to her just as the lorry had screeched to a standstill. She lay dreadfully inert. He thought she was dead.

She lay seven months in a private ward at the General hospital at Westbourne. She had been carried there as the nearest place where assistance could be given, and it was afterwards found impossible to move her. The injuries were terrible—compound fractures of the right humerus and tibia, fracture of the base of the skull, severe contusions and lacerations on face and body were the worst. That she survived at all was against all common sense, and for over a week she was not expected to do so. Both the medical superintendent and the house surgeon of the hospital were uncompromising opponents of the purely narcotic use of the stronger drugs, and the fact that they allowed her to be given heavy doses of morphia every night for the first 12 days testified to the hopeless view they took of the case.

In view of the skull injury— actually the least immediately serious—they were unable to start on the complicated task of setting the other fractures until valuable time had elapsed. The doctors were of the opinion that both leg and arm should be plated, but as the patient was in no condition to stand an operation at this stage, they tried to reduce the fractures by extension. A kind of scaffolding was built around the bed, and roped weights passing over pulleys were attached to it and Esther's limbs. It was a hideous contraption, suggesting a device of the torture chamber—which indeed it was, for the weights, excruciatingly painful, were piled on to the limits of the victim's endurance.

In the case of the tibia, some progress was made by this method, though owing to the time that had elapsed muscles had atrophied and it was impossible to make a really

Transient Goes To Reformatory For Stealing Car Here

Conducts Own Defence — Pleads No Knowledge Or Intent

Finding Harry Burnett, 23-year-old transient, stated to be from Ottawa district, guilty of car theft, Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., on Thursday passed sentence of 12 months' determinate and 6 months indeterminate in Ontario Reformatory.

The accused, who conducted his own defence in what was described by the Magistrate as "a very able manner," urged that he was so intoxicated as a result of wine given to him by a stranger that he had no knowledge of having entered the car or of driving it away and subsequently crashing a ditch near Kendry crossing on Highway 28 last Saturday afternoon.

Not Right Name.

Going into the box in his own defence the accused declared that his right name was not Harry Burnett. He said he was willing to give the Magistrate his right name, but did not wish to divulge it in open court "because it gets into the newspapers and hurts my people at home."

"Even if one hundred witnesses swear they saw me driving the car, I still contend I am technically innocent. To be guilty of a crime there must be premeditation. I was not even conscious of what I was doing," the accused said.

He urged further that "I have an old mother at home, and I tell you this, Your Worship, I looked all over this town for an honest job without finding one."

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., who conducted the prosecution, produced a long list of previous convictions against the accused, which included a term for car theft, and also a sentence served at St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary.

On hearing the prisoner's record, His Worship commented, "It looks as if your old mother has been hurt before."

The Evidence

Basil McGee, miller, 93 Simcoe street, testified on Saturday last his car was parked outside his place of business. About 3.15 p.m. he found it missing and notified police. He next saw the car at a garage in a damaged condition.

Stanley Cummings, employed by the City Gas Works, gave evidence he saw a man get into McGee's car and drive away. He could not positively identify the accused as the man he saw and could go no further than he saw and could go no farther than to testify "he looked like Burnett."

Duncan McKinnon, another Gas Works employee, said he saw a man walk up to Mr. McGee's car, throw in an overcoat, then get in the car and drive off in the direction of the river. He did not identify the accused as the man he had seen.

J. William Clapper, Pontypool, was driving a truck from Pontypool to Peterborough on Highway 28 last Saturday afternoon. Half a mile the other side of Springville he saw another car approaching on the wrong side of the pavement. After striking witness' truck, the car proceeded on and went into the ditch. It came to rest at an acute angle, but did not actually overturn.

Indentify Accused

Witness positively identified accused as the driver of the car. He said that at the time of the accident the accused was intoxicated.

Albert Bowles, Springville, was driving a team and wagon on Highway 28. He heard a crash and saw a car go into the ditch. A man he identified as the accused fell out of the car when it tipped over.

Manson Cathcart and Michael Fitzgerald, both of Springville, gave similar evidence. They both positively identified the accused as the driver of the car they saw go into the ditch.

Inspector James Reid said on Saturday afternoon after receiving a complaint, he and Sergeant John Thompson set out in the police car to search for a stolen automobile. They cruised around the north and south ends of the city and subsequently proceeded out Highway 28. At a point between Springville and Kendry they came across the car they were looking for in the ditch, and arrested the accused on a charge of car theft. The Inspector said he found accused lying in the ditch at the side of the car. He was vomiting and in his hands he clutched the ignition keys of the car and the driver's permit and ownership card in the name of Mr. McGee.

Sergeant Thompson corroborated.

OBITUARY

DR. B. M. SPEERR

MADOC, Oct. 8—The news of the death of Dr. B. M. Speerr, of Moundsville, West Va., was received in Madoc early this week by his sister-in-law, Mrs. L. L. Neckse. He passed away at 6 a.m. on Saturday, 25th, after being ill from a heart ailment since the previous evening. He had suffered a similar attack last June, but since recovering had been able to attend his regular duties.

Dr. B. M. Speerr celebrated his 80th birthday just a short time ago, and death ended a career devoted to the work of the church in which he was a prominent divine.

Dr. Speerr was archdeacon of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of West Virginia, general manager of Reynolds Memorial Hospital, and father of the community playground movement in Moundsville.

He was born in Robin Hood near Wakefield, England, September, 2, 1857, and was christened Benjamin Moore Speerr. He came to Canada from England when 24 years of age. The early part of his young manhood was spent as an educator and at 31 years of age he became inspector of schools at Valley City, North Dakota. Later he became state lecturer under the Board of Education.

Dr. Speerr then became a lay reader in Old Saint's church, next a deacon, and finally was ordained to the priesthood of the church.

He went to Moundsville, West Va., from N. Dakota in 1893, to become rector of Trinity Episcopal church, where he served 28 years. For 42 years he has been Archdeacon of the Protestant Episcopal church of West Virginia.

In 1894 he founded for the poor and sick of Glendale, God's Providence Home, which in 1899 became the Reynolds Memorial Hospital and Training School for nurses, of which he was general manager and trustee.

Among the social welfare institutions that have been founded and supported by Dr. Speerr during his career are: Sheltering Arms Hospital, Hansford, W. Va., Nurses Association for visiting the poor, Glendale, W. Va., Industrial School in the Blue Ridge Mountains, W. Va., the Sarah Sprague Upham Memorial House, Blue Ridge Mountains, Christ Church Mission, Blue Ridges, St. Andrew's Mission and Davis Creek Mission.

His work among the inmates of the state penitentiary also is listed among his many philanthropies.

He was a leading figure not only in the church and civic affairs in Moundsville and Marshall county, but in local financial affairs as well. He founded the First National Bank and was its first president. Dr. Speerr was active as a director of the bank at the time of his death, visiting the bank almost daily.

He was also interested in the old Farmers' and Merchants' Bank. He was president of the Playground Association and a past president of the Kiwanis Club.

Dr. Speerr was married in 1888 to Isabel Stewart Sampson. She died in 1918, leaving one son, Arthur Clenton Speerr, prominent executive in the Monongahela West Penn Public Service organization at Fairmont.

He again was married in 1922 to Gertrude Speerr of Madoc, Ont., who died in 1935. One child was born, Gertrude Webster Speerr, at home in Glendale.

Two grandchildren also survive, Penelope Stewart Speerr, and Benjamin Moore Speerr.

Funeral services were held privately on Monday afternoon. Immediately afterwards public services were held at Trinity church.

The Rt. Rev. Bishop W. I. Gravatt of Charleston and Rt. Rev. Bishop R. E. L. Strider of Wheeling, close friends and associates of the deceased in the work of the church, officiated. Interment was made in Greenlawn Cemetery, Moundsville.

DRUGGIST'S SLIP KILLS TWO TORONTO WOMEN

BOTH CHINA, JAP ARMIES POISED FOR BIG DRIVES

New Fear of Smallpox Hanging Over Shanghai.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 9 (AP)—Chinese and Japanese forces waited apprehensively tonight for the dawning of China's national holiday tomorrow, each on guard against the other's expected offensive.

The Chinese have boasted they will celebrate the 26th anniversary of the establishment of their constitutional government with a successful drive to push the Japanese out of the Shanghai sector. The Japanese hope to make the anniversary a day of humiliation for China.

A Japanese army spokesman announced, however, that despite reports from air scouts of heavy Chinese concentrations and reinforcements, he expected any counter-attacks to be brief.

He said all evidence indicated the Chinese were preparing to withdraw to the interior from the Shanghai front in the near future.

Fear Smallpox

Adding to the woes of Shanghai's foreign population, menaced by bursting bombs on their outskirts and a cholera plague in their midst, public health officials advised all residents to be vaccinated against smallpox.

The department warned smallpox may break out soon because of the overcrowded conditions in Chinese refugee camps.

Clinics have been opened where both Chinese and foreigners may be vaccinated free.

Japanese authorities issued photographs of happy-looking Chinese prisoners to the foreign press. The pictures were distributed after publication here of photographs of Japanese aviators captured at Nanking, China's capital.

Officials announced the Japanese navy had captured 24 Chinese prisoners and the army 580, all on the Shanghai front. They said the hostages are in a prison camp in the Yangtze-Poo area and are being well treated.

DEATH TUMBLE TALE IS DOUBTED

QUEBEC, Oct. 9 (CP)—Provincial Police, working on a theory Albert Soucy is not dead, questioned 19-year-old Gemma Rancourt today on her story of Soucy's "death." Col. Leon Lambert, head of Quebec city division of the police, awaited confirmation of news Soucy is "alive and well" at his parents' home in Riviere Aux Rats, Champlain county.

"Very complicated—very mysterious," said Col. Lambert of the Quebec housemaid's narrative the young colonist had fallen to his death at Montmorency Falls. A thorough search of waters below the falls yesterday failed to disclose trace of the body, although officers said it might have been carried in swift water to the St. Lawrence River.

The chief declared the girl, under close questioning, had changed her original story that Soucy fell 226 feet Wednesday night from a platform into a precipice near the falls. The girl, who left the home where she was employed two weeks ago, was arrested on a nominal vagrancy charge after telling her first story.

Col. Lambert said officers have been sent out of town on the case and others have "found something near the falls where she said he fell, but it might not turn out to be anything connected with this case."

LAYS 1,000TH EGG

VINELAND, N.J., Oct. 9.—(AP).—A White Leghorn hen, known only as 30-6, laid its 1,000th egg Friday—a United States' record.

Officials of the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station, said no other hen had ever been officially recorded as a 1,000-egg hen. Some others in supervised egg laying contests have come within 30 or 30 of the mark, they said, but then quit cold.

The champion was one of 21 from the flock of Miss Mariam Ayars of Shiloh.

Mussolini Approves Jap Measures In Invading China

....Will Never Spare General Support In Cause; Mild Tokyo Reply To Powers Stirs Surprise.

TOKYO, Oct. 9 (AP).—The Domei (Japanese) News Agency reported today Giacinto Aurita, Italian ambassador, assured Kensuke Horinouchi, Japanese vice-minister of foreign affairs, that Italy approves Japan's measures in China and "will never spare general support to Japan."

The Italian embassy declined to make any comment to The Associated Press on the report.

Domei said Aurita gave his assurances to Horinouchi in a formal visit and authorized the vice minister to convey the Italian stand to the whole nation.

Meanwhile, authoritative Japanese sources expressed surprise over the mildness of a foreign office answer to League of Nations and United States condemnation of Japan as an invader in China.

"Something," they said, changed the government's attitude within 12 hours.

The foreign office statement disclaimed any territorial ambitions for Japan and accused China of aggression by provocative acts, among them plans to murder 30,000 Japanese, including women and children, on Chinese soil.

Change in 11th Hour.

The Associated Press learned from a reliable source the original plan was to comment separately on the United States and League of Nations actions. Separate statements were said to have been ready for release Friday night.

This plan, this source said, was abandoned at the 11th hour for the answer announced to-day and no reason was given for the change.

Authoritative quarters continued to insist Japagn will not participate in conferences of the nine-power treaty signatories even though she is not going to denounce the treaty.

The Japanese note said China, violating anti-war treaties, was endangering world peace and that Japanese recourse to arms was entirely for "self-defence."

ELEVATOR BLAST SHAKES BUFFALO 3 HURT, 100 ESCAPE

BUFFALO, N.Y., Oct. 9.—(AP).—Broken windows in nearby houses and buildings testified to-day to the force of a rumbling dust explosion which blew off the roof of a 200-foot grain elevator last night.

Three men were injured but 100 others working nearby escaped when the explosion shot up through the elevator of the Eastern States Farmers Exchange Cooperative.

Witnesses said the explosion resembled a "skyrocket."

The flash lighted up the sky over Buffalo and was followed by a reverberation which shook many parts of the city.

Company officials tentatively estimated the damage to the plant at only $5,000, as the exterior of the building did not appear to have been seriously damaged.

Grain men said the blast was the largest elevator explosion in recent years in this area of grain storage and processing plants. The elevator stands in the industrial section in suburban Tonawanda, close to the Buffalo city line.

TRUNK OF BONES MYSTIFIES POLICE

TORONTO, Oct. 9 (CP).—A trunk of bones found in the backyard of a Boulton Avenue house today mystified police. The bones were turned over to the chief coroner for examination.

The bones, almost a complete skeleton, were wired together. They were discovered by two boys playing, who ran to the nearest police station when they saw contents of the trunk.

The occupant of the house was mystified as to how the trunk got into her yard, as it was not there a few hours before the boys found it, she said.

Police learned a doctor once lived nearby—but they still cannot figure out why they were disposed of this way.

Chamberlain Asks Peace Will Try Any Plan.

Hopes Duce's Reply Will Ease Situation—British Army To Be Ready For Anything

SCARBOROUGH, Yorkshire, Oct. 9 (CP).—Prime Minister Chamberlain was ready today to lead Great Britain into international co-operation toward peace.

"Our governing objective, now as always, is the restoration and maintenance of peace," he told 5,000 persons at the Conservative conference here last night. "And we will gladly co-operate in any plan which will help secure that end."

President Roosevelt's "clarion call" for a concerted effort in the cause of peace would receive the whole hearted support of the government, Prime Minister said, adding it would "clearly be premature at this stage for me to commit this government to any particular course of action."

He laid down, as a premise to Anglo-Italian co-operation, a real step toward clarification of the question of foreign troops in Spain.

"If we could make real progress in settlement of the Spanish problem, the way would be opened for those conversations which formed the subject of recent correspondence between signor Mussolini and myself," he said.

Hopes Reply Will Aid

The Prime Minister earnestly trusted the Italian reply to the Anglo-French invitation to a three-power conversation on the matter "may prove to be of such a character as will bring us all into greater harmony."

Welcoming Mr. Roosevelt's entrance into the international situation through his Chicago speech against aggression and war, Mr. Chamberlain referred to the United States as "the most powerful country in the world."

Hitherto, he said, it had been assumed the United States would be content with an isolationist policy. But Mr. Roosevelt had seen that what he called an epidemic of world lawlessness was allowed to spread, no country would be safe from attack.

The Prime Minister spoke bitterly of "the sickening, horrifying spectacle" of two major, though undeclared, wars—in Spain and in the Far East.

The mind revolted, he said, before descriptions of slaughter on non-combatants. Yet there was danger lest those natural feelings should miss the real point at which they should be directed.

Cruelty, barbarity, mutilation and death of non-combatants were inevitable accompaniments of modern humanity lay in having resort to force at all, he declared, in contradiction of engagements solemnly entered into, without even an attempt to settle differences by peaceful discussion and negotiation.

Results, in minutes, were:

1 DEAD, 16 INJURED FRENCH ELECTION

PARIS, Oct. 9 (AP).—France's rival political parties drove their Cantonal election campaigns to a close today after scattered skirmishes that left one dead and at least 16 wounded.

All the country, except the capital, will vote for local councils tomorrow in elections considered as a test of strength for the popular front which controls the National Government. Fourteen members of Premier Chautemps' Cabinet, including Finance Minister Georges Bonnet, Justice Minister Vincent Auriol, Interior Minister Mark Dormoy and more than 260 deputies and senators were among the candidates.

A Communist was shot to death at Saint Fons yesterday, while five Nationalists were injured at Cambrai. A policeman injured at Mitry-Mory, outside Paris, added to the casualty list of 10 at Meaux.

A campaign sensation was caused by press charges that Dormoy had told Socialist electors "we will not leave Chautemps in power long but will retake the reins to push our experiment to the limit."

Dormoy denied the charges but the newspapers announced they were ready to bring proof.

(The contests were not for the National Legislature but for the posts of general councillors and arrondissement councillors in France's 2,027 cantons, subdivisions roughly corresponding to townships).

LASHES ORDERED PETERBORO' YOUTH IN LINDSAY COURT

LINDSAY, Oct. 9.—(Special.) — Magistrate E. A. Gee, yesterday ordered lashes for a prisoner for the first time since he has been on the Bench.

He sentenced Frank McIntosh, 19, of Peterborough, to six months in the Ontario Reformatory and six lashes, when the youth pleaded guilty to indecent assault.

When sentence had been passed, the accused objected to the lashes. "Everything the Crown said wasn't true," he said. "I pleaded guilty to the charge so the girl would not have to come to court and I don't know why you should give me lashes."

The accused referred to Crown Attorney J. E. Anderson's summing up of the facts of the case and stated that some of Mr. Anderson's remarks were not quite correct.

SCARE FOR MOTORISTS

BRANTFORD, Ont., Oct. 9 (CP).—What appeared to be a mass theft of motor cars turned out to be nothing more than a group of funsters' idea of a joke. A half-dozen residents of Dufferin Avenue reported to police the other night their cars were stolen. Investigation showed the cars just had been pushed from their parking places, in some cases as much as a block or two away.

Confuses 2 Bottles In Prescription, Sip Brings Death

Admits Mistake—Police Trace Other Orders; Victims Unconnected, Different Doctors.

TORONTO, Oct. 9 (CP).—A mistake made by a druggist in compounding doctors' prescriptions was blamed today for the deaths of two New Toronto housewives as police sought to trace all prescriptions filled recently by the chemist. The man's name was withheld and he was not held in custody.

The women, Mrs. Lydia Cardy and Mrs. Helen Wilkie Heron, dropped dead in their suburban homes last night after taking medicine compounded by the druggist from similar prescriptions issued by two different doctors. The medicine contained a virulent poison which the chemist is alleged to have admitted using in error. He was said to have confused two bottles on his shelves.

Mrs. Cardy and Mrs. Heron were under the care of physicians and obtained similar prescriptions. They took them yesterday to the same druggist to have them filled. Police said they were satisfied, however, there was no other connection between the cases.

The women were not related, but lived in the same neighborhood.

Death Follows One Sip.

Each took only one sip of the mixture before dropping dead.

Police said they were seeking to trace other prescriptions issued by the druggist on the remote possibility similar mistakes had been made.

Mrs. Heron had earlier in the evening called some friends on the telephone inviting them to come over and spend the evening. She was recovering from an abdominal operation performed about two months ago, and when she was speaking to her friends she was in a happy mood because of her rapid progress.

Her husband, overcome at her sudden death in convulsions immediately after she had taken only the first of two prescribed teaspoonsful of the medicine, was taken to the home of friends.

A small six-ounce bottle was said to have contained the poison. Other bottles were kept in alphabetical order on shelves in the druggist's shop. How the poison found its way to the shelf from which prescriptions were mixed was not immediately apparent.

Frank Smith, a nephew of Mrs. Cardy, said his aunt died in the afternoon "after taking some medicine." She was expecting a child shortly, Smith said, and had been under a physician's care.

IL DUCE'S ANSWER TO FRANCE, BRITAIN IS NOT DISCLOSED

ROME, Oct. 9.—(AP).— Italy's reply to the French and British invitation to three-power talks on intervention in Spain was handed to the Paris and London envoys.

Official sources gave no indication of the contents of the note to be made public after the two governments had studied it.

The speech of Prime Minister Chamberlain last night at Scarborough, Eng., was received with "great intrest," it was said.

(Chamberlain's address was generally regarded by London observers as containing a last minute overture to gain Italy's cooperation with Anglo-French moves to rid Spain of foreign soldiery).

Although informed quarters believed the Italian reply had been delayed until after after Chamberlain's speech, an informed source said he did not know what effect it had on Premier Mussolini's response.

Eden Conferring With King.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—(AP).—Foreign Secretary Eden was not at the Foreign Office to-day to receive the reply from Italy on the Spanish volunteer question.

He was at Balmoral Castle in Scotland for the week-end to place the latest developments in both Spain and the Far East before the King, as well as to confer with Sir Ronald Lindsay, British Ambassador to the United States, also a visitor at Balmoral.

Italy's reply was expected to reject the proposed Italian-French-British conference and at the same time intimate she was ready to discuss the Spanish question in the London Non-Intervention committee.

But London and Paris were believed agreed a re-opening of general discussion in the London committee would be useless.

Under these circumstances opening of France's Spanish frontier for the supply of arms and munitions to the Valencia government was held virtually certain. Left-wing sources suggested the frontier might be opened as soon as Monday.

At the same time Prime Minister Chamberlain was known to be deeply sincere in his desire for restoring Great Britain's old friendship with Italy and he was not likely to give up the strugle to that end if there were the least hint of conciliation in Premier Mussolini's answer.

His Scarborough speech was in-

Collins succeeded in bringing the plane to a halt before it settled on one wing, damaging the fuselage and undercarriage.

Both occupants were shaken up but otherwise unhurt.

Freighter's Drydock Complex Sending Mechanics Crazy

Misses But One In Ten Weeks' Effort To Sail Down St. Lawrence

THREE RIVERS, Que., October 9.—(CP).— Harmless in appearance but at heart a tempermental cuss with a heap of bad habits, the United States freighter Ormidale lay smugly in Three Rivers harbor today while mechanics vented fury over her stubborn motors.

The Ormidales worst habit is that she refuses to pass a drydock. Well, yes, she did go by one at Sorel a week ago—but just the same she's tried ever since August to sail from Buffalo to New York.

The Story of the Ormidales recent misbehavings is wrapped up in the Spanish war, gun-running, shoestring financing, arrests, sit-down strikes, crew committees, lawyers and dry-docks —mostly drydocks and headaches and pocketbooks.

They tell you along the waterfront that the Ormidale, a small motorship laid up for several years, appeared one day in the Lachine Canal on her way down the lakes to New York. It looked as if the old girl was going to make a comeback.

The crew got her as far as Montreal's upper drydock—pretty good work because she had nearly given up the ghost near Lachine. At

Hepburn Victory Buys Horse Oats

Kincardine, Oct. 9.

A HORSE against $15 that the Hepburn Government would be returned was the wager made by a local man with the butcher with whom he deals. The wager was accepted.

Today it was paid, the merchant handing out $15 to his customer, whose first action was to spend the money for oats for the horse which he had wagered. Prior to the election he had decided to dispose of the animal.

Think Expert Engineering Needed To Get Kidd's Gold

Toronto Man Believes Ocean That Has Trimmed 28 Attempts Can Be Beaten

TORONTO, Oct. 9 (C.P.) — William Hirtle, Nova Scotia-born Toronto engineer and patent attorney, thinks a party now searching for Captain Kidds proverbial buried treasure on Oak Island, N.S., is on the right track, but needs expert engineering advice.

Previous efforts to locate the treasure failed because of such engineering advice, he said.

"You see the Atlantic seeped in every time the young before and apparently is seeping in now," he said. No one could doubt that something unusual existed at the spot where for the 29th time an effort is being made to find the cache. First effort was in 1795 when a party was attracted by a forked tree in a clearing holding an ancient tackle, beneath which was a depression in the earth.

Later excavations revealed signs of previous diggings but always at the 90-foot level water would seep in. The sea always prevented finishing the job.

In Nova Scotia the legend is a man on his deathbed confessed he had been one of Captain Kidd's men and had assisted in burying more than $2,000,000 on an island "east of Boston."

Dog Owner Hunts Non-Tickle Chalk So Pup Can Learn To Write

Nelson, B.C., Oct. 9 (CP).

DUKE, a four-year-old mongrel police dog, can't write his name—but he's learning.

Because the chalk he was learning to write with tickled his toes his penmanship is not up to his other accomplishments, according to his master, Richard Davidson of nearby Canes.

Davidson, who has owned Duke since puppyhood, said his dog can count pretty well, can play ball, pick out some 300 different objects and bring them to his master, climb trees and ladders and fetch buckets of water from the lake.

Duke so far hasn't taken to writing. He found he could make the letter "D" by holding the chalk between his toes. But Davidson said the chalk tickled the dog's paw and he has given up teaching him for the time being. He's making a chalk holder which will fit over the paw, enabling Duke to practice in comfort.

Defeated Tory Gets Double Rebuff As Hindu Crew Shuns His Sow

Ridgetown, Oct. 9.

J. DUFF BRIE, defeated Conservative candidate in East Kent and internationally known live-stock breeder, has a right to have that downtrodden feeling. He is not only turned down in the election this week to the tune of a 5,000 majority, but there are people who won't even ride on the same boat with his champion Berkshire sow.

Mr. Brien some days ago shipped a 600 pound Berkshire sow, with which he won the grand championship at the Canadian National Exhibition, to Australia.

When they were loading it on a steamer at Montreal the whole crew, it is said, threatened to quit. It appears they were Hindus, to whom the pig is an unclean animal, and they refused to ride on the same boat. The prize porker had to be held for the next boat.

Alberta Weeklies Will Fight Aberhart's Press Gag

Be No "Arena In Which Crackbones, Political Buffoons Can Stage Acts"

EDMONTON, Oct. 9 (C.P.). — Need of a free and honest press was emphasized by W. A. MacDonald, business manager of the Edmonton Journal, in an address last night at the national banquet on the Alberta Division, Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association. Attempts had been made in various generations to crush the press in an effort to check the spirit and voice of the people, said Mr. MacDonald. "Yet the press and democracy thrive to-day after foolish kings, misguided Parliaments and headstrong dictators have passed away," he said.

The association earlier appointed a special committee to consider making representations to the Federal Government respecting the Alberta Legislature's Bill "to ensure the publication of accurate news and information." The Bill has been referred to the Governor-General-in-Council by Lieutenant-Governor J. C. Bowen.

Alberta newspapers are resolved not to become "an arena in which crackbones and political buffoons can put on their acts," said H. T. Halliwell, president of the Alberta Division.

Newspapers had forecast accurately present developments in Alberta, he said, but had never exercised bias or prejudice in presenting actual reports of political happenings.

Mr. Halliwell said newspapers did not seek to "control" public opinion but only to "guide" it.

"We have been treated in the last two years as if we had the mentality of 13-year-olds," he charged.

Promise of full support of the weekly newspaper publishers of British Columbia to the Alberta publishers in "their fight for the freedom of the press" was contained in a telegram read during the afternoon session.

The message said first act of the convention of the British Columbia convention starting in Vancouver today was to draft the message and send copies to the Alberta division and Premier Aberhart.

RAFT ON BEACH NOT EARHART'S

NEW YORK, Oct. 9. (UP).—J. Lansing Callan, rubber-raft designer, said last night he did not believe the raft picked up on a Hawaiian beach was one his firm made for Amelia Earhart.

"The raft made for Miss Earhart," he said, "carried the label 'Air Cruisers Inc.' as well as my own name, and descriptions I have received of the raft say it carried only my name."

Callan also said the raft made for Miss Earhart carried a single carbon dioxide bottle, since it was of new design, whereas older rafts carry two bottles. Descriptions of the raft found did not mention such bottles.

"I doubt very much if the raft could be Miss Earhart's," Callan said, "first, because of the missing Air Cruiser Inc. label, and secondly because I don't see how it could have drifted that far. I was in the navy for some years and the currents in that vicinity would have taken the raft away from Hawaii."

Callan believed the raft, of "two-man" type, came from a pleasure boat.

MOST HATED MAN IN THE PROVINCE ABERHART THINKS

RAYMOND, Alta., Oct. 9 (CP).—In an address here last night Premier Aberhart termed himself "the most hated man in Alberta." Raymond is 20 miles south of Lethbridge.

The Premier was introduced as "the most talked-of man and the best-loved man in Alberta." Mr. Aberhart remarked the introduction omitted one phase. "He could have added the most hated man in Alberta.'"

Record of the Social Credit government was defended by the Premier who said the tax load had been found unequal. Privileged interests and monopolies must pay for their privileges, he said.

Farmers paid 10 mills on the dollar and corporations an equal amount. Higher taxes had been levied on the banks, power companies and railroads.

"When they can show me the corporations are paying more taxes than the farmers, I will be willing to listen to their appeals for reduction," he said.

Mr. Aberhart referred to three Alberta Legislature bills for which Lieutenant-Governor J. C. Bowen withheld assent at the pleasure of the Governor-General—bills to increase taxation of banks, to amend the credit of Alberta regulation act and "to ensure the publication of accurate news and information."

The provincial government, said the Premier, already held the unquestioned right to tax banks. It was already doing so. The aim of its last legislation was only to increase the tax.

Questions Governor's Act.

"Yet the Lieutenant-Governor questions our Act," he said.

Great misrepresentation had also greeted the Newspaper Bill, he claimed. It was only intended to ensure accuracy.

"I question very much whether the Lieutenant-Governor had the constitutional right to question these Acts," he said.

"I have always understood the Lieutenant-Governor should take the advice of the Premier. I am telling you, ladies and gentlemen, that constitutional government in this province is being challenged.

"It is your problem—not mine. It is a challenge to responsible and representative government.

"We want you to know the facts. If we come to a constitutional crisis it is up to you to give the answer."

"I don't know whether I can find out by any means other than an election. It hasn't come to that point yet."

BIG SOVIET NAVAL ORDER GIVEN U.S.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (CP)—The Herald Tribune said today it learned the Soviet Government has authorized its commercial agents in New York to purchase as much as $50,000,000 worth of naval equipment for export to Russia as soon as possible.

The material is to consist of prefabricated parts of battleships and other types of fighting craft, including turrets, armor plate, propelling machinery, boilers and engines, the paper said.

Also among the equipment will be 16-inch naval guns, the paper said, adding the purchases are being arranged here by the Carp Export and Import Corporation, the special munitions purchasing organization for the Soviet Government.

The United States State Department's September report of licenses issued for the export of arms, munitions and implements of war showed Russia was licensed during the month to take out more than $10,000,000 worth of war material.

A Surprise Move.

The admiralty's about-face on the question of the reported torpedo attack off the Spanish eastern coast on the destroyer Bustiek caused widespread comment.

The admiralty had seemed quite convinced an attack had been made by a pirate submarine when it issued its original statement to that effect last Monday.

An admiralty spokesman last night admitted depth bombs had been dropped by the Bustiek but suggested a "mistake undoubtedly occurred."

"We cannot tell you what it was that appeared to be a torpedo" he said. "It might have been a porpoise but we really cannot say."

London owners of the 1,810-ton freighter Cervantes confirmed today the vessel had escaped damage in a bomb attack by an insurgent plane while enroute to Tarragona, on Spain's eastern coast. The Cervante changed her course when attacked yesterday but had not yet made port.

FAMOUS KENTUCKY LOST MINE FOUND

CINCINNATI, Oct. 9 (UP). — A Cincinnati man returned from the hill county of Eastern Kentucky yesterday with the story of his rediscovery of the lost Swift Mine"—famous in Kentucky legend for nearly two centuries.

I. H. Kopf, who, with his searching party, found the storied mine after following the fork of a creek into a steep canyon in the mountainous terrain of Wolfe County said that assays of its ore revealed a gold content of $160 to $180 a ton.

Needs $25,000 Capital.

Kopf said he had obtained mineral rights to 6,348 acres of land surrounding the mine, and that he would begin mining operations as soon as he could raise $25,000 operating capital.

Kopf said he first became interested in the legend six years ago, when he heard the story of the adventurer John Swift, who joined in operating the mine at various periods between 1762 and 1768.

Swift, according to the story Kopf heard, had found the deposit, only to lose its location when he went blind, and had spent his declining years in a search for it with a faithful half-breed Indian. The Indian was supposed to have been murdered when he refused to aid later searchers.

Buried Silver.

Swift's journal, adding to the fabulous legend, told how the adventurer and his companions had buried $30,000 worth of bar silver before they were driven from the country by hostile Indians.

The mine of Kentucky folklore and history always has been called "Swift's Silver Mine." It is mentioned several times to Lewis Collins's "History of Kentucky," which traced references to it back to the operations of a band of French explorers in 1754.

Without Assent In Alberta

Rumors that Premier William Aberhart will resign as Premier of Alberta and seek a new mandate from the people are rife in Edmonton following announcement by Lieut.-Governor J. C. Bowen (ABOVE), that assent to three of the Social Credit government's most drastic measures would be withheld, "until further significance thereon be received from his excellency the governor-general of Canada." The bills, passed by the Alberta legislature, were designed to give the government control over banks and newspapers. Bowen's action was tantamount to expressing non-confidence in Premier Aberhart's government.

Biblical Thoughts For The Shut-Ins

By Rev. E. R. James, Toronto

WHY NOT?

THEN came the Jews round about Him and said unto Him, If Thou be Christ, tell us plainly.—St. John 10, 24.

A modern scholar of the first rank has pointed out that Our Lord rarely answered a straight question. This is implied in the angry interrogation:—"If Thou be the Christ tell us plainly?"

When studying the fourth Gospel it is important to remember that the term "Jews" always means the religious heads of that nation. The "Jews," educated, enlightened men, were well able to make a decision about Him. Our Lord's heart went out in sympathy to the simple, plain, everyday people, the little ones of the flock; so He reveals Himself plainly to the blind beggar and the Samaritan woman, both outcasts of society.

Why did our Lord not speak plainly?

The expectation of the coming of the Christ, the Messiah, the Anointed of God, was in the air. But the popular idea of the Christ was that of a strong man, a super man leading their armies against the Romans and freeing the country from the foreign yoke. The Province of Galilee was the hot bed for such movements. The Lord, Who called Himself the meek and lowly One, was early recognized by the national leaders as not the Christ. If you read the Gospels carefully you will see that His popularity fades rapidly in the second year of His ministry. He is not coming up to the expectation of the people. He is not their Christ. Even after the resurrection the Apostles held fast to this idea. "Lord, wilt Thou at this time restore again the Kingdom to Israel?"

In God's great love and mercy He revealed Himself to the Jewish people as the One, Only, Living God. God's intention was that the Jews should become missionaries to the rest of the world. Instead they prided themselves on their spiritual advantage that they were better than the Gentiles. At the time of Our Lord's ministry the Jewish people had developed a strong spirit of nationalism—their superiority—they were the people of God.

At the same time Palestine was a province of the Roman Empire and the people very troublesome. During the next forty years this spirit of nationalism grew till it broke out in rebellion. In A.D. 70 the patience of the Roman Government was exhausted and the word went forth to Titus to destroy Jerusalem and exterminate and scatter this cancer in the Empire. And it was so. What a lesson for our age when nationalism has the first place in political thought.

Our Lord came to reveal Himself as the Son of God, the Light of the world. He chose a group of men in whom He found some spiritual light and desire. He called them to be with Him that they might discover His great secret. It is with deep emotion that He exclaims after St. Peter's confession: — 'Flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee but My Father which is in Heaven.'

The truth that He is the Christ is only revealed to those who have union with God and desire spiritual knowledge. It is an inward enlightenment. He saw in the Roman Centurion and in the Syrophenician woman what He looked for—that they were in touch with His Spirit.

Our Lord uttered a profound truth when He said:—"My sheep hear my voice and I know them and they follow Me." The musician, the artist, the scientist, each from his own standpoint says:— "My sheep hear my voice and I know them and they follow me." The soul of the musician must touch the soul of his pupil and the pupil must hear his voice and follow him for further knowledge.

Our Lord came to reveal Himself in the lives of men and women, "being formed in them" by His Spirit, so that men could see the living Christ in the persons of plain men and women.

But first of all there must be inward conviction that Jesus is indeed the Christ. Then His Spirit will touch your spirit and there will be an immediate response. You will hear His voice; read His words and they will be as honey in your mouth for sweetness; which means that your spirit has sympathy with the thoughts and ideals of God. Gradually His gentleness, His goodness, His purity, His loveliness will be seen in you and men will say of you that they have seen Christ plainly in you.

The Christian In God's Keeping

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Sunday, October 10, is Psalm 121 and Jude 1-25, the Golden Text being verse 21, "Keep yourselves in the love of God, looking for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ unto eternal life.")

THE OLD TESTAMENT psalmist had a profound conviction of the keeping power of his God and ours. As he "lifted up his eyes unto the mountains" there came to him the comforting thought of the keeping power of their Creator: "My help cometh from the Lord which made heaven and earth." The God who gives stability to the majestic mountains will also give stability to his people: "He will not suffer thy foot to be moved: he that keepeth thee will nos slumber. Behold, he that keepeth Israel shall neither slumber nor sleep. The Lord is thy keeper." This constant keeping extends beyond the realm of the physical things of the soul: "The Lord shall keep thee from all evil; he shall keep thy soul. The Lord shall keep thy going out and thy coming in, from time forth and for evermore." How necessary is this keeping care our heavenly Father, and how comforting it is to know that it is all about us at all times

God's Keeping Us

In the New Testament Jude, the brother of James and of our Lord, expressed the same view of God's keeping of his own, as he addressed his Christian readers as "them that are called, beloved in God the Father, and kept for Jesus Christ." To this keeping God he ascribed praise thus: "Now unto him that is able to keep you from falling, and to present you faultless before the presence of his glory with exceeding joy, to the only wise God our Saviour, be glory and majesty, dominion and power, both now and ever."

Our Keeping the Faith

But while both Old Testament and New Testament speak plainly of the keeping power of our God and of our faith, the scriptures speak as plainly of our duty of keeping the faith, and of our keeping ourselves in this faith and in the love of God. Jude's chief purpose in writing his brief letter to the church of the first century was, as he says, "to exhort them to contend earnestly for the faith which was once for all delivered unto the saints." Our Lord's prophecy concerning false teachers as "wolves in sheep's clothing" was being fulfilled in that early day as now. Jude says of them that they were "turning the grace of God into lasciviousness, and denying our only Master and Lord Jesus Christ." Against their false teachings and evil manner of life Jude exhorted: "Ye beloved, building yourselves on your most holy faith, praying in the Holy Spirit, keep yourselves in the love of God, looking for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ unto eternal life."

So the saying, "The Lord helps those who help themselves", is true in this respect, that our God keeps us as we strive to keep ourselves by keeping the faith and keeping ourselves in his love through prayer and the rememberance of his teachings.

New Light From Old Lamps

A volume of sermons, under the above title, will appear on the market on December 1st, from the pen of Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr, minister of St. Paul's Church. Those who have read them give them favorable comment, one reviewer stating that, after having read them very carefully, he considers them "a fine contribution to the religious thought of our time." That this is true is borne out by the fact that the titles are very suggestive; some of them being "The Divinity that shapes our ends," "Heredity and the grace of God," "Blind mouths," "No new thing under the sun," and etc. Every chapter is marked by up-to-date illustrations from the classics as well as from modern writers in philosophy, psychology, and social reform; yet the whole breathes a true spirit of loyalty to the old gospel.

In the preface to the volume, Dr. Barr states it as his conviction that "the last word has not yet been uttered anent the implications of the gospel for a world in its present sad condition." He does not presume to offer a solution to the moral and intellectual chaos of the present time; at the same time he offers these ideas as a constructive contribution to the whole problem. "Through all there runs one central thought: That, in this age of experimentation, when the world has, as it were, struck out for the open plain, politically, economically, socially, and religiously, the contribution of classical culture and the background of the human struggle, recorded for us in the history of the acts, ideals, and philosophies of men in their generation may be completely lost sight of." He affirms his conviction that the pendulum must swing back; and that this can only be guaranteed, when we "turn our attion once more to the ways and means of other generations in attacking problems of perennial recurrence." He criticizes the leadership of men today, and urges a return to the leadership of the Word of God as a divine revelation, for, he says, "it reveals not only the wisdom of a Solomon, but the spiritual genius of One, Who was God in the flesh."

The volume is being published by the Thorn Press of Toronto, and will be distributed by Presbyterian Publications.

Hepburn Sought For U.S. Speeches

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Oct. 9—(CP)—Premier Hepburn, resting at his home after victory in the Ontario election has received several invitations to make addresses in the United States.

The Premier has been invited to speak at a Canadian Club dinner in New York, November 25. He said last night he had not decided definitely whether to accept the invitation. Under present circumstances, Mr. Hepburn added, he was not inclined toward making speeches in the United States.

A National Message

The exact date of the setting up of the image of gold is unknown; although, as it was during the reign of Nebuchadnezzar, the approximate date is ascertainable. The period during which it was the God-given right of Nebuchadnezzar and his successors to determine their system of government, including finance, was contained within the period of two thousand five hundred and twenty years. Few if any of these years remain. The empires have already passed; the imperial systems are being removed and replaced by another system; the gold standard has already passed through phase after phase of its decline. We are in the transition period and the Kingdom of God is about to be restored. No earthly power can bolster up the system which it is the Lord's declared purpose to remove.

Being at the end of the period of the gold system, and at the beginning of the period for the restoration of the Divine system, it is well that we should examine a few of the economic axioms of the Kingdom of God.

First and foremost, the purpose of the system is 'to the end that there be no poor among you."

This is a statement of fact that it is well to look into closely. There is another system which makes some such claim as this—namely, that each citizen shall be supplied by the State with an equal share of the possessions of all. The corollary of this is that none shall own any personal or private possessions, but each one shall be entitled to a share of the goods and services possessed and produced by the State. This seems to be something after the reason given in the Law of the Lord, "to the end that there be no poor among you"; but a close study of the matter will show that on the contrary the slogan has the effect of reducing all to poverty, and such poverty as only the pauper knows who is maintained at the expense of the State.

None shall own any private possessions, is the slogan of Communism. All shall own such private possessions as shall lift each above poverty, is the object of the Law of the Lord.

Picture Sermon For St. Andrew's

Rev. E. W. Young, by the aid of pictures, will tell the story of the Sons of Freedom, popularly called the Doukhobors, a colony of settlers from Russia in Western Canada, in St. Andrew's Church, next Sunday night.

The first group of these "Spirit Wrestlers" came to Canada in 1899, driven from their homeland by the bitter persecution of the authorities. Since coming to Canada, they have been misunderstood by many people. Their failure to co-operate with the government, their refusal to bear arms has brought upon them acute criticism and condemnation.

They are a people of strange inconsistencies; whilst glorying in their freedom, they almost worship their leaders; of whom Peter Veregin, Senior and Junior, have been the chief representatives. Count Tolstoy was keenly interested in their welfare, and opened the way for their removal to Canada.

Peter Makaroff, the lawyer who succeeded in Halifax in preventing the deportation of Peter Veregin, Senior, after the officials had ordered it, is almost as romantic a personality as Peter Veregin himself.

The United Church of Canada has stationed a missionary amongst these people. Rev. H. W. Tapper of the University of Prague and of the University of British Columbia has already won the confidence of the young people of this strange sect, and won several of them not only to Christianity, but to good citizenship.

People of Russian descent in or around Peterborough, are specially invited to come and hear this romantic story. Christian people who would like to bridge the gulf that separates Canadians from the Doukhobors will find much help in this service.

Rain falling in torrents through a window onto a heap of lime caused a fire which destroyed farm buildings near Hohengoehren, Germany.

To Tell His Story

Dr. E. Ralph Hooper, who is a missionary serving with the Sudan Interior Mission is home on furlough. He has spent many years in Ethiopia and during the war was in charge of the Red Cross. The missionaries in that country, now under Italian rule, are being forced out of the land under an intolerance unheard of in any other part of Africa, and many stations are being closed. Dr. Hooper will tell his story in St. Paul's church on Tuesday evening.

Flying Bishop Is Coming To City

A romantic figure who has been aptly dubbed the "Flying Bishop" is to be a week-end visitor to Peterborough. He is the Right Reverend A. L. Fleming, D.D., Bishop of the Arctic. His ecclesiastical jurisdiction extends from Alaska to Baffin Land and his work is exclusively among the Eskimos. Not only does Bishop Fleming know the northwest "like a book" but he is also equally familiar with the north-eastern Arctic having been a regular sailor on the annual cruise of the Hudson Bay supply ship "Nascopie."

The Anglican divine is to be heard at St. John's Church Sunday morning and on the evening of the same day he is to give an illustrated address at All Saints' Church. He has been connected with Christianizing the Eskimos for the past twenty-nine years and during the whole of that period has followed his photographic hobby so that he has a remarkable collection of pictures of Eskimo life and habits. Prior to his ordination to the ministry Bishop Fleming was an engineer in Scotland. He is a graduate of Wycliffe College.

The Christian in God's Keeping — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Psalm 121 and Jude 1-25.

From the time when, as a lad, in his battle with the giant Goliath, David had been kept from harm, he believed God to be his keeper, and sang, "The Lord shall keep thee from all evil; he shall keep thy soul."

Jude, brother of James and of the Lord, wrote a letter to the Christians of his day, in which he called them, "Beloved in God the Father, and kept for Jesus Christ."

He urged them to keep the faith which had been handed down to them from Christ through the apostles. They were to "contend earnestly for the faith" and "keep themselves in the love of God."

Jude closed his letter praying, "Now unto him that is able to keep you from falling, to the only God our Saviour, through Jesus Christ our Lord, be glory, majesty, dominion, power, evermore." (GOLDEN TEXT—Jude 21)

Should Be No Exception

The Toronto Trades and Labor Council at its last meeting passed a resolution saying:

"That the secretary write the Prime Minister of Ontario protesting against the violation of the highway traffic laws by the Minister of Highways and the provincial police during the visit of members of the Japanese royal family to Toronto and Niagara Falls, and requesting that they be prosecuted by the Crown for the violation of the speed limit of Ontario."

We have not much hope that anything will ever come of the passing of the resolution, but it is well that the Trades and Labor Council did go on record. In this country we do not recognize the right of any person to break the law, the speed law or any other kind of law, and it never should be broken with the consent or on the instruction of the highways department above all others.

We doubt whether visiting members of any royal family would appreciate being whisked along our highways with police escort if they knew the law was being broken for their particular benefit. Much better to have it understood that the signs on our highways refer to and apply to all who use the highways.

The Radio And Its News

A correspondent sends a letter to the Examiner from which we take the following:

"I read with interest some of the facts related in your paper About the speed and accuracy with which election returns were received. Admittedly it was a good performance, and the Examiner gave the people here a good time on election night. We appreciated it. But just remember this—you are not yet as fast as the radio with its election service."

Perhaps there is a little something else which our correspondent does not know, and it is probably not his fault. The returns of the election which were being announced over the radio on Wednesday night had all been previously collected from all the polling places in the province by the Canadian Press. That is, by newspaper workers. The radio stations have no facilities for collecting news over such an area; the newspapers paid the entire cost of collecting all the returns; paid for sending them to the head office of Canadian Press, and then gave the service which the radio used to the Broadcasting Commission and made no charge for it. We mention that in justice to newspapers in general. It is due to their efforts that news or election broadcasts are possible.

What About Minorities?

The Toronto Star brings forth a favorite after-election question and produces figures showing that our system of electing members to the Legislature does not give proper representation to minorities. The Star uses figures which it admits are not yet complete, but which serve the purpose of illustration well enough, and says:

"Government supporters polled little more than half of the total vote, yet they secured 67 seats out of 90. The Conservatives polled about two-fifths of the total vote, but instead of the 36 members which this would give them on a relative basis, they have 23. The C.C.F. polled 76,000 votes and get no representation at all, nor do the 55,000 other votes secure a seat for anybody. It is not much of a system."

Nor is that much of an argument. There were some 35 C.C.F. candidates running, but they were all in different ridings. It is not possible to elect a section of a man in one riding and add another piece to him in another and so on until one perfect specimen is brought into existence. The entire candidate is either elected or defeated in the riding where he runs. The fact that each of these candidates received a number of votes in a number of ridings does not mean a thing as far as electing them is concerned.

Pretty much anything we do is decided the same way. Where there are elections in churches, lodges, societies of any kind, there are always minorities who did not succeed in making their desires or opinions operative because too many folk thought otherwise. As a rule minorities accept the will of the majorities and things go on well enough. Any system which has been tried for the equalization of group voting in returned membership to an elective house has been so complicated that it has failed to demonstrate itself as an improvement on our present system. As the number of groups increase any attempt to give them representation on the basis of the collective strength they have shown in all the ridings combined—whereas they may have polled only a few votes in each one would create a system where confusion would be increased to the point of a positive blockade.

Temperature And Rain

When it rains the precipitation is not turned on evenly. When it grows hot the degrees of heat are subject to variation, and the same is true when it turns cool. And that is all taking place within a rather limited area. The month of August has been analyzed from reports furnished to the Meteorological Service. It shows that in Lakefield which is ten miles from Peterborough there was 4.2 inches of rain in August; in this city there was a fall of 3.3 inches, while in Orono, which is about 30 miles southwest of Peterborough, the rainfall in August was but 0.7 inches. Lindsay is 24 miles from this city in the general direction of north-west, and the rainfall was almost identical in the two places, Lindsay having 3.4 inches and Peterborough 3.3. Apsley, 40 miles from Peterborough, and more to the north than to the east, had a rainfall of 3.2 inches, so in the Apsley-Lindsay-Peterborough section the rainfall was almost identical, although Lakefield, which is in this area, was almost an inch above the district average.

On the hottest day Apsley was able to show 98 degrees, while the best we could do in Peterborough was a mere 97. Bancroft, which is 36 miles north and east of Apsley, did no better than an 88 during the heat of August. And yet when it came to the place where the official thermometers were cooling off Apsley recorded a 39 while Bancroft had to be content with a 40, and in Peterborough the low mark was 50. The big surprise of the survey is that Lakefield should have 4.2 inches of rain while Orono had to be content with 0.7, and as miles go in these days of good roads, the places are not far one from the other.

Worth Considering

R. F. Howard is the president of the Ottawa Fish and Game Association and he recently sent out a letter to the five hundred members of that organization which contained a lot of things that required saying.

In the first place Mr. Howard reminded his fellow-members there never has been a time in the movement for adequate fish and game laws and wild-life protective measures when concerted action was more needed and when the co-operation of the public was more urgently required. And then he added this very important comment:

"Fortunately, people at large are beginning to realize what 'Conservation' signifies. In the past, many have thought it an academic term which held no practical application. Now, it is being learned that it is of vital importance for each and all; that saving insect and seed-eating birds is saving crops; that conserving game animals, birds and fish is providing healthful outdoor recreation and inducing tourist trade; that safeguarding forests is husbanding the water supply and helping to hold down the cost of living; that conservation is tantamount to putting money in the bank; that ruthless or ignorant destruction of wild life and forest growth is taking money out of the nation's pockets."

We believe it is true that more and more people are beginning to see that this matter of game and fish conservation is not something that merely concerns those who like to go hunting or fishing but on the contrary is of vital importance to the whole country.

One of the planks in the election platform of Hon. Earl Rowe that was approved of by many sportsmen and by other people who realize that the preservation of our wild life is definitely tied up with the question of tourist business was his promise to make a complete and separate department of fish and game under a full-time minister. When Mr. Hepburn buckles down to his task of rebuilding his cabinet he would do well to consider the proposal which in our opinion has distinct merit.

A Clean Fight

Now that the smoke of the political battle has blown away from the landscape, we have an idea that the disappointment of the two defeated local candidates is materially lessened by the knowledge that throughout the campaign they said nothing from the platform they have any reason now to regret and the satisfaction of the successful nominee is, for the same reason, complete. It is a matter for congratulation that Alex L. Elliott, the member-elect, T. P. Lancaster, the Conservative candidate, and William Johnson, the standard-bearer of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, each conducted a clean and manly campaign in which only the kindliest personal references were made. There was nothing said by any of them or on their behalf that could be construed as a personal attack and that is something upon which all three of the aspirants for the distinction of representing Peterborough at Queen's Park deserve commendation.

The campaign in general would have had a more effective appeal to many electors had it been conducted on the same high plane. Unfortunately it was not and the result of the abuse that featured the platform efforts of some of the speakers who went around the province was that some disgusted voters flatly declined to go to the polls at all.

Kitchenette Farming

In this age of invention folk have ceased to marvel at what science has been able to produce and have learned to accept all kinds of devices and gadgets quite calmly. At the same time the possibilities before such an outfit as the "nutrient tank" somebody has brought to light makes one wonder whether this scheme will mean merely pushing open the swinging door to the apartment kitchenette for future yearners for the good old farm. The things consists of a tank of water to which are added all the minerals needed to speed the growth of any given crop. In other words every home in the country could be turned into a truck farm by means of this ingenious device, if it lives up to all the claims that have been made for it.

The plan at least offers as much fun as the little dish gardens the women folk used to leave lying about on tables and on top of the radio, wherein grew a weedy grapefruit sprout or a baby cactus or something of the kind with colored stones, bits of moss and perhaps a mirror to give the effect of a lakeside garden.

You see the "nutrient tank" idea is so much more serious than mere dish gardening of the old type. And talk about domestic economy! Just think of the budgetary savings to be derived from this tank-war on the high price of spinach.

NOTE AND COMMENT

It seems to be fairly evident that Premier Hepburn knows something besides onions.

The election is all over and still we don't know where the Socialist-Labor candidates came from.

We imagine that Bill Terry of the New York Giants has a very clear idea of just how Hon. Earl Rowe is feeling these days.

One of the problems the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation has to overcome is the difficulty of getting voters to co-operate.

Mayor Smith of Kitchener had the second largest majority in the province the other day. He must have got the solid Smith vote.

If all the road-making promised before last Wednesday is carried out there ought to be a brisk business in red lanterns for some time to come.

We notice in the newspapers of the province that almost everywhere in Ontario there is a man with just the right qualities for a job in Mr. Hepburn's rebuilt cabinet.

The editor of Toronto Saturday Night thinks political parties in Canada will have to be reorientated. Well the Ontario Conservatives at least should be game enough to try anything.

Hon. T. B. McQuesten says the question of the withdrawal of the new license plates has not been considered. In the interest of public safety it should be—and without delay.

There has always been a suspicion that strikes are costly and the admission of a union official that one in Montreal last summer cost $60,000 will do little to destroy that impression.

Lionel Conacher will have to drop out of hockey. It would not look well for the member for Bracondale to come along in a Maroon uniform and start knocking some of his opponents about.

A contract has been let for a $50,000 addition to a London brewery. There is one concern which evidently believes the beverage rooms are going to stay open for some time yet.

One of the surprising features of the election was the fact that although the Liberals made effective use of the "Old Gang" slogan, it was the boys of the old brigade who scored most of the Opposition wins.

There were doubtless many folk who hoped the election would get rid of Hepburn. Instead it has merely served to send a second Hepburn to the Legislature—J. D. Hepburn, Conservative member for Prince Edward-Lennox.

In the Edmonton by-election the candidates include a Liberal, with Conservative backing, a People's Front nominee, a Labor-Progressive, a People's candidate and a Communist. It seems as though the most exacting voter should be able to find something there to his taste.

WEE ANGUS

(By A. R. K.)

¶ I think Wee Angus likes his school, and tries to learn each printed rule, and does the best he can; I want good stuff parked in his head, so when he starts to work instead, he'll be a goodly man.

¶ But he admires the strangest stuff, and of it can't talk quite enough, it worries me a bit; he knows the strange things lads can do, and follows them the whole day through, they seem to make a hit.

¶ There's one chap cracks his knuckles loud, and he amuses quite a crowd, it makes Wee Angus smile; he talks of knuckle cracking now, and it puts trouble on my brow, he thinks it well worth while.

¶ Another boy who's on his list, has seven warts upon his fist, and he sticks pins through them; Wee Angus thinks that he is great, he'll be a man of great estate, and walk with famous men.

¶ One boy can wiggle both his ears, such things bring forth his praise and cheers, a thing he'd like to do; he talks a lot about this lad, and seems to think it rather sad, that he can't do it too.

¶ But of the lads who head the class, and them that's sure to up and pass, with marks robust and tall; Wee Angus never seems to say, nor mention them from day to day—or notice them at all.

Studying Whales.

SOME TIME ago Great Britain began a campaign to save the whale from extinction and ensure a continuous source of supply for the remnants of a once prosperous British industry. The first task undertaken was to find and protect the polar breeding grounds, study the habits of whales and chart their movements through the Artic and Antarctic seas.

❖ ❖ ❖

To aid in this work the Royal Research ship William Scoresby sailed recently from London on a 20,000 mile cruise into the Antarctic. The vessel was specially built for work in the Polar seas and although grossing only a little more than 300 tons she carries a crew of 23 persons.

❖ ❖ ❖

The scientist in charge of the expedition is G. W. Rayner. Loaded up with his books and a food cargo of fish, vegetables, fruit, corned beef and bread the William Scoresby also carried a cargo of ice as the boat must cross the tropics before approaching the South Polar sea. Somewhere en route Christmas turkeys will be picked up as the cruise is expected to last about eight months.

❖ ❖ ❖

The most important item of the Royal Research ship's cargo is a collection of steel darts for marking whales. Each is carefully numbered and recorded when fired at a whale. Sinking deeply into the whale's blubber they cause no inconvenience and are eventually returned to the Colonial office by whalers.

A Man Can Speak His Mind in Britain

Greatest Respect There For Individual Rights Britain the Safeguard of Democracy To-day.

(By Commentator in Globe and Mail)

TO THE EDITOR of The Globe and Mail: To fully appreciate the following article, one must be familiar with a contribution by Boake Carter to the June number of Reader's Digest entitled "Why I Became an American Citizen." He is an Englishman, educated at Oxford, and a few months ago became an American citizen.

There is no country in the world where "a man's a man" and allowed to publicly express his views as he is in England. At the time of the Boer War I was the first man by some weeks in Northampton to speak out declaively against British policy. Had the same thing been done in the States or in Toronto I would probably have been mobbed. There is no place in the world where a man's right as an individual is respected as it is in England.

This man wants cheap popularity and is self-contradictory. If Britain is what Boake Carter says she is, why do the American people harbor a "secret admiration" for her?

It is a providential thing for the world today that Britain is not down and out. What national balancing power is there in the world today? Take Japan, ruthless and cruel; Italy and Germany, unashamed despots; the French, a gallant people, capable of much good, but too volatile; the Scandinavian peoples. Sweden, Denmark and Norway, descendants of the old Vikings, have not sufficient population to be decisive world powers. As to Holland and Belgium, fine people, but not world powers.

If the American people only realized where their real interest lay they would appreciate the fact that the English-speaking peoples must stand together or fall separately.

A first-class American is second to none, and the first-class American and the first-class Englishman are very much alike, only superficial differences. I am fully willing to concede the U.S.A. in its short lifetime has produced two of the finest public characters the world has known, Washington and Lincoln, both of British Blood. If you trace back a few generations.

If you wish convincing proof of the up-to-dateness of the British people read some of the debates in the House of Commons.

London Centre of World's Carpet Trade

A Bewildering Business to Untutored Eyes With Brokers Present From All Over the Globe

(From the London Observer.)

LONDON is now in the proud position of being the carpet centre of the world. We captured it from Constantinople, and have so strengthened our hold that our position is now unchallenged.

The centre of the trade is Cutler street, E. 1., not far from Liverpool street. Here in the great warehouses of the Port of London Authority, which at one time were the barracks for the troops of the East India Company—Clive himself was quartered at Cutler street—are eighty great rooms set aside for carpets.

They are here for the benefit of brokers of all nationalities, and the incidental enrichment of our own Customs. They come from Afghanistan, India, Persia, China, Baluchistan, Caucasia, and Greece, and are set in the various rooms for inspection.

'Deals are made, the carpets are washed by a secret and special process which improves their sheen, and, if for re-export to other countries, are packed into bales. From the moment of their arrival they are taped and sealed by the Customs, excepting the carpets from India, which enjoy a duty-free preference.

To the untutored eye it is a bewildering business. There are, for example, 200 sorts of Persian carpets. I was shown one from Tabriz, a beautiful piece of work, with 900 to 700 stitches to the square inch. In glowing colors are shown hunters after deer, while dragons stalk their way. A persian merchant translated a worked inscription in Arabic, showing that the artist who fashioned this carpet copied a design of 1355.

"Such a carpet should never be walked on and probably never will be," I was told. "It will look at its best hung as a tapestry."

Its basic price, before duty is assessed and before it even reaches the wholesaler, is 50s per square foot, making its "zero value" for 70 square feet considerably more than £180. Before it hangs on a salon wall it will probably have cost the purchaser something like £500.

Yet carpets are not dear today. Prices, I was assured, have been going down for the last four or five years.

The closeness of the stitching by the patient hill men and desert workers counts considerably in the assessment of values, and the man who can approach 1,000 stitches to the square inch is regarded as an artist.

Sparta carpets from the suburbs of Athens, embossed carpets from China, and Indian carjets of all grades are here with the mats and carpets made by Afghans, Persians, and the mountain craftsmen of Baluchistan.

Fifty to sixty brokers and merchants are daily in attendance, including Armenians, Greeks, Turks, Persians, and occasionally Indians, Chinamen, and Afghans, though the trade, in its development as a London market, is now largely in the hands of Jews. Bargaining is keen, and is conducted over long hours with the stubbornness of an Eastern bazaar transaction.

WHITE MAN FADES.

(L. K. C. Poland)

NOT THE Chinese, but Russia and Japan are the decisive factors in China. Europe has taken the critic's role rather than an active part. European and American diplomats restrict themselves . . . to efforts to prevent the spread of the Chinese fire over Europe. This explains the passiveness of Great Britain, France and the U.S.A.

The White Man has lost much of his prestige. Not long ago Great Britain's warships sailed to punish Oceania's natives for killing a single British tradesman. . . . Today there are hundreds killed and wounded in Shanghai with no consequences whatever. . . . In the Far East the White Man's influence is waning for good.

STICK TO THE BEST.

(Brantford Expositor)

ONTARIO has already had the best combination of black numbers on a yellow background. If that is the most readable color, why cannot the department adopt it and retain it instead of changing the colors every year? A permanent license featuring white letters on a black background is used in England. Ontario could do at least as well and adopt the black letters on a yellow background. There has been too much change with the colors of license plates in Ontario, and it has not always been for the benefit of the public, as the outcry against the present license of orange on blue testifies.

RIGHTS OF COWS.

(Our Dumb Animals)

DEALING with cows as though designed by Nature to be treated only as milking machines, tying them up day in and day out in stanchions, and dealing with hens as only machines, confining them continuously to narrow wire quarters is against Nature and we believe dairy men and poultry men will some day find this out. Cows and hens, with us, have the right to enough freedom and outdoor air to make life mean something more to them than just milk and eggs.

THE KNIGHT OF THE ROAD.

Along the dusty path he strode
A man who knew not any abode.
A knight of the road, a bum, a tramp,
On whom Father Time had placed his stamp.

His feet were sore, his shoulders bent,
His trousers had seen many a rent
The torn old hat, which he wore on his head
Shaded his eyes that from teardrops were red.

As he trugged along he thought of a bed,
Where as a child he had lain when his Mother said,
My boy, I want you, if ever you roam,
Whether it be by land or foam,
To trust in He, Who has watched over you
And never drink liquor, whatever you do.

He had remembered these words in his younger days,
But out in the world yielded to its ways
And 'twas by liquor, the curse of drink
That as a young man he began to sink.

'Twas with these thoughts in mind that he trugged along,
A ghostly figure, aware of the wrong
That he had committed and afraid to die
His inevitable Fate, which now was nigh.

There 'twas again, that sickening pain,
That made his heart flutter and dazed his brain
Was this the last? Ah yes, good bye
To the Knight of the Road who now must die.

SEE DORSET ROAD OVER WEEKEND

Motorists who have recently driven over the Dorset Road, especially through Haliburton, report that the foliage and the scenery in the "land of a thousand lakes" is at its chromatic best. As Monday, Thanksgiving Day, is the last holiday of outdoor season, it affords an opportunity of seeing the beauty along the Dorset Road extending north from Lindsay.

Planning to Send Vegetables to West

Mayor George A. Macdonald was named as honorary president of the Western Relief Committee, when at an organization meeting in the Mayor's chambers at City Hall on Friday afternoon, plans were initiated for launching an appeal throughout the city and district on behalf of the people of the stricken areas of the West. Alderman James Dutton was named as chairman and the Rev. Canon J. D. Paterson as honorary secretary. The objective behind the appeal is to send three freight car loads of foodstuffs, vegetables and canned goods from Peterborough on October 27. Donation of goods and money is solicited from the city and district for the aid of less fortunate peoples of the prairie provinces. The organization meeting yesterday was called by the Mayor, who sent invitations to all clergy in the city to attend. There was a good representation present at the meeting.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Oct. 9. — Weakness at Chicago and concentrated selling by Southern interests kept the wheat futures on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange sliding, and, for the third successive session, low points were recorded in the final hour. Values closed 1¾ to 1¾ cents down.

With better Liverpool prices, there was fair buying in the opening stages and prices jumped almost 2 cents over the previous close. Heavy selling swamped buying orders later and values sagged 2 cents on the other side of the line. Bulk of offerings appeared to be in connection with inter-market spreading operations between Chicago and Winnipeg. There was some stop-loss selling and light hedging.

Export houses and mills were in the market the first half of the session, while commission houses and local interest operated on both sides. Export business was about 250,000 bushels.

Liverpool failed to reflect the 5-cent slump in North American prices the day before, but selling increased near the close, which was 2d to 2¾d down. Buenos Aires at noon was 1¼ to 1⅝ cents higher.

There was a lull in cash wheats, while coarse grains eased slightly.

Collingwood Caveman Of 67 Years Walks 86 Miles In 24-Hour Jaunt

Meaford, Oct. 9.

ALFRED STAPLES, "the man of nature" from the scenic caves in the Collingwood Blue Mountains, visited Meaford citizens yesterday on his return trip to his outdoor home.

Staples declares that doctors say he should live until he is 110 years of age, for he is in perfect health, and on Sunday last he celebrated his sixty-seventh birthday.

Yesterday he said he was just out on a little jaunt. In twenty-four hours he had walked eighty-six miles from Collingwood to Owen Sound and return.

He says he does not drink or smoke, but takes a bath in the lake or his private swimming pool of ice cold water, which seeps in from the hills of the Blue Mountains. Mr. Staples declares he can run a mile in five minutes, despite his age. He plans on attending the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto and will walk all the way. Lifts by passing motorists are shunned by him. He plans on sleeping and eating in the open caves until probably sometime in January, and adds that he is used to it now.

FREIGHTER HAS DRYDOCK COMPLEX

Montreal she broke down with a dull "thub" and was towed in for repairs. Along came a mysterious individual who said he owned the Ormidale and wanted freight to be carried to New York, where the boat was to take a cargo destined for the Spanish government forces.

Agents turned down the proposition and the Ormidale lay at a dock berth waiting. The crew was waiting, too, for wages. It looked as if everything would just wait indefinitely.

Crew Seize Her

Then, the crew took action, summoning a superior court officer who smacked up a notice on the Ormidale's wheelhouse, and the boat was seized by the crew for $4,000 in back wages and damages. The mysterious owner disappeared and new owners cropped up with lawyers who tried to straighten out the mess. The crew finally was paid off in a wordy scene. A new crew had come along in the meantime, though, and held out until the other seamen were paid off.

Installed in their new quarters, the new crew members elected a chairman and passed resolutions, concerning—it is said—the color of the sheets in the bunks, rates of pay and steam heating. Because the boilers had broken down and no heat could be obtained, the men voted that subsistence money be paid them for rooms ashore.

It took a sit-down strike to bring that demand, but finally, after the Ormidale had become an all-round nuisance in Lachine Canal, it looked like plain sailing.

The Ormidale, however, was still to be reckoned with.

About two weeks ago the Ormidale picked up and left. Now, there's no repair dock between upper and lower Montreal or she probably would have headed for it. But the Vickers dock is a couple of miles down the harbor and the Ormidale waited until she got there, then blew a compressor, one of those things a motorship doesn't run without.

It was great fun for everybody for a few days. The Ormidale would get patched up and ready to sail, then something else would break down.

Finally last Sunday the Ormidale set out and went right by Sorel without stopping for repairs. Three Rivers, however, is the next port down river.

There have been only a couple of new attempts to start since the Ormidale pulled in here for repairs and she may get under way again today. But there are an awful lot of docks between here and New York.

WHEAT DECLINES 8 CENTS IN WEEK

WINNIPEG, Oct. 9—(CP)—Weakness in stocks and securities coupled with sharp declines at Liverpool and general liquidation in all markets sent wheat prices on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange skidding downward more than eight cents this week.

Nervous holders were swept to the sidelines as prices declined, wiping out their margins and running the market into stop-loss orders. Values closed Friday 8-8¼ cents lower for the week with October at $1.22¼, November $1.22¼, December $1.17¾-⅞ and May $1.17¾.

Export buying, at close to 2,000,000 bushels, was lighter than the previous week and made up mostly of Durum grades. At least five cargoes of this variety were reported cleared to French Morocco.

Most of the liberal selling here was attributed to Southern houses apparently liquidating Winnipeg futures against purchases of Chicago. There also appeared to be some outright liquidation by eastern houses, southern interests and locals.

Picturesque garages in Sweden are being modernized.

STOCKS ON SKIDS WITH THE GOLDS FIGHTING HARDEST

TORONTO, Oct. 9 (C.P.) — Gold shares offered most resistance to persistent selling pressure on the Toronto Exchange this week, but were forced lower with the other groups. Industrial stocks lost the previous week's advance and the index closed at 134.65, new low price for the year.

Lack of constructive market news and the constant war threat made traders nervous and contributed to the shaky showing. Late strength in Western oil listings gave that group the only plurality of gains on the board.

Macassa made a good showing in the senior gold section and closed 50 cents higher at 4.90. Lake Shore, trading more than 2,000 shares, dropped 2½ points to 483, and smaller recessions were registered by Dome, McIntyre, Wright-Hargreaves, Teck-Hughes, Siscoe and Sylvanite.

Stadacona was the target of heavy realizing and slipped 25 to a new low of 57. Premier, MacLeod, Central Patricia, Kerr Addison, Preston, Moneta, Beattie, Bidgood, and Lava Cap were other lower-priced gold shares to lose 5 or more cents.

On sales of more than 36,000 shares International Nickel fell 3⅜ to 48½. Smelters and Noranda declined more than a point, the former reaching a new low of 57, but closing at 60. Brazilian Traction edged down to 20¼, and other utilities and Ford A were sliced fractions. Paper issues showed losses up to 3¾ points for Abitibi Preferred. Walkers finished down 4 at 37¾, after touching new low ground at 37. Distillers was trimmed 1⅜ to 15½, with other beverages narrow. Foods were irregular and implement shares lower.

The big oils were shaded down in lower trading. Calgary and Edmonton sparked the Alberta oil advance, gaining 17 to 1.91.

Perfect Relaxation

Is Found in Sleep

Why does sleep rest the nerves?
Because in sleep less nerve force is consumed
In running the machinery of the body.
From a high state of tensity the nerves become relaxed,
The heart beats more slowly,
The brain neither receives nor sends messages,
Little digestion is taking place.
The blood pressure falls, relaxation is complete,
And you fall asleep.
But if you cannot relax and cannot sleep
Your condition becomes serious,
And nerve force is depleted at a tremendous rate.
A nervous breakdown threatens
Unless you take means to prevent it.
Most people find Dr. Chase's Nerve Food
The most effective means of restoring nervous energy.
Naturally and certainly it enriches the blood
And feeds the nerves back to health and vigor.

NOW IS THE TIME TO MODERNIZE AND REPAIR - 5 YEARS TO PAY

NEED VARIETY IN DECORATING MODERN HOME

The day when the four walls of a room were prosaically the same have passed. The decorators who set the trend in wall fashions have heard that "variety is the spice of life" and laid their schemes accordingly.

For the housewife who loves color but feels that plain walls would set off her furniture and rugs to better advantage, the idea of a metropolitan decorator is recommended. The walls of a living room are finished in a dull blue but on one side, directly opposite the fire place, a panel is covered with figured wall paper.

The gay colors are reflected in the mirror which hangs on the opposite wall. This idea may be used over a fireplace when the housewife does not have a picture or other object which she considers a suitable decoration for the spot.

Under the Home Improvement Plan funds for interior decoration may be had at a very low rate of interest. These may be repaid over a period of three years, if desired, in small instalments.

FIND SILICOSIS MANY INDUSTRIES

MONTREAL, Oct. 9—(C. P.) — Silicosis, disease of the lungs that takes its greatest toll among miners, affects workers in many other industries, Dr. H. E. MacDermot said in the latest issue of McGill News, a quarterly published by the graduates' society of McGill University. The writer calls the disease "a terrible affliction, inexorable and incurable."

Silicosis is caused by the substance silica, Dr. MacDermot explained, adding that the substance is found in the form of such minerals as quartz and flint and is poisonous only in finely powdered form.

"One might break rocks daily throughout a long and harmless life but unless a certain amount of the fine dust was caused in the process, such a small amount of silica would be taken into the lungs that effect would be negligible," the article says. Continuing, Dr. MacDermot said, silica is the "only mineral which need be feared in industry."

The effects of dust on the lungs of miners, millers or those who work in factories where wool, fur or other animal hairs rise in clouds are "negligible compared with a similar exposure to silica dust. It is an entirely different thing if the coal is associated with silicious rock, for then the mining of it will involve the hazard of silicosis."

Sometimes it may not be obvious why silicosis has developed. "One would not exect to find silicosis in a chocolate factory, for instance, but such a case has been described," Dr. MacDermot writes. "The patient's work in this factory had been for years the 're-surfacing' of granite millstones for grinding the chocolate."

Old timer Recalls Selkirk Settlers Two Survivors Of First Generation

WINNIPEG, Aug. 9. (CP)—Belief that John Matheson was the last of the original party of Selkirk settlers, and that his two sons Archbishop S. P. Matheson, 85, and Alexander, 87, are the only two survivors of the first generation, was expressed by a writer signing himself "Oldtimer" in a letter to a newspaper.

The letter was inspired by pageants here commemorating the Scottish immigrations of 1812-14.

The writer records that John Matheson once remarked he "was born in Scotland and weaned in Pembina, (North Dakota), having left his native country when he was only a few days old.

John Matheson was 84 years old when he died in the Red River settlement in 1898. His father, who brought him to the settlement, lived to be 95.

"Oldtimer" continued:

"John was a prominent figure in the life of the early Red River settlement. He acted as constable, and with his knowledge of Gaelic, English, French, Ojibway and Cree served as interpreter at many important trials.

"Following a murder at Oak Point, Lake Manitoba, after one constable had been turned back from the hunted man's door by levelled shotguns in the hands of the culprit's friends and relatives, John Matheson set out for the district in his Red River Cart.

"Matheson went up to the home unarmed and when guns were pointed at him patiently reasoned with the inmates in Cree and French.

"He was admitted to the house, entertained for the night, and set out next day with his man for trial at Fort Garry. The criminal received a light sentence because of extentuating circumstances."

For many years Matheson farmed successfully in Kildonan, Winnipeg suburb, later moving to Grassmore, Man., where he farmed until his death. His son Alexander carried on the farm after him, and later his grandsons, it's present occupants, carried on.

MEN COMPLETE LONG JOURNEY ON WOOD RAFT

EDMONTON, Aug. 9. (C. P.) — Three Albertans conquered the Saskatchewan River's corkscrew currents after a week's battle and brought to dock here a 10,000-foot lumber raft from Buck Creek, 100 miles from here. After selling the lumber they will return for another consignment.

Mud-caked Nick Fekete, Elmer Bakos, his son-in-law, and D. Comus spent 12 hours daily on the raft, going ashore to eat and sleep, and the journey required one week.

The first day they made 40 miles, but after that they had to man awkward sweeps to keep the craft clear of sand-bars, and could make only 15 miles daily.

One day they swerved the raft to escape hitting a jagged rock and ploughed into a sand-bar. They strained all day backing it 100 yards upstream when they turned in for the night. In the morning they found the raft in ebb water, high and dry.

There was nothing to be done but take it apart, dry the lumber, and rebuild it. Three times that work had to be done in three days, and then their food ran out.

"I began to look for someone to help us," said Bakos, "when Nick suddenly spotted a man fishing offshore and we yelled to him to bring us food, which he did."

Bakos and Fekete had cut the spruce themselves at Buck Creek with an additional 170,000 feet which they had to leave behind until next trip. It took them four months to have the massive trees cut, sawed and trimmed.

HEAT LOSS CAN BE CUT DOWN

Heat loss from a home is due partly to radiation, convection and conduction through the glass of doors and windows. Part of this may be prevented by double doors and windows, although the loss is still about 20 per cent of the total loss. Aid infiltration accounts for another 10 per cent. Therefore, the unavoidable loss is about 30 per cent. Of the remaining 10 per cent, the avoidable loss, various authorities have estimated that from 40 to 60 per cent, or 28 to 42 per cent of the total heat loss, may be economically prevented in the average home by employing an adequate thickness of insulation.

LOYALIST FARMER HAS FAT OF LAND

VALENCIA, Oct. 4 (CP)—Newspapermen from the British dominions who recently visited Loyalist Spain were given luncheon at the farm of San Jose in the fertile, irrigated district 15 miles from Valencia.

As they sat down to a table liberally spread with food, Jose Martinez, overseer of the farm, pointed a toil-tightened hand towards the table.

"Do you know what Queipo de Llano (Franco's commander in northern Spain) said recently over the radio?" he asked with a smile. "Well, he told his listeners that in Republican Spain we were eating each other. Now does it look like it?"

The host may have gone out of his way to impress the newspapermen with the abundance of food and Spanish hospitality but here's the fare he offered:

Onion and tomato salad, fried eggs, heaping platters of curried rice and assorted meats, fried chicken, ice cream, luscious grapes and wine.

"Of course we don't have meals like that every day," Jose explained. "The Spaniard is not a heavy eater. But we have everything we want and we're happy."

Travellers on the dusty road between Valencia and Madrid discovered the truth of his remark. It was impossible to get an impromptu meal and a newspaper party had to be content with dry bread, highly-seasoned sausage and tepid water.

Probe White Grocery Upon Indian Reserve

MONTREAL, Oct. 9. —(CP)—A commissioner under the Department of Indian Affairs yesterday opened a hearing to determine the right of Noe Carriere, a white man, to continue operating a grocery and butcher shop on the Indian reservation at nearby Caughnawaga.

Several years ago, Carriere obtained Federal permission to run the shop in partnership with Louis Curotte, an Indian. The partnership was dissolved recently, and Carriere applied for a permit to continue the shop with J. K. Jacobs, another Indian, as partner.

Protest against Carriere staying in business on the reserve was made by the Caughnawaga Town Council, claiming his business was cutting into that of Indian competitors. A petition was sent to Ottawa.

ESKIMO LASSIES SQUARE DANCERS

WORCESTER, Mass., Oct. 9 —(CP)—Eskimo girls of Nain, Labrador are adept in square-dancing, smoke cigarettes and chew gum in true American fashion, according to John Endicott, 20-year-old student of Worcester, one of the twenty-three college boys just returned with Commander Donald B. MacMillan from Arctic adventures.

Summer vacation experiences that ranged from teaching the natives the rhumba to clinging half-frozen to a mast of the Gloucester schooner Gertrude L. Thebaud in a 70-mile-an-hour gale were described by the youthful scientist, who plans to make the study of birds and plants his life work.

Influence of the Moravian missionaries had made Nain the most civilized of the Eskimo villages they had visited. The girls' knowledge of square-dancing had been taught them by visiting Newfoundland fishermen. He described them as "nimble, good-natured and generous."

Most of them could converse in English and they all thought as much of 10-cent-store jewelry as an American girl would of much more expensive trinkets.

A storm encountered in Frobisher Bay brought MacMillan, whose father and mother were born in Nova Scotia, the toughest experience in his career, according to his own declaration.

The Thebaud, her keel damaged by collision with a rock in the fog, frequently found herself "going backward when her Diesel engine was sending her full speed ahead," Endicott related.

He served as a human [illegible] line between the [illegible] the top of the [illegible] commander on deck in a gale that lasted [illegible] under another in a [illegible] rigging to pass [illegible] the lookout on the watch for icebergs and other obstacles in the uncharted waters.

"The spray was higher than the mast," Endicott, first man of the chain from the lookout barrel, recounted. He said he wore two suits of clothes, a pea jacket, oilskins and mittens, and even then was "almost frozen."

Useful Shelves In Dining Room

Book cases are generally considered living-room or den appurtenances, but shelves built similarly to book cases in a dining-room will prove extremely useful as well as decorative.

They make an excellent place for colorful dishes, glassware, or potted ivy and the lower shelves can be enclosed and used as a storage place for linens.

Funds for improvement, repairs, redecoration, or additions to homes are now available under the Dominion Government's Home Improvement Plan.

It is expected he will take over his new position on January 1.

HOW TO IMPROVE YOUR BATHROOM

The smartly stream-lined bathrooms which appear so frequently in advertisements need not strike envy in the heart of the housewife whose fiveroom bungalow has always been the pride of her life.

While her bathroom may not be an ultra-modern one, she may obtain modernization funds from a bank under the Home Improvement Plan for whatever repair, improvement, alteration or addition she may want. Her bungalow bathroom can at least be made to look as fresh and gay in its own way as the one in the picture.

Plain white tile is easy to keep clean. It is the solid ground on which the color of a bathroom can stand.

One housewife whose bathroom had been the latest thing when her house was built fifteen years ago decided to take the situation in hand. The walls were white tile about two-thirds of the way to the top. The rest of the walls and the ceiling were painted an off-shade of white. White muslin curtains hung at the windows.

The white tile was in excellent condition and was left untouched. The rest of the wall was finished in a washable material, the design carrying out the color scheme of the connecting bedroom. The ceiling paper was green, generously sprinkled with silver stars.

Woodwork which had been white was refinished in a soft shade of peach. Out of her own savings the housewife added a washable rug in the same colors as the wall covering. The color was again echoed in the towels. A wicker hamper for soiled clothing was painted peach and the white muslin curtains were tinted the same shade. A green glass bowl filled with ivy sat on the window sill and provided accent. A green shower curtain was purchased.

With very little expenditure a convenient and attractive bathroom was created, gay and modern enough to satisfy the up-to-date housewife and, at the same time, completely in keeping with the rest of the small house.

Toronto Recess Romps Curbed

TORONTO, Oct. 9 (CP)—Pupils in Toronto schools will not be allowed to romp around as usual during recess periods when schools reopen here next Tuesday.

Bodily contact will be avoided as much as possible as a continued precaution against the spread of infantile paralysis, Dr. C. C. Goldring, superintendent of schools, told the Board of Education last night.

During recess students will walk around their school yards under the guidance of their teachers. Swimming pools will be closed but gymnasium periods will go on as usual.

BRASS IS STOLEN

BRANTFORD, Ont., Oct. 9.—(CP)—Several hundred dollars worth of brass was removed in the past three weeks from machinery in the long disused Canadian Canners plant at Burford, provincial police have reported. Discovery of the theft was made by H. Miller, Waterford a company official who visits the plant periodically.

Girl Of 15 Years Gives Birth To Twins

Wichita, Kas., Oct. 9.

MRS. JAMES WOODS, 15-year-old child wife, gave birth last night to twin sons, one weighing six pounds, 14 one-half ounces and the other six pounds, 10 one-half ounces.

Hospital attendants reported the mother and twins were "doing nicely."

"Gosh," beamed the 18-year-old father, "it is something to be the father of twins."

FIVE YEARS TO PAY FOR HOME IMPROVEMENTS

Housewives Always Think Of Their Kitchen First

Get Tired Of a Dull, Inconvenient Kitchen—Want a Well-Ventilated Workshop

By Esther Peters.

There comes a time in the affairs of many housekeepers when a dull, inconvenient kitchen is not to be borne any longer. When we'd give up the ghost rather than put up with things any longer.

We get to dreaming dreams and seeing visions of a smart, modern workshop, well-ventilated, well-lighted by day and by night, and decorated in a way to lift our spirits. We see in our mind's eye, a kitchen equipped with plenty of cupboards for once in our lives. Now is the time, and the kitchen is the place, to start a modernization program. And we're the girls that want it!

Saving Steps.

We want a well-planned kitchen—not a hit-and-miss arrangement—with direct traffic routes and no time-wasting detours, with work centres in step-saving sequence, a place for everything and a place for doing everything in comfort.

We've a grouch and we admit it. We're in open rebellion against dowdy surroundings and outworn equipment. And we take a united stand for women's right to a cheerful, efficient kitchen.

Nor are we going to wait forever, while we pinch and save the money bit by bit. We're going to enjoy it while we pay for it and we're going to have it now before prices mount higher and skilled workmen are busy elsewhere. Who said a woman has no head for business?

The Home Improvement Plan, sponsored by the Dominion Government, is a boon and a blessing to such as I, with a good deal of equipment to buy and a lot of tearing-out and building-in to do. It's a project to give employment, improve property and make homes happier. Under the plan, any home-owner can borrow the necessary funds at a lower-than-usual rate of interest and pay back the loan in regular easy instalments over a period up to three years. Of course, we cannot get unlimited cash—nor do we need it. Give us in the neighborhood of five hundred dollars and we'll work wonders in bringing our old-fashioned kitchens into step with modern ideas of efficiency, comfort and charm.

Breaks Retirement

YEHUDI MENUHIN

20-year-old violin prodigy, who after a retirement of over two years, returned to the concert stage with an American - European concert tour. The youthful violinist is shown ABOVE donning a white tie, formal suit and tails for the first time in his spectacular career. He broke his retirement when he appeared before a San Francisco audience at the Memorial War Opera House.

Handy Turntable For The Pantry

The house that boasts a pantry may greatly facilitate the business of serving by taking a tip from a housekeeper who had shelves built against the wall between the kitchen and pantry. In the centre of this wall an opening was made for a turntable on which food could be placed. Dishes were placed on the table in the kitchen and served from the pantry. This table can be completely shut off from view when not in use.

If the housewife desires a really elaborate type of revolving server, a heating unit may be installed below it in one of the cabinets. In this case dishes could be served and kept hot until the guests were ready to use them.

Such an improvement to the home is eligible under the Dominion Government Home Improvement Plan.

NEW YORK LOOKS FOR GOOD PLAYS

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (CP)—At the beginning of this new theatrical season, the most hopeful sign is the return of first-rate playwrights. Promised are penitent pilgrims from Hollywood studios, Hermit Eugene O'Neill from isolated islands and studious Paul Green from a North Carolina campus.

It is invigorating to Broadway to welcome again not only the gilded overnight scenarists of the cinema but the faithfuls like O'Neil, Maxwell Anderson and Green. O'Neill is working on another of his cycle plays and Anderson, also a prolific dramatist, has finished "The Star Wagon" to follow his trio of plays, "Wingless Victory," "High Tor" and "The Masque of Kings" of last season.

The return of a playwright anticipated with sympathetic curiosity is that of Paul Green, the professor at the University of North Carolina who came to town in 1927 to win the Pulitzer Prize with his story of Southern negro life, "In Abraham's Bosom."

From that he went to Hollywood where he wrote several pictures, then returned to Broadway in 1932 for his stirring drama of southern family life, "The House of Connelly." It was then that he and Lynn Riggs, Oklahoma author of western plays, were hailed by critics as the two most likely prospects to dramatize American pioneer life with the artful intensity of O'Neill.

Green will have two of his plays on Broadway this fall. The first is a story of modern education on a college campus. The second, called "Columbia," he describes as a story of "the struggles of a typical American democrat, who believes in the equality of opportunity, to live out his life on the American scene."

Chaplin Shaping His First Talkie

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9 (AP)— A little tramp with baggy pants, gaganiuan footwear and toothbrush mustache is no more, Charles Chaplin announced today.

The tramp sang his swan song, a jumbled lyric, in "modern times" after a career that stretched back to 1913. And Chaplin, his creator, is at work on a story in which he will project an entirely new personality.

After a decade of evading talking pictures, the comedian admitted he has decided to attempt the translation from pantomime to speech.

"I cannot say how soon the story will be ready—a year, perhaps," Chaplin said.

"Miss Paulette Goddard will appear with me."

England's 63-mile-a-minute trains will cover a total of 6,145 miles a day.

How Improvement Plan Can Transform Kitchen

This New Kitchen Saves Many Steps Over The Old

The housewife who does the greater part of her work in the kitchen will readily appreciate the great saving of time and labour of a planned kitchen. The Home Improvement Plan makes provision for remodelling your kitchen after the manner shown in these two illustrations.

Illustrated above is a typical example of a modern, well-planned kitchen which brings the biggest dividends in happiness to the whole family. Many home owners are taking advantage of the government Home Improvement Plan to modernize their old kitchens.

Simplicity Is The Keynote Of The Modern Living Room

Room To Combine Beauty And Comfort Aim Of Every Housewife

A living room which combines beauty and comfort is the aim of nearly every housewife. Simplicity is the keynote. Thousands of housewives throughout the country have found that they may acquire backgrounds for such rooms through the aid of the Dominion Government sponsored Home Improvement Plan.

This plan provides for additions, alterations, repairs to or improvement of homes and for the purchase and installation of certain types of equipment.

One housewife completely transformed her living-room by a few simple changes. First of all, a door which led in toanother room but which was seldom used was made into a bookcase to balance a window on the other side of the Wall. Windows and bookcases were finished with wide white moulding. The woodkork in the room was white.

The ceiling was rather low, so the walls were finished in a solid color, with the moulding touching the ceiling. The ceiling was finished in the same color as the walls, but in a considerably lighter shade. A border, very much like the kind which used to hang in all papered rooms, was placed about six inches from the baseboard, relieving the plainness of the walls.

A modern fireplace was acquired simply by removing the mantel which had adorned it formely and acted as a catch-all for the family knick-knacks. White venetian blinds were hung at the windows.

With this background, the housewife made a few changes in the room's furnishings from her own funds and the result was an extremely livable apartment. A deep green carpet was purchased to accent the pale green walls.

FIRE PROTECTION EASILY OBTAINED

Not generally recognized by the home-owner, good insulation material adds greatly to the fire protection of a dwelling. It is therefore an exceptionally cheap form of insurance against the spread of sudden flames, adding peace of mind and safety as well as its usually accepted advantages of comfort and lowered fuel bills.

War Making Nations Condemned

In a momentous speech which unequivocally condemned war-making nations and demanded isolation penalties against them, United States President Franklin D. Roosevelt enunciated the most decisive foreign policy his government has yet presented as he addressed massed thousands gathered to witness opening of the magnificent new outer drive Link Bridge at Chicago shown ABOVE. His address, so important that it was transmitted to foreign ambassadors and consuls, preceded by only a few hours formal castigation by the U. S. government of Japan for her aggression in China.

NEW SOUTH WALES OPENS ITS DOORS

LONDON, Oct. 9 — (CP) — Enthusiastic over New South Wales' decision to resume migration, Sir Richard Linton, founder of the Big Brother Movement, will leave here September 18 for Canada en route to Australia, to make arrangements for transportation of settlers. Final approval of the state's scheme is expected shortly.

Arriving in New South Wales, he will interview members of the movement with a view to taking advantage of the government assistance offered to the settlers. The Big Brother Movement has been allotted a quota of 100 settlers for 1938 when the migration scheme comes into effect.

The Fairbridge Farms Incorporated, Barnardo Homes and Church of England Migration Council will also share in the scheme. Strict control will be exercised to avoid overcrowding the labor market.

The state scheme provides for migration of quotas of adult relatives of the children of residents in New South Wales subject to their meeting with departmental regulations; youth from 14 to 18 years of age as farm workers to proceed direct to farm jobs; juveniles of 13 years and under; and domestic workers.

The state cabinet made it clear that large-scale migration is not yet contemplated, but it was held the time had arrived for resumption of the transfer of British stock to Australia. The state also plans to ask the federal government to grant migration permits to foreigners only where it is officially reported that they will not displace local labor.

Between 1925 and the beginning of the depression the Big Brother Movement sent out more than 1,800 "little Brothers" to Australia for employment on the land. During the suspension of migration, the Melbourne and Sydney branches of the movement concentrated on the after-care of its charges. As a result none was out of employment during the depression and none has drawn unemployment benefit.

Officials said approximately 300,000 cubic centimetres of blood from former paralysis victims were collected at government clinics and paid at the rate of $10 per 100 cubic centimetres.

Dr. McGhie said a detailed cost calculation of the epidemic to the province had not yet been completed.

CHILLY WEATHER TENDS TO DAMPEN WARKWORTH FAIR

WARKWORTH, Oct. 9.—Midweek weather of warmth that was almost a record for a century chilled to discomfort for Warkworth's Fair on Friday, putting a crimp in the attendance, and divesting the day of its usual holiday spirit.

The customary setting was complete, numerous exhibits, even a fine display of garden flowers that left an impression of wonderment as to how they had escaped the decline of summer, the familiar midway scene, judging of livestock, horse races, all the ordinary background, but the hint of frost in the air kept at home many people from the district. The sun shone but its light was cold and almost cheerless. Even the autumnal colors of the trees received scant notice, for the temperature had dropped to overcoat levels.

"The cattle barn is the warmest place I've found this afternoon," a tall exhibitor remarked. Ten days ago the barn had presented a vastly different appearance, although the inoffensive odor of the vast space was reminiscent of the memorable incident of official nomination day when "Bill" Fraser cast his "political manure spreader" epithet at an opponent and then was heard no more above the din the Tory section of the crowd raised.

Gordon McCubbin, president of the Fair, and one of the youngest men who have ever held that office, hoped that the day's gate receipts would leave some surplus over the expenditure of prize money, until another year would perhaps restore the average with fine weather.

W. J. Cruse of Bewdley, judge of the heavy horses, didn't get his task finished until after 5.30 o'clock, an hour or more after John H. Davidson of Cobourg had handed out the last ribbon in the roadster and carriage horse class. Entries of cattle, sheep and swine were also about the usual volume.

Some of the exhibitors noticed were: Lloyd Kennedy of Bethany, Allan B. Mann of Bridgenorth, Sam Adams of Hastings, Allen Hubble of Havelock, Charlton Gregg of Roseneath, R. M. Brown of Peterborough, who scored high in the poultry division; J. M. Lowes of Peterborough, with fruits and vegetables; Leo Fry of Campbellford, W. A. McGee and Son of Ashphodel Township, Louis Stinson of Hastings, W. H. Lindsay of Campbellcroft, Wm. H. Elmhurst and Son of Indian River, M. Pimmett and Sons, also of Indian River; J. C. Nelson and Sons of Campbellford, and many others.

Horse Races.

Three horse races, each of three heats, provided a long program for the large section of the crowd that was attracted to the trotters. The results were as follows:

Richard Hall (H. Ingles) 2 2 2

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, October 10.

Sunday's horoscope holds testimonies of important developments in connection with affairs of the church, clergy and charity, as well as all conventional activities of the sabbath. While these flourish, however, one may be beset by perplexities, confusions and peculiar influences that require precaution and vigilance.

Those whose birthday it is face a year of progress and prosperity, with affairs generally under a peculiar or confusing influence, calling for precaution and wariness.

A child born on this day may have many fine, cultural, genial and gracious qualities that should win it much popularity, worthwhile friends and romantic happiness.

✧ ✧ ✧

For Monday, October 11,

Monday's astrological forecast is for very active conditions, although these may be menaced by some rather peculiar circumstances that demand vigilance and self-protection. Tenacious obstacles and delays are probable. Safeguard all writings, contracts, etc., against misconstruction and trickery.

Those whose birthday it is face a year of much activity, but there is promise of frustrations, postponements and annoyances. Be careful that writings, contracts and letters have no loopholes for misconstructions, disputes or contention.

A child born on this day may be excellently endowed for success and happiness, although a critical tongue or pen may cause difficulties if permitted expression.

Chilly Weather Greets Warkworth's Annual Fair

The weather at Warkworth Fair on Friday was so shivery that Alex. Hume (1), put on his winter overcoat and mits to offset the chilly atmosphere. Mr. Hume is one of the best known farmers in Northumberland and although he is getting along in years he is still keenly interested in his Ayrshire cattle and Clydesdale horses. The team in 1 he is shown with, won first prize in the heavy draft class and also the special prize for the best heavy draft team in the show. They also won similar honors this fall at Belleville Exhibition, Stirling, Campbellford and Madoc. In (2) some of the directors of Warkworth Fair, LEFT to RIGHT R. Bateson; James Armstrong; President Gordon McCubbin; W. J. Huycke, a brother of the late Judge E. C. S. Huycke of Peterborough; and second vice president, Alf. Merrill, who is also Deputy-Reeve of Percy township.

A section of the crowd (4) watching a hand stand act by George F. Brown, who once starred in the musical comedy "Broken Toys" and with Ned Wayburn. In a barrel jumping stunt Mr. Brown broke his left leg and infection necessitated its amputation at the knee. In the background are hills of 'Old Northumberland."

Mr. Dela Fosse qualified for membership with his "English Bloods" and other publications. At the meeting of the branch in Toronto last night, Dr. E. J. Pratt, a poet who is known for his dramatic drive and satiric humour, favored the meeting with the first reading of his new big poem, which is about to be published.

Eight local citizens who had not procured a license for their pets were dismissed on payment of costs and procurement of dog tag.

HEAVY FROST HITS DISTRICT

Friday night's nine degrees of frost in this district was sufficient to bring most growth to a halt, Agricultural Representative A. D. Runions said today. He stated loss would not be heavy here as the frost was not unseasonable, and few crops vulnerable to such a temperature drop remain unharvested.

Gardeners in the district reported the remainder of their tomatoes suffered heavily and the price of tomatoes on the Farmers' Market responded by an advance to 45 and 50 cents for the 11-quart basket. A large supply was offered.

Farmers with apple orchards suffered damage in this district, but orchards in the big apple district toward the Lake Ontario front escaped the lower temperature. It is expected the frost will slow the growth of Fall wheat locally but the new shoots were not seriously damaged.

Supper Club Men Honor Founder

At an inspiring "Founder's Night" program which is to be a regular annual feature of the club's activity, James Wallis of Ottawa last night reviewed the growth and development of the Friday Night Supper Club at the Y.M.C.A. here.

Mr. Wallis former manager of the Sun Life Assurance Company's local agency founded the Friday Night Supper Club thirteen years ago, with a comparatively small membership. Today it numbers 120 young men who meet each week throughout the Fall and Winter months.

In recognition of the worthy contribution he made to the imposing list of Y.M.C.A. activities here, Mr. Wallis was presented with a life membership in the club he founded, while similar honor was paid to C. A. Saimonsen, who for a period of five consecutive years held office as chairman of the club. The present chairman is Charles Shaw, who last night officiated at the proceedings in that capacity. Jack Gillespie is president of the group.

Among the original members of the club who were present to do honor were W. B. "Pete" Gordon and Terry Hall. The musical end of the program was in charge of Stanley Northrop and Andy Rutter.

Announcement was made by Mr. Shaw that advertising classes are shortly to be started in connection with the club, under the direction of Harold L. Garner.

LIFT LOCKS ARE IN COMMISSION

No move to decommission the Lift Lock for the winter season has yet been made in view of the possibility the steamer "Wauketa", bound for Stoney Lake but held up below the Locks by draught restrictions, may yet be granted passage. It is expected the Department of Railways and Canals will allow the 96-ton steamer through the Locks if the boat is lightened to meet Lift Lock requirement of a maximum draught of six feet.

Intended, for service on Stoney Lake towing barges of Nephaline Company ores from the head of Stoney Lake to Lakefield, the Wauketa was halted at the Lift Lock on its voyage northward from Kingston two weeks ago. Initial efforts to lighten the craft to reduce its draught from a normal 7 feet 8 inches brought it within 6 inches of the requirement. Riding at anchor yesterday, the boat appeared to have been lightened even further by removal of its coal and draining its bilges.

The Lift Locks have been declared closed to traffic for the season. Nephaline officials declined today to indicate their intentions in the matter.

15 DAYS IN JAIL, $100 AND COSTS ON LIQUOR COUNTS

Fifteen days imprisonment was the sentence imposed on Horace Dickson of Keene when he pleaded guilty before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., this morning to a drunk-driving charge. He was further fined $100 and $2.50 costs and in default 2 months imprisonment on pleading guilty to a charge of unlawful possession of liquor.

Two other young men arrested in company with Dickson faced intoxication charges. One of them pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and $3 costs or 10 days, while the second obtained an adjournment until Wednesday next on a plea of not guilty.

Dickson who had nothing to say to the charge was stated by police to have been found in possession of several small bottles of brandy and gin, which it was alleged he had been peddling at dance halls in the city.

He was arrested early this morning after being stopped by Sergeant William Wigg because his car was being operated without lights.

Butter sold at 28 to 30 cents and eggs remained at 35 to 40 cents although the supply was large.

Inclined toward scarcity, tomatoes advanced in price, small baskets going at 25 cents and large baskets 40 cents. Potatoes were 75 cents to 90 cents a bag.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

TAKING A SURE THING

AN ABSOLUTELY certain game is far preferable to a slam contract which is really likely to be set. That would seem to be such a truism that nobody could fail to follow it, yet very good players go awry on just such simple propositions. These maxims become especially appropriate when one member of a pair holds a tremendous polthogue of a hand opposite what sounds like an utter bust. The value of the good cards shrinks when nothing but junk is found opposite them.

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

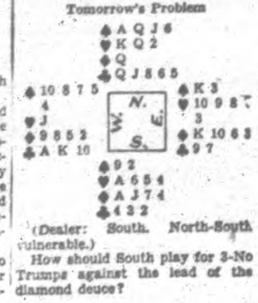
Seldom will anyone see a hand in which one player holds more honor strength than is packed together into South's mighty collection on this deal. He naturally opened it with his game-guarantee call of 2-Diamonds. North bid 2-No Trumps in response, whereupon South properly called 3-Diamonds.

When North now answered 3-No Trumps, it was high time for South to take stock of his situation. This particular South did, but he arrived at a gambling kind of conclusion. He reckoned that, if North held the club king, spade queen, heart king, diamond 10, or perhaps even the 9 of diamonds, he could take one trick in North's hand and then could try a finesse. Such being the case, he saw the possibility of a small slam, and so reached out toward one when he overbid the 3-No Trumps with 4-Diamonds.

North, remembering that South had guaranteed a game with his first bid, properly raised at this stage to 5-Diamonds, whereupon South went to 6-Diamonds. The lead of the club jack saved South from going down two. When the hand was over, he realized he could have counted nine absolutely certain tricks if he had let North try 3-No Trumps.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

How should South play for 3-No Trumps against the lead of the diamond deuce?

Waddell—Macdonald

(From the Chicago Daily News).

Tradition played an unusual role in the wedding, on Saturday afternoon of Mary Elizabeth Macdonald and Hugh Franklin Waddell. The lace coronet of Miss Macdonald's heirloom veil—worn by so many of the family's brides—was edged with tiny sprigs of white heather, sent from Scotland by relatives there, and her shower bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley was interspersed with the same rare flower.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Andrew Macdonald and Mr. Waddell repeated their wedding vows at four o'clock before the Rev. Samuel Harkness. A score of Canadians, including members of the Macdonald and Stuart clans, assembled with other guests in the Georgian style Winnetka Congregational Church for the ceremony.

Miss Macdonald, an all-white bride, was given in marriage by her father at an altar decked with white chrysanthemums. Her lace veil, first worn by her grandmother, Mrs. Robert Stuart, fell over a white satin wedding gown, made with high neckline and long sleeves. Her five attendants were dressed alike in powder blue taffeta, and all carried orchids. Their fuschia velvet sashes were the same shade as their velvet off-the-face hats. Little Nancy Pat Ackerman from Peterborough was the charming little flower girl, dressed also in powder blue taffeta, with matching Juliet cap, and carrying a nosegay of Bachelor Buttons and Sweetheart roses.

Anne Macdonald, who hurried home from her classes at the University of Toronto for the wedding, was her sister's maid of honor. With the exception of Martha Borland, the other attendants, Mrs. Lawrence Killaly, Mrs. Robert Macdonald, and Mrs. George Poole, Jr., are relatives too. Mrs. Killaly, who lives in Toronto, is the bride's elder sister. Mrs. Macdonald is a sister-in-law and Mrs. Poole a cousin.

The bridegroom lives in Peterborough, Ontario. Arthur Waddell came from there to serve as best man. The ushers were Robert and Angus Macdonald, brothers of the bride; Arthur Ackerman, a cousin of the bridegroom from Peterborough, and three college friends: Ian McClean, Murray Bosley and Dr. Ian Hodge.

Following the ceremony, a reception was given by the bride's parents at their Winnetka home in honor of the couple, who sailed to spend their six weeks' honeymoon at Panama.

Miss Macdonald spent her childhood days in Peterborough, where an apartment, already furnished, will await her and her husband.

Besides its delegates in the bridal party, Canada was well represented at the wedding. The out-of-town guests included the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Rolland Waddell, who arrived Thursday; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Abbott, Col. Charles Ackerman and Mrs. Ackerman, Dr. A. W. McPherson, all of Peterborough; Mrs. Alexander Laird came from Toronto and Betty Laird came from Winnipeg.

Since Mr. Waddell did not arrive from Canada until Wednesday, the pre-nuptial entertaining was crowded into a few days. On Friday night, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Stuart entertained the bridal party at dinner at Shoreacres, and on the wedding day the Robert S. Macdonalds gave a luncheon in Indian Hill Club for the young couple and their attendants.

✧ ✧ ✧

Morton—McKeown

Against a charming floral background of large yellow chrysanthemums, ferns and palms, with ferns forming an aisle for the bride from the stairs, a very lovely house wedding was solemnized at half past two this (Saturday) afternoon, at the home of the bride's mother, 536 Waterford street, when Violet Hall, only daughter of Mrs. McKeown, and the late Henry F. McKeown, was married to Hugh Morton of Kingston, only son of Mrs. Morton, and the late James D. Morton. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church.

The bride was beautifully gowned in rose white satin fashioned with V-neckline, fitted moyan-age bodice, and skirt falling in graceful folds to form a train. Tiny satin covered buttons trimmed the back and the long tight-fitting sleeves. Her finger-tip veil, falling into points at the sides and back, was held in cap effect with three rows of orange blossoms. She wore a single rope of pearls, and carried a shower bouquet of Premier roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

Miss Mary Morton, sister of the groom, attended as bridesmaid. She wore a Period gown of flotilla blue velvet with bouffant skirt and fitted waist. Her velvet turban and slippers matched her gown, and she wore white kid gloves. Her bouquet was of pink Briarcliff roses.

The wedding music was provided by Miss Eleanor Stacey. During the signing of the register, she played Edward Elgar's "Salut D'Amour."

A reception followed the ceremony, attended by about forty guests. Mrs. McKeown, mother of the bride, was wearing a gown of blue plum velvet with single ornament of gold and blue, and a corsage of orchids. Mrs. Morton, mother of the groom, was in black chiffon over satin, with gold and black ornament, black hat and accessories, and a corsage of orchids.

A wreath of maidenhair fern surrounded the wedding cake in the centre of the table, on which pink tapers in silver holders, and silver vases of bouvardia were other charming decorations.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Morton left later for a motor trip through the New England States, the latter wearing for travelling a Schiaparelli model of green wool, a Kolinsky scarf, and a matching green velour hat, suede gloves, bag and shoes. They will reside in Kingston.

Wood—Hatton

St. George's Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Friday evening at half-past seven, when Dorothy Frances, daughter of Arnold Hatton, and the late Mrs. Hatton, became the bride of Walter James Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Wood. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. T. H. Gault.

The church was prettily decorated with autumn flowers. The wedding music was played by Mrs. King, and during the signing of the register, Walter Parr sang.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a charming gown of blue chiffon velvet, shirred at the shoulders, with high neckline, leg o'mutton sleeves, and tied at side with a Russian sash of pink and rose georgette. Her velvet turban with shoulder veil matched her gown, and she wore pink silk gloves and silver slippers. Her bouquet was of Premier Supreme roses.

Miss Ruth Farr, as bridesmaid, was gowned in wine velvet, slim-fitting, with full puffed sleeves. She wore a matching turban, matching velvet shoes, and long white kid gloves. Her bouquet was of Talisman roses. Little Betty Drummond, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a frock of blue velvet, with wreath of matching flowers on her hair, and carried a mixed nosegay.

The best man was Reginald Stevenson, and the ushers were Kenneth Gibson and Roy Armour.

Following the ceremony, a reception attended by about thirty guests was held at the bride's home. Later the happy couple left to spend their honeymoon at Pigeon Lake, the bride travelling in a coral knitted suit, with matching felt hat, and wool sports coat in a deeper shade. On their return, they will live on Orpington Road.

Miss Mary Lees Tells of Work Among Chinese

The last chapter of the study book for the year, the work of the Women's Missionary Society in British Columbia, was the subject for consideration at the October meeting of St. Paul's W.M.S. held Friday afternoon in the Guild Room.

Miss Mary Lees gave an interesting account of the many branches of missionary work which have been done and are still being done among the Chinese in the province. From its position as gateway to the Orient, one-fifth (10,000) of all Chinese in Canada are settled in and around Vancouver. Some of their churches are well established and self-supporting, several even contributing to the church budget.

Miss Lees enumerated some of the activities in which the missionaries are engaged, women's classes to learn English, and to read the Bible, Kindergartens and Mission Bands for the children, Boys' work classes, C.G.I.T., and women's missionary societies. Many of the Chinese young men and women, trained in Canadian Universities return to their native land as doctors, nurses, teachers, business heads, dentists, electricians and to government positions.

A large number of Chinese live in the rural districts engaged in market gardening, and are difficult to reach, but are not overlooked by the missionaries. Of the Chinese who come to Canada to establish themselves, those who come under the power of the Gospel make the finest of citizens.

A Print Dress Is Distinguished

By Central Press

PRINTS ARE usually smartest starting from the resort season in January and February, through the summer.

Occasionally they are seen in the winter season, and they always are a cheering sight, suggestive of warmer weather, and looking very distinctive among the black and other dark colors most often worn during the winter social season.

The high, beltless waistline—very smart this year—V-shaped decolletage, and flared line of the skirt, are all up-to-the-minute style points.

The dinner suit requires its own type of handbag. It should be less formal in fabric than an evening bag, but more dressy than an afternoon bag.

The young matron will like the youthful bonnet-toque of black suede, trimmed with matching grosgrain ribbon and with veil draped at the sides and back.

Lynx Collar Flattering On Tweed

NO COAT is more flattering than such a model as this one, worn by Mary Livingston, in light tan tweed, with a generous collar of natural lynx. The shape of the fur collar is new, and opens to disclose a high-necked tied blouse of green flat crepe. Mary's hat is beige with a crush quill, and is bound with dark brown ribbon, which matches her shoes and gloves.

Style Whimsies

Your handsome silk blouse may be either a dignified solid color or print or it may be amusing. Creed, the noted Paris dressmaker, shows the silks for which his customers make demand and for which he is famous, a Paisley print in soft shades of red and green, and an engaging white silk crepe with his name—Creed—printed over it with sketches of pattern pieces on the material. For his beautifully tailored blouses he uses whipcord. A soft rose pink is shown for a dubonnet suit, and a lovely gold—which is his pet color. Then there is another intriguing pattern of black animals on a mustard ground.

They say the new hats are goofy, crazy and whatnot, but at least they are not all alike. You may choose a low hat, a wide one or a high chapeau, as pleases you, and it is odd if you can't find one that is becoming. Moreover, women are adventuring in the hat field this season, trying out new styles. The fact that some look pretty awful in their adventurings is beside the point. At least they are getting out of ruts.

Women's Art Association Hears Dellmarion Thumb Canadian Artist.

Protesting that she was not a speaker, but a painter, and then proceeding to hold the unswerving attention of her audience with a delightfully informal and intensely interesting talk, Dellmarion Thumb (in private life, Mrs. G. Rutherford) of Blenheim, Ontario, one of the well-known Ontario artists, addressed the Women's Art Association on Friday afternoon in the Green Room of the Y.W.C.A.

Fascinating little descriptions of her painting trips, including adventures this past summer in the Margarie Valley, Cape Breton, when she travelled and slept in her car, led up to the great adventure of the Vimy Pilgrimage. The artist was commissioned by the Alberta provincial council of the Canadian Legion to paint the unveiling ceremony, and travelled across to France with the veterans for this purpose. Her impressions of England, with a glimpse of Holland, and the arrive and disembarking at Antwerp, Belgium, were all charmingly colored with the artist's point of view. The neat well-kept country, with houses built for beauty rather than convenience interested Mrs. Rutherford, who described with enthusiasm passing through the great fields of flowering pink, red, yellow and white begonias.

The artist, by chance, stayed with a French doctor and his wife at Arras, near Vimy, centre of the Canadian occupation during the war. She found the life of the French household intensely interesting. Her host was in charge of the hospital erected at Vimy for the day of the unveiling (when two hundred cases were treated) so each day she was able to ride to Vimy and paint.

The day of the unveiling Mrs. Rutherford sat on the side of a shell hole and made a small water color sketch from which she took her masterpiece. (This original sketch is included in the exhibition) Her strongest impression of that day was of the crowds of veterans arriving for the ceremony. Swarming over the hills, along the roads, they suggested dark rivers pouring toward the monument. Just before the unveiling, canon roared in Arras, as they must have done in war years.

The six days as guest in France were described with enthusiasm, with a humerous protest at the French breakfasts. Then several more days in London, which held that famous garden party at Buckingham Palace, with another entertaining incident of a short, stout lady who piled a large plate with as many delicacies as it would hold, and consumed them all to the amusement of the artist and a friend from Blenheim.

Vimy Picture

Centre of attraction in the exhibit of 65 pictures, the Vimy painting, depicting the scene just at the time of the unveiling, is a masterpiece of careful detail, yet handled with a delicacy and restraint not to detract from the whole. The soaring pillars of the great monument stand out clear and firm before a background of grey cumulus clouds. Brilliant bits of color in the flags give striking effect against the necessarily sombre tones, and the immense throng of watching veterans make a subdued pattern of red, blue and khaki at the base.

A number of the pictures were some charming sketches of old English villages, and a love of famous spots in history is shown by exquisite little portrayals of such places as Warwick Castle, Kenilworth Castle, Melrose Abbey, Bobby Burn's "Brig o'Doon" and the Eildon Hills, showing a glimpse of Dryburgh Abbey, where Sir Walter Scott and Earl Haig lie side by side. There are two charming larger views of a five-hundred year old village in Northumberland.

Many lovely bits of scenery, both oils and water colors, have been painted nearer home, views in Cape Breton, in Nova Scotia, in different parts of Ontario, including, of local interest, the charming "Rapids At Buckhorn" and other views. There are also some charming little enamels, lovely bits of work. Showing careful, sensitive handling of fresh, delicate colors, the pictures have a restful beauty, wholly appealing to the eye. They would be easy pictures to live with.

Mrs. Fred Hooper, the president, expressed the thanks and appreciation of the Women's Art Association. Tea was served in the library, with Mrs. Blackwell and Mrs. Morphet as hostesses.

The exhibition will be open to the public until next Tuesday. It should be of especial interest to the veterans who are invited to avail themselves of the opportunity.

Fashion Service

A darling little rust wool two-piece dress so flattering to youth. It will be your favorite school outfit. The slim-hipped separate skirt of many gores, gives a fashionable swing with every step you take. The fitted basque blouse buttons right up to the little girl collar of white piqué. The cuffs are of piqué, too, and just basted on. In this way, they are easily removed for laundering. To vary your wardrobe, split them up and wear the blouse with a tweedy sports skirt and top the swing with different sweaters or tailored "tuck-in" shirt blouses.

Style No. 2989 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17 and 19 years. Size 15 requires 4 yards of 39-inch material with ½ yard of 39-inch contrasting.

ELGIN DEFEATS HASTINGS 10-8 LACROSSE GAME

(Examiner Correspondence.)

NORWOOD, Oct. 9.—Elgin defeated Hastings Juniors 10 to 8 last night (Friday) in an exhibition lacrosse game in the Norwood Arena. Elgin, mostly an intermediate team, were strengthened by the addition of Roy Richardson, Hastings junior star, who scored 8 of Elgin's 10 goals.

Elgin took a 4 to 2 lead in the first period and made it 7 to 4 at the end of the second period. Roy Richardson counted 2 goals right after the start of the game. "Mort" Scriver sank Hastings' first one a few minutes later, only to have J. Preston score Elgin's third. Montgomery, Hastings' goalie, caught Elgin up the floor, and shot a long pass to Boyle for Hastings' second goal. R. Richardson gave Elgin a 4 to 2 lead just before the period ended.

Roy Richardson gave Elgin a 3-goal lead to open the second period. J. McCarthy came right back with one for Hastings. Roy Richardson again put Elgin 9 up, but Pike reduced a few minutes later. R. Richardson, with his sixth goal of the game, closed the scoring for the second period.

Hastings put on a terrific offensive to open the third period, when Pike, Phillips and McKee all scored for Hastings to tie the score. R. Richardson and J. Preston gave Elgin a 2-goal lead which Pike reduced to one a minute later. Richardson scored Elgin's tenth goal to make victory sure for Elgin.

'No Hero To Wife' Says Yank Slugger

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (CP).—The heavy bat performance of George Selkirk during the World Series to date has made the Yankee outfielder from Huntsville, Ont., a hero with everyone but his wife and Tarzan, his dog.

Selkirk, the only Canadian swinging a war club in baseball's biggest pow-wow, unburdened himself yesterday after he and his mates trimmed the Giants 5-4, following 8-1 victories Wednesday and Thursday.

After the games Selkirk was besieged with admirers in the ball park. It was the same when he tried to get into his automobile and again when he arrived home. But Mrs. Selkirk, said George, merely yawned.

"Why, night before last I waited, I thought maybe she'd get around to mentioning I was a hero," said George. "But nothing doing. I petted Tarzan while waiting for a few flattering remarks. None came, and before I know it I'd been bitten twice and still nobody mentioned those hits I got."

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

In lawn bowling circles, all over the province of Ontario, it is customary to stage what is known as a 'Snowbird' tournament on the afternoon of Thanksgiving Day and in Peterborough there will be no exception. It is just a polite way of announcing that after this tournament, the lawn bowling season of 1937 is over.

So after talking things over early this morning with the chairman, it was decided that in as much as the season was opened way back in May with a mixed tournament it would be fitting to close it with a mixed. All games will be played in the afternoon, starting at 1.30 with the usual fee and depending of course on the weather.

DETROIT TIGERS TOP N.Y. YANKEES LEAGUE AVERAGES

CHICAGO, Oct. 9 (AP) — New York Yankees won the American Baseball League pennant in a walk, but they had no strangle hold on junior circuit individual honors for the 1937 season.

Unofficial averages released today show Detroit Tigers, in addition to finishing second in the team standing, knocked off the team hitting and fielding honors and landed four players in the circuit's topflight list of batsmen.

Charley Gehringer, Detroit second baseman, wound up the season with a batting average of .371, giving him his first league title. Hank Greenberg, Detroit first baseman, finished with a .337 average for seventh place, two points ahead of Gerald Walker. Pete Fox, Detroit outfielder, batted .331.

Detroit's leading team hitting mark was .292, six points better than St. Louis Browns. In defensive work, Detroit's top mark was .976, with Cleveland second at .974.

Lou Gehrig finished second to Gehringer in the hitting race with an average of .353. Other leaders were: Joe DiMaggio, New York, .346; Cecil Travis, Wasnington, .345; Zeke Bonura, Chicago, .345 and Roy Bell, St. Louis, .340.

DiMaggio knocked off the most individual hitting honors. The Yank sophomore led in runs, 152; in total bases, 418; tied for the lead in triples with Stone at 15; and led in home runs, with 46.

Mr. Boness, presented the trophy which he presented for the men's singles championship to Roy Granter, winner of the title. Mrs. K. Kingston, winner of the ladies' singles title, received the Hewitt Trophy.

Other champions honored were: Men's doubles, J. Donaldson, R. Hull; ladies' doubles, Mrs. Kingston and Miss V. Davidson; mixed doubles, Mr. and Mrs. J. Donaldson.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

AND SO it comes up the end of the week again and we haven't a great deal to chatter about. In fact, the old typewriter is running kind of slow and missing occasionally. Needs a change to winter oil maybe. Don't we all? Anyway, Monday is a holiday and a good time to grab a drumstick if you're handy with a fork. It's a half-holiday for the gridders and the writer, since Orfuns play that day in Lindsay in a "croocial" contest which may be a sort of revenge for the locals for the licking they took last year in the Scugog town. There has not been a great deal of rugby talk from that town since the Ghostly Galloper of Cobourg spirited a 17-0 win in Lindsay a week back. However, they'll give Orfuns a real battle.

* * * * * *

AN EXHIBITION football fray is fixed up for Riverside Park here on the holiday at 2.30 between Pickering College of Newmarket and the P.C.I. seniors. The former gang used to play in a tough group, which included St. Mike's, but not this year. They will be plenty strong and ought to give Coach Bamforth and his boys an idea of how the Peterborough crew shape up for Provincial playdowns, if they get into 'em. It is the lone sports event for the city on Monday and should draw a goodly crowd of customers; might crack the nut to pay the Pickering expenses.

* * * * * *

OTHER HOLIDAY athletic events of the district include the motor-bike hill climbing at Nassau and the flock of races in Hastings. Both will be worth seeing. Local riders will compete on the Nassau hill, as well as some outstanding Toronto gees. Should be thrills and spills galore in this dangerous competition—and folks are invited at two bits per head. In Hastings, some local sprinters will be seen in action and plenty of home and district runners and bike riders. They have an ambitious program lined up for Turkey Day, with good prizes, and the meet will go over with a bang, no doubt. Races here might have been arranged for for the holiday had the Hastings' chaps not beaten local promoters to the punch.

* * * * * *

RECORD FOR long-distance jaunts should go to the Schreiber gals' softball team this season. The Algoma District damsels had a bye into P.W.S.U.—this alphabetical array meaning Provincial Women's Softball Union—intermediate playoffs this year. So they spent a good part of the summer keeping in shape by practise games in such nearby centres as Ottawa, Peterborough, Cobourg, Toronto, et al! Just a grand tour of the Province. They played Keene here in August. And now the Schreiber squad is tangling in Ontario finals with Gerrards, and the games—today—are in Toronto. They must have dough to travel about like that.

* * * * * *

STRATFORD SCRIBE slaps at the O.A.S.A. for "a nice bit of bungling" in regard to the final intermediate "A" playoff between Kroehlers and the Polish White Eagles of Toronto, who put out our Westelox men softballers in playdowns. The scribe says the Eagles refuse to lose any time at work to compete in this tilt, so Secretary McIlwraith is juggling the time and place for the game around to suit Toronto. It was billed for Wednesday in Guelph and the Kroehlers' plant officials arranged for a half-holiday for their employees, and then it was switched too late to change the half-holiday. Wednesday was a bad day in first place owing to the election and then it is found out that the park isn't available. Says the Stratford columnist: "The gents who mismanage affairs of the softball Association seem to have their minds set on killing off the last remaining bit of interest in the intermediate finals."

* * * * * *

COMMENTING ON our unofficial figures re senior O.B.A.A. final playoff gates, the St. Kitts' columnist says: "Against Moodie Tigers in Hamilton Oshawa's share of the gate was $24. In Oshawa, Tigers collected $160. In Toronto, against Hap Watson's club, the Oshawa divvy was $55, while down in the town of Soup Campbell, the GW nine departed with just $200. Add to that the generous share that Bill Snyder's parent O.B.A.A. deducts and the fact stands out that baseball certainly pays its way and that the C.O.B.L. shows the way to Niagara Peninsula, Inter-County and Toronto terrains. Fans surely are baseball conscious down in Swanston's central circuit." Yes, yes, indeed.

* * * * * *

IN LESS than a month now there will be lots of National Hockey League dope for puck fans. And in less than a week all the O.H.A. gypsies will have had to settle in some spot or other—next Friday being the deadline for moving about. Frank Buckland will have a few surprises in the local puck picture, and it won't be long till there is something definite on how Peterborough teams will be grouped for this winter. Once the world's series is over and, in the thick of the football schedules, the hockey moguls get pretty busy. It doesn't seem long till winter now.

* * * * * *

THOSE SLASHING, bashing Yankee ball players have the N'Yawk Giants on the run now. Yesterday they chalked up their third straight win in as many starts, and did it on the Terrymen's property. Memphis Bill is now feeling much like the other skippers in the American League did all summer—wondering if anything short of a train wreck will stop the McCarthy Maulers. The Yanks have some first-rate flingers and fine fielders but it is that potent powerhouse attack that breaks the hearts of rival clubs. The crowd is dwindling day by day, and this sustained winning streak by the Gehrig gang is but another proof of the honesty of baseball. They aren't playing for the crowds nor trying to prolong the series. Wonder if the local players who are taking in the serial are learning much about knocking ye olde horsehide lopsided—like they didn't in the C.O.B.L.!

* * * * * *

HITHER AND yawn: The motorbike program at Nassau on Monday is due to start at 1.30 sharp....While the Hastings' field day commences at 12.30, right after noon....Mr. and Mrs. Percy Bond are taking in the Cubs-Sox series in Chicago now....Cobourg's Galloping Ghosts play the Orfune here next Saturday....And the P.C.I. teams are in Bowmanville that day....Church Cage Loop has its annual meeting next Friday eve at 7.30 in the "Y"....George Ansley of Oshawa may run for the vice-presidency of the Central League this year....Quite a bit of rebuilding will be necessary with the local O.H.A. Colts this winter....World's series game tomorrow is at the Polo Grounds and also on Sunday—if it lasts that long....Haig Kelly is captain of the senior P.C.I.-ers this autumn.....Nothing new on the boxing club here lately....That seems to clean the slate for this week.

Inside Sportin' Dope

BY A. WISE CRACKER

Well Mac, when I jinx them they stay jinked. Here last week I called the Giants to win the big money serious and up to the time of writing this here epistle all that Mister Terry's boys has done is to drop the 1st 3 games to the mauling monarchs of swat, otherwise the Yanks. That must be about par for the course. Not only that but the Giants has not only been beat but outclassed so badly that it begins to look as if Judge Landis pulled a major boner in not pulling the McCartny clan out of the serious and putting their farm team the Newark Bears in instead. That mighta made a good contest and I ain't so sure right now that the Bears mightn't of copped the duke.

Didn't Need Much Power

The experts called for the Giants to show superfine pitching and defensive work but for them to be smothered by the power of the Yanks attack but the way the serious has worked out the American Leaguers ain't needed no great amount of power to stop the Giants, on account of the National Leaguers not being able to move a wheel against the smoke of the left-handed Mister Gomez, the swift of big Mister Red Ruffing and the expert curve-balling of Mister Pearson. Seems to me Mister Terry has been using the wrong strategy he has been trying to lick the McCarthy lads with 1 run a game and that neighbors, is about the hardest way I can think of to turn the trick.

The Only Hope

By the time this communication falls under the gaze of the customers the serious may be over. The Giants only hope is that Mister Carl Hubbell will get in there with all his stuff at his command. If he does he might take 1 game and prolong the argument another day. The veteran leftie is still a great pitcher when he has it and he had better have it for that 4th game or the show will be over for another year.

Frankly, old timer, the bust the Giants turned out to be so far is hard to explain. They been playing smart ball, full of fight and the old pepperino all through the last half of the National League schedule and in Mister Hubbell and Mister Melton they have about the best pair of portsiders in the big show. And remember a lot of lefthanders not half so well known as the Giants' stars has been stopping the Yanks cold all season. Yet neither Mister Hubbell or Mister Melton was able to finish the game they started and the smart right-hander Mister Schumacher didn't fare no better in the 3rd fracas. It has been a sad, sad serious, old timer, and I gotta guilty feeling mebbe I'm to blame.

Them Giants shouldn't take me that serious, Mac. Why I even thought Earl Rowe would cop the political sweepstakes on Wednesday.

Sportfully Yours,
A. Wise Cracker.

Remember When—

(By the Canadian Press.)

The most boisterous world series baseball game in history ended at Detroit three years ago today with St. Louis Cardinals winning the seventh and deciding contest from the Tigers 11-0. Left-field bleacher fans, enraged after Joe Medwick's run-in at third base with Marvin Owen in the sixth inning, let loose a barrage of missiles and Medwick was taken from the game "for safety's sake."

HUBBELL PICKED TO END WINNING STREAK OF YANKS

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (A.P.).— It's scarcely a contest, and it would seem whoever forced the Giants to get out there and make saps of themselves was guilty of unfair practices to say the least.

Three games down—8-1, 8-1, and 5-1—the Polo Grounders went into the fourth and quite probably the final game against the Yankees today as limp and deflated as an 1894 corset.

Bill Terry, their manager, admitted after yesterday's third straight trouncing that he was "embarrassed." He was in almost as great a daze as were the young men he had previously been proud to manage. He announced, weakly, that Carl Hubbell would brave the Yankee bats again, and that Harry Danning would catch. Then he said relievedly, "Nuts."

And that is how it was. Hubbell knocked from the box in the opening game, had to give it another try, even if his 34 years howled for an additional day's rest. The Yankees, gloating in their easy mastery, were able to send a second-string pitcher Bump Hadley, out for the clincher.

Hope For Comeback.

There was an off-chance, of course, that the National Leaguers would stage a comeback behind Hubbell. Carl is a great pitcher, as he demonstrated for five innings in the first game. He might, the Giants' last-ditch supporters declared solemnly, start a rally that would pull the World Series out of the fire.

But no fairly impartial observer who watched the Yanks assert their superiority the last three afternoons could agree there was better than a 1,000 to 1 chance. Only 37,000 paid their way into yesterday's game.

The greatest surprise has been the Yankee pitching. Because of the dizzy scores piled up all year by Joe DiMaggio, Lou Gehrig, Bill Dickey, and the other mammoths, it had become popular to suppose the American League champs were blundering through behind a mediocre collection of throwers. The Giants were supposed to have the pitching; the Yankees the batting.

Neat Mound Display.

Now it comes to light that McCarthy's pitchers can really fog a ball across. After Monte Pearson's exhibition yesterday, in which he retired the first 12 Giants to face him and allowed only five hits all told, Terry gave the grudging testimonial: "Either they have some great pitchers or my boys are all blind."

Pearson finally went out in the ninth, when the Giants filled the sacks with two away, but that scarcely dimmed the brilliance of his work. Johnny Murphy pitched to the last man, Harry Danning, and caused him to fly out. Danning could have tied the score with a home run.

The gory details of yesterday vary from those of the first two days only in that the Yanks got started earlier. Hal Schumacher, third of the Giants' "aces," proved to be only what is popularly known as a deuce when those Yanks started swinging. He lacked control, and his sinker ball didn't fool anybody.

Defence Against Pass Can Become An Offensive By Careful Strategy

By LEW HAYMAN

Coach Toronto Argonauts Football Club

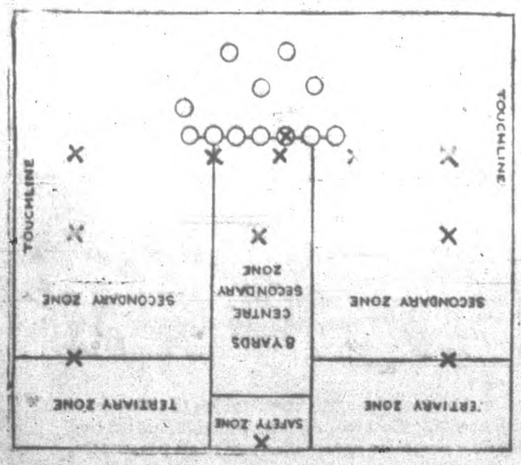

Diagram shows how men are stationed in zone system for defence of a pass.

PASS DEFENCE SYSTEMS

There are three systematic ways with which to cover possible receivers. Either one is as good as the other, depending on the material at hand as to what should be used.

The systems are commonly known as:

1. Zone defence.
2. Man to man defence.
3. Combination defence.

Generally speaking I am very much in favor of the zone defence because assignments are definitely mapped out and at the same time cover the necessary ground.

In the above drawing we have designated the zones each man is responsible for.

In centre secondary stands about four yards behind the line of scrimmage and protects the area between his own middles for a distance of about 12 yards beyond the scrimmage line.

The outside secondaries stand 4 yards behind the line of scrimmage, directly back of their outsides and must protect the territory from the middle back to the tertiary on his side which is about ten yards from scrimmage. They also are responsible for any flat men as far as the touch lines.

The tertiaries are placed about six yards from the secondaries and directly behind their outside foot. They take any deep man and protect from the secondary's zone to the touch line and back as far as the safety man.

The safety man holds no specific zone but moves with the play and helps out the tertiary. If two men are deep, the tertiary takes the deep flat man while the safety picks up the other.

Players move with every play but never leave the boundary of their zones until the pass is in the air. Reason for this being that delayed receivers may slip into the territory they have left open.

Man to Man Defence

In the man to man defence the position taken by the secondaries, tertiaries and safety may be the same as in the zone. Their assignments differ however, as each man must cover a particular opponent wherever he goes. This has an advantage of definiteness, but it is weak in that the defender is often not in a good position to cover the man to whom he has been assigned.

The Combination Defence

The combination defence is probably the most effective but since it requires much experience and cleverness I would not advise it unless the team is composed of competent veterans.

Defenders are given a preliminary zone but as the pass play develops, they pick up definite receivers and follow them. The preliminary territory may be the same as the zone defence. The tertiaries take the first man through on their side, the secondaries pick up the second while the outsides may drop back and protect the flat territory, or you may have him protect against delayed receivers.

In closing minutes of a game where you are protecting against a frenzy passing attack you can pull your insides out of the line, as the ball is snapped, having them as a second secondary.

As I have already said, any one of these pass defences can be used effectively but I personally believe the zone is the easiest to play and learn, and at the same time protects the necessary ground.

ENGLISH HOCKEY LACKS COLOR CANUCK SPORT

LONDON Oct. 9 (C.P.). — England's hockey season opens to-day, and like the few that have gone before, it is expected further to popularize Canada's great winter sport on this side of the Atlantic. Something like 30,000 fans are expected to turn out for the three games that figuratively will set the puck rolling.

An increasing number of England's sport-loving population have adopted the game as their favorite winter pastime. But they have yet to acquire some of its Canadian characteristics.

There are a few voices raised in "Well played, sir," and a smattering of weak "Bravos" at every game, but the lusty cheers and "raspberries" familiar to the Canuck performers are lacking.

Defencemen are called "backs" after their football equivalents and teams are called "sides," although the game is much the same as played in Canada.

Rough, tough warfare has been much in evidence, and body checks contain zing.

These tactics have been misunderstood by most English sports writers, who exclaim "That's not cricket," and point out the puck and not the man should be played.

Play Saturday.

The London Cup season opens this year with a matinee game. Pleased with last year's experiments Earlscourt Club officials decided to play their home games on Saturday afternoons.

With their hopes built around five veterans and their star acquisition —Charlie Teno, former Sudbury Tiger goalie — Earlscourt Rangers enter the fray against the Clint Benedict-coached Wembley Monarchs. Captained by the former Wembley Lion Gordon Dailley, and presenting a formidable line-up of seasoned English League players, the Monarchs look hard to beat.

The two opening night fixtures will be staged at the Empire Pool, Wembley, where the National League champion Lions will entertain Brighton Tigers; and at Harringay, where the Greyhounds play host to Streatham.

The seventh club, Harringay Racers, play its first game in the 42-game London Cup series on Tuesday night against their fellowmates, the Greyhounds.

League Opens November 23.

When the London Cup series is concluded the 84-game National League will start November 23, to be followed by the National Knockout Tournament of another 42 games starting February 15.

There has been some talk that the new financial arrangements adopted for this season will lessen the quality of play. Under an agreement of the rink owners clubs are bound to split a maximum of only £96 "expenses" each week among their regulation 12 players. This averages £8, or roughly $40, per man.

Last year the ante was much higher, some players getting as much as £14, or $70.

DISCOVERY.

While consistency is a wonderful thing and a thing to be desired in sport, there have been participants and athletes that have not attained this virtue and yet have become so proficient that they have been recognized for their ability. This is not only true in human events, but also in horse racing.

For instance, take the career of Discovery. . . Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's great colt. Here was a horse that was unpredictable. One race he would far outclass his rivals and would come in on top, seemingly with ease. But the next time he would be defeated or would just win by a short margin over a horse known to be far inferior in breeding and in records to himself. He proved his greatness on numerous occasions when he was the victor in many races, and set up a number of records on different tracks. He still is the holder of the record for 1 3-16 miles and also 1¼ miles.

LONG SHOTS RULE TORONTO RACING

TORONTO, Oct. 9 (CP). — Long shots again ruled Long Branch yesterday, the first two horses paying off at 45 to 1 and 38 to 1 respectively, and combining in the daily double to pay $1,333.20 to four investors.

Bobs First with Jockey E. Burns up took the opening event of the matinee to start the big money winners. Bobs First defeated Blue Gum by three lengths, the only decisive victory of the day. Third was Dennica in the six-furlong spring. Bobs First paid $92.50 for $2.

Winner of second rube was No Trouble, a fielder worth $71.80 for $2 to win.

Jockey Pat Remilland rode Centennial, gelded son of Sir Barton, home to a half-length victory over Crinoline in the featured fifth race, the O'Neill and Walden purse, a claiming race over a mile and 70 yards. Noble Spirit was two lengths back in show position with Crataegus trailing. The winner paid $4.80.

Bruins Again Lead In Chicago Series

CHICAGO, Oct. 9 (AP).—Thornton Lee, a tall southpaw held largely responsible for the quaint impression that the New York Yankees couldn't hit left-handed pitching, looked like just another country thrower to the Cubs yesterday as the National Leaguers whipped the White Sox, 4 to 1, to go one up in their Chicago city series struggle.

Lee's portside opponent, Larry French, muffled Sox bats with four hits, one of them a home run by Jackie Hayes.

IN MEMORIAM

LUSTIC—In loving memory of a dear Mother, Mrs. Maud Lustic, who passed to her rest four years ago on October 11, 1933.
We watched her suffer day by day
It caused us bitter grief
To see her slowly pine away
And could not give relief.
Long days, long nights, she bore the pain
Oh, how patient was her suffering;
When no hand could give her ease
God, the Helper of the helpless
Saw her grief, and gave her ease.
I was not there to clasp her hand
And did not see her die,
I only knew she passed away
And never said, "Good-bye".
—Always remembered by her loving son, Jim.

LUSTIC—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. Maud Lustic who passed to her rest four years ago on October 11.
A wonderful mother, woman and aid,
One who was better God never made;
A wonderful worker, so loyal and true;
One in a million—that, mother, was you.
Just in your judgment, always right;
Honest and liberal, ever upright;
Loved by your friends and all whom you knew
Our wonderful mother—that mother was you.
—Ever remembered by her loving Husband, Sons, Clare and Frank; Daughter-in-law, Bernice and Grandchild, Shirley.

LILLICO, W. F.—In loving memory of W. F. Lillico who passed away on October 11, 1934.
Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear—
Fond memories linger every day
Remembrance keeps him near.
Ever remembered by his Wife.

DEAD RECKONING

BY BRUCE HAMILTON

READ THIS FIRST:

Tim Kennedy, who has been writing a suicide note to himself in his wife's handwriting, graduated into homicide from the school of armchair murderers. At middle age, having made a fortunate marriage to Esther Ashwell, and possessing a lucrative dental practice and an enviable position in a small town near London, Tim felt happy and secure. Then Esther was run down by a truck. Weeks later she was brought home, a physical wreck and a cripple for life, with only a hint of her former beauty left.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 7.

Kennedy did indeed suffer badly because of his wife's misfortune, but for reasons different from those commonly supposed. He was incapable of any real feeling for others. What he felt through the medium of his own nerves was one thing: the sufferings of others were not comparable. He could apprehend their reality, sympathize with them, strive to palliate them, but not in the last issue participate in them to the extent of personal distress. He was sorry for his wife, but he was a great deal sorrier for himself because he was lonely without her.

When he had first been told that Esther was not going to die, he had jumped to an altogether too optimistic view of her case. He had concluded that she would be ultimately restored to something like her full health and her former beauty. So long as he believed this he was prepared to be patient and do everything within his power to accelerate her recovery. His long vigils at his wife's bedside were a sacrifice he made in this hope. They bored him almost as much as they exhausted him, but Esther had developed a neurotic dependence upon him, and while he thought he was helping her to get back to normal, he was content.

But when he realized that she would never be more than a shadow of her old self, his inner attitude underwent a violent change. The ineffaceable traces of her agony came to him with the force of a blow. She was not the woman he had known; she was a changeling. He had a horror of deformity. What made it more dreadful was that he sensed, in her eyes, in her pitiful attempts to make the best of herself when he visited her, to conceal her maimed limbs from his view when she returned home, that she hoped desperately that they soon would take up their life where they had left off—when he had been given a little time to adjust himself.

To Esther, in public and private, he behaved with as much gentleness and sympathy as ever. But his inward reserves grew deeper. If he was ever again to know peace of mind, the course of his life would have to show a change.

One morning in early May Tim Kennedy got up early, awakened by the morning sunshine blazing into his room. He bathed and shaved with his usual unhurried expedition, slipped into his clothes and strolled into the garden. The grass was drenched with dew, the air fresh and healing. He had brought with him a large crust from the dining room, and he proceeded to break up the bread into small crumbs, throwing them around him on the lawn. The birds seemed to feel something of the morning, hopped down from the awakening urgency of the spring budding trees, and snatched eagerly at the crumbs.

With discreet gradualness, Kennedy shortened his casts, tempting them within a yard of his legs. His slow, gentle movements did not alarm the birds. He held one large piece in his open palm, with arms outstretched, waiting patient and still, until before long a bolder sparrow, after some experimental skirmishing, darted at it from behind, whisking it away toward the trees to evade the pursuit of its companons.

Presently the bread was finished. The smell of fried bacon from the dining room came to Kennedy's nostrils. He returned to the house, feeling on better terms with himself than he had for many a month. Esther and the nurse were already at the table. The nurse was a big, flabby young woman with a bad red complexion and a professional manner that became ever more cheerful as her patient got worse. She attempted to pet Kennedy, treating him with an arch bossiness which she thought proper to great blundering babies of males.

He hated her, but gave her a warming good-morning smile. He perceived at once that Esther had had a bad night, and held back the affectionate inquiry he was in the habit of making when he foresaw a satisfactory answer. He went over to kiss her lightly on the cheek, and then sat down at his end of the table.

"Don't you think we might have our tennis party on Saturday?" he asked, as he unrolled his napkin.

It had been the custom for many years for the Kennedys to inaugurate the summer "season" at West Shilston by inviting half a dozen friends to tennis. They would usually discuss the party for days in advance, fixing the date whenever the weather showed signs of warming up. This year nothing had been said, and Kennedy was fully aware that he was breaking difficult ground.

Esther looked up quickly.

"Surely not this year, Tim?"

He met her strained look with one of mild surprise. "Not at all this year, do you mean, dear?"

"I don't know. I don't feel I can face it—not yet, anyway."

"I see." Kennedy nodded, and turned his attention to his egg and bacon. He ate slowly and delicately, in small morsels, chewing his food with extreme thoroughness. When he had eaten enough he took up his newspaper, and there was silence until the meal was finished. He had not, however, abandoned the subject. He waited until the nurse had made her excuses and left the room, then put down the paper.

"I really think we ought to have that party, you know, dear."

She hesitated for a moment, fiddling with her napkin ring, and looking down.

"You must understand what I feel about it," she said at last.

He filled his pipe slowly.

"That's not very kind of you, Esther," he said gently. "Have I ever failed you in sympathy?"

"Of course not, Tim. It's not that."

"I do understand. . . . But, my dear, it's time we had a talk about all this. You've got to make up your mind to one of two things. Either you shut yourself up here, see next to nobody, brood yourself into a wretched state—or you must go about, see people, pick up life where you left off. There's no other alternative. I know you don't want to make us both unhappy."

She avoided his eyes.

"I used to be enough for you, Tim. Other people were just— extra."

"You're still enough for me." He brushed aside her protest lightly. "But for all that, you're going to make me unhappy if you don't make the best of things. You mustn't give in, Esther. . . . Harold will tell you the same."

"I do see people, darling. You can't say I'm shutting myself up. But . . . tennis. . . ."

"I know how you feel." He got up and went to her, placing his arm round her shoulder. "Perhaps you'll have to sit out this year. But next season you'll be knocking 'em all over the court, just as in the old days."

She shook herself angrily.

"Don't talk like that, Tim. You know I'll never play again."

"Nonsense, child, you will, because you have the will to. You're too brave to give in."

Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY TO THE RESCUE.

Bunty! Baby Bunty! Where are you?"

Nurse Jane was calling but there was no answer.

"Why did you want Baby Bunty?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"It is time for her to come in, wash her paws and get a clean, fresh ear-ribbon on for supper," said the muskrat lady housekeeper. Bunty and the other rabbit girls wore ribbons on their ears instead of on their hair as real girls do.

Bunty will be hopping along soon," said Uncle Wiggily. "If she doesn't come I'll go after her."

"And while you are looking for Bunty, if you see Buster, tell him I want him, please," squeaked Nurse Jane.

"Does Buster need to put on an ear-ribbon?" asked Mr. Longears.

"Please don't be silly!" laughed Nurse Jane. "I want Buster to go to the store for me. He promised, but I saw him and Bunty going to the woods."

"Well, they'll be back," said Uncle Wiggily calm like and confident.

Began to Worry.

But when it was almost supper time and neither Bunty nor Buster had returned Uncle Wiggily became anxious. So did Nurse Jane and Mrs. Longears. None of them knew where the rabbit children were. They didn't know they were lost near the place in the woods where, in an old garden, grew some Four o'Clock Flowers.

All of a sudden, just as Uncle Wiggily was getting ready to hop away and get the Police Dog to help search for the lost rabbits, Nurse Jane called:

"Oh, Mr. Longears! Look at the sky! See the funny clouds!"

Uncle Wiggily looked. Surely enough the clouds were being blown by the wind into letters and the letters were making words.

"I don't see any airplane doing sky writing," said Mr. Longears, "but the clouds are certainly making words. The wind is blowing them that way. I wonder why?"

The Wind was so high up in the sky, blowing the clouds into letters and words, as it had promised lost Bunty and Buster, that the Wind could not tell Uncle Wiggily about it.

The Message

But by watching the clouds the rabbit gentleman saw them slowly form themselves into words as they often form themselves into faces and other shapes. Slowly Uncle Wiggily read this:

BUNTY AND BUSTER

"Here's news!" cried Mr. Longears. "The clouds are bringing me sky writing news of the lost ones." He read more:

ARE LOST NEAR

"Now if they only tell me where I can go find them," said Uncle Wiggily. "Quick, my dear!" he called his wife. "Come and see the sky writing in the clouds. Come, Nurse Jane!" Again the clouds formed other words like these:

THE FOUR O'CLOCK FLOWERS

"Ha! Now I know where to go to find them!" said the rabbit Uncle "I can guess what happened. Bunty took Buster to show him the flower clock and they couldn't find their way home. But I will get them." So Uncle Wiggily hopped to the rescue.

He soon found the orphan rabbit and Buster and led them to the bungalow. They thanked the wind and the clouds for the sky writing and everybody was happy.

And if the cake of soap doesn't hide under the wash rag when the bath tub wants it to go swimming, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's nutting party.

Here was a case in which the operation was successful, but the patient died, as someone said, misquoting a doctor.

Indeed, 11 operations were successful, but 11 patients died, as the deal came up in a duplicate tournament at the Skytop club high in the Pocono mountains of Pennsylvania. Without exception the deal was played at 4-Spades by South, doubled in some cases and not doubled in others. In every instance it was defeated.

Perhaps as good bidding as any would be 1-Spade by South, 2-Hearts by North, 3-Clubs by South, 3-Hearts by North, 3-Spades by South and then 4-Spades by North. It would be pretty hard to keep from arriving at that contract.

If the spade K were in the East, making the contract would be easy. But try it the way the cards really lie, against a lead of the heart K. See if you don't lose one trump trick plus three tricks in the minor suits, or else two spades and two minor suit tricks.

LABOR CALLS FOR BOYCOTT ON JAP GOODS

Asks Dominion Block Arms Material Sales

OTTAWA, Oct. 9. (CP)—President P. M. Draper of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada issued a statement today, calling on labor to boycott Japanese goods and on the Dominion Government to use its legislative powers to place an embargo on shipments of Canadian goods to Japan, particularly "those goods which may be used in the manufacture of armaments."

Draper's statement said the Congress had received a cable from the National Council of Labor of Great Britain informing it of the Council's resolution passed September 29, condemning Japanese aggression in China and calling on the Canadian labor movement to follow its example.

The statement said: "I entirely agree with the statement of the National Council of Labor that the Japanese bombardment and systematic massacre of the civilian population in China is barbarous and that Japan's attack on China is contrary to all the principles of international law, and is a violation of everything that labor stands for. I was very happy to read the outspoken condemnation of Japanese aggression which formed part of a speech delivered by the President of the United States. I was also happy to read this morning that the American Federation of Labor, with which the unions in the Trades and Labor Congress are affiliated, is likely to follow the British example."

Sure Labor Will Heed.

Draper added that, in his opinion, the Dominion Government should give serious consideration to the matter and make use of its legislation to place an embargo on exports to Japan, particularly on the export of those goods which may be used in the manufacture of armaments. He ended by saying he was "certain that organized labor in Canada would not fail to support the action of organized labor in Australia, Great Britain and the United States by taking similar action in Canada."

Almost simultaneously M. J. Coldwell, National chairman of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, told reporters his party had received an identical cable from the British Labor body.

He said: "The C.C.F. will most certainly follow the example of the British Labor movement, and urge the Canadian people to boycott Japanese goods as an expression of their condemnation of the barbarous Japanese attacks on the Chinese people. We are prepared to co-operate with organized labor, the churches and all other organizations which are ready to take similar action."

M.P.P.-Elect Given 2 Baby Alligators

FORT ERIE, Ont., Oct. 9—(CP)—An odd gift was presented today to William L. Houck, newly-elected Liberal member to the Ontario Legislature for Niagara Falls riding. The gift, consisting of two baby alligators, shipped from Florida, was made by William K. Brown, Ridgeway, Ont., lawyer. Having no provision to maintain the two baby reptiles both about two feet long, Mr. Houck donated them to the Niagara Parks Commission at Niagara Falls.

Glimpses Of War In Many Lands

NANKING, Oct. 9. (AP) — The Soviet Embassy announced today Dimitri Bogomoloff, Ambassador to China, and his military attache, General E. D. Lepin, were expected to return to Nanking within a week from Moscow. While Embassy officials declined to state the exact object of their brief visit to the capital, they did not deny it might have been connected with possible Russian military aid for China.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 9 (CP-Havas). —Japanese naval batteries tonight opened a bombardment of the Pootung industrial district of Shanghai. Chinese batteries set up in Pootung were the objects of the fire from Japanese warships in the Whangpoo River. The shells rocketed through the air and crashed in Pootung at the rate of three or four a minute.

SALAMANCA, Spain, Oct. 9. — (CP-Havas). — Rearguard attacks against the Government lines by a renegade force of 3,500 Asturians today were reported aiding the insurgent advance on Gijon. General Franco was understood to have taken immediate advantage of the situation, supplying his new allies with arms and munitions, dropped behind the Government lines by insurgent airplanes.

VALENCIA, Oct. 9 (CP-Havas) —The Defence Ministry today claimed new victories on the Aragon front, near Jaca, but admitted Government lines had buckled slightly before insurgent drives in the southern mining province of Cordoba. According to the Defence Ministry, Government troops captured Osan and Casbas de Jaca, near insurgent-held Jaca, close to the French frontier.

ROME, Oct. 9 (AP)—Reports of widespread fighting between Italian forces and bands of Ethiopians circulated here today. Despite an official silence, sources close to the African Ministry disclosed there had been in recent days what were described as important "police" operations against marauding Ethiopian natives.

These sources said the operations concluded with a complete victory for the Italian troops.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 8 — (AP) — Kyosuke Tomada, one of the best known tragedians on the Japanese stage, played his last act today in the real drama of life and death.

In an entirely different role from that which brought him the plaudits of thousands of Japanese theatre-goers, Tomada was killed in action on the Lotien front while leading a detachment of engineers in an attempt to bridge a creek.

FORT LANGLEY, B.C., Oct. 9 (CP)—A boycott of Japanese goods was declared yesterday by members of 26 Women's Institutes of the South Fraser district of British Columbia at their 10th annual conference here. In a resolution protesting Japanese aggression in China, nearly 300 women pledged themselves not to purchase Japanese goods.
